The woman, it is said by a friend, went under an assumed name and boarded at a hotel in Darien. She was 25 years old. The body was taken to a local morgue to await a claimant.

A first-class department head handicapped by third-rate facilities can do justice neither to himself nor his house.

The department heads of a good many New York business concerns owe their advancement to the results they have shown in increasing departmental efficiency.

POP DU BOIS'S CAREER FROM DANDY TO MISE

A School Principal Who Us Rouge and Curl Papers.

THEN BECAME MONEY M

He Saved Half a Million on $3,00 Year — Daughter's Suit to Break His Will.

The story of the life of "Pop" Bois, who was for half a century a pu school Principal and amassed a fort of half a million dollars on a salary $3,000 a year, was told yesterday bef Justice Kellogg and a jury in the Supr Court. Mr. Du Bois's daughter has gun suit to break his will in an effor get a $300,000 share of his estate.

When Alpheus D. Du Bois, "Old Po they called him in Grammar School 36, where he was Principal for fifty ye died on Dec. 13, 1903, his most intim friends believed that he died in pove His relatives even did not know that had a strong box filled with gold and edged securities. It was only after will had been filed that the fact bec known that the old school Principal worth half a million dollars.

"How did he do it on a salary $3,000 a year?" asked the Justice yes day, and the lawyers answered in cho "Thrift. Thrift."

The school Principal's daughter, M Ivy Blanche McKee, who has bro suit to break his will, had been brou up from childhood under the impress that her father had died about the of the civil war. In April of last y after Du Bois had died, she learned true story of her life and that of father.

Principal Du Bois lived the life o recluse, and died in a small, poorly nished room in Irving Place at the of 77 years. One of his relatives fo a will among his effects and filed i the Surrogates' office for probate. was evident that the old man did know much about his daughter, for will contained this paragraph:

"I give and bequeath to my daug Ivy Blanche, marriage name and r dence unknown, $10,000."

To one of the teachers in his schoo left $2,000 and to another $5,000. residue of his estate he bequeathed to sisters, Mary D. Jones and Caroline Seaman, and to his brother, William Bois.

According to the testimony in the yesterday "Old Pop" Du Bois wa dandy in his younger days. One of witnesses said he was "exceedi handsome," and painted and powd his face every night and put his ha in curl papers. That was before he came money mad, said the plaintiff's torneys, Manierre & Manierre.

When he was 28 years old he ma one of his pupils, who was only 18. was a poet, a musician, and an artis little later he composed an operetta w was produced. Then he began to less interest in these things and bec careless about his personal appeara He became so close in financial ma that he allowed his wife only $ month for the household.

His wife haled him before a Magis for non-support. The name of the la that defended him was Aaron Burr

It was in November, 1854, that were married. They separated a years later, after their child, Ivy Bla was born. Ne she nor her mother had seen Du Boi forty-five years before his death.

Mrs. Du Bois, who is now almost sev years old, is ill at her home up the S Her sister, Mrs. Louis C. Vail Fr was examined out of court, and her mony was read to the jury.

According to her, Du Bois was close in money matters. His wife ha sew to help support herself, and a same time she made her husb clothes. She testified that Du was in the habit of doing his hair papers, putting rouge on his face, powdering his cheeks. He was so h some that he attracted attention e where, the witness added. When witness was asked whether Du Bois assigned any reason for leaving his the witness answered:

"None, but the birth of the child."

The trial will be continued to-day.

ATTACKS JUDGE GRAY IN PLEA FOR PATRICK

D. B. Hill Makes Effort to Disqualify Court of Appeals Member.

INSOLENT, SAY OPPONENTS

ALBANY, Oct. 2.—The case of Albert T. Patrick, who, since March 26, 1902, has been under conviction of murder of William Marsh Rice, in New York in 1900, came again before the Court of Appeals this afternoon. The new pleading was as remarkable as any of the phases which, hitherto, have made this case the most extraordinary in the criminal history of this State.

Patrick's counsel, ex-United States Senator David B. Hill in a brief supporting his motion for reargument, points out that a son of Judge John Clinton Gray, one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals and one of those who voted against the reversal of Patrick's conviction last June, was an Assistant District Attorney of New York County, and participated in the prosecution of Patrick. The vote of the Court of Apepals last June was 4 to 3.

The opposing brief of District Attorney Jerome, drawn, it is said, by the late ex-Justice Judson S. Landon a short time before he died, and filed by Assistant District Attorney Howard Gans, says:

"The suggestion that Judge Gray violated the proprieties in taking part in this case is as contemptible as it is impudent."

Mr. Hill's brief declares that, while at the time of the former argument, he had a personal conviction that relationship made it desirable that Judge Gray should not sit in the case, he knew of no procedure or practice for the challenge of a Judge upon the argument, and therefore contented himself with merely stating the fact of young Gray's appearance in the case. The statute provides that no Judge shall sit in a case in which he is "interested." Mr. Hill contends:

"The opinion of Judge Gray shows that he either misunderstood, ignored, or declined to consider numerous important rulings injuriously affecting the substantial rights of the defendant, which the interests of justice and common fairness require should now be considered by this court on a reargument. Judge Gray's opinion contains material mistakes as to the evidence disclosing a misapprehension and overlooking of material points of fact by the majority of the court."

Reargument is asked upon the further grounds that the Court of Appeals overlooked the point that the trial court refused to receive evidence that Dr. Donlin, Coroner's physician, stated immediately after the autopsy that Rice died a natural death, and also the evidence bearing upon the cremation of Rice; that the court did not give due weight to new evidence of the financial interest which Drs. Donlin and Williams had in sustaining their theory that Rice must have died from chloroform, nor to the alleged illegal and corrupt promise of immunity to Jones, Rice's valet, in consideration of his testimony against Patrick.

The legal history of Patrick's case may be summarized as follows:

Arrested on Oct. 4, 1900.
Trial begun on Jan. 20, 1902.
Convicted on March 26, 1902.
Put in death house at Sing Sing on April 7, 1902.
Appeal for new trial on Feb. 10, 1903.
Petition denied by trial court on March 3, 1903.
Argument on appeal to Court of Appeals postponed for second time on May 20, 1904.
Argument for reopening case on Feb. 12, 1905.
Arguments for new trial on March 15, 1905.
Court refuses new trial on June 9, 1905.
Refuses stay of execution on June 14, 1905.
Execution set for Aug. 7, 1905.
Motion for reargument and stay of execution granted on July 24, 1905.
Renewal of motion for reargument on Oct. 2, 1905.

The brief filed for District Attorney Jerome says:

"It is an attempt to reopen the case founded upon a rehash of all that was urged upon the argument and in the briefs, and coupled with motion papers and a brief which, while conceding that practically all the points urged had been discussed in opinions written by members of the court, undertakes to criticise in terms which, were counsel less eminent might be regarded as insolent, those of the court's deliberate conclusions which the distinguished counsel is constrained to criticise, and assails the judicial conduct of a member of this court in a manner which no degree of eminence in counsel could render respectable.

"This diatribe covers two volumes aggregating 164 printed pages and enumerates under twenty separate heads the points which it is alleged the court considered but was unable to grasp; devotes one head to a meritless point which had not previously been deemed worthy of discussion; one to the attack on the learned Judge who wrote the prevailing opinion, and two to a laudation of the members of the court who dissented, conceived in a spirit which renders it scarcely less objectionable than the attack upon their associates.

"The opinions make clear that the defendant's guilt was established beyond the shadow of doubt; that he had a fair and impartial trial, and that he had the careful and painstaking hearing and consideration of his appeal which this court always accords, and hence it is respectfully submitted that the motion for a reargument should be denied."

PALISADE

TEN MINUTES AND TEN CENTS FROM NEW YORK CITY.

The Broadway Subway with an escalator at Manhattan Street, a five-minute ferry across the Hudson River, a most picturesque trolley ride up the face of the cliff and through a beautiful park, make Palisade the most comfortable and delightful to reach of all New York's best suburbs.

To the Thinking Man:

With the money you are yearly spending to RENT a cramped city apartment you can OWN a modern all year round home of extreme up-to-dateness at Palisades, where you may enjoy ample room for your family plus your guests.

Your children confined in the germ-laden city MAY grow up in spite of the poisonous atmospheric conditions. If transplanted to the pure, dry air of the Palisade altitude they WILL become rugged and strong.

Consider your (1) financial interests, and the (2) comfort and (3) health of those dependent upon you!

If you are under lease buy your lot now and we will build you a house just as you want it if none of the many beautiful homes now under construction suits your requirements.

OUR RESTAURANT IS MOST CONVENIENT FOR SHOPPERS AND BUSINESS MEN.

Simpson Crawford Co

SIXTH AVE. 19TH TO 20TH STREETS

THE great Fall rush is on, and this store is more than ever the Mecca for foremost followers of fashion. Never in the history of this enterprise have we sold so many ready-to-wear garments, and we attribute the unusual demand to the individuality and exclusiveness of every creation.

To-day the Simpson Crawford Co.'s label is not only a mark of super-quality, but is a style certificate, that insures admiration, and a feeling that the wearer is not only correctly dressed, but possesses a garmen in keeping with good taste and the best social requirements.

We go to great pains and extremes to insure superior styles. We select our own modes from the foremost style authorities of Continental Europe, attend the great fashionable gatherings at Epsom Downs, Longchamps, visit the capitals of Europe, the Riviera, etc.—note the creations the fashion moulders of the world are wearing. We bring our own modes over, and make our own adaptations.

That is the one important reason why our styles are exclusive—why you do not see them shown elsewhere, why you see so many artists gathering around our windows making sketches and securing suggestions—but then, at the best they are only imitations, that never equal the originals—cost you less than the imitations elsewhere.

We're now showing a diversity of styles—all planned to appeal to the smart dresser.

We'd consider it a privilege to show you at any time the Simpson Crawford Co.'s interpretation of correct styles in suits, coats, costumes, carriage and reception gowns, waists and millinery.

Parisian Robes at Half Price.

THE reason for this is plain. Parisian designers used them as samples, that their customers might inspect and make selections. As there are only a few of each, they could not be made up in regular lots, so they are marked at these attractive prices. Main Floor.

25.00

Of course it is beyond our power to describe them. But let it suffice to say that they are gems of Parisian dressmaking, and Paris is the home of Fashion.

What's the correct "thing" in New Fall Millinery?

WE'VE been so busy supplying New York and out-of-town milliners with ideas that we've not had a moment to take our bearings until this week, and we were never so busy so early before—never sold so many hats.

This store has been the "Paris" for the leading milliners of America, and you can depend upon it that we would not be recognized as an authority unless we were right and merited that distinction.

"What's the correct thing in new Fall Millinery?" That's the "eternal" question these days in our Millinery Salon on the second floor.

Weeks ago it was hard to answer, although we'd prepared to supply Dame Fashion's fickle whims, no matter what the final edict would be.

French blocked shapes in felt or velvet and felt and velvet combined is the answer to the oft-repeated question, but then there are such a diversity of shapes, tilts and trimming that this does not really give you an adequate idea.

A little bend of the brim—a high or low bandeau—a tilt of the back—a feather here, a wing, quill or flowers, and you have an exclusive creation that you may not see again this season—in fact, hats are shaped to fit the face—the way they look the best on the wearer—and it's a good idea, too.

We're duplicating hundreds of French pattern hats we brought over personally, modifying some and adapting the best ideas of others, and making more hits and originating more styles than any other house in New York. We're able to get the price down so low that the buying advantages of this store are so decided that our enormous millinery business is justly merited.

INTERESTING FUR NEWS.

EARLY last Spring we made up our mind to have, this Fall, one of the largest and most complete fur departments in a modern Dry Goods Store.

With this end in view, we secured the services of an expert furrier—one that is not only skilled in the buying and choosing of skins, but also is a practical furrier in every branch of high grade fur garment making.

As soon as Berlin had decided upon the fur styles for the ensuing season we began placing orders—at the lowest midsummer prices, saving in many instances from 25% to 33⅓ on present prices, and selling furs as we do on the small dry goods profit plan, the saving to you is considerable.

We open our new fur section with a new stock and new fur selling method.

In buying furs nowadays one must depend almost entirely upon the integrity of the seller, as there is no class of merchandise where deception is so easily practiced.

There's a lasting guarantee that goes with every sale we make—this is no risk on our part, as every fur piece we have for sale must pass through the hands of an expert, and if it wasn't right we would not have it in our stock.

We're offering early season buying inducements—want you to become thoroughly acquainted with the advantages of selecting your FURS HERE.

The new laces and exclusive Dress Trimmings.

DURING September we held a private opening for dressmakers only, and our register shows that it was attended by not only a majority of the foremost dressmakers of New York, but a great number from all over the United States, who were attending the Annual Dressmakers' Convention.

¶ We desired to obtain expert opinion on our importations, and the encomiums we received more than repaid us for the months of hard work both here and abroad.

¶ We wanted it said without one dissenting voice, that we had the largest and handsomest showing of Laces and Dress Trimmings in New York, and the consensus of opinion assures us that we are entitled to merit all we desired.

¶ Of course we do not mean the ordinary Laces and Trimmings, that are shown in every shop—displayed like one would show a lot of cheap braids, but high class exclusive novelties, that must be admired for their richness, originality, distinctiveness and, above all, because they are imported in such small lots as to preserve their exclusiveness.

¶ We made up our minds this year, when our representative went abroad, that we would not buy trimmings in the ordinary way from the manufacturers, from short sample lengths—buy to fit their ideas and their stock on hand, but to fit the style requirements of New York's smartest dressers, who have been initiated into the exclusive things in the shops of Paris as well as the exclusive shops of New York.

¶ With a particular want for a particular thing, our representative visited such well known Paris shops as M. Doenillel, M. Berr, M. Paquin, M. Doucet, M. Francis, M. Rouff, M. J. Worth, and others—inspected the exclusive ideas they were showing on the gowns that were destined to set the styles for Continental Europe and America—visited the fashionable salons and the Opera, where the votaries of style gather—saw the Laces and Trimmings that embellished the most conspicuous and handsomest toilettes, and took our ideas to the different makers, instead of taking the different things the makers turn out to fit a cosmopolitan public, without due deference to their social standing.

¶ Mind you, as we said before, we are not writing of the ordinary laces and trimmings, but those individual and noteworthy creations that make those regal costumes which all the world of fashion admires.

¶ Take one of the many hundreds of Lace Robes we show for a foundation—perhaps you'd like one with gold or silver spangles, or some other embellishment—add a band of silk petaled Bridesmaid roses to the skirt—a belt of same with an embellished yoke of the same—fluffy elbow sleeves (they come with the Robe)—add a touch of bow knotted ribbon to match, and you have a distinctive creation—one you'll not see duplicated again this season.

¶ Of course we are not showing these exclusive ideas on the counter, in the cases or using them to trim the store with, they are too dainty and perishable—you must ask to see them—we'll consider it a privilege to show you anything you would care to see.

High grade furniture at August prices in October

Note

If you failed to take advantage of our great furniture sales during August, now is your time to supply your Winter wants.

We believe you will not wait longer when you can secure high grade furniture at prices quoted to-day.

ALTHOUGH August saw the end of our Semi-Annual Furniture Sale, the arrival of several shipments intended for September selling makes an immediate sale necessary. Because of this delay, the manufacturer allowed a large discount—consequently, we are going to offer the entire collection at AUGUST PRICES. Think of it! August prices for a furniture sale in October. That may sound inconsistent, but circumstances are in your favor. Every article is a masterpiece of skilled workmanship, beautiful in construction, rich in coloring, graceful in shape, new in design. Whether you want a suite for the parlor, furniture for the dining-room or den, or just a chair or table for that "vacant corner," now is the time to make your selection. Our word for it, that the price is satisfactory, or better still, investigate for yourself. Fifth Floor.

AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY TIRED OF THEIR UNION

Magyars Not Alone in Favor of a Change.

NEW DEMANDS OF LIBERALS

Hungarians Call on the Government for Explanation of Austrian Interference—Deputy Urges Mutiny.

VIENNA, Oct. 2.—One fact emerges clearly from the strife proceeding in Hungary and Austria. The parties to the compact of 1867 are tired of their existing relationship.

Hitherto Hungary has possessed the initiative. Time and again she has succeeded by deft tactics in turning the situation to her advantage while remaining within the letter of her contract with the Crown and Austria. Now the position seems to be altered.

Austria by the mouth of the common ruler and by the declarations of her Premier cries:

"Halt! Enough. We also need a change. Let us revise our contract by mutual agreement and start afresh."

The invitation, though clearly given, has not yet evoked a response. This silence is significant. Can it mean that the Hungarians are not enamored of the proposal?

The real situation is that revision, with all its dangers to both halves of the monarchy, has come to be the only course of action that appears feasible to prudent, moderate men.

A German Radical speaker declared in the Reichsrath on Friday:

"If the Magyars meant to talk Norwegian, Austrians would be found to have learned the same language."

He further ventured to assert that if a plébiscite were taken to-day in Austria on the question of separation from Hungary, the proportion of votes in its favor would be as great as the proportion in Norway in favor of separation from Sweden. Though probably exaggerated, this assertion contains a large kernel of truth.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 2.—The idea is current here to-night that the political crisis is undergoing an important development. Minister of the Interior Kristoffy, who originated the plan to defeat the coalition by the introduction of measures for universal suffrage, has gone to Vienna, with Premier Fejervary and Minister of Justice Lanyi, for an audience of the Emperor-King to-morrow, and this has given rise to a report that he is ready to abandon his resistance to suffrage reform.

The Coalition Party is also making a new move. Francis Kossuth, who until now has only been President of the Independence Party, will be elected to-morrow President of all the parties forming the United Opposition in the Diet, and the coalition will to-morrow publish a strong protest against the Viennese attitude toward Hungary.

At a conference of the Liberal Party today a resolution was adopted on the motion of Count Stephan Tisza, former Premier, requesting the Government to explain unequivocally the reason for the intervention of Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, and of Baron Gautsch von Frankenthurn, the Austrian Premier, in the question of electoral reforms in Hungary, because such intervention violated the independence of Hungary.

The resolution declared that if the Government failed to make a satisfactory statement a protest would be addressed to the Government against the discussion of the internal affairs of Hungary with persons not having competency to deal with them

STRIKE STOPS BERLIN CARS.

Troops Ordered to the Capital in Anticipation of Trouble.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The negotiations between the electrical companies and their employes for higher wages were broken off to-day and a general strike in the works manufacturing electrical apparatus and supplies has been ordered for to-morrow. Part of the employes of the power and lighting works went out on a sympathetic strike this morning without awaiting the result of the conference of the labor leaders with the employers. Consequently half of the street cars were stopped.

The Municipal Government, acting on the principle that unlighted streets would be a danger to the public, ordered fifty engineers from the fire companies to the various power houses.

As the army contains many thousands of trained workers, every trade company has applied to the Minister of War for temporary details of engineers and stokers. These have been refused, on the ground that it is unnecessary at present, but arrangements have been made to bring 150 engineers from the torpedo battalions at Kiel.

The War Ministry has also declined to issue an order announcing to discharged soldiers, about 200,000 of whom have served out their terms, that engineers and stokers could find employment with the electric companies. But the army administration will offer no objection to battalion commanders giving out such notices.

Two Guard regiments now manoeuvring in the country have been ordered to return immediately to Berlin, as a precautionary measure against strike excesses.

SUICIDE'S ROMANTIC STORY.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Police officers who were summoned yesterday by Mrs. Theobald von Bovens, whose husband had locked himself in a room of their apartment and would not open the door, broke it down and found him dead.

By his side was a memorandum, which related that before his marriage he had worked at his calling as a wood carver in America, the localities not being given, and that at a ball one evening a young girl endeavored to kiss him; that he repelled her, and she drowned herself. The next day, Oct. 1, 1885, a kinsman of the girl challenged von Bovens to a so-called "American duel," drawing lots to determine which antagonist should kill himself.

Von Bovens drew black, and under the agreement was to end his life in twelve years. He returned to Germany, married, and the twelfth anniversary of the agreement passed unregarded, as did each succeeding one, until a short time ago, when an American named Fish arrived in Berlin with a letter from von Boven's antagonist, reminding him of the duty he had to fulfill. Von Bovens took cyanide of potassium. He was enrolled on the police records of the district as a naturalized American.

COUNT WITTE TO HEAD THE RUSSIAN CABINET

His Nomination as Chancellor Expected Within a Month.

JOURNEY ABROAD POSTPONED

All Officialdom Hastening to Pay Respects to the Second Man in the Empire.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 2.—The position of chief of the new Ministerial Cabinet, the creation of which is called for by the institution of the imperial douma with the right of interpellation, was offered to Count Witte on Friday last by the Emperor, according to current understanding.

Count Witte to-day declined to confirm the report, but it is known that at the Emperor's request he has abandoned his plan of going abroad in order to assist in the elaboration of the project for a Cabinet, and an official who is very close to Count Witte said that his nomination as Chancellor might be expected within a month, simultaneous with the promulgation of the project on which the Solsky commission will resume work as soon as Count Witte returns from a few days' trip to the provinces.

The imperial decree issued to-day formally announcing the bestowal on M. Witte of the rank of Count adds that the distinction is given "in recognition of his services to the throne and fatherland, and the admirable manner in which he discharged a task of the highest importance to the State, and as a mark of special favor of the Emperor."

The Count appears to be highly satisfied with the warmth of the imperial welcome and the title conferred upon him, and the relations between the Emperor and his distinguished subject are on a far closer and more intimate footing than before the statesman's selection as peace plenipotentiary.

Count Witte now reoccupies a commanding position in Russia. The attitude of the official world is manifested by the long lines of equipages seen in front of his residence yesterday and to-day, belonging to officials who called to pay their respects to the second man in the empire, while the tone of the press and the expressions of the general public with regard to him are almost universally commendatory.

The Count is receiving resolutions of praise from many cities of the empire, and the St. Petersburg Douma is planning to present an address of congratulation, so as to make up for the absence of an official welcome on his arrival.

JAPAN TO PUSH HER TRADE.

Will Extend Means of Communication and Lower the Traffic Rates.

TOKIO, Oct. 2.—Baron Kiyoura, Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, addressing the Associated Chambers of Commerce to-day, said the Government was considering the improvement and extension of the means of communication and carrying power by land and water, and also lower transportation rates.

The Minister dwelt on the importance of the introduction of foreign capital and said it was possible that the facilities for that purpose would be extended. He hoped that the business men would utilize to the utmost the moral and material benefits derived from the Japanese victories for developing the foreign trade of the country and home industries.

WITTE THANKS COLUMBIA.

Russian Peace Envoy Mindful of Honor Conferred Upon Him.

The first stated meeting of the Trustees of Columbia University for the new academic year was held yesterday. The President's annual report, which is usually presented at this meeting, was held over until the meeting in November.

Gifts were reported of $500 from Rutherford Stuyvesant of the class of 1863, for the use of the Department of Astronomy, and of $75, through Prof. Fiske of the Department of Mathematics for the support of the transactions of the American Mathematical Society.

A telegram was received from M Witte, dated St. Petersburg, Sept. 30, expressing his thanks for the honor which was conferred upon him at the opening of the university on Wednesday last.

MILK DEALERS FINED.

East Side Adulterators Pay Penalties of More Than $1,000.

Dealers charged with selling adulterated milk were tried in the Special Sessions Court yesterday and fines aggregating more than $1,000 were collected. The average fine imposed was $35, and only one man was fined as much as $75. The dealers punished were:

Max Schwartz, 61 Jefferson Street, $35; Max Neidorf, 242 Clinton Street, $50; Lena Suffin, 155 Madison Street, $35; Louis Maresca, 351 West Thirty-eighth Street, $40; Joseph J. Coster, Sixty-fifth Street and Third Avenue and 1,555 Lexington Avenue, $15; Arthur Froede, 1,789 Third Avenue, $15; Yetta Label, 524 Brook Avenue, $10; Jacob Feiler, 94 Henry Street, $20; Isaac Silverman, 59 Montgomery Street, $40; Morris Shostak, 23 Market Street, $30; Harris Schwartz, 33 Pike Street, $20; Meyer Hyman, 290 Cherry Street, $30; Joseph Weinfeld, 153 Norfolk Street, $20; Isador Brown, 11 Suffolk Street, $30; Fanny Bosson, 9 Allen Street, $50; Julian Spinosa, 80 Mulberry Street, $35; Louis Fromberg, 57 Second Avenue, $25; Pietro Vitacco, 960 Sixth Avenue, $15; Leo Fedsr, 242 Mott Street, $50; Louis Weiss, 276 Delancsy Street, $75; Max Morgenheim, 23 Lewis Street, $35; Frank Goldberg, 317 Broome Street, $10; Samuel B. Reynolds, 604 Second Avenue, $10; Sadie Solomon, 102 Bayard Street, $25; William Thoelen, 304 East Twenty-eighth Street, $25; George Cohen, 4 Bayard Street, $25; Jacob Berzinsky, 244 Cherry Street, $40; Louis Salzman, 19 Corystle Street, $20; Sadie Jobek, 84 Essex Street, $40.

New Cable Four-fifths Laid.

CANSO, N. S., Oct. 2.—The steamship Colonia, laying the new cable of the Commercial Cable Company, reported to-day that about four-fifths of the cable had been successfully laid. At noon to-day 1,778 miles of cable had been paid out, although the Colonia was only about 1,500 miles in a straight line from her starting point at Canso.

Baptist Ministers' New President.

At the Baptist Ministers' Conference held in the West Twenty-third Street branch of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, the Rev. R. T. Craig, of Jersey City, retired as its President. The Rev. Dr. C. D. Case of the Hanson Place Baptist Church, Brooklyn, was elected in his stead. The Rev. G. M. Shott of Plainfield, N. J., was re-elected Secretary.

The Pianola Piano

The Most Popular Piano Before the Public To-day

Every member of your family can enjoy it.
You* can enjoy it.

THE ENJOYMENT of music is closely associated with the ability to personally produce it. When you are wholly dependent upon the efforts of others, your opportunities are, of necessity, limited. But if you can sit down at the piano whenever you are in the mood and play whatever your fancy dictates, your enjoyment of music takes on a new fulness of meaning.

Think of being able to buy this wonderful ability—of possessing the magic key that unlocks the treasure-house of great compositions from the earliest times down to the present day.

Ten years ago no amount of money would have purchased this ability. To-day it becomes the immediate possession of any one who buys the Pianola Piano.

In tone, action and appearance, the pianoforte part of the Pianola Piano is up to the highest standard of piano excellence. If there is some member of your family who plays well by hand, that one will find the Pianola Piano satisfying in every respect. But, in addition, all of the others in the household will have the pleasure of playing the instrument.

Is it any wonder that Grands and Uprights from leading makers are every day being exchanged for this new and revolutionary type of musical instrument?

Appraisal of your present piano (in exchange for the Pianola Piano) will be furnished upon application.

Prices of the Pianola Piano, $500 to $1,000. Purchasable on easy monthly payments. Ask for Art Catalog.

19 YEARS FOR CARLTON.

Judge Aspinall Says Bigamist Ought to be Sent to Electric Chair.

Frederick E. Carlton, who was convicted a week ago on three charges of bigamy, and one of grand larceny, was sentenced to nineteen years in Sing Sing by Judge Aspinall yesterday. When he left the pen he was followed to the courtroom by a mob of men and boys, and again when he was led from the court to the train for Sing Sing.

In sentencing the man, the Judge characterized him as a murderer, a villain, a swindler, and a thief, and expressed regret that he could not be sent to the electric chair.

After Carlton had been taken to the prisoners' cell, preparatory to his removal to Sing Sing, a well-dressed woman asked permission to speak to him. She was taken to the cell, and, addressing him by name, said:

"All the Judge said of you was true. You deserve all he gave to you."

The woman became hysterical and had to be removed. Her name could not be ascertained.

There never was a prisoner more unmoved than Carlton when he was arraigned. Nor did he exhibit any feeling while listening to Judge Aspinall's condemnation. Carlton got a five-year sentence on his plea of guilty in the second indictment for bigamy, ten years under the conviction for grand larceny on the charge of H. J. B. Schaub, and four years under his plea of guilty to the third charge of bigamy. He can gain about four years' commutation of sentence for good behavior.

CHAFFEE CAN'T SEE THE KING.

Declines Invitation, Having Another Engagement.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Notwithstanding the determination to make his visit to England entirely unofficial, Lieut. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee has been the recipient of many invitations. King Edward, through Sir Thomas Lipton, expressed a desire to see him, but an engagement prevented the General from going to Balmoral, where the King is now residing.

The only official recognition of Gen. Chaffee, therefore, will be a luncheon in his honor to be given by the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House to-morrow.

RUSH TO PAY TAXES.

$36,000,000 Received by the City on the First Collection Day.

More than $36,000,000 in taxes for 1905 was received by the city yesterday. It was the first day for the collection of taxes, all taxes having become liens on property Oct. 1.

The first bank deposit was sent from the Finance Department to the National City Bank. This was $10,560,736, of which $8,222,287 was receipts for Manhattan Borough alone. The deposit was taken to the bank by two messengers, accompanied by six policemen. The total receipts for Manhattan are expected to aggregate $12,500,000 when the payments are in for the week.

The largest single payment was that of the Vanderbilt interests. This was in sixteen checks and amounted to $1,000,000. Of this $350,000 was from the New York Central Railroad and the rest from the individual members of the family on real and personal property. Other large payments included $400,000 from the Astor estates, $125,000 from August Belmont, $50,000 from Andrew Carnegie, $100,000 from George Ehret, $150,000 from George J. Gould, and $75,000 from the Goelet estate.

Owing to the inability of the extra clerical force of the Finance Department to handle all of the receipts during the business day, arrangements were made to have the National City Bank remain open until nearly midnight, so that a final deposit could be made before the day expired. The rush at the department will keep up for about three days.

McCADDON'S BAIL, $80,000.

American Unable to Remove Wife's Body or His Books from Liner.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Joseph T. McCaddon, the American showman, was brought up in the Extradition Court at Bow Street this morning and remanded for a week in $80,000 bail, $40,000 being furnished by himself and two sureties furnishing $40,000. His children, who were to have sailed for New York on the St. Louis Saturday, remained with Mr. McCaddon, but, as already cabled, his wife's body was taken on to America.

The charge on which Mr. McCaddon was arrested is brought by the receiver appointed in France after the breaking up of the circus, and comes under the heading of "Crimes against the bankruptcy law." No details are given, but it is explained that the charge means that when Mr. McCaddon was declared a bankrupt he had sufficient funds to pay the claims against him.

Much sympathy is expressed for Mr. McCaddon, who has been in England a fortnight, during which time it has been known that he intended to sail for America Sept. 30. At the time of the death of Mr. McCaddon's wife an advertisement appeared in the London papers announcing that the body would be taken to America on Sept. 30. Despite this fact, the French authorities waited until the last moment to make the arrest.

Mr. McCaddon had not time to remove from the steamer the body of his wife or his baggage, including all the books and papers connected with his business, which will be necessary as evidence. Mr. McCaddon's business managers have remained in England to testify at his trial. In granting bail the Magistrate remarked that the "circumstances were very peculiar."

HOADLEY-LEITER SUIT BEGUN.

Stock Brokers Want $65,000 Lost in International Power Deal.

The trial of the suit brought by William B. Franklin and George I. Scott against Joseph Hoadley of the International Power Company and Joseph Leiter of Chicago wheat corner fame, was begun yesterday before Justice Amend and a jury in Part XII. of the Supreme Court. The plaintiffs are suing to recover $65,000, which they lost by carrying an account in the name of Cyrus Field Judson, known as the Judson special account, and which plaintiffs allege was a pool account in which Hoadley and Leiter were interested.

George I. Scott was the first witness called. He testified that he was a member of the Stock Exchange in 1902, and is still a member. After telling of a conversation between Judson and himself by which the agreement was entered into, Mr. Scott told how his firm had lost $65,000 when the stock it held had to be sold out at auction. Mr. Franklin corroborated the story told by his partner.

The trial will be continued to-day.

NATIONS FIGHT CONSUMPTION.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The International Tuberculosis Congress was opened to-day at the Grand Palace, in the presence of President Loubet, the Cabinet Ministers, and the Ambassadors. Over 8,500 delegates were present. The congress will last five days.

The American official delegation consists of Dr. Henry Darton Jacobs of Baltimore, Dr. S. A. Knopf of New York, Dr. Lawrence F. Flick of Philadelphia, and Medical Inspector Henry G. Boyer, who represents the United States Navy. Many other Americans representing societies, &c., were present, including Dr. Arnold C. Klebs of Chicago, Dr. John S. Lowman of Cleveland, Ohio; Prof. William Osler, formerly of Baltimore and now of Oxford, England; Dr. A. J. Magnin, and Dr. Ruppert Norton of Paris.

The opening address was delivered by Dr. Hérard of the French Academy of Medicine, who was chosen President of the congress. The report of Dr. Letulle, the Secretary, said that thirty-three nations, representing the entire civilized globe, had united to consider the most effective means of combatting the worst human malady.

CITIZENS' UNION BLOCKS A STAMPEDE TO HEARST

THEN INDORSES JEROME

An attempt to stampede the City Convention of the Citizens' Union and bring about co-operation with the Hearst League in the nomination of a third ticket was made last night by the radicals in the organization, but failed. The report of the City Committee in favor of the union devoting its energies in the coming campaign chiefly to the re-election of District Attorney Jerome was adopted by a vote of more than five to one, but this was not accomplished until after a long and fiery debate.

The City, County, and Borough Conventions of the Union were all held last night in the Lexington Avenue Opera House, in East Fifty-eighth Street. The County Convention indorsed Jerome and Justices Ingraham and Gildersleeve. The Borough Convention made no nominations. Frederic W. Hinrichs of Brooklyn was Chairman of the City Convention.

The report of the City Committee was presented by Chairman Cutting. These are the three concluding paragraphs of the report that caused the trouble:

"It early appeared that we had been invited to confer simply to register the decree of the Republican Party, and, at the same time, to make it seem to the public that there was an actual consensus of opinion upon candidates. The result of the conference is quite in accord with this indication. The Republican Party, after denying the Union the privilege of discussing a candidate, finally found itself, after four weeks of repeated adjournments of meetings, unable or unwilling to present an available nominee. When the Union then presented a candidate for the Mayoralty who from every standpoint was found to be above criticism and peculiarly qualified to harmonize the views of all the Fusion conferrees, the Republican Party dissolved the conference which it itself called. The inference is obvious.

"It has frequently been shown that Tammany Hall can only be defeated by the cordial co-operation of all the forces opposed to it. Under existing conditions a divided opposition to Tammany is foredoomed to failure. Hence the policy to be followed by the Citizens' Union is clear. Your Campaign Committee believes that the city's interests will not be promoted by our submitting to the dictation of the Republican organization by accepting machine-made nominations. There was a time, early in the proceedings, when we would have been justified in nominating a ticket solely in the city's interest, and without consultation with any other organization, relying on the merit of our nominations to secure the support of all anti-Tammany forces. We believe that the time is not far distant when the people of New York City will realize that in that direction lies their only escape from rule by corrupt bosses.

"Your committee recommends that, for this year, the Citizens' Union devote itself chiefly to the re-election of District Attorney Jerome."

"The Citizens' Union Nominating Committee played a baby's game in the Fusion conference," said A. Jordan, when the resolutions had been read. "The Citizens' Union conferrees said to the other conferrees, 'If you won't play our way, we won't play at all.' We are not here to be bamboozled. We ought to know the whole truth about the Fusion conferences. We ought to know whether or not our committee refused to consider the names of Senator Ford and Judge Seabury."

Delegate Goldstein made a motion to adjourn without action on the City Committee's report.

"Suppose the Republicans should nominate Robert Grier Monroe, or some other good man whom we would have no excuse for not supporting," said Mr. Goldstein, "wouldn't we be made ridiculous by adopting this report, which commits us to inactivity except with respect to the candidacy of Mr. Jerome?"

On motion of Julius Henry Cohen all the City Committee's report except the recommendation in the last paragraph was adopted. When that motion was carried, Mr. Cohen started to address the convention.

"To what is the gentleman speaking?" asked Chairman Hinrichs.

"I am speaking to a motion which I intend to make at the conclusion of my remarks," said Mr. Cohen.

There was an immediate uproar. Delegates from all parts of the hall demanded that Mr. Cohen state his motion. Mr. Cohen then moved that the recommendation of the report be adopted and went up on the platform to speak to that motion.

He said that while he had always been opposed to voting for a ticket made up by the bosses of Tammany Hall or the Republican Party, he was equally opposed to a third ticket "made up by a machine organized by a newspaper editor." This provoked prolonged cheers. Mr. Cohen continued:

"If you meant what you said in the April convention about the necessity of re-electing Mr. Jerome you should brand as a traitor every man who is engaged in trying to defeat him. You ought to be ashamed to be influenced by the paid agents of a newspaper editor. Tammany Hall is a blight, the Republican machine is a blight, but shall you turn to another blight that is worse than either of them?"

Delegate John J. Young got up to speak when Mr. Cohen had concluded.

"There was a time when Jerome played in the backyard of Murphy," said Young. [Cries of "Sit down! Sit down!"] "What I want to tell you is that Jerome is no different from other men, and if he gets an indorsement from Murphy it will be because he has made promises to Murphy."

Timothy D. Healy spoke for municipal ownership. He said:

"There are thousands and thousands in this city who are of the opinion that the Citizens' Union is playing into the hands of Tammany Hall. The question of questions at this time is municipal ownership.

"I want to tell you that municipal ownership is the only means by which poor people can escape from the tenements. My kids have been kicked around by janitors long enough."

John Brooks Leavitt read a letter that he sent yesterday to Mayor McClellan, advising him as to his responsibility for the make-up of the Democratic ticket. Mr. Leavitt wanted to know from Mayor McClellan on what possible ground the Tammany organization could refuse to nominate District Attorney Jerome and Justices Ingraham and Gildersleeve.

A vote on the resolution was then called for, and it was adopted by a vote of nearly five to one, and the convention adjourned.

The County Convention met immediately after the adjournment of the City Convention and indorsed Jerome, Ingraham and Gildersleeve. The Borough Convention's nominating committee reported its inability to bring about fusion, and the convention adjourned.

12,000 ON JEROME PETITION.

He Will Make a Campaign Unless Both Parties Indorse Him.

District Attorney Jerome's nominating petition will be filed to-morrow with the Bureau of Elections. It contains about 12,000 names. John E. Henneberry, Mr. Jerome's political manager, said last night that an unlimited number of names could have been secured. The petitions were coming in so fast and in such numbers, Mr. Henneberry said, that they threatened to swamp the Jerome campaign bureau. It was therefore decided to call off those engaged in getting signatures.

Speaking of Mr. Jerome's plans, Mr. Henneberry said he would not attempt to open his campaign until after the Democratic and Republican County Conventions had been held. If Mr. Jerome should be nominated by both the Democratic and Republican conventions, Mr. Henneberry said, he would not make a campaign, but if he should receive the indorsement of neither of them or of only one of them, he certainly would take the stump and make the liveliest kind of a campaign.

There Are More

Patterns and qualities crowded into this store the present season than ever before. We expect a heavy trade; we know how to handle it and have prepared for it; were our organization incomplete or our policy wrong we would be disappointed; this has not occurred in the past; why now? Prices and qualities answer the question.

PEACE BETWEEN HIGGINS AND ODELL LIKELY NOW

Made Necessary by Platt's Opposition to the Governor.

DOUBT ABOUT WOODRUFF

Too Busy Selling Typewriters to Make a Hopeless Race for Mayor, His Secretary Says.

Not since the news of the peace meeting between State Chairman Odell and ex-Gov. Frank S. Black at the Manhattan Hotel was made public through THE TIMES has there been such a stir among Republicans as there was yesterday over the announcement of Senator Platt that he was opposed to the renomination of Gov. Higgins. It was generally agreed that Senator Platt's opposition to the Governor would have an important bearing on the line-up at the next Republican State Convention. The prevailing opinion was that the position taken by the Senator would have a tendency to bring Chairman Odell and Gov. Higgins together.

It is well known that they have not been on very friendly terms lately. When Chairman Odell came out in favor of insurance legislation just before the close of the special session of the Legislature he embarrassed Gov. Higgins. The Governor had declared in the most positive terms that he would not recommend a Legislative investigation of insurance conditions. The interview given out by Chairman Odell on the subject added so much to the public clamor for an investigation that Gov. Higgins found himself unable to resist it, and gave way.

Of late Gov. Higgins is said to have felt less bitter toward Chairman Odell for interfering in the insurance situation. He is beginning to realize, it is said, that Odell had a better perspective than he did as to the effect an investigation would have on public sentiment. No one believes now that the investigation of the Armstrong Committee will weaken the Republican administration, except, perhaps, as it shows how inefficient the Insurance Department has been for the last six or eight years. It is the belief of the leading Republicans that Gov. Higgins has an excellent opportunity of turning the insurance investigation to his own political account if he will take a firm stand in favor of remedial legislation and restitution.

To make sure of renomination, however, he would have to have Odell with him if Senator Platt is against him. Unless the Governor desires to retire at the end of his term, therefore, a reconciliation between him and Chairman Odell is expected before the meeting of the next Legislature.

If Chairman Odell is asked to commit himself to Gov. Higgins for renomination he doubtless will insist upon having more recognition from the State administration and the Legislature than he was able to get last Winter. Gov. Higgins was so anxious to dispel the notion that he was wearing the Odell tag that he made the State Chairman's influence in State matters almost nothing. The Governor's treatment of the State Chairman and his friends may have influenced Mr. Odell, to some extent at least, in taking issue with the Governor on the insurance question.

If ex-Lieut. Gov. Woodruff accepts the Republican nomination for Mayor it will mean that State Chairman Odell, like Senator Platt, intends to leave Gov. Higgins out of his calculations in connection with the next State convention, for there is no one who believes that Mr. Woodruff can be induced to run for Mayor unless he has positive assurances of Mr. Odell's support for Governor next year.

Congressman Lucius N. Littauer, who was at Republican State Headquarters in the Fifth Avenue yesterday, when asked what he thought of the announcement of Senator Platt of his hostility to Gov. Higgins, said:

"It seems to me that the refusal of Gov. Higgins to sign a bill which would have permitted a certain hotel located near a church to sell liquor is not a very broad platform on which to make a fight against indorsement of the administration of Gov. Higgins."

"Who is your candidate for Governor?"

"I am for Senator Edgar Truman Brackett," Mr. Littauer replied.

"And whom will you favor for State Chairman?"

"I shall favor the re-election of Mr. Odell, if he desires to retain the place."

Congressman Littauer's declaration in favor of the re-election of Chairman Odell has special interest from the fact that he is a member of "The Tapeworm Club," the organization of Republican politicians which was behind the candidacy of ex-Gov. Frank S. Black for the Senate to succeed Chauncey M. Depew. Mr. Littauer, like the rest of Gov. Black's friends, was indignant at Chairman Odell when he decided to throw his influence to Depew. His statement of his position yesterday indicates a change of sentiment on his part toward the State Chairman since last January.

Chairman Odell did not come to the city from Newburg yesterday. Senator Platt had nothing to add to his Sunday interview. Some of the Senator's friends were displeased over his announcement at this time of the attitude that he intended to assume in the next State Convention. They took the view that by disclosing his position to the enemy so far in advance he was giving his opponents full opportunity to effect every possible combination against him.

John E. Smith, ex-Lieut. Gov. Woodruff's private secretary, said yesterday that Mr. Woodruff could not be induced to run for Mayor.

"He couldn't accept and wouldn't accept because of his business obligations," said Mr. Smith. "He has just undertaken to put a new typewriting machine on the market at an expense of half a million dollars, and for him to throw up this work at this time would be very unfair to his business associates."

Mr. Smith said that Mr. Woodruff had talked with Chairman Odell about the advisability of the Republicans taking up Gen. Horace Porter as a candidate. He said Mr. Woodruff told Chairman Odell that it was his impression that Gen. Porter would accept the nomination if it was tendered to him in the right way.

Presbyterian Ministers' Election.

The Presbyterian Ministers' Association met yesterday and elected officers as follows: President, the Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie of the Scotch Presbyterian Church; Vice President, the Rev. Dr. O. O. Lowe of Staten Island, and Secretary and Treasurer, the Rev. Dr. A. Henry of the First United Presbyterian Church, Jersey City.

BONAPARTE FIGHTS GORMAN.

Defines the Issue in Maryland—Regarded as Party Leader.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Secretary Bonaparte has taken position publicly as the antagonist, personally and politically, of Senator Gorman. He gave out a letter to-day defining the issues between the Republicans and Democrats in Maryland under existing leadership in the two parties. Among the politicians of the State it is now declared that Mr. Bonaparte has such distinct leadership and has taken such bold ground that he unavoidably will be a candidate for the Senate against Mr. Gorman.

"In the campaign now in progress in Maryland," Mr. Bonaparte says, "the Democratic ring relies for success, as it has relied for success in many campaigns during the past thirty-five years, upon appeals to race prejudice. To inflame this prejudice it has frequently circulated, and it circulates now, many utterly false, and indeed ridiculous, stories as to what the Republican Party would or might do if intrusted with power by the voters.

"While these falsehoods are not only absurd in themselves, but conclusively refuted by experience during the four years of Republican supremacy in the State, when the late Lloyd Lowndes was Governor, from 1896 to 1900, they had undoubted weight with a certain class of voters, of whom some are very ignorant and others so intensely prejudiced on this question as to be almost beyond the influence of reason."

He denies that the Republicans desire to promote negro domination or social equality of the races and objects to reports spread outside the State that they do.

BAR ASSOCIATION TO ACT.

Will Consider Measures to Have Ingraham and Gildersleeve Renominated

There will be a meeting of the Bar Association to-morrow evening to consider what measures shall be taken to secure the renomination of Justices Ingraham and Gildersleeve as Justices of the Supreme Court.

Among the names signed to the call are Henry E. Howland, Francis Lynde Stetson, Ds Lancey Nicoll, Julien T. Davies, Henry de Forest Baldwin, Bronson Winthrop, and William J. Curtis.

It has been reported that it is the intention of Charles F. Murphy to prevent the renomination of either Justice Ingraham or Justice Gildersleeve.

ORIENTAL RUGS

In All Their Splendor, But at Prices That Most People Can Easily Afford to Pay.

LESS than a month ago we opened a New Section on the Fifth Floor and stocked it with one of the choicest, most inviting collections of Oriental Rugs and Carpets in New York.

We told the news plainly—avoided all flowery language.

Ever since people have been coming in for these Rugs.

"I am glad at least one store has the power to sell Oriental Rugs at prices that most people can afford to pay," remarked one customer. That's it:—"At prices most people can afford to pay."

Stores have been asking prices that have been prohibitive to all but the wealthy.

We are revolutionizing things; we are changing things.

If you want an Oriental Rug or Carpet that you can hand from one generation to another, to be cherished as a priceless family heirloom, come to us.

We have the products direct from the Orient—and here in all their weird beauty and effectiveness.

The collection of Daghestans, Sennas, Shiras, Kirmanshahs, Fereghans, Soumaks, Bokharas, Cabistans, Gorevans and Tabriz Rugs and Carpets is particularly attractive.

Our salesmen are experts; they will tell you all about Oriental Rugs, and if there is anything that you wish particularly explained you simply have to ask questions.

The attention of furnishers of apartment houses, hotels, and the like is directed to this announcement.

We Protect Your Profits

CREDIT INSURANCE

is to any credit business exactly what the fly wheel is to the engine—carries it over the "dead centers" of credit losses, past the critical places which at any moment might impair or actually bring to a standstill your business.

CREDIT INSURANCE affords the only means of controlling credit losses.

Is absolute protection against excessive loss from bad accounts.

It pays a commercial house to have collateral on its accounts just as well as it does a bank to require collateral on its loans. Every account on your books is a loan without security. Credit Insurance is collateral upon them.

OUR CREDIT-INDEMNITY BOND

Is simple, clear and equitable. Applicable to any manufacturing or wholesale business.

Covers every possible form of insolvency.

Every liability paid immediately—spot cash.

Payments to Policyholders Past Three Years, $2,127,930.00, which means that amount of profits destroyed by insolvency of customers was restored in spot cash through our Indemnity.

Investigate Credit Insurance and you will adopt it. Our booklet, "Collateral on Merchandise Accounts," tells the whole story. Sent free to any Credit Man, Manufacturer or Wholesaler upon request. Write for it to-day.

AMERICA AND FRANCE MAY COERCE CASTRO

Both Nations Resolved to Protect Rights of Their Citizens.

JUSSERAND AND ROOT CONFER

Course of Action Will Not Be Decided Upon Till Calhoun, Coming from Venezuela, Arrives.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Venezuela and her troublous conditions are now the subject of earnest consideration by the Washington and Paris Governments, who, it is believed in diplomatic circles, are firmly determined, individually, perhaps, but nons the less effectively, to protect the rights of their citizens in Venezuela.

Just from Paris with full instructions, M. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, called at the State Department to-day, and was in confsrence with Secretary Root for half an hour. Venezuela was the main subject under consideration, special attention being given to Presidsnt Castro. At its conclusion the announcement was made that the Venezuelan situation had not entered on "an imminently critical" stage.

No course of action was agreed upon to-day, and none was proposed.

M. Jusserand made it plain that while France purposed to protect the rights of her citizens in Venezuela as elsswhere throughout the world, the French Government would continue its traditional policy of courteous recognition of the special interest of this country in a question liks this which affects another American republic.

It is a well-known fact not only in army circles but throughout the Diplomatic Corps that the General Staff of the army has been making a thorough study of Venezuela from a military standpoint, but this Government as well as France appreciatss the difficulties of an international expedition to the Venezuelan capital, even should a critical turn of events warrant the serious consideration of such a move.

At the same time France, with the remainder of the European nations, realizes that a naval demonstration off La Guayra, if such a course should ever be determined upon, is not a sure method of forcing President Castro to yield, because of ths distance of Caracas from the sea.

It is understood that France is not primarily seeking assurance from Washington that a French naval demonstration against Venezuela will be approved here, though such assurance, it is stated on high authority, would be vouchsafed. What France desires to find—and this desire is thoroughly shared by the Washington Government—is an effective means of insuring justics for foreignsrs in Venezuela.

M. Jusserand will continue his policy of discussing quite frankly with the Washington Government the grievances of his country against Venezuela, that there may be no misunderstanding of the motives of the two claimant powers.

LA GUAYRA, Venezuela, Oct. 2.—Ex-Judge W. J. Calhoun of Chicago, Special Commissioner of the United States to Venezuela, sailed for home to-day.

SECRETARY ROOT IN CHARGE.

French Ambassador Discusses the Venezuelan Trouble with Him.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Elihu Root today formally took up his duties as Secretary of State. He went early to the State Department and presented Mr. Bacon, the new Assistant Secretary, to Mr. Loomis, the retiring Assistant Secretary. There is much for Mr. Loomis to discuss with Mr. Root and Mr. Bacon. Probably it will require at least two days to complete the transfer of authority. Consequently, Mr. Bacon has not yet taken the oath of office in order not to displace Mr. Loomis officially.

The various heads of divisions in the department were called into the Secretary's office and made the acquaintance of their new chief.

M. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, went to the department by appointment about noon and remained with Secretary Root for half an hour. His principal business was the presentation of the issue that has arisen between France and Venezuela. It was stated that while this matter is regarded as important, no real crisis has yet arisen, and that nothing in the interview between the Secretary and the Ambassador seemed to require any action on the part of this Government.

TAFT ARRIVES AT CAPITAL.

Breaks Records Between Chicago and Washington—Sees the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—After a fast trip across the continent Secretary of War Taft arrived here this afternoon at 3:27, just ninety hours from San Francisco. He alighted from his train smiling and looking the picture of good health. He and his party were met by many war department officials.

The Secretary drove at once to his home and made ready to go to the White House. He dined with the President and remained during the evening, giving his Chief an account of the trip to the Orient and answering many inquiries from Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt as to the experiences of Miss Alice Roosevelt.

The Secretary arrived in San Francisco last Thursday afternoon, and special arrangements were made by the railroad to have his party in Washington to-day. His special train of four cars broke all records from Chicago to Washington. The fastest scheduled run between these points is twenty-three hours. The distance is 788 miles. The actual running time of Mr. Taft's train was eighteen hours and eighteen minutes.

The home run over the Baltimore and Ohio from Brunswick to Washington, fifty-one miles, was made in fifty-nine minutes, the entire trip from Chicago to Washington being made with relays with four of the latest type of passenger engines.

KAISER TO THE PRESIDENT.

Sends Frederick the Great Engravings and a Message.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Capt. Hebbinghaus, Naval Attaché of the German Embassy, called by appointment at the White House to-day and presented to the President a valuable collection of engravings illustrative of the lifs of Frederick the Great, the gift of the German Emperor. Capt. Hebbinghaus, who has just returned from Germany, was also the bearer of a personal message from his sovereign to the President.

The President asked Capt. Hebbinghaus to thank the Emperor heartily for the gift and the greeting. He will also acknowledge them by letter.

The engravings are: "Battalion of Life Guards Making the Last Stand in the Battle of Collin," "Frederick the Great Leading the Regiment von Buelow in the Battle of Zorndorf," "The Colors Taken by the Ansbach Baireuth Dragoons in the Famous Attack at Hohenfriedberg," and "The Generals Saying Good-bye to Their Dead King."

Laborers Who Leaped Overboard Safe.

COLON, Oct. 2.—Two of the laborers from Martinique, who leaped overboard from the French steamer Versailles yesterday after refusing to go ashore, were found clinging to the side of the dock late last night and rescued. The agent here of the Versailles to-day cabled to Martinique recommending that no more laborers engaged for work on the canal be accepted for passage unless they have been vaccinated.

RAILWAYS FAVORED, HE SAYS.

A. B. Stickney Attacks the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 2.—Charges that the Inter-State Commerce Commission had shown direct favoritism toward certain railroad lines were made by A. B. Stickney, President of the Chicago Great Western Railroad, in a statement issued today. He declared that while four lines in the Northwest had been prevented from giving rebates two had been left perfectly free in th's respect and had been able to take traffic from their restrained rivals.

His statement was given out in reply to some comments by members of the commission recently on his complaints. It is as follows:

"There are six roads engaged in the competitive business between Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Chicago. Prior to March, 1902, all of these lines were making special arrangements in the nature of rebates with a great many large shippers.

"I will use Minneapolis flour as an illustration: In March, 1902, the Inter-State Commerce Commission procured an injunction against four of these lines, forbidding these practices, but two of ths competitive lines were not named as defendants in the suit and no injunction was issued against them.

"Believing that it was an oversight on the part of the commission—and as these two non-enjoined roads were rapidly increasing their tonnage of flour, while the tonnage hauled by the enjoined roads was decreasing to the same extent—it is true, as Mr. Knapp says, that I called his attention to the fact that these two roads had been omitted from ths injunction. He said that if I would make a complaint against the roads and furnish evidence of their cutting the rate, the commission would commence proceedings at once for an injunction against ths two non-enjoined roads.

"This is the same 'bluff' that policemen and Police Magistrates give the individual citizen who complains that an illegal house or a gambling place has been established in the house adjoining his home. They always say 'If you will make a complaint before the court and furnish evidence of the fact we will break up the nuisance.'

"It was a particularly unfortunate 'bluff' on the part of ths Inter-State Commerce Commission, for at ths time they procured the injunction against the four companies they evidently had evidence that at least one of ths non-enjoined companies was engaged in the same practices, because they went before the Grand Jury and had a high official of that company indicted for paying rebates."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—"This controversy is an old matter," said Judge Knapp of ths Inter-State Commerce Commission to-night when the gist of the attack by A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western Road on the commission was stated to him.

"It is not a personal matter involving me alone. The commission stood together in the matter. The fact simply was that when the commission came into possession of evidence showing that certain railroads were guilty of violations of the Inter-State Commerce law, we asked the Department of Justice that steps be taken to enjoin thess roads from doing what was unlawful. Other roads were not enjoined because we did not have svidence that they had violated the law.

"There has been some indication that the roads not enjoined would have been better pleased had they been included in the proceedings."

TELLS OF PACKERS' REBATES.

B. S. Cusey, a Traffic Manager, Says the Average Is $2.50 a Car.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—B. S. Cuscy, Traffic Manager for Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, who recently was fined $5,000 for conspiracy in soliciting and accepting rebates from railroad companies, testified to-day before the Inter-State Commerce Commission that the amount of damage claims or rebates which his company received from the railroads averaged about $2.50 a car. This was paid ostensibly for delay in transit and damage to dressed beef and packing house products in transit.

Not more than 5 per cent. of the output of the Kansas City packing houses, he said, was shipped to Chicago on the public twenty-cent rate. Nearly all the output passed through Chicago on the way East, and was shipped from Kansas City on an eighteen-cent rate. F. H. Fredericks, Traffic Manager for Swift & Co.; F. O. Frisbie, Traffic Manager for Armour & Co.; Harry Wyatt, former Traffic Manager for Nelson Morris & Co., and Patrick Cassidy, Traffic Manager for the National Packing Company, were subpoenaed to-day.

DISTILLER HEAVILY FINED.

North Carolinian Must Pay $22,000 and Go to Prison Also.

GREENSBOROUGH, N. C., Oct. 2.—In the Federal court here to-day D. L. Arey, a wealthy Salisbury distiller, was sentenced to pay a fine of $22,000 and serve a sentence of three months in prison. He had been convicted of illicit distilling at the June term of court in Charlotte.

Arey voluntarily surrendered himself and left to-night for Salisbury to serve his sentence. He took with him $22,000, the amount of his fine. He will also pay to-morrow a fine of $200 and costs amounting to over $1,600.

MEETING OF PRESBYTERY.

The Rev. Dr. Nixon Elected Moderator —Conservative Element Wins.

The first of the Fall meetings of the New York Presbytery was held yesterday at the First Presbyterian Church, Eleventh Street and Fifth Avenue. The Rev. George Nixon of the Tremont Church was elected Moderator, after the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst had withdrawn his name. The other officers elected were:

Vice Moderator—The Rev. Dr. Pleasant Hunter, Fourth Church; Moderator's Counsel—The Rev. Dr. Walter Duncan Buchanan of the Fourth Avenue Church and the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst of the Madison Square Church of the clergy and James Yearance of the Central Church and George Humphrey of the Fourth Avenue Church of the laymen.

Barber Company Gets Big Contract.

President Ahearn of Manhattan Borough awarded to the Barber Asphalt Company yesterday the contract for repaving the entire roadway of Lenox Avenue between 125th and 145th Streets. This company was the lowest bidder. The Borough President also has granted permission to the New York City Railway Company to repave between its tracks in this thoroughfare.

NEW ORLEANS LAST STOP, PRESIDENT'S NEW PLAN

He Will Return by Cruiser to Avoid Quarantine Troubles.

FEVER SITUATION IMPROVES

Greater Efforts to End Epidemic Started by Roosevelt's Acceptance—Schools Opened with Full Rolls.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—President Roosevelt will go to New Orleans, despite the yellow fevsr epidsmic. Secretary Loeb made the announcsment today after a conference with the President at which the arrangements for Mr. Roosevelt's trip through the South were made.

To avoid any complications over quarantine regulations, the President has decided to make New Orleans the final stop, reaching there on Oct. 26. After the ceremonies in that city he will board a cruiser of the Cleveland type and return to Washington by water. He is expected to arrive here on Oct. 30 or 31.

The President will leave Washington on Oct. 18. As far as St. Augustins, Fla., the trip will be made as previously arranged. From St. Augustine he will go to Mobile, thence to Tuskegee and Birmingham, Ala., and Little Rock, Ark. The party will bs disbanded at Little Rock, only the President and Secretary Loeb going to New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2.—Announcement of Presidsnt Roosevslt's decision to visit Nsw Orleans caused much gratification here to-day, and is regarded as certain to give fresh stimulus to the fight to drive out the fever before the end of this month. The President's refusal to be swayed by the fear of personal risk which so many influences have pressed upon him has further commended him to ths people, and there is on every side a disposition to make his reception specially cordial.

Mayor Behrman said to-day that arrangements for the reception would be pushed with enthusiasm. He felt confident that the President would find himself as safe in New Orleans on Oct. 26 as in his own home. The President will be permitted, if he desires, to visit the Emergency Hospital, which Dr. White and associates of the Marine Hospital Service regard as perhaps the place in the city most certainly proof against danger of infection. It is expected that the President will desire to visit Dr. White and learn from him personally something about the struggle.

To-day's report was the most encouraging in the matter of new cases for any Monday since the fever started.

The record for twenty-four hours, up to 6 o'clock to-night, follows: Deaths, 2; new cases, 19; new centres of infection, 6; total cases to date, 3,042; total deaths, 394; under treatement, 204; discharged, 2,444.

All the public schools except four opened to-day, with a large enrollment. It was announced that the new passenger steamship Prince Arthur, which the Southern Pacific is to operate to Havana in connection with a Chicago fast train over the Illinois Central, would make her first sailing from here on Oct. 18.

Conditions in the State show general improvement. Except at Kenner, which is just beyond the limits of New Orleans, there has not been a death in the country districts of Louisiana for twenty-four hours. Dr. Rudolph, who handled the situation at Patterson, has gone, with a nurse, to Rosetta, Miss., where fever has appeared.

MISSISSIPPI TOWN NEEDS AID.

Hamburg Is Without Necessaries—Appeals for Relief.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 2.—Information has been received here that Hamburg, Miss., where yellow fever is epidemic, is in desperate straits and needs prompt assistance.

It is impossible to get up a public meeting to raise funds, as there are no persons to attend. Dr. McGee telegraphs the town is absolutely without life's necessaries.

An order was issued by the Georgia Board of Health to-day, quarantining against the whole State of Mississippi.

IT WAS "A KILLING FIT."

Man's Joking Remark In Trying on Shoes Comes True.

A fat, jovial man of middle age walked into the shop of Sigmund Steiner, a shoe dealer at 1,669 Second Avenue, and asked to be shown some footwear.

He tried on several pairs of shoes, none of which suited him, and as he did so laughed and joked with Steiner. Finally a pair of shoes was brought to him which took his fancy. He got the right shoe on all right, but tugged at the left one in vain.

"Phew!" he panted, as he straightened up after an unsuccessful attempt to get the shoe on. "This is a killing fit."

As he uttered the words he gasped and fell back in his chair dead.

Steiner called in Policeman Taylor of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station, and an ambulance was summoned from the Presbyterian Hospital. Upon its arrival the surgeon in charge said the man had died from heart disease.

In the neckband of the dead man's coat was sewn the name William Saelzer. No address was given, and there was nothing in his effects to further identify him.

The man had $18 in his pockets. He was 5 feet 8 inches in height, weighed 245 pounds, and had a gray mustache. His coat and vest were gray, and his trousers of striped cloth.

IMMIGRATION RECORD BROKEN

90,772 Arrivals in September, a New Standard for That Month.

Immigration Commissioner Watchorn gave out yesterday the immigration figures for this port for September. The figures show that 90,772 immigrants landed at Ellis Island, as against 82,708 in September, 1904; 50,990 in the same month of 1903, 89,525 in 1902, 31,706 in 1901, 27,540 in 1900, and 21,615 in 1899.

The last month, according to Commissioner Watchorn, has been the heaviest immigration September in the history of the bureau.

$5,000,000 Increase in Imports.

George W. Whitehead, the Appraiser of the Port, issued a statement yesterday of transactions in his office for September showing that ths value of importations at New York last month was $55,004,350.47, an increase of about $5,000,000 over the corresponding month a year ago. The increase is largely due to heavy importations of diamonds and automobiles.

WOMAN GETS THIEVES. AFTER POLICE GIVE UP

Two Arrests for Robbery of a Spanish Legation Secretary.

JEWELRY FOUND IN PAWN

Mrs. Quackenbos Traps a Man Walls Had Befriended and His Confederate—Police No Good, She Says.

A woman has captured the two thieves who robbed Manuel Walls, Second Secretary of the Spanish Legation at Washington, of $3,000 worth of jewelry, after the police had given up the case. After confessing to Mrs. Mary Quackenbos of the People's Law Firm, the two men, Harry Lane and Joe Demarco, were arraigned yesterday in Jefferson Market Court. Lane is 20 years old and Demaroo is his junior.

Mrs. Quackenbos worked up the case unassisted. Within twelve hours after his arrest, Lane, who had been indicted previously, had been taken before Judge Newburger, in General Sessions, to which court his case had been transferred upon application of Mrs. Quackenbos, and had pleaded guilty. Demaroo, paroled in her custody, was leading the way to the pawnshops where the jewels and a lot of rare coins, which were also stolen, had been pledged.

The People's Law Firm, at 10 Bible House, was started by Mrs. Quackenbos, as she expressed it yesterday, to give working people "St. Regis law at Mills Hotel prices, and such other assistance as they may need in the redressing of wrongs at a cost within their means."

"Of course," she said, "we do not bar clients with money. Mr. Walls is a man of means, but my idea in establishing the firm was to demonstrate that a legal bureau for the aid of the poor could be operated at a scale of prices within their reach and to their great benefit, and I think this has been done. Starting out alone, I now have four lawyers working with me, and I will have to increase the force soon on account of the press of business."

Mrs. Quackenbos is a native of New York and a graduate of the Law School of the New York University. She was admitted to practice three years ago and served her first year with the Legal Aid Society. A woman of independent fortune, she entered the study of law to protect her estate. Her money made the establishment of the People's Law Firm possible.

Manuel Walls, the Spanish Legation Secretary, has been much in New York since July 1. He has bachelor apartments at 236 Fifth Avenue. On Aug. 24 he made a trip to New Brighton. On his return he found that his door had been forced, his armoirs broken open, and the dress suit case in which he kept his jewels and coins emptied.

He reported his loss to Police Headquarters and the Tenderloin Station. Men were assigned to the case both from the Central Office and from the precinct. Ten days went by and the police had made no progress. His attention was called to Mrs. Quackenbos by a friend.

On Sept. 6 Secretary Walls put the matter in Mrs. Quackenbos's hands. Here is her story of how she ran down the thieves:

"To begin with, the police are no good. They had all the facts to start on that I had and did nothing. Even after I had made out the case against Lane it was necessary for me to find him. The police wouldn't help.

"I learned that Mr. Walls had frequently assisted Lane, a young man of good address and Tenderloin tastes. Lane had been to his apartments and had seen his jewels and coins. That was clue No. 1. I also ascertained that Lane knew Mr. Walls would be out of the city on the day of the robbery. Clue No. 2. One of my men went to the house and found that Lane and Demarco had been seen in the apartment house on that day.

"I wasted no time, but visited the office of the District Attorney. Mr. Nott was put in charge of the case. I told him what I had found out and urged that, Mr. Walls being attached to the diplomatic corps of a foreign nation, he was entitled to especial consideration. With the circumstantial case against the two thieves in my possession I went before the Grand Jury and got an indictment against Lane. The next thing to do was to find him.

"I got accurate descriptions of both Lane and Demarco and caused them to be circulated broadcast. One of the circulars must have fallen into the hands of James Matthews, a Pullman car porter, for he came to me and offered to show where Lane could be found for $25. I couldn't see the payment in advance idea and told him I would give him double the sum he asked after Lane's capture if he brought it about.

"Matthews didn't want to do this, and I had him subpoenaed by the District Attorney's office. When he appeared there he pleaded entire ignorance of Lane. Mr. Nott then gave me a note to the Dstective Bureau, which I delivered to Dstective Sergeant McCauley. A Central Office man, Detective Cooney, was put at my disposal, with instruotions to report to me every morning.

"Saturday afternoon I told Mr. Cooney to go to the Grand Central Station, meet Matthews when he came in off his run, and give him to understand that he would be harassed until life was not worth living if he did not disclose Lane's whereabouts. It was what men call a 'bluff,' and it 'went.' Matthews said he would tell where Lane could be found the following day.

"Yesterday I could not get hold of Detective Cooney and sent to Capt. Dooley, who put Detective Brueck on the case. Mr. Brueck did splendid work—the first done by the police. Matthews told him what neighborhood Lane frequented, and he found him there, posing as a restaurant keeper. The ruse succeeded, and early this morning Lane and Demarco were found in a chop suey place and arrested.

"When they were put through a severe examination they confessed fully. Lane had planned the whole thing, just as I thought he had, and Demarco had assisted him."

JACKSON AND KELLY BLAMED.

Held Responsible by Coroner's Jury for Elevated Road Accident.

A jury before Coroner Scholer yesterday fixed the responsibility for the elevated railroad accident at Ninth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, which cost twelve lives and scores of injuries, upon Cornelius A. Jackson, the towerman, and Paul Kelly, the missing motorman of the train. The verdict of the jury accuses both men of criminal negligence. Jackson was arraigned before Coroner Scholer as soon as the verdict was reached. He was later released on $5,000 bail.

BEDOUIN WINNER IN WORLD'S RECORD TIME

Gelding Set a New Mark for One Mile and Five-sixteenths.

WHITNEY'S DOUBLE VICTORY

The opening of the Belmont Park race course of the Westchester Racing Association for the first Autumn meeting of the club on its immense new plant almost disappointed racegoers, for the crowd that gathered confidently bad expected to find new causes for complaint, in addition to the established ground for protest at the immensity of the track and its equipment. The grounds were as huge as ever, but all the changes that had been made were for the better, including the moving up of the winning post to a point well in front of the grand stand, where even the field stand patrons had a fair chance to see the final struggles, but the change that most impressed horsemen was the reconstruction of the track proper, which in only an ordinary afternoon's sport fully verified the predictions of the track superintendent as to the possibilities of Belmont Park in the matter of speed.

At every distance run in the course of the afternoon a new track record was established, which might not have been surprising in itself on a new course had it not been that the making of track records was supplemented by the making of a new world's record in one event, when E. W. Jewett's three-year-old gelding Bedouin, in the Jerome Handicap, set a new mark for a mile and five-sixteenths by running in 2:10 3-5, clipping two and two-fifth seconds from the previous best time, made by Ostrich at Morris Park a year before.

In every way the opening of the Fall meeting was successful. The weather was fine and the attendance, though it made but a modest showing in the two immense public inclosures, was equal to about the largest of the Fall season, while the club stand and the boxes were fairly well filled by notable people. The most distinguished visitors of the afternoon were Gen. Frederick D. Grant and Mrs. Grant, who, with Col. Edward V. Morrell, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont.

In automobiles and coaches many other parties made up in the country houses in the fashionable Long Island country surrounding the race course visited the track and witnessed the racing from the club stand and club boxes. For the general public there was a marked improvement in the transportation facilities, and the crowd was so well handled that there was not even time on the first day for the familiar protest about the tunnel approach to the track.

The racing was fairly interesting, with three big stakes as the chief features, all of these going to horses of the late William C. Whitney's breeding, two of the events being won by horses carrying the Whitney colors and racing in the name of Harry Payne Whitney. In the course of the afternoon three positive favorites and one of equal choices were first, while in only one race was an outsider successful.

In the races on the main course, the horses surprised even the horsemen by the manner in which they hung close to the rail in spite of the right turn, but in the two-year-old races down the straight course, the contenders swerved and ran nearly as erratically as they did at the Spring meeting. In point of value the chief races of the afternoon were the two sections of the Matron Stakes, both of which went to the Whitney Stable, the great colt Burgomaster taking the section for colts, while Perverse captured the filly part of the stake. Burgomaster and his stablemate Battleaxe were prohibitive favorites in the colts' division of the race, and Burgomaster galloped in front all the way and romped in, while Penryhn beat Battleaxe for the place in a whipping finish. This part of the race had a gross value of $13,855.

In the filly section of the Matron ten horses ran, with the Whitney entry, Perverse and Commune, the favorites at odds on. Perverse made all the running and won hustled out from Early and Often, while Duenna got third place. This half of the race was worth $14,240 gross.

The sensation of the afternoon came, however, when Bedouin, sold out of the Whitney Stable last year, won the historic Jerome Handicap, at one mile and five-sixteenths, in world's record time. Only three horses ran for the stakes, Bedouin and Von Tromp, from the Keene Stable, starting about equal favorites, with St. Bellane the outsider. Bedouin led away, and was joined at once by St. Bellane, the two racing out in front together, while Von Tromp seemingly sulked and would not try after them. From the far turn to the winning post Bedouin and St. Bellane were lapped, Bedouin, hard ridden, finally drawing clear in the last strides and winning by a length and a half in the sensational time of 2:10 3-5. The fractional time of the record was: Furlong, 0:12 1-5; quarter, 0:24; three furlongs, 0:36; half mile, 0:48; five furlongs, 1:00 3-5; three-quarters, 1:13, and seven furlongs, 1:25, the time of the mile and subsequent fractions not being caught, as the horses then were turned into the stretch and running straight toward the official timer.

In several of the finishes, but most conspicuously so in the finish of the last race, the crowd of spectators had the old difficulty of being unable to see the finishes as the judges saw them, and when Broomstick, after a long-delayed run, closed with a splendid sprint on Lord of the Vale and just failed to get up, about half of the spectators in the lower end of the grand stand were convinced that Broomstick really had won. JOCKEYS MUST NOT TALK.

New Track Rule Promulgated by Placards at Belmont Park.

Placards posted all about the saddling paddock and jockeys' rooms at the Belmont Park race course yesterday gave notice to the general public that for the future all persons except horse owners employing jockeys and the trainers of the horses that the jockeys in question are to ride are forbidden to talk with or hold any communication with the jockeys at the track. The notice also gives warning to jockeys against holding conversation with persons other than their employers.

The notices are something entirely new in racing in the East, and the jockeys in the early part of the day more or less ignored the order, though before the afternoon was finished all the riders were corralled in a special room set aside for them, and then did not go to the paddock until the call was sounded for the saddling of the horses that were to race. The idea of the new departure, it was said, was to prevent the scandals that have prevailed at other tracks, where this season jockeys have been seen in consultation with professional betting men before they rode in races where the results were not altogether in accordance with the public idea of what they should have been.

It is understood that jockeys, while engaged as riders, are under the general supervision of the racing officials and are subject to the orders of the Stewards, but there is no provision in the rules of racing for such an order as has been posed, and though there has been no serious protest as yet, the responsibility for the notices displayed was much discussed by horsemen, who were inclined to ridicule the plan.

New Yorkers Buy Haggin Trotters.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 2.—The trotting horses owned by James B. Haggin sold at auction here to-day brought good prices. Only young horses ready for training were offered to-day. Buyers are here from all parts of the country. The feature was the purchases of W. H. Williams of Kansas City, who owns the trotting establishment headed by the stallion Highwood, 2:21¼, formerly the premier sire of the Caton Stock Farm et Joliet, Ill. The following were bought by New York horsemen:

Brown gelding, 4 years, by Allerton, dam Flora McGregor, by Robert McGregor; H. T. Oxnard	$450
Bay gelding, 4, by Dan Cupid, dam Jean King, by Mambrino King; E. M. West	350
Bay mare, 5, by Adbine, dam Lady Villiers, by Villiers; W. E. Molar	400
Bay gelding, 3, by Dan Cupid, dam Vesper Bells, by Advertiser; I. C. Stump	550

Noted Horses in Selling Race.

The Huguenot, winner of a Brooklyn Derby; Wyeth, winner of a sensational American Derby at Chicago, and Arsenal, winner of an equally sensational Metropolitan Handicap, all were collected in one cheap selling race at Belmont Park yesterday. The Huguenot entered to sell for $600 and the other two horses for $500 each. It was such a collection of what once was class as a selling race probably never brought together before, and the class was represented at the end, when The Huguenot, well backed by his stable, won in a head finish at odds of 15 to 1. The winner is one of the three horses that represented the W. P. Thompson Stable in the Futurity of 1897, when L'Alouette won in the Thompson colors, and his age thus is ten years, making him about the oldest winning race horse now in training.

ESSEX WOMEN AT THE NETS.

Misses Dill Defeated in Spirited Tennis Doubles of Special Tournament.

Women lawn tennis experts began play yesterday in a special tournament on the courts of the Essex County Country Club, Orange, N. J. The matches were in the doubles, and afforded some brilliant racquet work. Sixteen pairs began the competitions for the sweepstakes in this event, and the entire first round was disposed of during the afternoon. One of the most interesting of the matches was that in which the Misses Dill, the daughters of James B. Dill, met defeat at the hands of Miss Seabury and Miss Worth. The latter played a spirited game, in which their driving was forceful and accurate. From their side of the net the Misses Dill endeavored to win by driving for placement. Both Miss Seabury and Miss Worth covered court perfectly, driving back occasionally on the volley and winning by the score of 6—1 and 6—2.

Mrs. Holden and Miss Jewett were the only pair to win two matches during the afternoon. In the first round they defeated Mrs. John Gallett, Jr., the wife of the polo player, who was paired with Miss Miller. Close upon this victory Mrs. Holden and Miss Jewett defeated Miss Edith Burke and Miss Ebey, both of the matches being won in straight sets. The summary:

Women's Doubles.—First Round—Miss Hitch and Miss Gordon defeated Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Ingals, 6—4, 6—3; Miss Souther and Miss Grannis defeated Miss McCoy and Miss M. McCoy, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Seabury and Miss Worth defeated Miss Dill and Miss Emma Dill, 6—1, 6—2; Mrs. Von Bernuth and Mrs. Rubsamnen defeated Mrs. Underhill and partner, by default; Miss Edith Burke and Miss Ebey defeated Mrs. Cohen and Miss Ethel Reynolds, 6—0, 6—2; Mrs. Holden and Miss Jewett defeated Mrs. John Gallett, Jr., and Miss Miller, 6—1, 6—2; Miss Reynolds and Miss Freeman defeated Miss Phelps and Miss Leffingwell, 6—1, 6—2; Mrs. Boyd and partner defeated Miss Van Epps and Miss Brown, by default.

Second Round—Miss Hitch and Miss Gordon vs. Miss Souther and Miss Grannis, 6—4, 4—6, unfinished; Miss Seabury and Miss Worth vs. Mrs. Van Bernuth and Mrs. Rubsamnen, 6—2, 4—6, unfinished; Mrs. Holden and Miss Jewett defeated Miss Ewith Burke and Miss Ebey, 6—4, 6—2.

Detroit Takes Two Games Quite Handily from Greater New Yorks.

The Greater New Yorks fought gamely against heavy odds yesterday in a double-header with Detroit, but hardly at any stage of the two contests was the severely crippled local team dangerous, and the Detroits scored two easy victories, the first time by 7 to 2 and the second by 7 to 1. Even the mighty Chesbro failed to check the opposing batsmen in the first game, and in the third inning the visitors placed the game beyond all reasonable doubt by scoring five runs jointly by good safe hitting and costly mistakes. On the other hand Donovan, while having ten hits recorded against him, kept them so well scattered that, with the aid of sharp fielding, the local men were compelled to be satisfied with one solitary run.

Manager Griffith presented another new aspirant for major league honors in Oldring, who played so well at third base for the Manhattans on Sunday against the Greater New Yorks. Oldring is an old Olympic Field player, but during the recent Southern League season was a member of the Montgomery (Ala.) team. His work in the first game yesterday was excellent, in fact throughout the afternoon he proved himself an unusually capable infielder.

In the second game Eubank was pitted against Hogg, but after two innings, in which Eubank had been touched up for three singles and a double, netting no runs, however, he was relieved by Kitson. The latter was in splendid form, striking out four men, and allowing but two safe hits during the seven innings he officiated. He gave only one base on balls, but that resulted in Hahn scoring a run. He was advanced to second and third on two outs at first, and tallied on Laporte's strong hit to left field.

The Detroits started to hit Hogg in the first inning, and a single, a double, and a fumble by Cockman gave them two runs. Coughlin tallied another in the fourth on a single, a sacrifice, and Drill's hit to centre. Two safe infield hits, a sacrifice, and a long fly to Keeler resulted in one more run in the sixth. Hogg's wild pitching, his bad throw, and a fly to left gave them a brace of runs in the eighth, and a single and a double produced their seventh and last run in the ninth.

WASHINGTON, 3; CHICAGO, 2.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 2.—Smith's wildness in the first inning to-day gave Washington three runs and the game. Three hits, three wild pitches, a pass to first, and an error scored the home team's total runs. Patten pitched fine ball, and bad the visitors shut out up to the final inning, when, principally because of darkness, Chicago scored two runs. Score:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Nichols Receives Poor Support and Chicago Beats Quakers Handily.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 2.—The Philadelphia team gave Pitcher Nichols the poorest kind of support in the early innings of the game with the local team to-day, and as a result the latter scored all of their runs on two bases on balls, five hits, and six errors. Brown held Philadelphia safe at all times, and it was not until the game was over that he let up in his work. Score:

CAN CHICAGO WIN OUT

Another Defeat Would Be Fatal to Western Team in Remaining Games.

The victory of the Athletics over St. Louis and the defeat of Chicago by Washington makes the ultimate victory of the Philadelphia team in the American League pennant race more sure. Only on the most extraordinary reversal of form can Chicago now win out. Philadelphia plays two more games with St. Louis and Chicago a like number with Washington. Then each plays five, shifting opponents, Chicago at St. Louis, Philadelphia at Washington. The chances are equally good for each team winning a majority of these games. They now stand:

Should Chicago win all and the Athletics lose all of the seven remaining games they would stand:

Club.	W.	L.	P.C.	Club.	W.	L.	P.C.

Should Chicago win all, the Athletics win four the Western team would win by three points, thus:

Club.	W.	L.	P.C.	Club.	W.	L.	P.C.

But should the Athletics win the majority of their remaining games and Chicago have one postponed they would tie, while a defeat would be fatal to Chicago.

AMERICAN WRESTLER THROWN

"Tom" Jenkins Beaten by a Turk in Straight Falls.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Ahmed Madrali, the Turk, defeated "Tom" Jenkins, the American wrestler, in two straight falls here this afternoon. The match, which was catch-as-catch-can style, was for $500 a side and a purse of $750. The Turk, who is both taller and heavier than the American, had all the advantage of the bouts. He secured the first fall in 19 minutes 48 seconds, and the second in 22 minutes 46 seconds.

It is understood that Madrali will challenge George Hackenschmidt, the Russian champion.

ONE GAME IN SQUADRON POLO.

Clubs Prefer Early Tournaments—Spring Best for Championship.

Only one polo game will be played this week in the Squadron A tournament at Van Cortlandt Park. The Squadron A team will meet Great Neck Thursday afternoon for the Squadron Cups. The squadron team will be made up of W. S. McGuire, Louis Neilson, R. G. D. Douglas, and Joseph H. Hunt. For Great Neck the line-up will be Paul Rainey, H. S. Borden, J. P. Grace, and C. H. Robbins.

It is probable that next year the squadron will apply for earlier tournament dates, as it is becoming more difficult every season to secure a sufficient number of entries for Fall competitions.

This condition of affairs has led officers of the Polo Association seriously to consider the advisability of holding the National championship hereafter earlier in the year—probably in June. The complete failure of the championship events this season to bring out any representative showing of the good players in the country has occasioned a general sentiment among the leading clubs that the change would be a wise one, and the matter will come up for final decision at the next annual meeting.

The Van Cortlandt Park game this week will close the polo season in the metropolitan locality, although the field will remain open for practice and impromptu games during the remainder of the month for the members of the squadron team.

Intercollegiate Tennis Begins.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—The twenty-fifth annual intercollegiate tennis tournament began to-day on the grounds of the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford. The preliminary matches resulted: H. H. Whitney, Harvard, defeated J. O. Downey, Pennsylvania, 6—1, 6—4; M. Thompson, Princeton, defeated J. A. Lines, Williams, 6—1, 6—2; H. J. Randall, Princeton, defeated A. T. Spaulding, Yale, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3; H. K. Behr, Yale, defeated H. B. Register, Pennsylvania, 6—4, 6—4.

Jenatzy Will Lead Auto Contestants for Cup.

KEENE DRAWS NUMBER 13

Lancia and Hemery Favorites for the Big Speed Test Over Long Island Roads.

Several of the most famous automobile racers were present last night at the Automobile Club of America, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, when the draw for positions in the coming Vanderbilt cup race took place. The draw was conducted under the auspices of the Vanderbilt Cup Commission, which is composed of practically the same members as the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association. The draw was by lot. A single representative of each of the four countries made a draw for position in the first set of four. According to that result, the order was maintained in the sets of four following and it was left to the representatives of the respective countries to name the individual positions of the competitors.

A. D. Proctor Smith, drawing for Germany, secured first place, and Jenatzy was named to start the big 283-mile race on Oct. 14. He is one of the best drivers in Europe, and held the Gordon Bennett Cup in 1903 and was second in 1904. France got second, and Duray, with his 130 horse power De Dietrich, will follow Jenatzy. America came third, and Dingley, with the Pope-Toledo car that won first place in the elimination trials, will be the third man to start, while the Italian team secured fourth place, and Lancia, with his 120 horse power Fiat was named to start in that position. One or two slight changes were made in the cars and drivers. Chevrolet will drive the Fiat car owned by Major J. S. C. Miller and with which Chevrolet made new records for gasoline machines at the Morris Park track this season. This change was rendered necessary owing to the destruction of his new Italian car on the course earlier in the day. S. B. Stevens's Mercedes car was substituted for the one originaly entered by Baron de Caters, as the latter sent word that he could not come over.

The complete list of twenty cars, with the order in which they will start, is:

1. Jenatzy, driver; Mercedes, Robert Graves, owner; Germany.
2. Duray, driver; De Dietrich, M. De Dietrich, owner; France.
3. Dingley, driver; Pope-Toledo, A. L. Pope, owner; America.
4. Lancia, driver; Fiat, Hollander & Tangemann, owners; Italy.
5. Warden, driver; Mercedes, John B. Warden, owner; Germany.
6. Wagner, driver; Darracq, Darracq & Co., owners; France.
7. Tracy, driver; Locomobile, Dr. H. E. Thomas, owner; America.
8. Nazzaro, driver; Fiat, Hollander & Tangemann, owners; Italy.
9. Campbell, driver; Mercedes, S. B. Stevens, owner; Germany.
10. Szisz, driver; Renault, Renault Freres, owner; France.
11. Christie, driver; Christie, James L. Breese, owner; America.
12. Cedrino, driver; Fiat, Hollander & Tangemann, owners; Italy.
13. Keene, driver; Mercedes, Foxhall P. Keene, owner; Germany.
14. Heath, driver; Panhard, Panhard & Levassor, owners; France.
15. Lytle, driver; Pope-Toledo, A. A. Pope, owner; America.
16. Chevrolet, driver; Fiat, Hollander & Tangemann, owners; Itely.
17. Werner, driver; Mercedes, C. G. Dinsmore, owner; Germany.
18. Hennery, driver; Darracq, Darracq & Co., owners; France.
19. White, driver; White, R. H. White, owner; America.
20. Sartori, driver; Fiat, A. G. Vanderbilt, owner; Italy.

Baron Adrien de Turckheim, representing the Automobile Club of France, made a protest against the plan of drawing by lot, claiming that as George Heath held the Vanderbilt Cup at present, the French team should have preference. Chairman Robert Morrell explained that while this was the custom in the Gordon Bennett race, the rules of the Vanderbilt contest implied that all positions must be drawn impartially by lot. Baron de Turckheim afterward said he was well satisfied with second place. He picks Duray to win, and believes that the average speed will be sixty miles an hour.

"I was agreeably surprised with the course," he added. "It is much better for high speed than I had been led to believe."

Speculation was rife regarding the probable winner. Lancia of the Italian team and Hemory of the French team figured as favorites, with the chances slightly in favor of the Italian. The foreigners expect to see from sixty to sixty-five miles an hour made in the race.

A. L. Riker, a member of the committee and who designed the locomobile that Tracy will drive, stated significantly that, of course, he picked Tracy to win, but immediately put Henery for his second choice, with Lancia third.

The foolish plan of eliminating the number 13, as was done last year, was not followed this season, and that number fell to Foxhall Keene, who, it was stated positively, would drive his 120-horse-power Mercedes car. He is a member of the German team, and John B. Warden, also an amateur and an American, will drive the German car starting fifth. George Heath is classed as an amateur, while two of the American drivers are amateurs, Walter Christie, who will drive James L. Breese's car, and Walter C. White, who will drive the White steamer.

Among those present were Robert L. Graves, Robert Lee Morrell, James L. Breese, André Massenat W. M. Leeds of the Automobile Club of England, A. W. Church, Clinton R. Mabley, E. R. Hollander, E. S. Partridge, Wilson R. Smith, A. L. Riker, Samuel M. Butler, S. B. Stevens, Robert E. Fulton, Walter Christie, and A. G. Batchelder.

BOOKMAKERS IN NEW CLASH.

"Metropolitan" Layers Quickly Subdued in Belmont Park Squabble.

The bookmakers of the Metropolitan Turf Association, or "trust," and the track officials of the Westchester Racing Association's Belmont Park race course engaged in another skirmish yesterday at the openng of the Belmont Park Fall meeting, with the result that the bookmakers, as in differences last Spring, retreated in good order and accepted what they termed a truce, after the loss of five places in the front line of the betting ring.

It was at Belmont Park in the Spring that the Metropolitan Turf Association's demand for official recognition resulted in the severance of the old relations between the race tracks and the layers and the refusal by the tracks to accept further direct revenue from the betting ring in payment for the betting privilege. All through the season there have been occasional bickerings between the track managers and the bookmakers, and it was said yesterday that the bookmakers had planned to assert themselves again at the Belmont Park meeting, in retaliation for the grievance they are supposed to have against the Westchester Racing Association. It also was said that the representatives of the Westchester Association had served warning on George Wheelock, President of the bookmakers' organization, who was a leading figure in the disputes of the Spring, that he would not be permitted to do business at Belmont Park, but this was denied generally, though Wheelock, who has transacted business all through the year in the name of his brother, made no attempt to go on for business.

The members of the Metropolitan Turf Association who did go on mustered eighty strong and made the old attempt to take all the eighty places arranged for in the front line. They were halted at once, and fifteen "Mets" were ordered out of line, their places to be filled by non-members of the bookmakers' organization.

The fifteen independent men at once set in for business, while the sixty-five "Mets" left in the front line sulked until a short time before 2 o'clock, when they concluded to make the most of the situation, and nearly a half hour after they expected to begin taking bets started in for the afternoon's business.

The action taken by Ring Manager John Cavanagh reduced the "Mets" by five men from the old plan governing the front line, the ring manager through the earlier part of the season having made places for seventy members of the bookmakers' organization when there were that many ready to do business.

The bookmakers who did business occupied places in a semi-circular inclosure, around which high brick walls have been built since the Spring meeting. The brick walls are said to be intended as a protection against the wind and to make the inclosure more comfortable in the bad weather of early Spring and late Fall, but the bookmakers could not help but wonder what iron rails on top of the brick walls were meant for, and the arrangement of gates at intervals in the walls led to the speculation that at Belmont Park next Spring there may be a separate inclosure, distinct from the grand stand, for the betting element. The iron rails are of a permanent character, and look as if they were meant to prevent any one from climbing over the walls. Their presence would be a waste of material unless there is some intention of inclosing the ring.

COLEMAN BEAT POGGENBURG.

Ex-Champion Billiardist Loses Opening Match of Handicap Tourney.

Amateur billiard players last night began an eighteen-inch balk line tournament, in which the scratch competitor, J. Ferdinand Poggenburg, ex-National Class A champion, met defeat. Poggenburg endeavored to play a string of 300 points, two counts in balk, against 240 points for Harry A. Coleman, who was the winner of the Metropolitan championship last season. But the latter displayed a better stroke and more dexterous manipulation of the ivory balls than did Poggenburg, which resulted in Coleman's winning by better than even up at 240 to 232 points.

Both men played slowly, as if the division between the eighteen and fourteen-inch caused them some anxiety. The best run of the match, a cluster of 35 carroms, was made by Poggenburg upon his fifth turn at the table. In this the Liederkranz clubman nursed prettily, although not up to his usual standard. Coleman was remarkably good on his hard-shot open table play all through the match, which enabled him to beat Poggenburg by better than evens. Dr. Walter G. Douglas and William Gershel, each 240, will meet to-night. The score:

H. A. Coleman, (240)—1 2 0 24 4 1 12 2 0 27 0 4 0 1 2 3 1 1 1 13 18 25 2 0 1 7 5 2 0 15 0 4 14 3 0 8 5 1 9 10 5 0 1. Total, 240 points; average, 5 25-43; high runs, 27, 25, and 24.

COLUMBIA'S HARD PRACTICE.

Morningside Players Ready for To-morrow's Game with Seton Hall.

Hard practice was the order at Columbia yesterday, where the team received its final work for to-morrow's game with Seton Hall. Much time was devoted to coaching Carter and Starbuck in punting, as this was one of the weak points of the Union game. Coach Morley instructed the pair in getting their punts off quickly so as to get the ball away before the opposing ends closed in. Capt. Thorp played on the scrub to give the 'Varsity team better practice. This did not prevent the 'Varsity backs breaking through for long runs. Fisher made a seventy-yard run through the scrub team for a touch-down, and Lindo followed with a clever fifty-yard dash later in the practice. Ross and Ryan, the big guards, were on the side lines nursing injuries received in the Union game. They are not expected to line up to-morrow, but should be able to resume playing by the end of the week.

The Princeton players took a much needed rest after Saturday's hard tussle with Washington and Jefferson. The men showed no desire to cross the scrub's goal line, and the coaches did not force them into hard work. The scrub took full advantage of this, and hammered the 'Varsity line so hard that they almost scored. A new combination of backs was tried yesterday, Simons and Bard being the halves, with Moscript at full back. Pfeiffer played for the first time in a week. Hamill, the big half back from Exeter, who has been playing only a few days, was a good ground gainer for the scrubs, and promises to be the "find" of the season. The proposition of developing the back field is giving the coaches considerable trouble. Simons appears to be the best of the half backs, but is rather light for the position. Brasher's playing at left end on Saturday was not of such a character as warrants his keeping the position, and Fryer will probably beat him out. P. Waller, the big freshman from Lawrenceville, is rapidly improving, and the centre of the line will doubtless be strengthened when Dutcher gets back in the game.

Marshall Reynolds, the star half back and Captain of this year's football team of the University of Pennsylvania, may not be able to play this Fall. Reynolds was graduated last June from the Law School, and he desired this year to take a special course of study. Dean Lewis of the Law School refused to allow him to matriculate, as the school has no post-graduate course. The studies Reynolds picked out for a special course, Dean Lewis states, did not seem likely to benefit him, and he could not allow him to return.

Reynolds is probably the best punter in the country. His loss would be a severe blow to the Pennsylvania eleven and would necessitate another election for Captain. In the latter event either Bennis or Sheble would probably be the choice as leader.

The football squad at Annapolis was completed yesterday by the appearance of Douglass, half back; Smith, guard, and Pierson, tackle. All three players are in splendid condition, and did good work in yesterday's practice. Douglass broke his leg in the Princeton game last year, but it has knitted splendidly, and he does not anticipate any trouble from it this season. Pierson is a Philadelphia boy, and will fill Capt. Farley's position at tackle. He is fifteen pounds heavier than Farley. Altogether appearances favor the heaviest line in the history of the navy football. Owing to the excessive heat only light practice was indulged in yesterday.

Brilliant practice on Soldiers' Field yesterday demonstrated the fact that Harvard has a remarkably speedy set of backs. The best performance of the afternoon was a sixty-yard run by Half Back Wendell, who was aided by the splendid interference of Starr. The latter made several clever dodging runs. Foster made several good gains for the 'Varsity, and Nesmith of the scrubs made a number of hard tackles, throwing the 'Varsity for losses. Sommes, full back of last year's freshmen eleven, played on the scrub and showed to advantage in hurdling. The work was fast, and in every way satisfactory to the coaches.

R. Vanderbilt's Show Horse Won.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 2.—With cash prizes totalling $30,000 the Louisville Horse Show was opened to-night. The class of the animals exhibited was the highest in the history of the Louisville association. Among the prominent exhibitors are Reginald Vanderbilt and Mrs. J. B. M. Grosvenor of New York.

Reginald Vanderbilt's Doctor Selwonk took first prize, $1,000, for championship harness horses.

For championship harness horses (pairs) Guy Fortune and Gladstone, entered by Lawrence Jones of Louisville, took first prize. Creighton and Creighton II., entered by George E. Pepper of Toronto, took second prize, and Amazement and Astonishment, entered by Reginald Vanderbilt, third prize. Kentucky horses took the awards in other exhibits

MAYOR AND GOVERNOR.

The office of Mayor of the City of New York for the next four years will be for the man who holds it one of the most conspicuous, important, and rich in opportunities of all the offices in the Union under that of President. The powers of the office are very great; the interests with which it has to deal are large and permanent; the possibilities of good work in the office are almost incalculable, and that work will be performed in the light of such publicity as does not attend any other place in the country. Great as these would be for any Mayor, they would clearly be far greater for Mr. McCLELLAN than for any other man, because he has had two years' experience, and, still more, because he literally has imposed himself on his party and can enter on his longer term as free as he chooses to make himself of all dictation or impertinent influence. He can be for four years as good a Mayor as he wishes and has the mental and moral strength to be. No man has ever had the chance to be Mayor of so great a city for so long a time as he, and no man has ever taken the office with such rare conditions of independence as he can exact. This is probably the strongest argument that can be addressed to the sensible voters in the coming campaign, and there is no doubt that it will be effective, if it is allowed to have its full force.

In these circumstances, we wish most heartily that Mr. McCLELLAN could see his way clear to set at rest the stories that are circulating that he and his friends seek his election as Mayor this year in order that he may be a candidate for Governor next year. To go into this canvass for a four years' term as Mayor, with the intention of serving but one year if the nomination to the Governorship is open to him, is not a seemly or proper thing to do. There should be left no reason to expect any such course on his part. It would be almost directly a violation of an implied but obligatory contract between him and the people of the city. Nor would election as Governor really advance any legitimate ambition Mr. McCLELLAN may have. It would not in itself be a promotion, for the office of Governor, besides having a term only half as long, does not carry with it either the definite powers or the prestige that belong to the office of Mayor of New York if the latter be administered as it might be. Let us suppose that Mr. McCLELLAN wishes, if conditions favor, to be the candidate of his party for President. He would be much stronger, if he entered the lists with four years of sound administration as Mayor to his credit than he would be if he had deserted his office as Mayor after one year of his second term for the sake of a year and a half of the relatively limited opportunities of the Governor's office. Especially would he be strong, probably he would be invincible, if he could point to an administration as Mayor elected by Tammany and independent of the evil influences that Tammany exerts and embodies.

If Mr. McCLELLAN does not see the situation in this light and is not prepared to pledge himself to serve out the term for which he will have been elected, then it is very clearly important that he shall use all his influence to secure the nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen of some one fitted to be Mayor. He owes that to the city, and he owes it to himself, since his own abandonment of the Mayoralty, to be succeeded by an inferior person, of the ordinary type of Tammany candidates, would be a serious drawback to any political advancement he may seek.

THE WISER COURSE.

That the possession of the offices strengthens the organization is a belief very firmly held in Tammany. The chiefs of the Hall have always sought to make up the municipal ticket as far as possible of good organization men. This year, however, it is perfectly apparent that weakness, not strength, would come of a stubborn adherence to the usual rule.

For instance, Mr. JOHN B. STANCHFIELD said yesterday that "if McCLELLAN wins by a big majority this year, nothing can prevent his nomination for Governor next year, and he will be elected Governor. His strength is growing constantly, and a big victory in the municipal election is all that is needed to make him Governor of the State." A big vote makes a big victory. The better the community is satisfied with the ticket as a whole, the more votes it will receive. If other places on the ticket are filled by names as satisfactory as the name of Mr. McCLELLAN it will stand at the head of the list. Votes will be won that regular Tammany nominations would not secure. Or, to put it the other way about, the refusal of Tammany to make nominations not only demanded by custom and prescription but which would be welcomed and approved by the great body of the voters, would necessarily drive away elements of strength and support which would otherwise come to the organization.

Justices INGRAHAM and GILDERSLEEVE ought to be renominated as Justices of the Supreme Court. The demand for their renomination is general, and quite independent of party feeling. Upon the petition of such well-known lawyers as HENRY E. HOWLAND, HORACE RUSSELL, FRANCIS LYNDE STETSON, DE LANCEY NICOLL, and HENRY DE FOREST BALDWIN the Bar Association is to meet tomorrow evening to consider the taking of measures to secure their acceptance as candidates by all political parties. Manifestly, Tammany would strengthen itself and increase the vote of Mr. McCLELLAN by nominating Justices INGRAHAM and GILDERSLEEVE.

The case of District Attorney JEROME is even more important and vital. Mr. JEROME will run as an independent candidate anyway, and he will poll a very large vote. He will have thousands of Republican and independent supporters. A great part of this vote might be brought to the support of Mayor McCLELLAN by putting Mr. JEROME'S name upon the ticket. Tammany cannot expect to find a candidate who would make a better District Attorney; it cannot find one whose nomination and election would be so heartily applauded in the county. Even outside the county the acceptance of Mr. JEROME by Tammany would be of material advantage to Mayor McCLELLAN if he is to follow the path of promotion indicated by Mr. STANCHFIELD. Tammany can assign no good reason for a refusal to renominate District Attorney JEROME. The mere possession of the office with its patronage is not worth an instant's consideration in comparison with the great increment of strength at the polls which would result from the placing of Mr. JEROME'S name upon the ticket.

MR. ROOT'S OPPORTUNITY.

In 1816 JOHN QUINCY ADAMS wrote to ALEXANDER H. EVERETT: "The Government of the United States have no system of diplomatic gradation." That is as true now as it was ninety years ago, and much more mischievous. Until the new departure brought about in 1898 by our acquisition of distant dependencies, such international questions of importance as arose were for the most part finally settled at Washington, where we had skilled lawyers and negotiators to represent our side of them. We could afford, without other loss than that of National dignity, to be represented at foreign capitals by men ignorant both of the languages of the countries to which they were accredited and of the common language of diplomacy throughout Europe, and ignorant also of diplomatic traditions and proprieties. These men had received their appointments abroad with a minimum of attention on the part of the appointing power to their special fitness for their particular missions or to their general fitness for diplomatic service. In many, perhaps in most, cases they had received their appointments abroad simply and avowedly as "spoils," as rewards for political services rendered at home. Exceptions, in the worst times, there always were, such as IRVING at Madrid, although IRVING had no pretense of special fitness for his post. Moreover, as the incumbents of these places often sought them for the opportunities of saving they afforded, and as they were much underpaid in comparison with the representatives of other first-class Powers, they were apt to adopt a niggardly mode of living which discredited their country as well as themselves in the capitals in which they represented it. Our Consular representatives were likewise chosen with regard to their past services at home rather than to their future services abroad, they were similarly underpaid in comparison with their foreign colleagues, and the result was that our Diplomatic and Consular Service was in general highly inefficient.

We could afford this as long as our foreign relations were at most of no great importance. But it cannot be pretended that we can afford it now, when our growing commercial relations with all the world involve a corresponding increase in our diplomatic relations. Doubtless there have been great improvements in the filling of our leading embassies and legations within the last twenty years. But the improvement has been in large part wrought by the selection of representatives who could afford to serve their country at their own expense. Although more than one of our leading Ambassadors at the chief capitals of Europe is without doubt well equipped intellectually for his duties, it is a requisite that he should be well equipped pecuniarily, and it is notorious that every one of them is expected and in effect required to pay more than he receives. Evidently this condition, which in effect limits our representation to men of large private fortunes, is neither desirable nor even tolerable. In the lower grades of the Diplomatic and Consular Service there is little modification of the old "spoils" theory. A Consulate or a Secretaryship is very often merely the price paid by a Senator to a "henchman" for whose services he has no further need at home.

We may be sure that the new Secretary of State is as keenly aware of the National disadvantage and discredit of the want of any "system of diplomatic gradation" as are any of his countrymen, and that he is anxious to establish such a system. It is plain, too, that he has advantages for the establishment of such a system that none of his predecessors has ever enjoyed. In the first place, the President is warmly in sympathy with the system of appointment and promotion for merit in the public service, and must be as anxious to apply it in the foreign as in the domestic service of the Republic. In the second place, the vastness of the President's popular majority enables him to dispense himself from doling out "patronage." He has no political debts to pay, being indebted to nobody but the people of the United States. And the need of a more efficient Diplomatic and Consular Service has never been so plain or so urgent as it is to-day. Finally, Mr. ROOT is a man of organizing mind. He showed in the War Department that a mere routine performance of duty was not sufficient for him, but that he had an ambition, in the Baconian phrase, for "planting things that were like to last." The General Staff law and the militia law are two monuments of his administration which will long survive it.

Doubtless the constitutional power of the President to "nominate," and, "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate," to "appoint Ambassadors, other public Ministers, and Consuls," is not to be infringed. Even a statute which hampered the Executive discretion in this respect would be inoperative. But it is nevertheless perfectly feasible "by and with the advice and consent" of the President to make rules for the admission of candidates for the Diplomatic and Consular Service, which might very properly be extended to include examinations of actual officials, that should secure at least general and to some extent special fitness in the lower grades of the service. Probably, as President WHITE has suggested, the higher grades will always be to some extent a dignified asylum for Americans who have deserved well of their country in other than the diplomatic branch of public service, and President WHITE'S further suggestion that half these prizes of the service shall be retained for such service outside, while the remaining half shall be filled by promotion, would meet all requirements of which account need be taken. A considerable increase of pay is evidently indicated by the fact that, the world around, the British official representative gets about twice as much as his American colleague.

ISTHMUS TROUBLES.

We cannot build the Panama Canal with clubbed labor. Probably Mr. SHONTS does not expect to use the club or the whip or any other painful means of compulsion to get his men to dig. The incident of the laborers brought from Martinique who refused to leave the steamer and were compelled to land by dint of threats and blows and cuffs must not be regarded as a precedent or even as being symptomatic. The truth appears to be that the laborers had come to the end of their journey, that the steamship company had carried them as far as it had been paid to carry them, that they had no money for the return trip, and that they were "put off," just as a railroad passenger would be "put off" at the station named on his ticket if he could not or would not pay a further passage.

The serious aspect of the affair is the state of mind in which these laborers reached Colon. They said that they had been misinformed as to the work, that conditions on the Isthmus were intolerable and deadly, and, according to the dispatches, they bared their breasts to the bayonets and guns of the police and declared that they would rather die than be taken ashore. In view of the recent and enthusiastic eagerness to "make the dirt fly" on the Isthmus it is distinctly unpleasant, it is almost discouraging to have the workmen brought to the Isthmus declare that they would rather die than go "on the job." All this, however, is a consequence of a violation of that good old rule, the more haste the less speed. We began to dig the canal before we were ready to dig—before we had made any preparation to take care of the diggers. The President was warned, the Secretary of War was warned, the former Canal Commission was warned a year and a half ago that an attempt to begin the actual work of excavation before the preliminary sanitary cleaning up of the Isthmus had been accomplished and fit habitations provided for the men would result in disaster, death, and scandal. It has turned out so.

It is known the wide world over that we have neglected to establish fit conditions on the Isthmus as a preliminary to the beginning of work. Shovelers from Martinique are quite as likely to learn of our neglect and its consequences as engineers or machinists from the United States.

Probably no great undertaking was ever worse muddled. We have spent seventy millions of dollars, and we have been studying the canal problem and even carrying on the actual work for years. Yet to-day the engineers are still considering the question whether we are to build a lock canal or a sea-level canal, the work of safeguarding the lives and health of the Nation's employés has only just begun, and workmen from the tropics are in such a state of terror over the deadly possibilities of employment on the Isthmus that on the arrival of their steamship they have to be forcibly driven ashore. It is a pretty bad record of blundering throughout.

ANTI-GORMAN REVOLT.

We do not recall in American political history a precedent for the remarkable proposition made by Senator GORMAN to his party convention in Maryland. It was in the nature of a promise with a threat as an alternative. Having succeeded in securing from his party approval of the Constitutional amendment disfranchising most of the relatively small proportion of negroes in the State, he declared that if that amendment were adopted at the coming election he would agree "never to seek place" and would "die a happy man." On the other hand, if the amendment were defeated "I am," he announced, "with you as long as I live."

Mr. GORMAN apparently reasoned that the hope of getting rid of him would induce his numerous opponents in the party to vote with him this time. They do not take the bait. They prefer to dispose of him in a more direct and conclusive fashion, to defeat his policy, and to render him powerless whether he is still "with" them or not. The veteran Democrat ex-Gov. WILLIAM PINCKNEY WHITE refused to attend the Gorman convention and will denounce the disfranchisement scheme. Senator RAYNER is silent, though earnestly solicited to help GORMAN. Gov. WARFIELD is in open opposition to the amendment, and other men of influence in the Democratic Party take the same attitude.

Mr. BONAPARTE, the Secretary of the Navy, who presided over the Republican Convention and who is recognized as the leader of his party, has issued a statement declaring the agitation of the amendment plan to be merely an effort to strengthen the ring by appeals to race prejudice. He points out that during the four years of Republican rule in the State, when they had the Governor and the Legislature, and also under the present Republican Mayor of Baltimore, there has not been the slightest evidence that the Republicans unduly favor negroes in political place, and still less that the Republicans wish to enforce equality in the schools, which are the two charges brought by the Democrats. The significant feature of the situation is that in Maryland the leading and most respected Democrats are firmly resisting the appeal to color prejudice, and exposing and opposing it as a trick of corrupt politicians to promote their own bad ends. It now seems certain that the amendment will be defeated, and the politics of Maryland placed on a reasonably high plane for some time to come.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

We Should Like to Hear from Lily.

A passenger on a train to Rockaway Beach Saturday afternoon was forced to overhear an extremely intimate, and therefore extremely interesting, conversation betwen two women, evidently old friends who had not met for some time. "Did you hear that LILY was in a railroad accident and got a hundred dollars?" asked one. "I heard she was in an accident," replied the other, "but I didn't hear of the hundred dollars. How was it? Was she hurt?" Then the story came out, told with great vivacity and in a tone showing that the narrator saw nothing in it that required concealment from friends or strangers. "It was this way," she said. "After the crash came LILY found that she hadn't been hurt a bit, but LILY'S got lots of sense, and do you know, without waiting a minute, she pinched one of her arms just awful with her own fingers—pinched it so hard she broke the skin in three—four places and made it look real dreadful. And pretty soon one of the road's claim agents came along, and he asked LILY if she was hurt, and LILY said to him, 'Hurt! Well, I should say I am hurt! You look at my arm, and you'll see 't I'm hurt!' and the man looked at her arm, and he offered her $50 to settle on the spot and sign something, but LILY said that $50 wasn't enough for such a hurt as that, and after talking a while he gave her $100, and she signed what he wanted her to. Wasn't that just splendid?" And the other woman seemed to think it was, and the first woman went on—"But what do you think? LILY'S husband didn't like it at all—he said it wasn't honest! So utterly ridiculous! As if the old railroad couldn't afford to pay LILY a hundred dollars! I told LILY to pay no attention at all to what her husband said about it—that men have such queer ideas about things—and LILY didn't; she kept the money and she bought a porcelain-lined refrigerator with part of it, and the rest she spent every cent for some clothes 't she just had to have." For the truth of this tale we cannot vouch, but we have told it as it was overheard, and the woman to whom it was addressed seemed to have no difficulty whatever in believing that LILY could and did pinch her own arm and could and did "work" the too credulous claim agent for $100. Of course, for those who, like LILY'S husband, "have such queer ideas about things," LILY is a thief of a particularly despicable sort, but the two women who discussed the crime, though they seemed to be what is called "respectable," apparently viewed the act merely as a joke, the better because there was money in it. Cynics will say that the tale illustrates the feminine lack, among other parts of honor, of that part which coincides with common honesty, but, as it happens, the tale was overheard by a woman and it struck her exactly as it would strike a man. It must be remembered, too, that not a few men, if they had LILY'S presence of mind, as well as her opportunity, would have worked the same trick and have been proud of it. They would have realized its dishonesty, however, as would all men to whom they boasted of it.

A Mystery of Childhood.

We are a good deal less surprised by the intellectual quality of the address made by Mr. ROCKEFELLER to the Sunday school children than we are by the report that the children received his truly remarkable utterances with wild applause. Mr. ROCKEFELLER has talked in Sunday school and prayer meeting before, and everybody, thanks to the newspapers, is familiar with the ingenuousness—to use the gentlest characterization that occurs to us—displayed at such moments by a man who certainly is a wonder of ability in the conduct of great business enterprises. Children, however, if we can trust the vague memories of long ago, would not be likely to judge Mr. ROCKEFELLER'S speeches as abstractly interesting because of their source, and would be very likely indeed to judge them concretely as speeches—which would not lead to applause, wild or other. If the children of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church really did applaud that story about the little boy who suffered acute agonies because he dreamed of a world in which there were no Sunday schools they are little wretches, and whether they are the more deserving of pity or of horror it would be hard to decide. The attitude of their elders toward Mr. ROCKEFELLER is lamentably easy of comprehension, but to suspect children, even their children, of—that, is infinitely painful. Out of this speech, as out of the others, however, one thing shines clear and consoling, and that thing is the sincerity of Mr. ROCKEFELLER'S piety. To doubt it would be to misunderstand his words, needlessly and utterly, and to ignore the sufficiently obvious fact that his marvelous mind is built in compartments separated by bulkheads that are fireproof as well as water tight.

A Case of the More the Merrier.

One of our correspondents warned us yesterday that "the whole question of a second language for elementary pupils [in the public schools] is likely soon to be agitated more than ever, in view of the large Italian immigration." And he added, we think correctly, that "any argument in favor of German, whether on the ground of utility or literary merit, or any other, may be brought forward in favor of the language of the 'Divina Commedia.' The sooner our correspondent's prophecy comes true the better we shall be pleased, because the sooner will all misguided attempts to injure the public schools in this particular way come to an end through general appreciation of their mingled wickedness and absurdity. One demand, well backed up by a large number of voters, embarrasses the politicians, and therefore is a real danger. If there were two, equally well-supported, the situation would be much easier to meet, and if every "colony" in the city that can point with honest pride to the literary achievements of their ancestors and could prove the utility of acquiring a knowledge of their mother tongue entered the running, the obvious impossibility of granting all the claims and the obvious injustice of granting any one or two or three and denying the others would settle in short order the question of teaching foreign languages in the public schools. So we hasten to assure our Italian citizens that the language of DANTE is at least as beautiful as that of GOETHE; the French, that they can fairly insist upon the benefit of being able to read MOLIERE; the Spanish, that not to have read CERVANTES in the original is to have lost much; the Russians, that the translations of TOLSTOY leave much to be desired, and if any or all of a dozen other races desire to put in their own grounds for consideration, we will back them up most cordially.

The Issue Between Austria and Hungary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial of this morning under the heading "Austria-Hungary" emphasizes the loyalty and patriotism of the intelligent Magyar. The position of Francis Joseph acting as mediator between two such dissimilar peoplee is peculiarly unfortunate. The desire of the Hungarian people to have their troops commanded by their own officers, not those of Austria, using their own language, is very laudable and foretelle, if the result is successful, the ultimate indecoendence of this country; this act being the entering wedge.

By studente of European history a weak and still gradusily weakening bond between Hungary and Austria hae long been recognized. Of the many thrilling episodes in my life I cannot at this moment recall any more striking one than the listening to the debate, so intense and fiery, between the Austrian and Hungarian or Kossuth parties in the Summer of 1903—a rare chance of observing the depth of ill-feeling.

GEORGE DOW SCOTT.

The Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was greatly amused with the logical antics of a letter to your paper signed Impransus. Impransus is very much worried over the political situation created for us by the Anglo-Japanese treaty. He believes that said treaty, mutually safeguarding the possessions and acquired rights of England and Japan in the Far East, and respecting the acquired rights and vested interests of others there, in some mysterious manner endangere the Monroe Doctrine. By what process of reasoning he arrived at this conclusion he utterly fails to enlighten us.

He cites authorities from Ranke to Bernard Shaw to show our reluction to a third-class power, because England has secured as an ally that excellent Asiatic nation, our friend whom we introduced to civilization, and who proved herself not only worthy but the equal of any and the superior to some of the European powers in the pursuits of peace as well as the arte of war. Of course we are entitled and do expect a fuller explanation from Impransus of his views, but in the meantime I say, cheer up Impransus, the country is safe.

Danger to Street Car Conductors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Neighborhood Civic Club of Normal College Alumnae House wishes through your columns to protest against the danger to which street car conductors are exposed on the surface lines running beneath the elevated tracks. A member of the club living on Third Avenue saw a conductor as he was collecting fares on a crowded open car buried against one of the iron pillars of the elevated and thrown violently to the ground. This occurred at 5 A. M., Sept. 6, and the groans and agony of the man as he lay beneath her window until the ambulance carried him to his deathbed impressed on her most vividly this danger to life and limb.

This accident and many similar ones seen by members of the club lead them to ask if nothing can be done to avoid this waste of human life. NEIGHBORHOOD CIVIC CLUB.

Gladstone and Roosevelt.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am glad to see by your leader of to-day—"The Triumphal Car"—that THE TIMES has true appreciation of President Roosevelt's versatility and plenitude. But contrast what Prof. Goldwin Smith says of Gladstone: "He was morally insane; he was essentially a demagogue who was swayed far more by the passion for popular applause than by fixed and well-considered theories of public policy or of duty. He loved power and sought it by every meane, sometimes with great advantages, but as often with disastrous results to his country."

Lectured and Libeled.

From The Chicago Chronicle.

It is not quite true, as declared by Nicholas Murray Butler, that the American people lack moral principle.

The delinquencies of a few life insurance officers do not warrant the wholesale indictment of a nation.

It must be admitted, however, that the American people do lack self-assertion. Otherwise they would not permit themselves to be lectured and libeled by every sensational preacher and self-satisfied college President who bids for brief notoriety.

In that respect the American people are singularly supine.

"GREAT PROTECTION SALE."

Anomalous Situation Revealed by an Offering of Reimported Watches.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A sign on Lower Broadway tells an interesting story: "Great protection sale; Waltham and Elgin watches bought in England brought back to this country to undersell the market." We have long known that the present tariff was actually maintained to enable American manufacturers to get higher prices from Americans than they ask Europeans. It is good to find one enterprising American who takes advantage of this so-called protective legislation, even at the expense of paying double freights.

A Republican member from Indiana told us last week that the times were too prosperous to make any change in the system. He has evidently been reading the story of the Arkansas traveler, who found a native sitting on his porch with the rain dripping down from a leaky roof. On being asked why he didn't mend the roof he replied: "It's raining, I can't." "Why don't you mend it when it's pleasant?" "The roof doesn't leak then." In fact, the true time to reform the tariff is when business is good. If the last Congress had reduced the duty on the steel and iron schedule to 25 per cent. all round it would have benefited the general business of the country. The Steel Corporation would not have made one beam the less, or paid a dollar less in wages. Those citizens who still look upon a high tariff as the cornerstone of American prosperity would have learned that our business success does not depend upon the tariff, but upon our great natural resources, our skill, and our industry.

Senator Foraker told us last week that the folly of a purely revenue tariff has been demonstrated. He did not tell us when. Surely not between 1846 and 1860. During the time of the Walker tariff manufacturing increased rapidly, wages increased, the general business of the country was never on a firmer foundation. There has never been any tariff since that could properly be called a revenue tariff. The Wilson tariff as amended in the Senate was still a protective tariff, and the reduction in duties which it did give had nothing to do with the temporary depression in business which followed, and which was caused partly by overspeculation and partly by uncertainty as to whether or not the gold standard of valuo should still prevail.

There is, however, another passage in the Senator's speech which ought to be inscribed in every trade journal, and laid to heart by every American citizen:

"Liberty of trade and commerce is the life that imparts competition and secures a healthy and vigorous development of our resources."

EVERETT P. WHEELER.

The President's Influence.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article "The Lawyer and the Demagogue" in to-day's TIMES, is in welcome contrast with Dr. Abbott's contribution to The Ladies' Home Journal, "Why the President Is So Popular."

THE TIMES very properly refers to the President's influence for good and evil in the affairs of American citizens, and by practically proving that our Executive must always be, in the words of Frederick the Great, "the chief servant of the State," virtually counteracts the effusive and misleading laudation indulged in by Dr. Abbott.

The original polity of the United States was that government is the weapon of common action, and any individual spurts on the part of our President—as shown by his useless assault upon the trusts in 1902, parturiunt montes, nascitur ridiculus mus, and by his agitation of the question of railroad rates, a quantity determined by territorial disposition and the development of economic data—prove merely the truth of M. de Tocqueville's dictum, "That the natural result of democracy is a highly concentrated, enervating, but mild despotism." Alas, Poor Ram Chunder I

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Poor Ram Chunder! He and Hamlet are having a terrible time with their commentators. No sooner has he made good his position as a Hindu Mohammedan in good standing than along comes Sach Bat and heavee a brickbat, declaring that Ram Chunder could not possibly have prayed in the spontaneous manner in which he assuredly did pray, because the Mohammedans of Hindustan pray solely by rote!

Be it remembered that I did not invent this proverb story of Ram Chunder. It was preserved by an original investigator of great learning and exceptional opportunities for first-hand observation, and I see no good reason to doubt its genuineness. Some day in the distant future I suppose the scioliste will case grave doubts upon the authenticity of Davy Crockett's coon with its "Don't shoot, Colonel! I'll come down!" on the wholly irrelevant ground that they never beard a coon talk!

Mr. Jerome's Candidacy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

By the Declaration of Independence the American colonies resolved to cast off boss rule and be free and independent. On the 7th day of November the electors of the County of New York will have an opportunity of showing whether they are free and independent.

Mr. Jerome seeks re-election to the office of District Attorney. He is opposed to all bosses, whether Tammany or Republican. That he is independent is shown by the fact that he will not give assurance to the leaders of either party that he will not attack them during the ensuing campaign. His conduct during his present term of office has been such that it has had the admiration of all classes. The only question now is, Will the people of New York County show that they are free and independent, or will they let it go forth that they are bound hand and foot to one of the two great political machines? The Rights of the Smoker.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your paper contains a letter from "O. S. S.," advocating the prohibition of smoking on ferryboats. I do not know what "O. S. S." stands for unless ossified ideas. Some people want to probibit everything. Just think of the pleasure that millions who cross the river receive from their "smoke." Are the cranks, the disagreeable, and the selfish to run everything? There ought to be a smoker on the Subway and elevated roads—the front and rear cars. Their non-existence shows the New York public's docility and abject subjectiveness. What is more enjoyable than a morning and evening smoke to and from business?

WORK OF MISS ANTHONY.

Female Suffrage Only a Feature in the General Advancement of Woman.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I say a word in response to the letter published this morning from "A Woman Who Wants to Vote"? She casts aspersions on the Suffrage Association and the women who are leaders in the suffrage movement as such.

Many women enjoying the privilege of education, the right to own property in their own names, to carry on business and professions, forget that this state of affairs is directly the result of the pioneer work of Miss Susan B. Anthony and her army of suffragists. Because she, in the courage of her convictions, stood the ignominy and suffered the scathing criticisms of the world, we business women of to-day are able to earn our living in self-respecting professions, and are given the education which enables us to enter our offices equipped equal with men as far as colleges can give it to us.

The right to vote is only one of the incidents in the enfranchisement of women. I believe that in the near future some great political party will give us the ballot as a duty to perform, seeing that they can no longer afford to be without this great number of intelligent votes. The ballot will be asked of us as a "duty," not given as a "right." But meantime to cast any slur on the pioneer suffragists is as ungrateful as to profane the name of Washington and his army. Susan B. Anthony is the Washington of her sex; and her army, no less than his army, fought for freedom from a tyranny of custom, tradition, and oppression.

We educated business and professional women should honor the ladder by which we climbed.

FIVE MILLIONS FOR THE POOR.

Baron Nathaniel Rothschild's Will of Bequests Proved.

The will was proved in London Sept. 22 of Baron Nathaniel von Rothschild of Vienna, a partner in the banking house of Messrs. S. M. von Rothschild, of Frankfort-on-the-Main, eldest son of the late Baron Anselm von Rothschild. The value of his English estate is £25,634, and the amount of his fortune abroad is not stated. That it is enormous is apparent from the fact that sums emounting to £1,125,000 are left to charities.

The clause in the will dealing with the principal bequest runs:

"I devote 10,000,000 florins, Austrian currency, (about £820,000,) to any charitable institutions which shall be established under my name, and shall permanently bear that name. For this I have chiefly in view the making of provision for those unhappy beings who, by reason of chronic or incurable maladies, are incapable of earning a living, and are without means, and who are not admitted to hospitals or are discharged from them uncured."

The testator then remarks that he intended to set forth more particular regulations for the proposed institution in a sepsrate codicil, but should he leave no such directions the bequest should be carried out according to the directions of his heir. He directed that the capital for this bequest should be banked in a ecperate account with Messrs. S. M. von Rothschild, at Vienna, within six months from his death.

The other bequests include:

One million florins for distribution among Vienna charities.

He also directed his heir to continue all pensions paid or promised by him.

What Is the Trouble with Evening High Schools?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is now we read of the large numbers of young men attending our Evening High Schools. There is one school in Manhattan at which last year the number enrolled at the beginning of the season was about two thoueand young men, and the average attendance at the end of the term was not more than four hundred young men. It seems to me somebody is at fault for this large reduction in the number of young men attending at the end of the season. This particular Evening High School I refer to I have attended for the past four years. At this school the quality and efficiency of the teachers have been steadily decreasing. Why is it that the Board of Education cannot give our Evening High School the best of teachers? This, I think, is the reason why the average attendance at our night schools about Oct. 1 is two thousand young men, and by March 30 (about the time of closing) the average attendance is only four hundred young men. The Gladstone Memorial.

From The London News.

Earl Spencer is to preside at the unveiling of the national memorial of the late Mr. Gladstone on Oct. 21, and the ceremony will be performed in the presence of a representative assemblage of politicians and civic notabilities. Invitations are being sent out, but the programme has not yet been settled. Between twenty and thirty navvies are now busily engaged within the inclosure at the Strand entrance to Aldwych. The excavations are nearly completed, and early next week the contractors will proceed with the fixing of the Portland stone pedestal. Statues of the deceased statesmen already exist in Westminster Abbey and the Central Hall of the houses of Parliament, the former having been erected at the public expense and the latter by private subscription. This national memorial, however, is not to be a statue only, but an important monumental group. The bronze statue itself represents Mr. Gladstone in the picturesque robes of Chancellor of the Exchequer, and is said to be an impressive rendering of a fine personality. The architectural element will be of vital importance. The plans of the sculptor have not been made known, but Mr. Hamo Thornycroft, R. A., may be trusted to group the surrounding figures in an effective and harmonious manner. It is understood that one of the bronze studies on the pedestal, entitled "Brotherhood," will represent a woman joining the hands of two little boys, seeming patrician and plebeian—symbolical of the aims of the great politician.

American Bootblack in Paris.

From The London Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Young Fred Racik, the peripatetic bootblack from California, is now going around the Paris newspaper offices. His nickname, "the 'Frisco Kid," has been adopted in French as "Le Gosse de San Francisco." He is also called the "globe-trotting bootblack" in some of the French papers, which print columns about his adventuree and aims. He was very much disappointed to hear on arriving at the Gare St. Lazare by the so-called transatlantic train from Havre that President Loubet, whose boots he wants to polish, was not at the Elyeée, but in his southern chateau of La Bégude-de-Mnzene. Racik accordingly proposes to go elsewhere, and will return to Paris when President Loubet is at the Elyeée.

AT SUNSET.

Low in the west and far away
I saw a single cloud—
A lone ship on the sea of day,
Pink-sailed and azure-prowed.

Barque of the nameless sunset quest,
My heart is fain for you;
With you the golden seas to breast,
And strange, far tasks to do.

JAMES OWEN TRYON.

DIRECTORS DO DIRECT, THESE FINANCIERS SAY

C. T. Barney, Dumont Clarke, and Others Disagree with Mr. Schiff.

NOT FIGUREHEADS AT ALL

I'll Talk Later, Much Later, Says Champion Director Depew, Who's a Member of 74 Boards.

The statement of Jacob H. Schiff in the insurance investigation on Friday last, that the failure of Directors to direct was one of the great evils of present-day corporation management, has attracted widespread attention among Wall Street men in view of the fact, first, that in all large corporations there exists a more or less highly developed centralization of power, and, second, that many men in financial life see no way in which the situation can be changed with due regard for the volume of business that has to be transacted and the demands on the time of those who handle large affairs.

Mr. Schiff in his testimony said:

"The system of Directorship in great corporations of the City of New York is such that a Director has practically no power. He is considered in many instances, and I may say in most instances, as a negligible quantity by the executive officers of the society. He is asked for advice when it suits the executive officers, and if under the prevailing system an executive officer wishes to do wrong or wishes to conceal anything from his Directors or to commit irregularities such as have been disclosed here, the Director is entirely powerless; he can only act in an advisory capacity, and he can only judge of such things as are submitted to him."

"Of what use, then, are Directors, except to comply with the formal provision of the law?" Mr. Hughes asked.

"I think that is a very proper question," was the answer, "and I believe they are of very little practical use."

An interesting sidelight upon the situation of which Mr. Schiff complained may be obtained by an examination of the Directory of Directors, in which it appears that many men of prominence in financial affairs are Directors in from one to two-score corporations, many of them allied, to be sure, in their control or possibly in their management, but none the less distinct in their corporate organization. United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, for instance, appears as Director in seventy-four corporations, and probably holds the championship. James H. Hyde, formerly Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, was a Director in forty-five different corporations until recently.

George F. Baker, President of the First National Bank, and an important factor in what is known as the Morgan group of financial interests, is a Director in forty-four corporations; while James Stillman, President of the National City Bank, and the accredited head of the system of banking institutions allied with the Standard Oil interests, is a Director in fifty-eight corporations. William Rockefeller, brother of John D. Rockefeller, who, by the way, is reported at present as being a Director only in the Standard Oil Company, of which he is President, is a Director in forty different corporations. George J. Gould is a Director in forty-five corporations, and his brother Frank J. Gould is a Director in about twenty.

So the list might be continued. An interesting incident which throws some light on practices prevalent in certain quarters, at least, may be found in one large corporation in which it appears to have been the custom for resolutions to be prepared by the executive management and mailed to Directors for their signatures. On receipt of a sufficient number of such signed resolutions, it is said, the action determined upon is entered upon the records as having been taken in the regular way by the board.

Committees Do the Work.

To ascertain at first hand the opinion of men who are actually engaged in the management of great corporate enterprises, whether moneyed or non-moneyed, THE NEW YORK TIMES has made inquiry of a number of prominent financiers and railroad men. Robert Mather, President of the Rock Island Company, which is the holding corporation for the Rock Island Railroad and its allied companies, is a Director in thirty-one corporations. At his office, in the Empire Building, yesterday he was asked whether he thought a man could be a Director in many corporations and perform his duties to the best interest of each.

"Yes, I do," he replied. "The actual work is done by committees appointed from the board, as it should be. They are empowered by law to perform certain duties. The office of Director, of course, is largely an advisory one. There is, indeed, a limit to every man's time, but one can belong to a great many different boards, and yet do his work conscientiously. You must remember that in the case of many men who are Directors of a score or more corporations the majority of his Directorships are in companies which are subsidiary to or allied with some one central concern, so that to all intents and purposes the situation amounts to his being a Director only in one big company."

Mr. Mather said he had never heard of a corporation in which resolutions were sent around to members of the board in printed form and subsequently entered as having been adopted.

Dumont Clarke, President of the American Exchange National Bank, is a Director in twenty-five corporations. He was asked what he thought of the theory that Directors do not direct. Mr. Clarke said:

"I think such a view, if stated without qualification, does not do justice to the way in which financial business is transacted in New York. It is perfectly true that Directors in a bank and insurance company or a great railroad may not know from time to time the exact cash balance on hand down to a few cents, nor are they expected to follow these details from day to day or from week to week. That phase of the corporation management is specifically in the hands of the executive committee and the executive officers, whom the Directors choose from among their own number, and to whom they delegate certain powers.

"In the case of a bank there are the regular examinations by the Directors and by their accountants and the reports made at monthly meetings. One cannot expect a Director to do more than review these things in a general way; nor need he do so if the executive officers and the executive committee perform their part of the business honestly and efficiently. The Director can at least judge of the honesty and efficiency of those to whom he delegates power, and he has means at his command to right a situation that does not meet his approval.

"Moreover, I believe that the vast majority of the great corporations, whether moneyed or non-moneyed, in their management and their success, prove that the trust imposed on their executive officers has been honestly and efficiently administered, and that the Directors, acting in their important advisory capacity, have not been unfaithful."

"Not Figureheads," Says Oakman.

Walter G. Oakman, President of the Hudson Companies, Chairman of the Board of the Guaranty Trust Company, and a Director of the Long Island Railroad Company, the National Bank of Commerce, and twenty-six other corporations, said, when the question, "Do Directors direct?" was put to him:

"While an occasional awakening of Directors to their responsibilities may be salutary, I think that the present system of corporation management is as good as could be devised. I do not consider Directors mere figureheads. It is incumbent upon them to choose able and responsible men for the various committees and to serve as officers, and it is their duty to see that these commitees do their work properly. If a Director is conscientious he need by no means be a figurehead.

"Sometimes it occurs that a committee is composed largely of officers of the corporation, who by thus acting as a committee pass upon their own actions as officers. This of course is not a wise mode of organization, but it is far from the prevailing one in my judgment. A suggestion was made not long ago of employing Directors on salary, but such a scheme has obvious and vital defects, for it would be impossible then to obtain the men who now compose the boards of many of our important institutions, and their judgment, which is invaluable in directing matters of general policy, would thus be lost.

"Yes, a Director's duties mean more than attending meetings and listening to the reading of the minutes. Although the committees do the actual work, as they properly should, the Directors must follow the company's business carefully enough to see that the committees do their work well. A Director should keep himself so disentangled that his judgment will be independent and unbiased on every matter that may come before him."

Charles T. Barney, President of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, is a Director in thirty-five corporations, the majority of them banking institutions. He said, when asked if he believed that Directors directed:

"Of course there is a question as to the numb r of corporations in which a man can serve and give a reasonable amount of attention to each, but that depends largely on the character of the institution.

"Just now there is a great deal of unjust criticism as to the management of large institutions. One cannot expect a man serving on a Board of Directors to pass in advance upon the detailed propositions which come up from day to day before the executive officers. In the first place the fee which a man accepts for serving as a Director wouldn't begin to compensate him for the time that would be required in carrying out any such conception of his duties; nor, as a matter of fact, is it adequate compensation for the time which he may spend in the regular meetings and in such advisory service as he may be able to give.

"But all this aside, the fact remains that if a Director tried to attend to the details of the business which is placed in the hands first of the executive officers and then of the Executive Committee, he would have no time left for his own affairs, and beyond that would be a constant interference and a positive drawback to the management of his company.

No Need to Change the System.

"At the monthly meetings which are held in most corporations and in others at the quarterly meetings the Directors have opportunity to pass upon what has been done, and if they disapprove they can ascertain the reasons for the act criticised and institute such other inquiries into the affairs of the corporation as they deem wise.

"The proposition resolves itself, in the event of such disapproval, into one of either changing the management or of getting out of the board yourself. No man is under obligation to stay in a company the acts of whose executive officers he does not approve. There are the periodical examinations of the company, and a Director has opportunity at such times to make sure that the examinations are faithfully and honestly performed and no pernicious condition can arise, without its being discovered by a Board of Directors that undertake to have these examinations properly conducted.

"I believe that in 99 out of 100 of the great corporations of this city the affairs are administered through the present system of delegated power with absolute integrity and the best intelligence which can be brought to bear. I do not therefore see the need of changing the system."

George W. Young, head of the banking firm of George W. Young & Co. and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, is a Director of forty-two corporations. He said yesterday, when his attention was called to Mr. Schiff's testimony:

"I think that in most conservative corporations any radical change of policy is acted upon by the Board of Directors before it is inaugurated. In a city like New York, however, the men who serve as Directors of the large institutions haven't time to give their personal attention to every proposition that comes up, and it would be, moreover, physically impossible to convene a board of twenty or thirty men every time a question arose such as is now passed on by the Executive Committee and officers. If a company attempted to do that the business would be gone before the full Board of Directors could pass on it; therefore it is necessary that Directors should delegate their powers to committees.

"In every well-regulated company the actions of the Executive Committee and the officers are reported at regular intervals, and every Director has the opportunity of approving or disapproving, so that the responsibility of directing is ultimately upon the Directors.

"For this situation I can see no relief, nor do I see the necessity for any relief, but I certainly do not believe that the management of the business and the safety of the assets of financial and other institutions need suffer by reason of this condition, provided one postulates such common honesty in the executive management as I believe exists in the vast majority of our great corporations."

United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, when asked at his house last night for his opinion as to whether Directors direct, said:

"I would have to be excused from discussing that subject now. I may have something to say about it later."

"How much later?" the reporter asked.

"Oh, a good deal later," said Senator Depew. "You see I am considerable of a Director myself."

The Senator laughed and the interview ended.

Acting in behalf of several policy holders of the New York Life Insurance Company, William Hoburn Russell has taken steps to compel John A. McCall and Vice President George W. Perkins of the company to restore to the corporation all moneys paid by them to political campaign funds.

Mr. Russell last night wrote to Attorney General Mayer and to the President and Board of Trustees of the New York Life. In these letters Mr. Russell says his firm represents Walter Goodyear, Lemuel D. Lilly, William Beverly Winslow, and other policy holders, and demands that the Trustees bring actions to compel Messrs. McCall and Perkins to restore the $150,000 contributed by them to the Republican campaign. In the event of non-compliance Mr. Russell notifies the Trustees that he will bring direct actions.

A statement issued by Mr. Russell in connection with the letters says that similar actions will be brought to recover the $235,000 placed in the hands of "Judge" Andrew Hamilton and expended by him.

TO MAKE WIFE DUTIFUL.

Rules by Woman Defendant Introduced In Divorce Action.

An action for divorce brought by William F. Powers, a printer, against Hortense Powers came on for trial before Justice Kelly, in Part I. of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon.

The parties in the action are well known in the Bay Ridge section. Mr. Powers is a member of the Crescent Athletic Club and a number of other social organizations. William M. Campbell, who is also a member of the Crescent Athletic Club, is named in the suit. Several letters, said to have been written by Mrs. Powers to Mr. Campbell, were introduced, and one of them contained the following "Rules to Make a Wife Dutiful."

If she is pretty, tell her so,
If she is saucy, kiss her,
If she is a good cook, commend her,
If she is lonely, stay home with her.

The trial will be continued to-day. Mrs. Powers denies the truth of her husband's charges.

A MERRY MONARCH IN A MERRY LAND

De Wolf Hopper Now Wanders in Elysian Fields.

De Wolf Hopper returned to New York last night. That is equivalent to saying that for some weeks to come the number of places where people may go and laugh will be augmented by one. For there is little doubt that the comedian's new vehicle, "Happyland," will be to the liking of most of the people who like him.

The number of such persons happens to be considerable, which, we take it, is a happy thing for Mr. Hopper, likewise for Mr. Rankin, who prepared the book, and Mr. De Koven, who takes upon himself the credit for the music. Not all of us are so constituted that we were able to laugh at everything that was laughed at in the Lyric Theatre last night, but few persons, we imagine, will fail to get more or less entertainment out of "Happyland."

As these things go it is more than ordinarily diverting. One does not look for brilliant sallies of wit and repartee in a show where, after all, even so popular a comedian as Mr. Hopper is secondary to the girls and the trappings. But it is refreshing to find an entertainment of the sort where there is some little progressiveness to the story and where the temptation is resisted to introduce all kinds of specialties, irrespective of their appropriateness to the scenes or the characters.

"Happyland" may not be quite comic opera, in the best sense of the word, but it may be fairly termed a "nearly comic opera." Indeed, it is perhaps nearer several comic operas than one or two persons would be willing to admit.

But, be that as it may, its music is agreeable and there are several numbers that will probably be whistled and sung all over town in a week. When one has said that one has, of course, said the most conventional thing that could be said. But one has also adhered to what, in such cases, is the only safe standard of measurement.

Mr. Hopper, as the King of Elysia, suddenly makes the astounding discovery that married people are never happy, and as he has grown tired of being always happy himself and seeing nothing but happiness about him, he arranges marriages for all the men and women of his court. He might have saved himself the trouble, for he—or his author—promptly forgets all about this expedient, and faces a new complication. The Monarch of Elysia has promised that his son shall marry the daughter of a neighboring monarch. But he has no son, and as may be surmised, he now determines to pass his daughter off as a boy. But here the librettist does make a departure.

The girl runs away before her father has carried out his purpose. In consequence the monarch suddenly discovers that life, even in Elysia, is not all one sweet song. It is not necessary to go into further detail.

Mr. Hopper in his broad, low comedy way manages to extract a good deal of fun from the various complications that follow. In this he has excellent assistance in William Danforth, who appears as the other monarch, and in Marguerite Clark, a dainty wisp of a woman who dances through the several scenes like a living moon fairyland.

Half a dozen numbers in each of the two acts won favor last night, but probably the greatest song hit of all will be "How I Love Flowers," sung by Mr. Hopper and Mr. Danforth. It was encored repeatedly. There is an excellent ensemble number at the end of the first act, sung with spirit by a large and good looking chorus.

"Happyland" has been staged judiciously and tastefully, its two scene pictures being exceptionally pleasing. The one at the opening of the second act, showing the Elysian Fields, is a particularly agreeable bit of color, and the grouping is excellent.

If you choose to call the mellow Irishman of Romance Edmund Burke, people may or may not believe you—but it will do no harm, and may bring showers of applause so long as you have Chauncey Olcott to play the part—to make love in rich brogue to a pretty girl with curls—to play with the children, to sing his songs to both, to fight and flout the villains and to say now a prayer and now a little joke. All this they had last night at the Majestic Theatre, and they did call it Edmund Burke and brought Oliver Goldsmith on the stage with the statesman—Oliver and Oliver's landlady. More, at one time they had pursed up in three chairs before the painted scene—pursed up, tied with cords, and gagged by hired ruffians—not only Mr. Burke and the pretty lady with the curls, (she was Edna Phillips and really played her part very prettily,) but his royal Highness Frederick, Prince of Wales, who, as the world knows, and as more than plainly appears in this particular piece, was no better than he should be.

For the Prince has beguiled the lady to the house. Mr. Burke, who loves her, has followed, sword in hand, and the ruffians, who have their own nefarious fish to fry, have netted all together.

There is a scene, of course, where Mr. Olcott makes love in a garden, another where he makes love in a garret. There is a scene in the same garret with a noble and angry father storming about, and the girl with the curls hidden in a high-backed chair around which she peeps coquettishly while she bestows ecstatic little pats upon Mr. Olcott, standing joyously by the chair. That by-play pleases mightily.

There is a scene, again, where Mr. Olcott and three little girls transform themselves into an Indian maid chorus, which is pleasing and funny—and there are scenes of the most intense tragedy also. For the secret of Mr. Chauncey Olcott's way with theatregoers is this: He knows, first, that all the world loves a lover; second, that all the world hates a villain; third, that all the world likes to laugh, and laughs very easily—even foolishly—in certain sentimental moods, and he plays frankly upon those three keys.

The play appears to supply an almost perfect medium for all Mr. Olcott's talents. That said, the public which knows Mr. Olcott knows already exactly what the play is like. Theodore Sayre is the author. The caste is quite good enough for the play.

WEBER'S A PLAYHOUSE NOW.

A Large Audience Sees "The Prince Chap" in the Former Music Hall.

What was once the Weber Music Hall became a legitimate playhouse last night, and under the title of the Joe Weber Theatre began a dramatic season with "The Prince Chap" as the attraction. Manager Walter Lawrence decided to move "The Prince Chap," which has been having a successful run at the Madison Square, rather than to put on a new production. Last night's performance went without a hitch, and a large audience came to enjoy the novelty of a play in the old music hall.

"The Crossing" on the Stage.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—Winston Churchill's novel, "The Crossing," made into a play by Winston Churchill and Louis Evan Shipman, was produced at the Euclid Avenue Opera House here to-night. Mr. Blair, Miss Bert, Miss Houk, Mr. Lawrence, and others of the company made individual hits and the audience was liberal in its applause for the play.

MISS RUSSELL AT PROCTOR'S.

Vaudeville Patrons Take Kindly to the Comic Opera Favorite.

It was indeed a gala day at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre yesterday, where Lillian Russell appeared in vaudeville. The management had nothing to complain of, for the house was packed and the audience seemed to take very kindly to Miss Russell. There was plenty of applause, and not a few who came to greet the singer brought flowers, and her ten weeks' engagement started off auspiciously.

At each of the two performances Miss Russell sang four songs, three of which were listed on the programme, with the fourth as an encore. The encore song seemed to find special favor. The songs were "L'Amoresque" by Bergere, "Napoli" by Edwards, "Your Kiss" by Gottschalk, and "If a Girl Like You Loved a Boy Like Me," by Edwards.

The management had announced that Miss Russell had provided herself with twenty new gowns for the engagement. The one she wore yesterday was of exquisite design. Her jewels consisted of a chrysanthemum of pearls with a diamond-crusted stem, a large turquois surrounded with diamonds, and a rope of pearls. The stage setting represented a palace, the colors in cream and silver, hung with heavy cherry plush curtains.

A good bill was provided, in keeping with the star attraction. Josephine Cohan and her company appeared in a new sketch by Will Cressy, entitled "Friday, the Thirteenth," which made a hit. Others were Fred Niblo, three Crane Brothers, Macart's monkeys, and the four Vernons.

Shuberts May Get Montauk.

No announcement was made yesterday as to the decision reached by the city in regard to which theatrical manager had obtained control of the old Montauk Theatre in Brooklyn. It was, however, commonly reported that the Shuberts doubtless would soon add it to their chain of independent theatres.

AT THE THEATRES YESTERDAY.

Adele Ritchie was the star attraction at Hammerstein's Victoria. Her act consists of singing a number of popular songs. Among other entertainers were Ye Colonial Septette, Mirlan's dogs, Reno and Richards, and Ford Brothers.

The race between the Philadelphia crew and the Leander crew of London, which took place on the River Thames, is one of the features of the cinematograph pictures at the Eden Musee.

"The Duchess of Dantzic," with Evie Greene and Holbrook Blinn, opened a week's engagement at the Harlem Opera House last night. There were only a few changes from the production of last year, when the musical comedy had such a successful run at Daly's.

There were two special attractions on the bill at Keith's—Kern's mimic dog and the three Seldons in reproductions of statuary. Others were Bloom and Coopsr, George Monroe, Stuart Barnes, and Rice and Cady.

"The Maid and the Mummy" returned to the city last evening at the Grand Opera House.

Henry F. Houdini, the handcuff king, who says he is able to break any kind of manacle, was the leading top-liner at the Colonial. Alf Shean and Charles Warren, Bruno and Russell, and the three Foscarys also occupied important positions on the programme.

"The Ninety and Nine," a popular melodrama that has seen a number of seasons, was the offering at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. The railroad scene produced the usual number of thrills.

Ernest Hogan and his twenty-five Memphis Students were the head-liners at Hurtig & Seamon's. The remainder of the bill included Varita Day, Hallen and Fuller, Hoey and Lee, Zinka King company, Therese Dorgeval, Hayes and Healy, and Niblo and Reilly.

"All the Comforts of Home" was the revival of the Yorkville Theatre stock company. Byron Douglss and Henrietta Brown were in the leading roles.

West and Vokes began a week's engagement at the Murray Hill yesterday afternoon in the popular vehicle, "Heir of Pinks." Mr. West is a newcomer, replacing Mr. Ward as a member of the team.

At the Third Avenue "After Midnight," a sensational melodrama, was the attraction. The audience seemsd to find sufficient opportunity for clamorous enthusiasm.

Ephraim Thompson's elephants were the special attractions at Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre. Billy Clifford was also on the programme and presented his new musical farce, "The Jolly Baron."

The four Mortons in "Breaking Into Society" entertained the patrons of the West End last evening. The comedy was written by Lee Arthur and Robert B. Smith, and the musical numbers by Gus Edwards.

One of the stranded McCaddon's Circus Americans tells her tale of woe this week in the Curio Hall of Huber's Museum. Assisting her as an entertainer is John Middlesy, the Indian giant.

At the Alhambra Valerie Berger and her company presented a condensed version of "Carmen," in which role ths actress won the favor of the audience. Others were "The Girl from Coney Island" and Ryan and Richfield.

At the Metropolis "The Beauty Doctor," filled as a musical comedy, began a week's run. The piece was produced a week ago at a downtown playhouse.

"Squirs Kate" was revived by the stock company at Proctor's 125th Street Theatre, with Jessie Bonstelle and William J. Kelley in the principal parts.

The New York Stars held the boards at this Circle yesterday. The vaudeville programme included the Majestic Four, Faust Trio, and Raymond and Clark.

"The Curse of Drink" was the melodramatic attraction at the New Star. The play is a railroad production.

"She Dared Do Right" is the title of the play that began a week's engagement at the American last evening.

F. F. Proctor's "All Star" Fifth Avenue Theatre stock company appeared yesterday in Bronson Howard's "One of Our Girls." Amelia Bingham played the role of Kate Shipley, created by Helen Dauvray, while Charles Richman was cast for the role of Capt. John Gregory. Gertruds Coghlan, J. H. Gilmour, Charles Dickson, William Norton, Gerald Griffen, Geoffrey Stein, Mathilde Deshon, and Ralph Locke completed the cast. The piece was staged with effective settings.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Shuberts have decided to cut the prices in half for both Wednesday and Saturday matinées at the Lyric Theatre. This arrangement will be adhered to not only during the engagement of De Wolf Hopper in "Happyland," but throughout the entire season.

For their Drury Lane spectacle, "The White Cat," which will be seen at the New Amsterdam Theatre on Oct. 30, Klaw & Erlanger have secured the Ercolles Troupe of Castilian Dancers and Troubadours of the Theatra National, Madrid.

"John Bull's Other Island," to be produced in this country by Arnold Daly and his company, will be presented at the Garrick Theatre next Tuesday evening, Oct. 10, instead of Monday evening, Oct. 16.

Sarah Bernhardt's engagement in New York will begin on Monday evening, Nov. 20, at the Lyric Theatre. It is to be limited to two weeks, the shortest time that the great French actress has ever played in the metropolis.

The Bralow & Powers herds of elephants returned to the Hippodrome yesterday. Their trainers exhibited them in a series of new tricks, some of which are said to have never before been duplicated.

SPEIR—VANDERBILT.

Daughter of Aaron Vanderbilt Married to Louis Dean Speir.

At the home of the bride's parents, at Westhampton, L. I., Lilian Vanderbilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Vanderbilt, and Louis Dean Speir of South Orange, were married yesterday by the Rev. George W. Osmon.

The bride is related to the Vanderbilt family. Her father was born on Staten Island and served through the civil war in the navy. Upon retiring from active service he became interested in shipping, promoted the establishment of the naval militia, and became manager of the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company.

Mr. Speir is Secretary and Director of several land and investment companies and a Director of the Newtown Creek Terminal Company. He is a member of the Princeton Club, and resides in South Orange.

THIS want ad appeared only once in the Riviera Sun:

WANTED, LADIES, TO CONDUCT.—An amatsur automobilist (English, titled) who drives his own motor-car accommodating five persons, offers to conduct two or three ladies, Americans preferred, to any picturesque centres in Europe which they may desire to visit. Car has capacity for carrying small luggage, and is of best type. Journeys of about 100 miles a day. Novel and delightful way of traveling; owner of car well up in history, art, and architecture, of different countries. Inclusive terms five guineas a day each, or slight reduction made for extensive trip. Address X. Y. Z., Chalet des Pins, Cap Martin.

There were several replies, but the first one resulted in the most brilliant and romantic love story of the season, "My Friend the Chauffeur," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, authors of "The Lightning Conductor," and "The Princess Passes," published by McClure's.

YACHT CUPS EXHIBITED.

Trophies Won by the Atlantic Are in Black, Starr & Frost's Window.

The two cups, or more properly vases, won by Wilson Marshall with the yacht Atlantic and presented to him for his victories by the German Emperor, were put on exhibition in the show window of Black, Starr & Frost, Thirty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, yesterday.

The most important trophy, the cup for the ocean race from New York to the Lizard, stands with its pedestal 44 inches in height. It is of silver-gilt and was designed by the Kaiser and executed under the supervision of workmen especially selected by him. It is of graceful design, the handles being in the form of mermaids and the top being surmounted with a laurel wreath. In the centre of the cup is a medallion of the Emperor in silver which stands out boldly against the background of gilt. The cup bears this inscription:

Presented by His Imperial Majesty
the German Emperor.
Ocean Race, New York to The Lizard.
Won by Atlantic.
12 days 4 hours 1 minute 19 seconds.
Wilson Marshall, Owner.

The second trophy is a magnificent vase of Royal Berlin pottery, decorated with pastoral scenes and of the highest type of the potter's and painter's art. It was made in the royal potteries, owned by the Kaiser, and was on exhibition at the Paris and World's Fairs and again at St. Louis. It is 43 inches high. It was awarded to the yachtsman for his victory with the Atlantic in the special race for auxiliaries from Dover to Heligoland. Each of the cups is valued at $5,000.

WHAT IS DOING IN SOCIETY.

With the racing again to the fore at Belmont Park many fashionable people are flocking thither from resorts other than those on Long Island, and Alfred Vanderbilt and Robert L. Gerry are running their coach from the Holland House to the track. Monson Morris had the Venturo yesterday.

Mrs. Marshall C. Lefferts has been visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Chesley Richardson, at Lenox for the last two weeks, and her daughter, Miss Mollie Cozzine Lefferts, has been the guest of Miss Aleid Schenck at Valleyhead.

Miss Elizabeth Metcalf Allen, whose marriage to Louis Albert de Cazenove, Jr., of Virginia is set for Oct. 10, will have as her attendants Miss Martha Perry Rockwell, daughter of Charles Bristed Rockwell of Bristol, R. I., as maid of honor. Her bridesmaids are to be Miss Pauline de Cazenove Jones of New York, a cousin of Mr. de Cazenove; Miss Blanche Millard of Michigan, Miss Charlotte Smart and Miss Matilda Hoffman Roberts of Flushing, L. I. Maurice du Pont Lee of Washington, D. C., is to be the best man, and the ushers chosen are James O'H. de Cazenove of Virginia, Cazenove Gardner Lee of Washington, Norman B. Beecher of Brooklyn, nephew of the late Henry Ward Beecher; Clarkson Abel Collins, Jr., and P. M. Neave of New York, and Harris King Murray of Flushing. Miss Metcalf is the only daughter of Dr. William Augustus Allen and Mrs. Allen of Flushing.

To-day at Roslyn, L. I., there will be the wedding, in the Stowe house taken by the Babcocks, of Miss Alice Babcock and Henry Rogers Winthrop. The Rev. Dr. Stires will officiate. Mrs. Nannie Langhorne Shaw will be the matron of honor and Frederic Kernochan the best man. The ushers are to include James H. Hyde, Julian A. Ripley, Asbbel Barney, and Samuel D. Babcock. A breakfast for some 400 guests will follow the ceremony. After their bridal trip, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop will spend the Winter at the Renaissance, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Tilford will give a dance later in the month at Tuxedo for their daughter, Miss Katherin R. Tilford.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Jr., are due in town to-day. They purpose spending the Winter at their Carolina country place, as their town house is being done over.

Gen. F. D. Grant and Mrs. Grant have been the guests at Lenox of Miss Furniss.

Mrs. Francis H. Leggett is giving a house party at Stony Ridge in honor of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Montagu. The latter will sail in a few days for England.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rhinelander have gone to Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant B. Schley announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Evelyn B. Schley, to Max W. Behr of Morristown, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer Johnson and Miss Grace Ruggles are due here from abroad to-morrow. They sailed for Europe in June.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—There will be showers Tuesday in New England and the south portion of the Gulf States. It will be cooler Tuesday in the Atlantic States and warmer in the Central Valleys.

The winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coast will be light to fresh southwest to west; on the South Atlantic Coast light and variable; on the East Gulf Coast light and variable, becoming east.

Steamers departing Tuesday for European ports will have light to fresh southwest to west winds, with partly cloudy weather to the Grand Banks.

New England, partly cloudy Tuesday, showers in eastern portion, cooler in western portion; Wednesday fair, light westerly winds.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Delaware, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania, partly cloudy and cooler Tuesday; Wednesday fair, light southwest to west winds, becoming variable.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

E. T. NICHOLS, Secretary.

New York, October 2, 1905.

TO THE HOLDERS OF

First Preferred, Second Preferred and Common Stock

OF THE

ERIE RAILROAD COMPANY

On September 20, 1905, the Board of Directors authorized the issue of $12,000,000 of the Four Per Cent. Convertible Gold Bonds of the Erie Railroad Company secured by its General Mortgage dated April 1, 1903, for the purpose, among other things as specified in said mortgage, of acquiring more than a majority of the shares of common capital stock of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway Company.

These new convertible bonds are to be designated as Series B. The bonds are to be dated October 1, 1905, maturing April 1, 1953, with interest payable semi-annually on April 1 and October 1, and at the option of the holder they are to be convertible at par into common stock of the Company at $60 per share, at any time after two years and before twelve years from the date of the bonds. Their issue has been authorized by the Board of Railroad Commissioners, to whom application will be made to authorize the stock increase necessary for such conversion.

The General Mortgage authorizes the issue of $50,000,000 convertible bonds. $10,000,000 of such bonds (designated as Series A and convertible into common stock of the Company at 50 as therein stated) have heretofore been issued and appropriated as proposed in the Erie Circular to stockholders dated February 16, 1903. Upon the issue of the $12,000,000 Series B bonds above described, the total amount outstanding under the said General Mortgage will be $22,000,000. The General Mortgage covers the railroad, property, and franchises of the Erie Railroad Company therein described, and also will cover the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railway stock acquired with proceeds of the Series B bonds.

There is now offered to the registered stockholders of the Erie Railroad Company on October 21, 1905, a preferential opportunity ratably to subscribe for and to take the $12,000,000 Series B bonds at par and accrued interest. The Company has entered into a contract with Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., as Managers of an Underwriting Syndicate (in which themselves and other members of the Board of Directors are included), whereby the Underwriting Syndicate, for a commission of 2½ per cent. of the par amount of said $12,000,000 Series B bonds, has agreed to take any and all of said $12,000,000 Series B bonds which shall not be taken by the stockholders under this offer.

For the purpose of determining the right to subscribe to said bonds, the stock transfer books of the Company will be closed at three o'clock P. M. on October 21, 1905, and will be reopened November 15, 1905, at ten o'clock A. M.

Only stockholders registered as such on the transfer books on October 21, 1905, will be entitled to subscribe for the Series B bonds. Holders of First Preferred, Second Preferred, or Common Stock will be entitled to subscribe for $6.75 of the Series B bonds for each $100 par value of stock registered in their name. Suitable subscription warrants will be issued to each stockholder specifying the amount of bonds to which such stockholder is entitled to subscribe.

Payments for the Series B bonds are to be made in full on or before November 27, 1905, at par and accrued interest. The privilege of subscription may be sold in whole or in part, and the warrants will bear an appropriate form of assignment for this purpose.

No subscription or assignment thereof will be recognized unless made on the warrants furnished by the Company.

Stockholders residing in Great Britain or Europe may make their subscription and payment at the office of Messrs. J. S. Morgan & Co., 22 Old Broad Street, London, E. C., England, who are authorized to receive the same for transmission to New York at a rate of exchange of which due notice will be given.

Holders of Stock Trust Certificates must exchange the same for Stock Certificates so as to be able to subscribe.

By order of the Board of Directors.
ERIE RAILROAD COMPANY,
By F. D. UNDERWOOD, President.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

GATES ASKS FOR PROXIES.

New Republic Iron Call Leaves President Thompson's Name Off.

In addition to the proxies sent out some days ago to the stockholders of the Republic Iron and Steel Company in the names of Alexis W. Thompson, Grant B. Schley, Charles S. Guthrie, John W. Gates, and Harry Rubens, another proxy has been sent to the stockholders in the names of three of the men named in the first proxy. Both are to be used at the annual meeting on Oct. 18. The names in the second proxy are John W. Gates, Grant B. Schley, and Charles S. Guthrie. A Director of the company said that while aware of the fact that two proxies had been issued, the first one by the management with five names, and a second sent out by three of the men named in the management's proxy, he was unable to explain the reason for the issuance of the second.

For some time it has been understood that John W. Gates and his friends held a controlling interest in the company, and recently it was reported that a plan was afoot to oust Mr. Thompson as President of the company. One theory in regard to the second proxy was that it was intended to replace Mr. Thompson at the annual meeting, but that the majority of the proxy committee preferred to take this action individually, rather than submit it to a committee of which Mr. Thompson was a member. It was pointed out that the men named in the second proxy were a majority of the original proxy committee, and could if they chose control the meeting by outvoting the other two members of the committee.

REPORT ON GINNED COTTON.

Census Bureau Issues One of a New Series of Estimates.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The Census Bureau to-day issued a bulletin showing the quantity of cotton ginned from the growth of 1905, to Sept. 25, to be 2,358,031 bales.

These figures were compiled from telegraphic reports of special agents of the Bureau who have canvassed the ginneries of the various States and territories, and the report is one of a series which will be issued regularly hereafter until the completion of the ginning of the crop of 1905. It is earlier than any made in 1904, rendering comparison impossible.

In this report two round bales have been counted as the equivalent of one square bale. The number of round bales included is 72,196.

Sales of Bank Stock.

Financial Notes.

W. R. Craig, formerly of W. C. Craig & Co., Vicksburg, Miss., and J. C. C. Meyerkort of J. Meyerkort, Moscow, Russia, have formed a partnership under the name of Craig & Meyerkort. They will do a cotton commission and brokerage business at 27 William Street.

Jackson H. Becker and Montaign M. Sterling, who have been in the bond business with William S. Fanshawe, and later with Harvey Fisk & Sons, have opened a brokerage business at 18 Wall Street.

Frank S. Thomas, Clinton M. Hall, and George E. Barstow, Jr., have formed a partnership under the name of Thomas, Hall & Barstow, at 24 Nassau Street.

Edmund O. Trowbridge, R. J. Furbeck, and Cameron Blaikie have formed a new firm. Mr. Furbeck is the Exchange member.

The statement of the earnings of the American Car and Foundry Company for the quarter ended July 31 last shows net earnings of $625,311 and a surplus of $100,311 after the payment of the dividend on the preferred stock. The total surplus as of July 31, not including August and September earnings, was $12,505,746.

Charles Minzesheimer & Co. present some very interesting ideas in a brochure just issued on preferred stocks, both railroads and industrials. There is a long list of preferred railroad stocks that yield anywhere from 4½ to nearly 6 per cent. on their market prices, compared with common stocks of the same and other corporations yielding less than 4 per cent. on the money investment at current quotations. It is rather a significant showing.

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

The Curb Stocks, Even Chicago Subway, Dull.

Standard Oil Spurts—Greene Stocks Heavily Traded In—Interborough Loses at the Last—Japanese Bonds Strong.

The total sales of Chicago Subway yesterday reached only 5,700 shares; the movement was exceedingly dull, the opening price being 57 and the closing 56¼. Standard Oil developed unusual activity, rising swiftly from 640 to 651, and dropping back to 649 at the close. After holding its own in the early trading Interborough fell to 214 at 3 o'clock. Col. Greene's circular telling of his properties in Mexico caused unwonted activity in all the Greene stocks. Greene Copper closed at 26⅝. Japanese bonds hold strong at 90¼.

APPROVES BOND REFUND.

National City Bank Tells Why Mr. Shaw's Move Is Wise.

In its monthly circular the National City Bank deals with the refunding order issued by Secretary Shaw, and points out the extent to which the Government will profit by the refunding if all the bonds of the issues specified are exchanged for the 2 per cent. consols of 1930. The circular says:

In this reopening of refunding the logic of the situation has asserted itself. From every point of view the action is a wise one. The Secretary will save the Government approximately $3,712,000 should all the bonds be converted. Of course, that is not probable, but a sufficient amount of them are certain to be refunded, so that the saving to the Government will be very considerable. Of far more importance than this saving, however, is the forehanded provision which the Secretary has made to take care of these early maturing bonds and to avoid placing the Government in a corner at a late day, where it might be forced to provide for their redemption under circumstances less favorable than the present. The Secretary has had to face the fact that there will sooner or later be a necessity for floating a Panama bond issue and that there is small, if any, probability of the receipts in the next two or three years exceeding expenditures by any considerable amount. The Government, therefore, is not likely to be in a more favorable position to provide for the redemption or refunding of these early maturing bonds than at present. It would seem as if no wiser time could have been chosen for this action.

From the point of view of the banking institutions, too, the action is admirable. There are now outstanding $542,909,950 of twos, practically all of which are in the hands of banks; only $48,000,000 being held by individuals. The present supply of twos, it will be seen, therefore, has been practically fully utilized for banking purposes. The $238,000,000 of refundable bonds on the other hand are almost wholly in the hands of individual investors, only $35,000,000 of them being deposited to secure circulation or deposits. It is true that the action depresses, temporarily at least, the market price of the twos, and sharply enhances the market price of the refundable bonds, so that individual investors rather than bankers will profit by the change in market quotations. That is of minor importance, however, compared with the wisdom of enlarging the supply of twos, which are the only bonds profitably available for banking purposes. The mere fact that some $20,000,000 of the refundable bonds are already pledged for circulation, although the tax on circulation issued against these bonds is double the tax on circulation when secured by twos, is sufficient evidence of the meagreness of the supply of twos.

MONTH'S SURPLUS, $8,941,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The September statement of Government receipts and expenditures shows total receipts of $50,251,159; expenditures, $41,309,476; surplus, $8,941,000. The deficiency for the three months of the fiscal year is $9,574,000. In September, 1904, the surplus was $6,000,000 and the three months' deficiency $17,857,000.

Receipts from customs last month were $27,244,147, a gain of $4,000,000; internal revenue, $20,797,680, gain $856,000; and miscellaneous, $2,209,331, a loss of $963,870, as compared with a year ago. The expenditures last month were $860,000 in excess of those for September, 1904, the principal increase being for public works.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call on Stock Exchange collateral loaned at 5@6 per cent., with the last loan at 5½ per cent. Most of the day's business was done at 5½ per cent.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The large requirements of money in the market to-day were met, bankers being free lenders with the month turn. Although repayments are due to the Bank of England in the next two days, the market will be well supplied by Government distributions of dividends. In the meantime the demand for bar gold for the Continent and America continues. Discounts hardened.

Trading on the Stock Exchange opened quiet and became rather more active with the cessation of the liquidation in mines. Consols were steady.

Americans improved in response to New York, mostly to a fraction over parity. Union Pacific and United States Steel were the features. Trading was fairly active and prices closed quite steady.

Kafirs were buoyant on Paris buying. Rhodesians were maintained. Chartered leading.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Madrid, 30.55; Lisbon, 4.50.

The amount of bullion taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day was £5,000.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Market Firm; Call Money, 5@6 Per Cent.

Prices Helped by Bank Statement and Further Gold Imports—Cotton Breaks.

While the mystery concerning the entirely unexpected gain in cash which led to increased surplus reserves by the banks on Saturday was no whit clearer yesterday than before the fact that such an increase had been effectual, coupled with the failure of call money to work above 6 per cent., with funds in abundance at 5½ per cent., was largely responsible for the strength exhibited by yesterday's stock market. There were reports during the day of heavy engagements of gold arriving in London, and, although these were unconfirmed until after the close of business and demand sterling held at a figure minimizing profits on regular importations, the knowledge that earlier imports were arranged near this level without apparent regard to exchange conditions had no little influence on sentiment. The day's reports were confirmed after the close of business, when it became known that $3,300,000 gold had been taken for import by the City Bank, which has been the heaviest importer of the metal. This is the largest individual engagement of the present movement, and while it will not appear in the bank return of the present week, it will be effective in that of next week, when further accretions may also be recorded. The banks have already lost $1,500,000 to the Sub-Treasury.

The market opened strong and active. Advances in prices were made under heavy buying, although in some cases, especially Southern Pacific, this was not altogether convincing. Later there were fractional reactions under profit-taking, but a fair share of the gains had been retained at the close. The shares of the minor iron and steel companies and several of the high-priced issues, including Great Northern, Delaware and Hudson, and Consolidated Gas were the features of the trading, although substantial gains and heavy trading took place in Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Reading, and Rock Island.

An incident of importance was the publication of the Government's estimate of the amount of cotton ginned up Sept. 25, although this was deprived of much value by the fact that last year's estimate carried the statistics up to Oct. 18. An exact comparison of the two years is not possible, therefore, but the estimate of 2,358,031 bales shows that the average daily outturn of each gin is the same this year as last, some 5½ bales. The force of this reasoning appealed to the Cotton Exchange, where prices broke sharply, although some of the losses were partly recovered later. The Government's report to-day on the condition of the crop is expected to show a position a trifle above the ten-year average at the period reported. Statements of earnings for the month of August included those of the Louisville and Nashville and Big Four, which reported decreases in net of $179,000 and $5,000 respectively, and the Atlantic Coast Line, which gained $60,000.

WHISKY TRUST REPORT.

Decrease in Net Profits Caused by the Spirit Market.

The net receipts of the Distillers' Securities Company have fallen off $7,956,716, according to the report for the year ended June 30, which was issued yesterday. Expenses decreased $8,005,471 and the gross receipts increased $48,752. The surplus amounts to $5,977,863, an increase of $2,009,963 in three years. In his report President Curley says:

With the exception of the spirit branch, all other departments of the company have shown an increase in net profits. The condition of the spirit market accounts for the difference in gross receipts for the year, compared with those of the preceding year, and also accounts for the slightly decreased net profits. As has been heretofore stated, spirits constitute the raw product. They are an entirely different commodity from rye and bourbon whiskies, the manufacture and sale of which form the more important and profitable part of our business.

The report says that the plants have been kept up to a high standard of efficiency. The value of the investment securities is $4,315,518. The total issue of outstanding bonds amounts to $15,999,960.

The general balance sheet as of June 30 compares as follows:

Cumberland Valley Election.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Oct. 2.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company, held here to-day, President A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was unanimously elected to the Presidency, to succeed the late Thomas B. Kennedy. General Manager M. C. Kennedy, who has been acting as President since his father's death, will continue in charge of the affairs of the road.

Swift & Company's sales of Fresh Beef in New York City for the week ending Saturday, Sept. 30, averaged 6¼ cents per pound.—Adv.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

On May 13, 1904, United States Steel common sold at 8⅜. The highest point of the entire recovery so far was reached yesterday, when the stock sold at 38¾. It is now approaching the level on which the original distribution was made in 1901. Steel preferred has been selling for several months above the level on which it was originally distributed. It reached a new high record price last August, when it sold at 105¾. It sold yesterday at 105½. On this movement the common stock has been advancing more rapidly than the preferred, the preferred stock having failed so far to go beyond the high point of last August, while the common has passed its previous high mark. The reason is that speculative interest at the present time converges almost entirely upon the common stock, in which daily transactions exceed by four or five times the volume of those in the preferred stock. The high point for Steel common last week was 38⅛, and at that quotation there was a great deal of stock for sale yesterday. The supply was at length exhausted, and the further advance to 38¾ was easily accomplished. The stock closed at 38⅜, showing a net gain of ¼ per cent. It may seem to some persons that a great ado is made over fractional fluctuations in Steel common, but owing to the great volume of the stock it is perhaps the heaviest single body in the whole market, and a fraction sometimes means more in Steel common than 1 per cent. would mean in another stock.

The indifference with which the general public has responded in a speculative sense to this movement in Steel common is a striking example of that apathy which is almost the despair of brokers. Never before has a sustained bull movement such as this in Steel common failed to create a certain amount of genuine public enthusiasm. If a broker were asked to name the stock which more than any other he would like to see turned to the bull side of the market for the sake of influencing outside sentiment favorably he would instantly indicate Steel common, for he would know by experience that a bull campaign in that stock should inspire confidence and produce commissions. On this occasion, however, the commission house public so far has remained unmoved. Brokers are unable to report any material increase of business traceable to the strength of the Steel stocks or to anything else. The public simply is not trading, and what hitherto has been the most popular inducement fails to break down its prejudices, whatever they may be.

Brokers have been struck by the increasing number of clients who say as a reason for not entering the market that in their judgment prices are already high. "People are coming to me constantly," said a representative broker yesterday, "saying that they have been told on excellent authority to buy this or that, and when I say, 'Well, shall you buy some of it?' they object that it seems pretty high and go out without doing anything. The only people in my office who are doing anything are the professionals who think that the tape says a stock is going up or down, and who jump in either way for quick turns. We are doing absolutely nothing in a speculative way for our out-of-town people. They cannot be induced to enter the market. They all say that prices are too high. They might buy on a break in prices. I think we should be surprised to know how many people want a break on which to buy stocks."

***

Prices are never too high for the man who is in stocks. Only those who are out of the market and want to be in complain that prices are high.

***

"I cannot but believe," said an experienced operator yesterday, "that those who are handling this market have made a mistake in refusing to let prices go off, if for no other reason than to satisfy the very pronounced demand on the part of commission houses for a good reaction. Many brokers tell me that their people would buy stocks on a good reaction in prices, or at least that they would have been inclined to do so. It remains to be seen whether they can be induced to come in without a reaction. I find that distrust of the market has been somewhat increased in conservative quarters by this recent exhibition of strength in the face of a troubled money market. The average man says to himself: 'What shall I infer from this? Here the market has been kept strong when by all reason it should have suffered a setback. Does it mean that the interests who have been keeping it strong intend to begin a distributive campaign as soon as money is easy again?' I find that I am asking myself those questions. I confess that I do not understand the market."

***

A bear says that if the so-called big interests were anxious to acquire stocks they would hardly be bending all their energies to the work of keeping money accessible to Wall Street borrowers so that others also might buy stocks.

***

The Boston attack was evidently postponed. What if the bull contingent should discover that it has the Boston crowd on its side of the market!

***

***

The manipulation in Southern Pacific yesterday forenoon was extremely interesting. The stock was one of the most prominent bull features of the market in the early trading. It first advanced 1 per cent. on heavy trading to 70½. The highest matched orders, apparently, were kept at 70½, while bona fide business was being done at 70⅜, thus: 3,500 shares at 70½, 1,400 shares at 70⅜, 1,200 shares at 70½, 400 shares at 70⅜, 2,000 shares at 70½, 200 shares at 70⅜, &c. The stock closed at 70⅜. The crowd operating on the long side of Southern Pacific has handled the market in a manner deserving of admiration. It has been a good market to trade in, and hence the movement has attracted a great deal of professional activity. Jacob Field has been one of the most aggressive factors on the bull side of the stock recently. On yesterday's advance he was reported to be bidding furiously for it in lots of 10,000 shares and less. Mr. Keene also is believed to have been active in the stock. His operations, of course, have not been conducted in the open as Field's have. The impression on the floor yesterday among sharp traders was that Field was selling more stock than he bought.

***

Brooklyn Rapid Transit, in which there has been an active bull speculation, was distinctly heavy yesterday, and closed at a decline.

***

The Western crowd is still committed to the bull side of the market, or at least avows that position in its advices to its following.

***

A singular display of so-called specialties was made yesterday. Among those paraded were Cast Iron Pipe, American Linseed, Union Bag and Paper, National Enameling and Stamping, American Agricultural Chemical, American Cotton Oil, Distillers' Securities and Sloss-Sheffield.

***

The scarcest stock in the loan crowd is St. Paul. It was borrowed yesterday morning for delivery before 2:15 P. M. at a concession of 3 per cent. from the ruling rate for call money. In the afternoon it loaned at a concession of about 1 per cent. from the money rate. This demand has been in evidence for several weeks, and begins to attract a good deal of attention. The short interest is supposed to represent a technical market position rather than an actual bear account in the stock.

***

Boston has been very bullish recently on all copper stocks, and a fairly active New England speculation in that group of securities has at length been got under way.

***

Rock Island common became more active yesterday and was strong. There is some anxiety to know if the Moore crowd is likely to make a movement in it. Rock Island will probably move with the market. It has never been the way of the Moore people to make monuments of their stocks.

INCREASE IN CIRCULATION.

Total of National Banknotes on Sept. 30 Was $516,352,240.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The monthly circulation statement issued by the Controller of the Currency to-day shows that at the close of business on Sept. 30 the total circulation of National bank notes was $516,352,240, an increase for the year of $60,272,832, and for the month of $4,131,873.

The amount of circulation based on United States bonds was $481,688,525, an increase for the year of $59,673,810, and for the month of $2,902,361. The circulation secured by lawful money aggregated $34,663,714, an increase for the year of $599,022 and for the month of $1,229,512. The amount of bonds on deposit to secure circulation was $484,352,390, and to secure public deposits $66,110,300.

GERMAN BANK RATE RISE.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—A meeting of the Central Committee of the Imperial Bank of Germany has been called for to-morrow forenoon for the purpose of advancing the rate of discount. It is assumed on the Boerse that the advance will be to 5 per cent., making an increase of fully 1 per cent. There are two reasons for this—the recent advance in the rate of the Bank of England and the extraordinary pressure upon the Imperial Bank at the end of last week and to-day. The bank's return, to be issued to-morrow, is expected to show the heaviest outgo in the history of the institution.

Loans to Oct. 15 commanded 6 per cent. this morning, but dropped later to 5½ per cent. A lower drop of an eighth in private discount was due to the heavy operations of one of the principal banks which offered money freely, thereby hoping to prevent a further advance in the official rate.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—The local money market is unchanged. The usual table of rates, &c., follows: Call loans, 4½@5 per cent.; time loans, collateral, 4¼@5 per cent.; time loans, mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent. Clearing House loans, 4 per cent.; New York funds, 8c. discount. Clearings, $20,742,675. balances, $2,001,475. Sub-Treasury debit, $115,103.

The weekly statement of the associated National banks of Boston follows:

N. Y. excess	6,380,571	2,004,143	24,936,429

The week starts with a very active copper share market. Opening prices were strong, with the activity spread throughout almost the whole list. The stocks that have recently been the leaders are still active, and new ones are coming to the front.

North Butte was a feature, advancing nearly 5 points to 53¾, a new high record, and balance of list nearly all showed good gains. Profit-taking was to be seen on the advance, but the demand continued excellent until the close, although at recessions from the highest.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 2.—The local money market is developing a firmer tendency. The stiffening in the rate is regarded due to the decrease in loanable funds incident to the steady outflow of money in payment for rebuilding operations in the district. The accumulations for this purpose from insurance and other sources gave Baltimore banks considerable difficulty to find employment for the plethora of funds that they had in hand, and large amounts were temporarily put into investment bonds. The hardening in the money rate attracted considerable attention to-day, when several trust companies advanced all loans to 5 per cent. There were others who had 4 per cent. money out and they put it up to 4½ per cent. Banks generally had the latter rate. The firmer rate is not looked upon with disfavor.

The local market has done very little of late even with a very easy money rate and the brisker demand for money is apt to produce more active trading. Prices of securities were inclined to harden to-day but the trading was dull. There were fractional gains in Western Maryland and Seaboard 4s, which sold ex coupon. The close was steady.

Shares, 1,228; bonds, $78,000.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—New York exchange was 20 cents discount. Time and call loans, 4@5 per cent.

Business on the local Exchange to-day was given over almost wholly to continued activity in Boxboard issues. The pool which has followed the movements of insiders seemingly tried to take a few profits in the preferred stock, for the price of that issue slipped off from the new top level of 15¾ to 13@13⅞. Developments such as are known point to the speedy closing of trade agreements of the principal concerns in the boxboard business.

Although President A. M. Wheeler returned to La Salle Street to-day, practically nothing was done in Subway stock. Locally only 100 shares changed hands during the morning, and that was at 56. Later the stock eased to 55½, but closed at 56. In other stocks business was small. Swift's sold as low as 108. Brick sold off to around 62, because of the developments of fresh competition.

Iron Sand Held Dutiable at 45 Per Cent.—Other Decisions.

In a decision by I. F. Fischer, the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled claims made by Austin, Baldwin & Co., the Stone & Downer Company, and others regarding the rate of duty applicable to so-called iron sand. The Collector assessed duty at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem under the provision in the Dingley tariff for articles of iron. Many claims were filed by the importers relative to the classification of the sand, but none of the protests was considered by the board as possessing merit.

Mr. Fischer also wrote a decision for the board denying claims made by the International Harvester Company of Chicago. It appears that the Collector of Customs levied duty at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem on carriers for harvesters on the ground that they are manufactures of metal. The importer set up the claim that the carrier should be admitted at 20 per cent., the rate provided for harvesters. In overruling the contention, the board says there is no provision in the tariff law covering parts of harvesters, and the articles must therefore stand the higher rate.

Other importers' claims overruled were filed by G. Hirsch's Sons, M. Doob, Sons & Co. and others, New York; Alexander Eger, Chicago, and John Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

The board partially sustained claims filed by the Royal Metal Manufacturing Company, L. H. Mace & Co., New York, Wolf & Co., O. G. Hempstead & Son, and F. B. Vandegrift & Co., Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—Cambria Steel and Lehigh Valley had a neck-and-neck race in this market for the active leadership, and the first-named won out by a small margin. The buying was on an exceptionally heavy scale, and by the most important houses in the Street, but notwithstanding these facts, prices advanced only fractionally, so heavy were profit-taking sales.

Lehigh Valley, however, made a new high record—75¼—while Cambria Steel reached its highest of the year. Talk of increased dividends was heard on both stocks. The buying of Reading was regarded as "good," as was also that in Philadelphia Company. Pennsylvania Steel preferred advanced ½, Welshach 2½, the latter's 5 per cent. bonds 1½. American Cement, Consolidated Traction of New Jersey, Broad Top preferred, and Lake Superior Corporation were a trifle lower, while Fort Wayne and Wabash Traction preferred was down a point. Bonds were more active and firm.

THE COMMERCIAL WORLD

WHEAT.—In face of news that was considered more bearish than otherwise the wheat market yesterday by sheer bull force was advanced ¾@⅞c a bushel. Most of the supporting orders came from interests at Chicago, which have been identified with the bull side of the market for some time past. After the opening, which was a steady one, and slightly higher than Saturday, the market had a spell of weakness during which considerable long wheat came on the market, supplementing more or less pressure from the bear side. The market thus became oversold, and was sensitive to later activities by the bull contingent. Steady advances occurred during the afternoon, and the market closed at about highest figures of the day. Primary receipts were fully up to the recent average, amounting to 2,072,000 bushels, compared with 1,866,000 bushels a year ago. The visible supply on the other hand showing an increase of but 1,654,000 bushels, compared with an increase last year of 2,362,000 bushels, was a bullish factor at midday. World's shipments were reported by Broomhall to be 11,392,000 bushels, or 624,000 bushels more than the previous week. Liverpool cables closed ¼d net lower, but were stronger than at the opening. Paris was unchanged and Berlin ¾ mark lower. There was no export business reported. Weather conditions in the Northwest were favorable to the movement of wheat, and Northwest houses were among leading sellers at Chicago. Minneapolis reported a fair demand for cash wheat, and St. Louis also sold a lot of wheat to millers. A sharp decrease in the stock at Galveston led to conclusions that exports from that point would soon increase. At the close in New York No. 2 red wheat was quoted at 87⅝c, elevator, and 89⅛c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, 90⅜c, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, 91¼c, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—The corn market was inclined toward weakness, and only rallied when forced to do so as a matter of sympathy with the wheat upturn. Cables were partly ⅛d net lower, receipts were almost double those of last year, the weather was clearing through the West, and the visible supply increased 418,000 bushels. On the other hand the quantity on passage decreased 1,300,000 bushels, as compared with the previous week. The local market was more active than usual, and closed ⅛@¼c net lower, with an export business of 20 loads reported. No. 2 corn closed 58⅛c, elevator, and 59c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 60c, and No. 2 yellow, 60c, free on board, afloat.

COTTON.—The cotton market was nervous and irregular with trading active. Sales were estimated at 600,000 bales. Prices were very weak during the early session, but recovered part of the loss after the ginners' report and closed steady at a net decline of 2@10 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 1 point, but the market almost immediately weakened under aggressive bear pressure and active liquidation inspired by the depressing influence of further October notices and expectations that a bearish ginners' report at midday would be followed by a bearish October European report at noon yesterday. Reports that open cotton was being injured by rains in the Central belt fell flat, and a report published by the National Ginners' Association to the effect that the amount of cotton ginned to Sept. 25 was 29 per cent. less than last season and that the crop was probably 34 per cent. less had no appreciable influence. October was very weak during the forenoon and touched the lowest point that option has reached since the July bureau, selling at 10.16, or 18 points net lower. Later months at one time showed a loss of nearly as much, but rallied 5@6 points before midday on New Orleans bull support and covering. Following the census report, which showed that 2,358,031 bales had been ginned to Sept. 25, and which seemed disappointing to local bears, the market rallied to within a couple of points of last night's finals, and closed fairly steady, though sentiment during the late trading was very nervous in view of the bureau to-day and uncertainty as to the interpretation of the foreign trade of the census figures, for which there is no actual comparison with last year. Leading bulls construe the figures as favoring estimate of under 10,000,000 bales, while bears contend that the showing is very bearish.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 2.—Spot cotton, fair business doing; sales, 10,000 bales; speculation and export, 500 bales; American, 9,000 bales. Receipts, 14,000 bales, all American. Middling upland, 5.644. Futures opened steady, 1@2 points higher. Closed easy at a net decline of 8@10 points. October and October-November, 5.50; November-December, 5.54; December-January, 5.58; January-February, 5.61; February-March, 5.63; March-April, 5.65; April-May, 5.67; May-June, 5.68; June-July and July-August, 5.69. Manchester—Yarns dull; cloths quiet but steady.

COFFEE.—The coffee market was somewhat irregular, but showed a steady undertone in the main. The opening was unchanged to 5 points higher, the gains being on late months. During the late forenoon, near months were depressed 5 points under scattering liquidation, but later the whole list was firmer, and the close was unchanged to 10 points higher. Sales were reported of about 34,250 bags. European markets showed little feature calculated to promote activity or create fresh sentiment locally. Hamburg was unchanged to ¼ pfennig higher at the close, and Havre was unchanged to ¼f lower, having rallied somewhat from an opening decline. Private cables from Havre reported a better spot demand, but there seemed to be no buying movement of consequence in the local market for spot supplies. The feature of the Brazilian news was another sharp break in the rate of Brazilian exchange, which now stands at 15 15-16d. Receipts at the two ports were 74,000 bags, against 47,000 last year, but the interior Santos movement continued moderate with Jundiahy reporting 42,000 bags, against 35,000 bags last year, and Sao Paulo receipts for the day were 54,241 bags, against 64,100 last year. It is estimated that the world's visible supply of coffee for the month of September increased about 100,000 to 150,000 bags less than during the same time last season.

The market for spot coffee was steady with quotations on the basis of 8 11-16c for Rio No. 7.

Attachment Against Union Mills.

Deputy Sheriff Plunkett has received an attachment for $34,061 against the Union Cotton Mills of Union, S. C., in favor of J. H. Parker & Co., of this city, for the balance due on purchases and sales of cotton for future delivery between Jan. 1 and Sept. 29. The total amount of the trades was $118,995, and the firm received $84,934 on the account.

Pontiac Building Company Dissolved.

The Pontiac Building Company was dissolved yesterday by Judge Fitzgerald of the Supreme Court in proceedings for the voluntary dissolution of the corporation. James J. Phelan, the Treasurer, was appointed receiver, with a bond of $30,000. The assets are $14,714, and no liabilities. The company is solvent.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

ALBERT BOVAL.—Albert Boval of 314 East Fifty-second Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,004 and no assets.

HARRY KRULIK.—Judge Holt of the United States District Court has appointed I. N. Sieverwright receiver in bankruptcy for the assets of Harry Krulik, dealer in produce at Wallabout Market, Brooklyn.

SAMLOWITZ, KAPLAN & Co.—Deputy Sheriff Snedden has received a writ of replevin against Samlowitz, Kaplan & Co., cloak manufacturers at 50 Walker Street, for $800 in favor of the Manhattan Woolen Company. He has removed what goods he could find belonging to the company. The firm began business on Jan. 1 last.

HARRY TANNENBAUM.—Deputy Sheriff Rinn has received an execution against Harry Tannenbaum, wholesale dealer in millinery at 56 Great Jones Street, for $480, in favor of Aaron Galef. The Sheriff locked up the place and put down the sale for Friday next.

WALTER VON ERLENBELL.—Walter Von Erlenbell, living at 161 West Thirty-third Street, formerly a liquor dealer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $10,867, contracted from 1897 to 1904, and no assets. The largest creditor is the S. Liebmann's Sons Brewing Company, $7,000.

THOMAS CALLAN.—Thomas Callan of Yonkers has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,708 and nominal assets of $2,500, in ten notes made by Martin Connor. The debts were contracted in this city between 1902 and 1905, when he kept a saloon in Amsterdam Avenue.

CONSUMERS' PICKLING COMPANY.—A list of creditors, as far as known, of the Consumers' Pickling Company of 105 Hudson Street and Cortland, N. Y., was filed yesterday by Robert S. Senter, a creditor, showing thirty-five creditors whose claims aggregate $7,412. The assets consist of accounts $138 and some cash in the hands of the receiver and a small balance in two banks.

J. A. JERGER.—Joseph A. Jerger, a real estate operator of 8 East Thirty-fourth Street, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday with liabilities of $20,103 and no assets. The debts were contracted from 1894 to 1904, and are principally for borrowed money, rent, merchandise, and deficiency judgment. Among the creditors are John D. Higgins, $5,860; Elmira Mechanics' Association, $2,543, and J. F. & J. A. Farley, $1,775 for rent.

CLUCAS & BODDINGTON COMPANY.—Schedules in the assignment of the Clucas & Boddington Company, wholesale dealers in shrubs, bulbs, &c., at 131 West Twenty-third Street, with a nursery at Palisades, Rockland County, show liabilities of $24,048, nominal assets of $16,133, and actual assets of $4,542. The nursery property is valued at $11,500 and the growing plants at $6,000. There are mortgages and liens on the property for $7,950, leaving an equity of $9,550, which is included in the nominal assets, but not in the actual assets. Among the creditors are the New York County National Bank, $2,450; Henry & Lee, $2,376; Koster & Co., Boskoop, Holland, $1,500; A. Bernard Fils, Toulon, France, $1,180; Union Horticole, France, $1,219, and the H. E. Newburg Company, Magnolia, N. C., $1,177.

HUNGERFORD ELECTRIC AND MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Hungerford Electric and Manufacturing Company of 156 Fifth Avenue, which has a factory at Belleville, N. J., by the following creditors: Daniel Soden, Newark, $450; John R. Williams Company, Newark, $600, and John Robertson & Co., Brooklyn, $300. It is alleged that the company is insolvent and on Sept. 30 permitted J. R. Willar, a creditor, to obtain a preference by a judgment obtained in Newark, under which a Marshal has advertised the property for sale on Oct. 5. The company was incorporated under West Virginia laws with a capital stock of $1,500,000, of which it was said $100,000 was cash paid in. An old mill at Belleville was equipped to make insulated wire, which was the main product of the company.

MYERS BROTHERS.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Myers Brothers, wholesale dealers in hosiery and underwear at 85 Leonard Street, show liabilities of $65,209, of which $22,600 are secured, and nominal assets of $164,351, consisting of cash $75, stock $5,000, fixtures $300, accounts $15,476, of which $15,250 are due by Jacob Myers of Salt Lake City, Utah; notes $3,000, real estate at 249 and 251 West 111th Street, $130,000, mortgaged for $114,000, equity $16,000; two houses in Rochester, N. Y., $10,600, mortgaged for $3,600. Among the creditors are Louis Greenhlatt, $19,000, secured by mortgage on 249 and 251 West 111th Street; Utah Credit Men's Association of Salt Lake, $4,250; Morris Mills, $1,566; L. E. Harrower, Amsterdam, N. Y., $1,885; Gilbert Knitting Company, Little Falls, $1,202, and Reynoldsville (Penn.) Woolen Company, $1,367.

Out of Town.

TROY.—Charles F. Drake, saddlery and harness dealer, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy yesterday, scheduling liabilities, $46,263; assets, $9,700, of which stock is $6,000. Unsecured creditors include the National City Bank, due on notes, $10,635.

A PROFIT-SHARING BANK.

One in Chicago Offers Unusual Inducements to Depositors.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Chicago capitalists to-day opened a profit-sharing financial institution to be known as the Mutual Bank. The new institution is asserted to be the first of its kind in the country.

Although it is owned by stockholders, the bank is to share profits equally between stockholders and savings depositors after the usual guaranteed 3 per cent. semi-annually has been paid to savings depositors and 3 per cent. has been distributed to shareholders. Should the management desire to carry any surplus to the profit and loss account, it must be done from the share of stockholders.

More than 500 accounts were opened the first day, which, it is said, exceeds any one day's business in any local bank.

The Mutual Bank is in the centre of the shopping district. On its official roster are Otto Young, Andrew McLeish, L. Mandel, W. C. Thorne, and Lawrence Heyworth. Mr. Heyworth is the President.

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

New York City.

A Boy That Failed
to make progress at a noted New England academy entered the Groff School recently with several having had similar experiences at other large schools. They were all put into Yale and other large colleges the following September without a condition, one year ahead of their former classmates, and their present standing at college is very high. Mr. Groff's experience with these boys is typical of the success he has had for ten years.

THE GROFF SCHOOL,
228 West 72d St., New York,
occupying the most handsome school quarters in New York, is ideal and exceptional as a boarding and day school.
Absolutely individual attention, the number being strictly limited. No very young boys admitted in the main school. Separate department, with special advantages, for boys, 10-14 years old. Handsome study parlors, billiard room, electric elevator, and full and free use of skating rink, bowling alleys, fencing hall, gymnasium, swimming pool, athletic field, etc.
Proper and judicious supervision of the daily life of all students of the school, but all foolish school discipline, military drill, and consequent loss of time eliminated.
Reopens Sept. 28th.

A. Shatzkin & Sons have sold to a Mr. Bernensonne for C. A. Hall a two-story frame flat on lot 40 by 98 on the south side of South Chestnut Drive, 200 feet east of North Chestnut Drive.

Deal Near Mount Vernon Station.

Harry J. Douglas has bought the plot, 100 by 100, at the southeast corner of Third Street and Prospect Avenue, Mount Vernon. The plot is opposite the New Haven Railroad station, and has old buildings upon it, which will probably be replaced by a new business structure.

Varian Estate at Auction.

L. J. Phillips & Co. say that they have had an unusually large number of inquiries concerning the auction sale of the Varian estate property, which will take place to-day at the Real Estate Salesroom, 14 and 16 Vesey Street. The property consists of 181 lots on Woodlawn Road and Rochambeau Avenue, between 207th and 211th Streets. The lots are well situated, nearly all of them being at or below grade.

SCHMITTBERGER RAIDS STIR UP THE MAYOR

Demands a Prompt Explanation from Mr. McAdoo.

M'CLELLAN SHOWS ANGER

Tells the Commissioner He Will Be Held Personally Responsible for Acts of the Police.

Mayor McClellan has called on Police Commissioner McAdoo for a complete investigation of all the recent raids made in the Tenderloin by Inspector Schmittberger and Capt. Dooley. The Mayor seems determined to sift the affair to the bottom, and those at City Hall who are informed as to what has passed between the Mayor and his Commissioner predict that Schmittberger and Dooley will be dismissed from the force.

When the Mayor reached his office yesterday morning there was fire in his eye, and he ordered that Commissioner McAdoo be called up by telephone at once. The Commissioner was not at 300 Mulberry Street. His secretary was told that the Mayor wanted an immediate explanation of the police raids without warrants. The Mayor then instructed his secretary, John H. O'Brien, to send a letter to the Commissioner saying that he would hold him personally responsible for all police violations of the law. In this letter Mr. O'Brien called for such evidence and authority of law as the police acted on, and also demanded to know what results were obtained in court on the raids of Friday afternoon.

When this letter was sent to Police Headquarters things began to happen. The Mayor, still angry, started for the meeting of the Board of Estimate to consider the annual budget. The first man he encountered on entering the Council Chamber was Commissioner McAdoo, who greeted his superior pleasantly. The Mayor wasted no time, but took the Commissioner aside, and the two held an animated conversation for several minutes.

After the talk Commissioner McAdoo, looking much embarrassed, took his hat and left the chamber without submitting any of his figures for the needs of the Police Department for 1906. At the same time the Mayor took his seat as the Chairman of the Board. The police estimate was the first one for consideration.

"The police estimate will go over for a day," announced the Mayor in an emphatic tone. "The Police Commissioner has something far more important to attend to than the police estimate, and he has gone to his office."

Commissioner McAdoo was loath to discuss his talk with the Mayor, but he seemed greatly depressed as he left City Hall. Finally he admitted that the Schmittberger matter had been the subject of the talk, and said he was going to Police Headquarters to begin an investigation. Later in the day he sent the following communication to the Mayor:

"Replying to a letter received by me this morning from your secretary, Mr. O'Brien, copy of which is inclosed, and following up my conversation with you, I have issued the following orders to Inspector Max F. Schmittberger and Capt. Robert E. Dooley:

Your attention is called to the inclosed articles clipped from the following newspapers:
The New York Press.
The New York Herald.
The New York World.
The New York Times.
The New York Sun.

You will make promptly a detailed statement to me with reference to the allegations therein contained charging you with illegal acts and use of unnecessary violence on person and property, accompanying this with the statements in detail of the officers and others who were concerned in the raid, also such citizens whose evidence you may be able to procure.

Consider this matter of paramount importance and give it your immediate attention.

"I ought to have statements from these officers to-morrow. Before taking any further action in the premises I will forward copies to you."

The raid which caused yesterday's proceedings took place last Friday afternoon at the Bon Ton Social Club, 118 West Thirty-first Street. Inspector Schmittberger and Capt. Dooley, at the head of a squad of policemen, broke down four doors to get into the clubroom, and then proceeded to demolish the furniture. They said the place was a poolroom, and it is charged that the police clubbed many of the 200 men found there.

Late yesterday afternoon, after Commissioner McAdoo had sent his letter to the City Hall, he was asked if the Mayor had requested the transfer of Schmittberger. The Commissioner grew red in the face and denied that the Mayor had made any such request. When asked further if the Mayor had suggested the advisability of transferring the Inspector, the Commissioner declined to answer, referring the question to the Mayor himself.

"Up to this time," said the Commissioner, "I have had no complaints from any citizens who were injured in the raid. However, I am examining all the circumstances of the raids, and am looking carefully into the newspaper reports of the occurrences."

Inspector Schmittberger and Captain Dooley were busy yesterday afternoon and last night getting their report ready for Commissioner McAdoo. Capt. Dooley did not appear at 8 o'clock to turn out the detectives from his station. Detectives and policemen were hurrying into the Inspector's office and out again at frequent intervals. Some of the detectives and policemen went to the Inspector's office to make out individual reports as to the raid at 118 West Thirty-first Street, as everybody who was in the least implicated in it was notified to make out such a report to Schmittberger.

Some of the men who went to the Inspector's office were not connected in any way with the police force, and it was said by friends of the Bon Ton Club that they were alleged members who had been persuaded to make affidavits in favor of the police.

Inspector Schmittberger was in a very good humor when seen at his office last night.

"You can readily see why I cannot talk about this affair," he said. "I am on trial, in a way. I shall have my report ready by to-morrow."

"It is said, Inspector, that you are getting members of the Bon Ton Club to come up here and make affidavits in favor of the police," he was told.

"Oh, was it a club? I didn't know that."

Some one was going about the rooms at 118 West Thirty-first Street last night, taking flashlight pictures of the place. A man who knows Commissioner McAdoo's secretary, Mr. Howell, said that it was he.

Ex-Police Magistrate Wentworth of 350 Broadway has been retained by several members of the Bon Ton Club to sue both Inspector Schmittberger and Capt. Dooley for damages for assault. It was said that papers in these suits were served on both the officers last night.

MOTHER FOUND HER DEAD.

Mrs. J. W. Leetrade Suddenly Stricken with Bright's Disease.

Mrs. Ella Clark Lestrade, wife of James W. Lestrade, an importer, was found dead yesterday in her apartments in the Hotel Seymour, 44 West Forty-fifth Street, by her mother, who had called to go to dinner with her. The mother occupies apartments in the same hotel. The hotel physician said Mrs. Lestrade had died of acute Bright's disease.

Mrs. Lestrade was 50 years old. She was a daughter of the late W. E. Clark, who was Vice President of the Citizens' Savings Bank. She leaves two daughters, one the wife of Capt. Brown of the United States Army, and the other the wife of Mr. Monahan, who lives in Paris.

MUST HAVE MORE MONEY FOR CITY DEPARTMENTS

Budget for 1906 May Be $8,000,000 Bigger Than This Year's.

MUCH SHAVING TO BE DONE

Commissioners Explain Increases as Due Largely to Mandatory Laws Concerning Salaries of Employes.

Consideration of the budget for 1906 was begun by the Board of Estimate yesterday. Heads of the various departments scheduled on the day's calendar were present to explain their requisitions and to show reason for the uniform increases over the allowances for the same departments for 1905.

In every case an increase was asked, and in many cases these increases were heavy. The increases of the Health, Police, Street Cleaning, Fire, Charities, and Educational Departments aggregated more than $9,000,000. These increases of course will be pared down. It is estimated, however, that the budget for the year will aggregate $118,000,000, as against slightly less than $110,000,000 for the current year.

Many of the Commissioners were late. Commissioner Oakley of the Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity did not answer until his department had been called four times.

"I apologize for the delay," he said.

"You are no worse than the others," replied the Mayor.

"I am glad of that—" began the Commissioner.

"But that is bad enough," tartly answered the Mayor.

Commissioner Best of the Department of Bridges was the first to face the board. He asked an increase of only $17,000, and explained that the increased number of small bridges and the cost of maintenance justified the demand.

Corporation Counsel Delany asked $686,520, as against $535,560 allowed last year. Added business and the enormous demands on the department necessitated extra men, he said.

Commissioner Woodbury of the Street Cleaning Department asked for an increase of $1,187,783.37 over last year's appropriation of $5,692,987.76.

The Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity asked $5,583,333.75, as against $4,978,752.23 last year.

"Have you made any estimate for the maintenance of the municipal lighting plant?" asked President Fornes.

"No, but I have provided for lighting the schools," said Mr. Oakley.

Deputy Commissioner Churchill, speaking for the Fire Department, explained the increase of $794,551.51 as due to mandatory salary increases and the need of providing for the newly established paid forces in Richmond and Queens.

For the Department of Charities Commissioner Tully estimated he would need $2,429,133.26, or $451,643.10 more than he got last year. Part of this increase is to enable him to comply with the law as to the prevailing rate of wages.

The other departments considered were Taxes and Assessors. Neither of them asked any increase. The Civil Service Commission in its estimate called for an additional $15,000 to pay the Commissioners, who were formerly not paid, and to raise the salaries of half a dozen clerks.

The board will sit again to-morrow and throughout the rest of the week.

FORD'S FRIENDS GUNNING FOR CHAIRMAN HALPIN

Threaten Trouble in Convention if Senator Is Not Named.

UNION RADICALS HELPING

Threaten Embarrassing Questions If Ford Is Not Presented as Mayoralty Candidate.

Talk yesterday among Republican politicians who are certain to go to the Republican City Convention as delegates indicated that the troubles of State Chairman Odell and William Halpin, President of the Republican County Committee, will not be over with the selection of a Mayoralty candidate to recommend to the convention.

Friends of ex-Senator John Ford declared yesterday that it was their intention to make some very embarrassing inquiries on the floor of the convention if Mr. Ford was not presented to head the ticket. In the Fusion conferences Mr. Halpin himself nominated Mr. Ford on behalf of the Republicans as the man who the Republicans thought would make the best race as a Fusion candidate. Mr. Ford has been a Republican all his life, and the suggestion of his name to the Fusion Conference by Mr. Halpin was backed up by a very considerable sentiment in the Republican organization.

No sooner had Fusion been dissolved, however, than State Chairman Odell and Mr. Halpin eliminated Mr. Ford from the list of possibilities for the Republican nomination. Their present attitude toward Mr. Ford's candidacy is bitterly resented by many of Mr. Ford's friends in the Republican organization.

"If Ford is dropped by Chairmen Odell and Halpin," said one of Mr. Ford's Republican friends yesterday, "it will demonstrate that R. Fulton Cutting told the truth when he declared that the Republicans had not acted in good faith in the Fusion conference. Mr. Halpin will have to give some explanation of his treatment of Mr. Ford which will satisfy Mr. Ford's friends, or there surely will be troubis in the convention."

It was learned that members of the Citizens' Union are aiding the Republican friends of Mr. Ford who want to catechize Mr. Halpin on the floor of the Republican Convention. The conservative element in the Union would like to have it made so plain that there could be no doubt on the subject in any man's mind that the Republicans deceived the Citizens' Union conferrees when they named Mr. Ford as the choice of the Republicans. The radicals in the Union are strong supporters of Mr. Ford and they are egging the Republican friends of Mr. Ford on in the hope that the situation will become so embarrassing to Messrs. Odell and Halpin that they will be forced to give Mr. Ford a place on the Republican ticket.

A possible explanation of the dropping of Mr. Ford by the Republican leaders was given yesterday by a man who has for years been active in Republican campaigns. He said that the reason the Republicans broke with the other parties to fusion was that influential men in the Republican Party sounded a warning that the Republican organization was being committed too far on the subject of municipal ownership.

The same men who are most largely responsible for the break of the Republicans from Fusion, he said, are also responsible for the elimination of Mr. Ford as a possible Republican Mayoralty candidate. They take the position that the platform adopted by the Republican City Convention must be less radical than the platform considered by the Fusion Conference. Mr. Ford is regarded as a radical on the subject of municipal control of all public utilities, and it is said that the Republican organization, having concluded to be "safe and sane" on the question of municipal ownership, has no place for Mr. Ford on the Republican ticket.

Although the Republican Convention is to be held the day after to-morrow the Republican leaders are still at sea as to who their candidate is to be, Mr. Halpin said last night. He said that several names were under consideration, but that there was no certainty as yet that any one of those being considered could be induced to run.

It became known yesterday that negotiations looking to the acceptance of the nomination by Judge William J. Gaynor had been renewed. Whether there is any likelihood of their resulting more successfully than the effort made to get Judge Gaynor to head the Fusion ticket Mr. Halpin would not say.

There was a report in circulation last night among leading Republicans that Lieut. Gov. M. Linn Bruce had agreed to accept the nomination if the organization failed at the last moment to secure the acceptance of any one else considered available. If Lieut. Gov. Bruce is compelled to run, it was said, he will not resign the Lieutenant Governorship, and will receive an absolute pledge that he will be renominated for his present place.

CAN'T, SAYS WOODRUFF.

He Is Really Too Busy to Run for Mayor This Year.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Ex-Lieut. Gov. Woodruff arrived to-night from his Adirondack camp. Asked about the possibility of his taking the Republican nomination for Mayor of New York, he said:

"I will say again what I recently said in New York, that purely business reasons prevent me from thinking of making a canvass for Mayor this year, much as I would like to. I have taken a house in Syracuse for the Winter and am head over heels in business. I am tied up so that it would be impossible for me to head the ticket this year. I appreciate the honor in being suggested for the responsible office of Mayor of New York, and am compelled to refuse for no other reason than that I have given."

"It has been stated that ex-Gov. Odell gave you to understand that if you would run for Mayor you would be the next Republican nominee for Governor—what about that?" Mr. Woodruff was asked.

"You may say that there is nothing in that," was the reply.

BARS THE NEW YORK LIFE.

Nevada License Not Good Until McCall and Perkins Quit.

Special to The New York Times.

CARSON, Nev., Oct. 3.—Samuel P. Davis, State Controller and Insurance Agent of Nevada, to-day revoked the license of the New York Life Insurance Company to do business in Nevada. The order is to take effect Oct. 18, and hold good as long as Messrs. McCall and Perkins are officers of the company. The license is revoked owing, as alleged, to fraud and corrupt methods of the company.

"John A. McCall: Pending the investigation of the corrupt management and fraudulent disposal of funds intrusted to your company, and as long as yourself and George Perkins retain offices of trust in the management of the New York Life Insurance Company, the license of the company to do business in the State of Nevada is hereby revoked. Upon advice of a change of management and satisfactory proof of honest management the license will be reissued."

A notice has been forwarded throughout the State telling all agents of the order and giving the agents two weeks to close the records.

ROCKEFELLER TO PEARSONS.

Writes Philanthropist That He Bears Malice to None.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—"Tainted money? To the popular mind, excited just now by Socialistic outcries, there is no wealth that is untainted."

Dr. D. K. Pearsons, philanthropist and "the patron saint of small colleges," chuckled to-day as he gazed at a newspaper clipping telling of his timorous proffer of $50,000 to the Board of Missions of the Congregational Church in which he cautiously requested an opinion as to the possibility of a "taint" in the donation.

"This cry of 'tainted money' is not a matter for jest," he continued. "It is unfair. It is not American. It has become the rallying cry of the Socialist, the drone, and the discontented member of society, who hates those whose talents or fortune exceed his own.

"It has become concentrated on one man who is now held up to ridicule, and in five years the reaction will come and the persons now reviling John D. Rockefeller will revere him, while his traducers will be forgotten. The series of attacks on Mr. Rockefeller are shameful and unjust. I know him from top to bottom, and I love him."

He drew a wallet from his pocket and from a bunch of letters extracted one.

"Perhaps it is a breach of confidence to exhibit a letter not intended for other eyes," he said to his interviewer, "but read that."

The missive, addressed to Dr. Pearsons and of recent date, bore the monogram of Mr. Rockefeller's Cleveland home. After a few personal sentences, it concluded:

Thank you for your kind words, good friend; I appreciate them. Life is short, and you and I have too much to do in the world to be diverted from our purpose to try and make things better. Let us keep right on and do our best in our day and generation, rejoicing in the beautiful sentiment expressed by our lamented Lincoln: "With malice toward none and charity for all." Sincerely your friend,

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

"And those," resumed Dr. Pearsons, "are the sentiments of the man whom the American public delights in maligning. No spirit of fairness is shown. Dr. Gladden, I have no doubt, is conscientious, but Dr. Gladden has reached an age where his judgment is warped."

HOUSE FOR RATE BILL—HULL.

Promises the President Support—Tariff Revision Unlikely.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Representative Hull of Iowa called at the White House this morning and talked rate legislation with the President. He said:

"I found the President as firm and as interested as ever in railway rate legislation. There will be a lively fight at the coming session of Congress. The House will go with the President.

"The way I figure it out is that most of the demand for rate legislation is in the West. The East apparently cares little about it. As most of the new members of the House are from the West, there should be even a greater majority for President Roosevelt's policy than there was last year.

"It is probable that a new measure finally will go before the House, differing in some respects from the Esch-Townsend bill. What is wanted is a law not drastic enough to do the railroads serious harm, but effective enough to protect the people.

"As for the tariff, I think there will be no change. The country is prosperous, and when it comes to a showdown I think those who believe there should be no change will be in the majority. I am in favor of free trade with the Philippines, however.

"The object of my visit to the President was to ask him about the status of American student interpreters in China.

"I have a constituent who holds a place as interpreter, and has several times acted as Consul in various parts of China when vacancies occurred. He has written to me to find out whether the policy of the Government will be to promote these interpreters to Consular place if they show fitness. The President assured me that interpreters who qualified themselves would be promoted to be Consuls."

DEAD-LOCKED OVER WRIGHT.

Fifth Judicial Convention Adjourns After Twenty-four Ballots.

Special to The New York Times.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Twenty-four ballots were taken with no result at the Fifth Judicial District Republican Convention to-day. On adjournment, shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, the delegates had no prospect of making a choice.

Onondaigua and Oneida unitedly supported P. C. J. De Angelis of Utica, and Oswego, Jefferson, Lewis, and Herkimer stood out for Justice M. L. Wright of Oswego.

William Carey Sanger, in nominating De Angelis, declared that the sources of the law must be kept untainted. Throughout the convention a spirit of moderation and fairness prevailed. No bitter word was spoken.

CUBAN LIBERTY A FARCE, SAYS GEN. JOSE GOMEZ

HOT SHOT FOR GOVERNMENT

Judges Corrupt, Teachers Inefficient, Police Force Recruited with Thugs —Other Charges Freely Made.

Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, Governor of the Province of Santa Clara and recent candidate of the Liberal Party in Cuba for President of the Republic, the resignation of which candidature he is now reconsidering, arrived in New York yesterday, and is at the New Amsterdam Hotel. Gen. Gomez informed a TIMES reporter last night that he had come to the United States solely for rest.

The general belief of those about him is, however, that his visit is for the purpose of seeing President Roosevelt and asking his intervention for the sake of a fair election in Cuba. This Gen. Gomez does not admit, but he asserts that 80 per cent. of the voters of Cuba are Liberals and that a fair ballot would make him President. He characterizes the present political situation as "disastrous and terrible," and declares that President Palma is not only cognizant of this state of affairs, but is directly responsible for it.

"It is not only with his knowledge that the voters have been betrayed, but by his orders," said Gen. Gomez. "He is either a mere figurehead or the author of the orders by which the will of the people has been overthrown.

"I have no present intention of going to Washington," he said, "but everything depends on the news I get from Cuba."

Asked if he would reconsider his resignation as candidate of the Liberals for President, he said:

"My reasons for resigning are known. I did so to avert insurrection in Cuba. The Liberal Party held a meeting last evening, and I have not yet heard the result of its deliberations. When I am informed of the result I will decide, but rest assured that my conduct will be in accordance with the wishes of my party.

"Liberty in Cuba," said Gen. Gomez, "is a farce. It has died. Why, if the Moderates are in a majority, does it remove Liberal office holders in favor of the Moderates? Why are the Liberal Governors of provinces not supported by the National Government? Why are nearly all the Liberal leaders in jail!

"Why," he continued, "are the courts of justice and the Rural Guards used to further the election of the Moderates? If they are in the majority, would it not have been better to wait for the result of the elections? I have gone over the six provinces of Cuba personally, and I know that 80 per cent. of the voters are Liberals; but the Cuban Government has boasted that it would gain the elections by fair means or foul. Jailbirds have obtained positions on the police force and the election boards to accomplish this result.

"To gain a victory for the Moderates, funds have been taken from the public treasury. Men in charge of Government departments for the last three months have had large deficits, because they have been using the public funds to subvert the public will. To-day Judges in Cuba do not decide in accordance with law, but in accordance with their political views. In the Department of Public Instruction competency is unknown. Teachers are appointed only on political preference. Even the women teachers are compelled to give a percentage of their salaries to the campaign fund."

"What remedy do you suggest for these conditions?" was asked.

"It is my belief," said Gen. Gomez, "that the Government of the United States has an indirect responsibility in the matter. According to the Platt amendment the American Government will intervene in the event of the disturbance of public order, and the Cuban Government takes advantage of this."

"It is with the Platt law in view that the Cuban Government commits all its improprieties, asaured that the people of Cuba will not protest by force or violence."

"Would the Cubans welcome the intervention of the United States again?"

"The Government holds American intervention as a sword of Damocles over the people."

"What would be the gain to Cuba in the election of a Liberal President?"

"That is not the question," replied Gen. Gomez. "The fact is that in Cuba the people cannot assert their will at the polls. The suffrage is killed. So real is this fact that on Sept. 23 the Liberals decided at noon not to vote because their votes would not be counted. Moderate voters put five votes at once into the ballot box, and the Liberal who protested was sent to jail."

Urged to a definite statement as to his actual purpose in visiting the United States, Gen. Gomez would not go further than to say that prevention was better than cure, and that it might be better for the United States to take cognizance of conditions in Cuba now, rather than to wait until they became intolerable to the people of Cuba.

BARS ADMIRALS' VOTE.

Maryland Law Against Floaters Hits Admiral Stirling.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, U. S. N., retired, is in the position of an American citizen who wishes to vote and cannot do so. In a communication to a newspaper he says:

"Upon my return to my home in Baltimore after an absence of several years in the service of my country I find that by the laws of Maryland I am classed as a floater and disfranchised. Does Maryland intend by this law, passed, I believe, in 1902, to put a stigma upon her sons who leave the State upon the call of the National Government in the military and naval service?"

Under the election law of 1901 a resident of the State going to another State or country and returning here must give twelve months' notice before he can register. The law was enacted by the Democratic Legislature to bar officeholders and others employed in Washington, who formerly lived in Maryland, but resided in Washington and only retained their residence in Maryland for the purpose of voting.

LIVE WIRE KILLS STUDENT.

Lad at Sacred Heart Academy Shocked to Death in School Yard.

Samuel Howard, 14 years old, a student in the Sacred Heart Academy at Unionport in the Bronx, was instantly killed last night through the faulty insulation of an electric light pole on the school grounds. The boy with his brother Edward was crossing from the study hall to the dormitory when he jumped up and caught one of the three steel ropes supporting the electric light pole. There was a flash and the boy fell to the ground.

His brother and other boys who attempted to drag him away were severely shocked. The ground around the pole was very damp, and Brother Henry and several of the other Brothers were similarly shocked before they could drag the body aside. Dr. C. A. Decker, the house physician of the academy, pronounced the boy dead. Word was sent to his father, Police Sergeant Hubert Howard of the Twenty-seventh District.

The pole has been in the school yard only four days. It is of metal. Investigation by the electric light people showed that the steel bracing wire had been charged with the heavy current, which with the damp ground about the pole made a perfect connection between the boy's body and the earth.

MOB READY FOR A LYNCHING.

David O'Neil of 235 East Forty-sixth Street was saved from a mob at the foot of East Forty-seventh Street last night by Policeman Fitzgerald and Probationary Policeman Stillman. His three-months-old baby was saved from O'Neil by members of the mob that threatened to lynch the man.

O'Neil, crazed with liquor, according to his wife, went home last evening an hour before supper time. Finding his wife nursing their baby instead of having supper ready, he knocked her down. Picking up the baby he ran from the house, saying that he would drown the child in the East River. Mrs. O'Neil, a frail little creature, sped after her husband. Her cries for help were heard by John Walsh of Forty-seventh Strset and Second Avenue.

At the cost of a black eye and torn scalp he got the child from the father. While he was being beaten Walsh tossed the child in football fashion to Frederick Walsh, a neighbor, who in turn passed the child to Mrs. O'Neil, telling her to run for help to the East Fifty-first Street Station.

O'Neil was prevented from following his wife by the crowd that had gathered. Before they had him in their power O'Neil knocked down ten men. Some one grabbed him from behind, throwing him, and then the crowd trampled upon him. A rope was brought, and the crowd prepared, or seemed to, to hang him to a lamp post. The man was begging for mercy when he was saved by the police.

HACKMEN BEST MR. BELMONT.

Can Keep Their Vehicles at Hempstead Station Even If He Does Object.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Oct. 3.—The decision of Halstead Scudder, counsel to the Nassau County Board of Supervisors, that the village authorities of this place have no jurisdiction over the county roads except for the purpose of repairing them and keeping them in good condition, is regarded here as a victory for the hackmen who have been making life unpleasant for the owners of smart vehicles and automobiles about the railroad station here.

Old Luke Fagan, who has been driving a hack about here for thirty years, is now looked upon as the hero of the hour because of the determined fight he made for his rights, even though he had to cross O. H. P. Belmont and several other wealthy residents here to get them.

The first trouble between the old hackman and Mr. Belmont occurred when the former barred the way of the Belmont auto, in which was the Duchess of Marlborough. The trouble was renewed several days ago when Harold Vanderbilt came here, and then the matter went to Mr. Scudder for a decision. Fagan's friends congratulated him last night.

RICH MAN TRIES SUICIDE.

F. G. Oakley of White Plains May Recover from Knife Wound.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Oct. 3.—Frederick G. Oakley, a rich bachelor, attempted suicide to-night. Oakley, after dining at his home, walked out to inspect a fine residence he is building at Carhart Homestead Park. He returned in an hour with his face covered with blood.

His mother met him on the front porch, and when she saw her son's condition her screams aroused the neighborhood. Drs. Hyatt and Parker were called in and dressed the wound, which had been inflicted apparently with a dull knife. Oakley fought desperately with the doctors before they could quiet him. The cut nearly reached the jugular vein. The doctors say he has a good chance for recovery.

Oakley is a member of the Memorial Methodist Church, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Epworth League, and several social clubs. No cause is attributed for his act. The police will arrest him for attempting suicide should he recover. He is thirty years old.

STATE WINS TEST CASE.

Appeals Court Decision Against Fourth Avenue Property Holders.

ALBANY, Oct. 3.—The Court of Appeals to-day reversed the decision of the Appellate Division of the Third Department and of the Court of Claims in the case of Frederick W. Sanders against the State of New York, upon which depends nearly $1,000,000.

This was an action arising out of the building of the elevated railway structure on Fourth Avenue in the City of New York, which replaced the tunnel from 110th Street to the Harlem River. The Legislature in 1901 passed a law allowing the Court of Claims to determine the damages to abutting property owners. Over $800,000 worth of claims have been filed against the State, and the Sanders suit has been regarded as the test case.

The Court of Appeals holds that the property owners are not entitled to recover beyond the time when the railroad company occupied the structure for the operation of its trains. This holding will save a large sum of money to the State, estimated roughly at half a million of dollars.

TAFT URGES CABINET TO MOLLIFY CHINESE

Serious Trouble, as Well as Trade Loss, May Follow Exclusion.

WOULD CLASSIFY BY TREATY

Pacific Coast, He Thinks, Will Block Action by Congress — Brief Talk on Venezuela.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The first Cabinet meeting after the Summer vacation was chiefly occupied to-day with a statement from Secretary Taft on his observations while in the Orient. One of the most important topics was the Chinese boycott.

The force of the boycott was broken, Mr. Taft said, and for the present, at least, American trade had little to fear from it. At the same time it was wholly possible that the same influence which prompted the boycott might operate to start another. It was of the highest necessity that this Government provide against such a contingency.

Following the close of the war between Japan and Russia, the Secretary remarked, there was an unprecedented demand throughout Manchuria for American cotton piecegoods, and unless something unforeseen should prevent it our trade in that line would maintain itself, and no doubt increase remarkably. At present the enforcement of the Chinese Exclusion act was working imperfectly. The President's order last June had not served to save the situation.

Mr. Taft expressed the opinion that serious trouble might follow anything like a permanent adherence to the present method of dealing with the question. Chinese merchants, teachers, and professional men insisted on being able to come to this country. The Chinese manufacturer or merchant often desired to send his partner, his son, his foreman, or his actor. Now such persons were classified as laborers.

Modification of the law so as to classify these as mercantile or professional visitors was urged by the Secretary. This could be done by act of Congress, or, if that could not be had, by a treaty with China which the Senate could ratify.

The feeling on the Pacific Coast against any modification of the law he regarded as such that there was likely to be no attempt to secure the legislation by Congress.

Secretary Root, who met his former associates for the first time as Secretary of State, brought up the Venezuelan situation for a brief discussion. Attorney General Moody had the attention of the meeting for a few minutes to speak of anti-trust litigation.

The President read parts of the draft of his message on rate legislation and corporation subscriptions to campaign funds.

"You can say I was not hazed," said Mr. Bonaparte when asked about his impressions. "I am a neophyte and must be careful."

EXCHANGES ON VENEZUELA.

Root and Jusserand to Confer with Calhoun When He Arrives.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—It is understood that memoranda on Venezuelan affairs have been exchanged between the State Department and the French Embassy, covering probably the main points touched on at yesterday's conference between Secretary Root and Ambassador Jusserand.

With the arrival here from Caracas of Judge Calhoun, it is probable a conference between the American Special Commissioner, Secretary Root, and M. Jusserand may be arranged.

TAFT MAY GO TO PANAMA.

Otherwise Will Make One Speech in the Ohio Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Secretary Taft said to-night that he would make one speech in the Ohio campaign unless prevented by the necessity of going to Panama. He has not fully decided to go to Panama, but it is a year since he was there, and he says that his presence there might serve to clear up and set straight the present situation.

BURGLARS' LOOT $5,000.

Ransack Harlem House and Police Come After It Is All Over.

Burglars entered the house of George P. De Lacy, 238 West 132d Street, early yesterday morning and looted it of $5,000 worth of jewelry, silverware, and furs.

Entrance was gained to the house by means of the coal chute. That the thieves worked at their leisure was shown by the cigar stumps that were found on every floor of the house. Mr. De Lacy is in Arverne.

Shortly before daylight yesterday morning Policeman Murray of the West 125th Street Station House discovered that the cover of the coal chute was partly off. The front door of the house was closed but not locked. A glance inside showed that the place had been visited by burglars, as everything was in confusion and several bundles of clothing lay at the foot of the stairs.

A telephone message from Acting Captain Thompson of the West 125th Street Station brought Mr. De Lacy home, and he went through the house, which had been ransacked from cellar to roof. An inventory showed that about $5,000 of property was missing.

Nixon Appears to be Stronger.

WESTFIELD, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Speaker Nixon rested comfortably to-day and appeared to gain some strength. To-night his temperature was a shade over 100, and his pulse and respiration were normal. He took a fair amount of nourishment. The wound in his back caused by the operation for an abscess, which is very slow in healing, causes some anxiety.

Bayard Cutting Going to Switzerland.

SAYVILLE, L. I., Oct. 3.—W. Bayard Cutting, Jr., and his wife, Lady Sibyl Cutting, and their daughter will sail for Switzerland on Oct. 18. They intend to remain abroad for an indefinite time. Mr. Cutting is rapidly failing in health, and his physician has decided that he must reside in the mountains of Switzerland. It is not expected that he will return to America.

JEROME'S PETITION FILED.

4,000 Names on It, and There Could Have Been Many More.

District Attorney Jerome's nominating petition was filed yesterday with the Bureau of Elections, and he is now an independent candidate for re-election as District Attorney. There were 4,000 names on the petition filed. Many more could have been added, but Mr. Jerome did not wish to make unnecessary labor for the officials of the Bureau of Elections.

JERRY SIMPSON WORSE.

Ex-Congressman Not Expected to Live Through the Night.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 3.—Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson, who was brought here yesterday from Roswell, N. M., and placed in a hospital, is in a critical condition.

He is not expected to live through the night.

NEW $10 COUNTERFEIT.

It Appears in This City—Longer Than the Genuine Note.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Chief Wilkie of the Secret Service announces the discovery of a new counterfeit ten-dollar United States ("Buffalo") note. It is of the series of 1901, check letter B. Lyons, Register; Roberts, Treasurer.

$5,000,000 LOSS BY TYPHOON.

Hemp Crop Destroyed—Many Dead on Tloao Island.

MANILA, Oct. 3.—The estimated loss in the hemp-growing districts by the recent typhoon is $5,000,000, gold. The hemp in warehouses ready for shipment also is a total loss. The plantations are impaired to such an extent that it will take a year to get them in condition again.

Reports from the south indicate a greater loss of life and property than had been estimated. On Tloao Island the beach is strewn with dead, among them some Americans, who cannot be identified.

A BLACK HAND ARREST.

Italian Held in Baltimore for Abducting Brooklyn Boy.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Vito Laduca, an Italian, who is declared by some of the Brooklyn police to be the leader of the "Black Hand," is under arrest here, charged with abduction. The arrest was made on a warrant by Detectives Msalli and Vachris of Brooklyn, assisted by Detective Bradley of Baltimore.

The warrant charges Laduca with the kidnapping of Tony Manineho, the seven-year-old son of Vincent Manineho, a contractor of Brooklyn, on Aug. 4, 1904.

ABEEL'S SENTENCE STANDS.

Man Who Impersonated J. Ogden Goelet to Stay in Reformatory.

ALBANY, Oct. 3.—The Court of Appeals to-day affirmed the conviction of James N. Abeel of New York, who obtained notoriety during the Fall and Winter of 1903 by impersonating J. Ogden Goelet of New York.

Abeel was found guilty of forgery, third degree, in signing the name of J. B. Van Every, Second Vice President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, to what purported to be a letter introducing Mr. Goelet to Miss Eleanor Anderson, a telegraph operator at the Grand Hotel, whose confidence he succeeded in winning.

Abeel is now serving a sentence in the Elmira Reformatory.

WON'T QUARREL WITH PLATT.

I Have the Very Kindliest Feelings for Him, Says Gov. Higgins.

ALBANY, Oct. 3.—Gov. Higgins expressed himself for the first time to-day on his return from Olean regarding the interview with Senator Platt, in which the latter found fault with him for vetoing the bill to permit the Hotel Gotham, in New York, to have a liquor license.

"I have the very kindliest feelings for Senator Platt," said the Governor. "We have had no personal differences. We may disagree on some political matters, notably on that he referred to in his interview."

Gov. Higgins this morning received a call from the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston.

BIG RETURN FROM STOCK TAX.

Much More Than Was Expected—$1,000,000 from Mortgages.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 3.—The stock transfer tax for July and August aggregated $1,226,757, much more than was expected.

The corporation tax for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 will exceed that of the previous year by $600,000 to $900,000.

From mortgages taxed under the law a revenue of $1,000,000 will be received. The new tax lawa will bring about $7,000,000 in revenue to the State.

State Excise Commissioner Cullinan today reported that during the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 he received from actions on liquor tax bonds and costs in revocation and other proceedings the sum of $173,411.92, as compared with $148,184.94 in the preceding year.

ASKS FOR $15,000,000 BOND.

Chicago Counsel's Motion in Gas Suit Brought by D. O. Mills.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—D. O. Mills of New York, complainant in the suit to restrain the city from enforcement of the seventy-five-cent gas ordinance, may be compelled to file an indemnity bond of $15,000,000 to secure the City of Chicago and patrons of the People's Gas Light and Coke Company of Chicago from all damage while the injunction proceedings are pending.

The case was taken before Judge Grosscup to-day, but hearing on the motion will not be held until next Tuesday. Motion for the bond was made in an affidavit filed by Henry M. Ashton, special counsel for the city. It is charged that the company declares assets of $78,713,918, while its plant is worth actually not to exceed $36,000,000. It is alleged that the company has failed to create a reserve fund to cover the $13,000,000 loss it would suffer should the city win the suit.

HYDE WOULD TESTIFY, BUT NAMES CONDITIONS

Untermyer Writes When Subpoena Fails to Find Hyde.

RE-EXAMINATION DEMANDED

Doesn't Want Subject Matter of Pending Suits Touched Upon—Committee Must Decide, Says Hughes.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for James H. Hyde, formerly Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and for William H. McIntyre, formerly Fourth Vice President, sent a letter to Charles E. Hughes, counsel for the insurance investigating committee, yesterday. In it he contests the authority of the committee to investigate for a Legislature that is not even elected yet. He promises, however, that Mr. Hyde will appear, under certain conditions, and testify. These conditions, in brief, are that he shall have counsel and that his lawyer shall represent, advise, and re-examine him, and that his examination shall not include the subject matter of suits now pending against Mr. Hyde.

Charles E. Hughes gave out the following statement last night at his house, 570 West End Avenue:

"I received Mr. Untermyers' letter this evening, and have conferred with Mr. McKeen. We concur in the following statement:

"'So far as Mr. Hyde's conditional offer to appear as a witness is concerned, it would not be proper for us to comment upon it in advance of the decision of the committee. We will say simply this, that if Mr. Hyde appears before the committee without conditions he will be treated courteously, fairly, and according to his rights.

"'Mr. Untermyer's claim that the committee is without power to conduct this investigation we believe to be without merit, and we shall so advise the committee. Mr. Untermyer cites no authority for his contention, and we are not impressed with his reasoning.'

"'Legislatures, by concurrent resolutions of both houses, have authorized joint committees to summon witnesses and to take testimony after adjournment, and to report to the next session. This course has been approved by the courts.

"'The Insurance Committee is composed of members qualified to serve, and is acting within the scope of the resolutions. Nor does the fact that the Legislature is not in session afford immunity to recalcitrants. Section 60 of the Penal Code provides that, when a committee of the Legislature is authorized to summon witnesses, one who refuses to answer any material or proper question or to produce upon a reasonable notice any material books or papers in his possession or under his control is guilty of a misdemeanor.'"

A process server for the Armstrong committee went yesterday to Roslyn, L. I., where Mr. Hyde was expected to be an usher at the wedding of Henry Rogers Winthrop, Financial Manager of the Equitable. The process server took a subpoena for Mr. Hyde, but Mr. Hyde was not there. Later in the day Mr. Untermyer sent his letter to Mr. Hughes. Here is the letter:

Mr. Untermyer's Letter.

"Referring to your request that Mr. Hyde voluntarily appear as a witness before the joint committee appointed by the defunct Legislature of 1905 to investigate the affairs of life insurance companies, I have advised Mr. Hyde that your committee is without power or jurisdiction to make the investigation in which you are engaged.

"You have no doubt observed that the resolution authorizing the investigation directs that the committee shall, after the adjournment of the extraordinary session at which it was passed, and after the body of which it is a part has ceased to exist, proceed with the investigation, for the purpose of reporting to the next session of the Legislature.

"My opinion is based on the proposition that the Assembly at least has no power to direct an investigation (1) to be held after its adjournment, and (2) for the express purpose of reporting to a future Legislature not yet selected and which can have no existence until 1906.

"Either house may investigate when in session, either directly or through a committee of its number, for the purpose of informing itself as to pending or contemplated legislation by it, and for that purpose only. If such an investigation may be conducted for the information of the Legislature of 1906, why not for that of 1910? The question has never been before the courts, so far as I can learn. If the precedent contended for can be established, it will point the way to a dangerous invasion of private rights.

"We appreciate, however, that the pending inquiry, though unauthorized and irregular, will prove wholesome and in the public interest, and that if continued on the same lines much of the responsibility for existing conditions which has been most unjustly placed upon Mr. Hyde will be fixed where it properly belongs.

"The bulk of the subject matter of the inquiry, so far as concerns the Equitable Society, relates to practices and conditions that antedated by many years his active connection with the society, of which he has no knowledge and which seem to have been continued under the administration with which he subsequently became identified.

Hyde Is Willing to Aid.

"Mr. Hyde instructs me to say that he is willing to assist the inquiry by voluntarily appearing as a witness and in any other way that may be found desirable, provided his rights and those of his father's estate can be reasonably safeguarded.

"It is hardly necessary to remind you that this inquiry is not being conducted subject to any rules of law; that the witnesses are without protection or representation except such as may be accorded them by counsel for the committee.

"Civil suits have been begun and are now pending by the Attorney General and private citizens against Mr. Hyde, and others are threatened against him and against the estate in which his mother and sister are interested, based upon some of the transactions which have been made the subject of your inquiry.

"Unlike the other insurance companies

now under investigation, the affairs of the Equitable have already been exploited as the result of internal dissensions between the officers. Mr. Hyde has, as you know, been examined at great length in a secret proceeding by a hostile Superintendent of Insurance, the main purpose and effect of which seem to have been to misrepresent and exaggerate his connection with the transactions under investigation and to shield others on whom the responsibility rested.

"On that investigation Mr. Hyde was refused the right to the presence of counsel at the hearing, although the Superintendent had counsel to conduct this star chamber proceedings.

"As the result of this performance and of statements made before your committee, which have not yet been subjected to the test of cross-examination, Mr. Hyde has been grossly misrepresented and injured in the public esteem for his supposed connection with transactions for which he is not responsible—except for having trusted to older and more experienced men.

"He is not willing to repeat that experience now in another form before your committee.

"He is prepared to waive all legal objections to appearing, and to tell your committee fully and frankly everything he knows, except as to matters that are embraced in pending litigation, on condition that your committee will in common fairness accord him the right of being represented, advised, and re-examined by counsel.

"It is not right, and I hope it is not the purpose of your committee, to use this ex-parte and, to my mind, unauthorized, proceeding for the purpose of gathering evidence in support of pending or impending suits. Such methods are contrary to our institutions and sense of fairness.

"I do not for a moment suggest that you would make use of Mr. Hyde's offer to appear before you for any such improper purpose, but in view of the gross misrepresentations to which this young man has been subjected, and the fact that he has never yet had an opportunity of explaining his position, I think it but right that we should have some such understanding as is here outlined.

"If, therefore, Mr. Hyde may have the benefit of counsel at the hearing, and on your assurance that his examination will not include the subject matter of the pending suits, he will appear for examination at any time next week that may be fixed by you. Very truly yours,

"SAMUEL UNTERMYER."

To Take Up the Mutual Soon.

Although the programme laid out for the next session or two of the Armstrong committee will probably be devoted mainly to the consideration of the New York Life Insurance Company's real estate transactions and the conditions of its business, it was learned yesterday that at no very remote date the committee will take up the Mutual Life and will inquire particularly into the question of salaries paid to several officers and employes who are relatives of high officers in the company.

One thing that members of the investigating committee want to ascertain is the truth or falsity of the report which has gained circulation in financial circles since the hearings have been on that President Richard McCurdy of the Mutual draws a salary of $150,000 a year, and whether the commissions received by his son, Richard A. McCurdy, on the European business of the company, which is under his management, amount, as alleged, to between $200,000 and $250,000 a year.

It also appears that Dr. Tebeau, who married President McCurdy's only daughter, is a partner in the large insurance office of Charles H. Raymond & Co., at 26 Liberty Street. The committee will make it an especial object to inquire whether or not an arrangement existed between Charles H. Raymond & Co. and the Mutual Life as regards commissions that was different from those between the Mutual and its other agencies.

The Perkins Sale.

The investigators learned something new to them yesterday concerning the action of the New York Life Insurance Company in having George W. Perkins of its Finance Committee sell to J. P. Morgan & Co. $800,000 of its participation in the International Navigation Syndicate at par on Dec. 31, 1903, and buy it back on Jan. 2, the first business day following. Mr. Perkins's explanation was that the Finance Committee of the New York Life had decided to sell the securities at 75, so that the New York Life would not have to carry over more than the $3,200,000 navigation syndicate underwriting which it admitted in its published report, and that he, not wishing such a sacrifice of the securities, saved them until a better price could be realized.

Yesterday, however, it was recalled that several Western States require that insurance companies in reporting annually their condition shall compute the value of the securities standing among their assets on the basis of the last sale. The last sale in December, 1903, of International Navigation Syndicate was in the vicinity of 75, the figure at which the Finance Committee of the New York Life voted to sell the securities—that is to say, this was the last sale until Mr. Perkins of the New York Life sold $800,000 of the participation to Mr. Perkins of J. P. Morgan & Co. at par. That transaction thereupon became the last sale, and it was then possible, had the New York Life chosen to do so, to report the $3,200,000 underwriting which it held to the Western States at par, just as it reported it to the New York State department.

To Choose Equitable Directors.

"The next meeting of the Equitable Trustees will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 11. The principal business will be the filling of the six vacancies now existing in the board, and any others that may occur before that date. Consideration will also be given at an early day to the filling of the 1905 class of Directors to succeed those now in office. Of the thirteen of these, two places are vacant, four are filled by old members, and seven are held by Directors chosen upon the recommendation of the Trustees at their meetings in June and July of the present year.

"In spite of his absence in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, Mr. Cleveland has given much time during the Summer to his duties as Trustee, and it is expected that after the resumption of official activity he will come in from Princeton occasionally in order to give close personal attention to the work of the Trustees, which will demand a good deal of his time, especially during the remaining months of the present year."

COLORADO MAY ACT,

And Bar the New York Life and the Mutual—Inquiry Coming.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 3.—The Colorado State Insurance Department favors ruling out the New York Life and the Mutual Life of New York unless their present officers are discharged and the methods are changed. It also favors Government supervision of insurance companies, and an investigation of the alleged corruption funds to influence legislation.

"Unless the New York Life and the Mutual Life change their present methods and their present officers these companies will certainly be ruled out of Colorado," said Deputy Insurance Commissioner E. E. Rittenhouse to-day.

This means, he says, that President McCall, Vice President Perkins, and President McCurdy will have to resign if they expect the New York Life or the Mutual to operate in this State in the future. Mr. Rittenhouse has received information that other Western States will follow Colorado.

"Of course, should the investigation result in a change of methods and officers, their right to do business will be continued. That would be the best thing for the policy holders," said Mr. Rittenhouse.

He favors Government supervision of insurance companies, and has so notified the New York investigators. Whether any insurance money has been spent in influencing legislation in Colorado, may be the subject of State inquiry at an early date. It is declared that in the last four sessions of the Assembly "the insurance trust" maintained a large lobby to defeat measures that might increase the duties of the companies toward the State and their policy holders.

Policy Holders and Stockholders Not Defendants — Causes of Action Wrongly United—No McCall Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 3.—Attorney General Mayer reiterated to-day the declaration made on the eve of his departure for the North Woods last week that he had not asked President McCall of the New York Life Insurance Company to restore to the assets of that company the sums contributed for political campaign purposes and that he had not yet taken any steps to compel by legal action or otherwise a restitution of the money handed over to the Republican National Committee.

Attorney General Mayer returned from the North Woods to-day and immediately set to work to clear his desk of accumulated business. Included in this was the answer of James H. Hyde in the action of the People against the old Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society to compel restitution of sums alleged to have been wrongfully converted.

Mr. Hyde declares that scarcely any of the allegations state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. His demurrer will be considered by the Supreme Court in the November term. Even if it is not sustained, the trial of the action will probably be put off until next Spring or Summer.

Mr. Hyde declares that there is a defect of parties defendant "in that the policy holders * * * are not made parties defendant herein, they being necessary parties to the action so far as it relates to the determination of their title to ownership of rights in the disposition of the surplus of said corporation, and particularly to a determination to the pretended cause of action purporting to be set forth."

The demurrer also declares that there is a defect of parties defendant, "in that the stockholders * * * are not made parties defendant herein, they being necessary parties to the action so far as it relates to the determination of their title to ownership of rights in and disposition of the surplus of said corporation, and particularly to a determination of the pretended cause of action purporting to be set forth."

The demurrer also says:

Seventeenth—That causes of action have been improperly united in the said complaint, in that certain alleged causes of action against the Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States for relief under Subdivisions 1, 2, and 4 of Section 1,781 of the Code of Civil Procedure, to wit: (a) to require the defendants herein, other than the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, to account for their official conduct in the management and disposition of the funds and property committed to their charge; (b) to compel the said defendants and each of them to pay to the defendant the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States any money and the value of any property which they or any of them have acquired to themselves or transferred to others, or lost or wasted by a violation of their duties, and (c) to cause one or more of the said defendants to be removed as a Director or Directors, officer or officers, of the said corporation, are united with a pretended cause of action to determine the ownership of the net surplus of the defendant, the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, and the payment and distribution thereof to the present policy holders of said corporation.

Eighteenth—That the causes of action have been improperly united in the said complaint, to wit: (a) A cause of action against the defendant for an accounting with regard to alleged acts and omissions on his part, with a cause of action with regard to alleged acts and omissions of James W. Alexander and Thomas D. Jordan, set forth in the seventeenth paragraph of the complaint, to alleged acts and omissions of the defendant Chauncey M. Depew, set forth in the eighteenth paragraph of the complaint, and to alleged acts and omissions of James W. Alexander, A. G. Tarbell, and William H. McIntyre, set forth in the fourteenth paragraph of the complaint, with none of which alleged causes of action this defendant is in any way connected by the allegations of the complaint;

(b) A cause of action for the removal from office of various defendants who are Directors of the defendant society, other than this defendant, with a cause or causes of action for an accounting against defendants other than this defendant who are Directors of said corporations;

(c) A cause or causes of action for an accounting against this defendant and others who are not Directors of the defendant society, with a cause or causes of action for an accounting against this defendant;

(d) A cause or causes of action for an accounting with respect to the management of the defendant society before this defendant became a Director thereof, with a cause or causes of action for an accounting with respect to the management of the said society while this defendant was such Director.

MANY UNSANITARY BAKERIES.

Commissioner Darlington Planning to Inspect Every Shop in the City.

Commissioner Darlington of the Board of Health announced yesterday that his department, working in connection with a delegation of the Central Federated Union, had inspected forty-two bakeries in Manhattan, and that most of them were in an unsanitary condition. The Commissioner said he was making plans to have every bakery in the city inspected.

When the bakers' strike was in progress in the east side reports were circulated as to the condition of the shops. A delegation of the bakers visited the Commissioner and he immediately started an investigation and detailed Inspectors to examine the forty-two shops that the strikers said were unsanitary. The Inspectors reported yesterday that twenty-two of the shops needed immediate alterations.

When the Commissioner heard the report, he ordered the necessary changes to be made at once.

The strikers had reported that many of the bakers had consumption, but the Inspectors found no cases of the disease in any of the forty-two shops.

MORE FEVER ON GULF COAST.

Additional Medical Aid Sent—Slight Increase at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—The Surgeon General has ordered another of Dr. White's officers to Mississippi to help out on the Gulf Coast, where the yellow fever situation is far from promising. Grande Isle seems to have developed a nest of infection, following the one case reported there some time ago. Twenty-nine new cases were reported to-day.

Two deaths and thirty new cases were reported in this city to-day. The health officers say it is to be expected that on some days there will be sharp contrasts in the figures.

F. A. Peckham Gets Bail.

SARATOGA, Oct. 3.—Habeas corpus proceedings in the case of Frederick A. Peckham in connection with the cotton leak scandal were argued before Judge Ray in the United States Circuit Court at Auburn to-day, and were adjourned until Oct. 16. Peckham was released on $12,000 bail.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Frederick A. Peckham failed to respond when his name was called to-day in the Criminal Court. It was stated that some complication had arisen over the responsibility of his New York bondsmen.

FIREBUG DRIVES MANY OUT.

Woman Badly Hurt in Williamsburg Blaze Early To-day.

A fire, believed to have been incendiary, started in the cellar of the four-story double tenement at 235 Lee Avenue, Williamsburg, early this morning, and the sixteen families were driven to the fire escapes.

All were rescued by the firemen and police except Mrs. Mary Trout, 66 years old, who jumped from a second-story fire-escape to the back yard and sustained a fracture of the skull, a dislocated shoulder, and internal injuries.

The firemen were returning from another cellar fire four blocks away when the alarm was sounded.

The similarity of the two fires struck the firemen and the police as strange.

IT WON'T BE O'DONNEL.

Doesn't Lack Qualities for a Possible Mayor, but Won't Be Chosen.

According to a statement issued by Charles F. Murphy at Tammany Hall yesterday, the selection of a Democratic candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen is still open. Frank A. O'Donnel, President of the Tax Board, will not be nominated. Mr. Murphy said that this was not because Mr. O'Donnel lacked any qualities necessary for the office, but simply because he did not want the nomination.

McClellan for Mayor and Metz for Controller are definitely settled, but the selection of the third man on the slate is causing some deep thinking on the part of the organization leaders. This afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Tammany Executive Committee at Tammany Hall, at which an agreement may be reached on a candidate for third place. If no Manhattan man is agreed on then the conference of the City Committee, which will be held this evening at the Democratic Club, undoubtedly will result in the announcement of a full slate for nomination at to-morrow night's City Convention in Carnegie Hall.

Charles V. Fornes will preside at the City Convention and Eugene A. Philbin will present the name of Mayor McClellan. It had been expected that Martin W. Littleton would second the nomination for Brooklyn, but Controller Grout said last night that he had been requested to do this and had consented. Mr. Littleton may make the nominating speech for Herman A. Metz for Controller.

Two delegations visited Tammany Hall yesterday to present requests to Mr. Murphy. The first represented the laborers of the Street Cleaning Department. They protested that the men were not paid for overtime work. Mr. Murphy said he would bring the matter to the attention of Mayor McClellan.

The second delegation was from the Public Ownership League, and was headed by James P. Archibald. This organization has no connection with the Municipal League, which, it claims, has stolen its field of work. The committee urged the adoption of a strong municipal ownership plank by the coming City Convention. Mr. Murphy requested the committee to submit a draft of a plank such as the members would like.

GARFIELD'S COMMERCE PLAN.

Favors Franchise for Control of Inter-State Business.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 3.—James R. Garfield, United States Commissioner of Corporations, reviewing the insurance situation, said to-day:

"The rapid development of the insurance business, its extent, the enormous amount of money, and the diversity of interests involved, and the present business methods, suggest that under existing conditions insurance is commerce, and may be subjected to Federal regulations through affirmative action by Congress."

For the regulation of commerce, under which he classes insurance, Mr. Garfield thinks Congress should be requested to consider the advisability of enacting a law for the legislative regulation of Inter-State and foreign commerce under a license or franchise, which in general terms should provide as follows:

The granting of a Federal franchise or license to engage in Inter-State commerce.

The imposition of all necessary requirements as to corporate organization and management as a condition precedent to the grant of such franchise or license.

The requirement of such reports and returns as may be desired as a condition of the retention of such franchise or license.

The prohibition of all corporations and corporate agencies from engaging in Inter-State and foreign commerce without such Federal franchise or license.

The full protection of the grantees of such franchise or license who obey the laws applicable thereto.

The right to refuse or withdraw such franchise or license in case of violation of law, with appropriate right of judicial appeal to prevent abuse of power by the administrative officer.

SAYS RAILROADS DO NOT LOSE.

Iowa Meal Producers' Association President Testifies About Rates.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—A. L. Ames, President of the Iowa Corn Belt and Meal Producers' Association, testified to-day before the Inter-State Commerce Commission regarding freight rates on live stock and live stock products from Missouri River points to Chicago. Mr. Ames gave it as his opinion that Western railroads do not lose money on shipments of live stock as claimed by various railroad officials.

"I do not believe railroads lose money on live stock or anything else they haul," said the witness.

HAY WAS FOR ME—BOWEN.

Ex-Minister Also Repeats That President Offered Him Promotion.

WOODSTOCK, Conn., Oct. 3.—Herbert W. Bowen, ex-Minister to Venezuela, to-night issued the following statement:

"In ansewer to the letters that were exchanged recently by President Roosevelt and Mr. Loomis in regard to Mr. Hay, and published in yesterday's papers, I have to say only this:

"After I had sent to Washington all of the documents which I found in the legation at Caracas relating to Mr. Loomis, I received a letter from Mr. Hay stating, 'I have been greatly surprised and pained in reading the documents you sent me.' The following month he wrote to me a letter containing these friendly words: 'I have always taken your part, not only from personal liking, but from a conviction of your merits, your ability, your courage, and your integrity.'

"From a high official of the Department of State I received a letter written this last April stating 'Secretary Hay remains your stanch friend.' From the same high official I have in my possession a letter dated July 8, 1905, (eighteen days after I was dismissed from the diplomatic service by President Roosevelt), stating: 'I had a few words with Mr. Hay the day before he left W. (Washington) for N. H. (New Hampshire), and he spoke of Mr. Bowen in the same kindly and affectionate manner he always did.'

"Everyone who knew Mr. Hay knows that he could not possibly have been a friend to a man like Mr. Loomis, and that no power on earth could have induced him to denounce as a traitor an American official who refused to shield corruption.

"In conclusion, in order to show President Roosevelt's attitude toward Mr. Loomis, I will simply quote my last remark to him and his to me in the presence of witnesses the day he dismissed me: 'Mr. President, you will remember that after I sent to you all the information I had about Mr. Loomis you offered me a promotion that was intended to lead to an Ambassadorship.' 'Well,' he answered, 'I would have done a great deal to hush up the scandal.'"

I'M READY TO FIGHT, SAYS SCHMITTBERGER

Declares He Won't Use Kid Gloves in Tenderloin, Either.

FORCE HIS ONLY METHOD

Inspector Asserts That He Has Done Nothing But His Duty, and Won't Be Long in Proving It.

"I never retreat, you know that. I have done nothing I need be ashamed or afraid of. When I'm through with this I will have the respect of the newspapers and the public, and that is all I care about. I am now preparing a report for the Police Commissioner. It will be voluminous and cover the entire Tenderloin situation, hut of course I cannot discuss its contents at the present time."

Police Inspector Schmittberger made this statement when asked last night what defense he would make to the charge that he and his men used unnecessary violence in the recent raid made on the Bon Ton Club, a Tenderloin resort.

Friends of Inspector Schmittberger declare that the present attack on his method of enforcing the law in his district has been instigated by a certain element to whom the strict enforcement of the law would spell ruin in the long run.

It is pointed out by the Inspector's friends that with another election approaching this element is beginning to assert itself and demand consideration from the powers that be.

Commissioner McAdoo said last night that he had instructed the Inspector to make all possible haste in preparing a full report on the raids of which Mayor McClellan complained on Monday.

The Inspector was at work on the document until a late hour last night, and then he said he was not certain it would be in the Commissioner's hands before Thursday at the earliest. It will be accompanied by affidavits from many persons who saw the raid and are in a position to tell exactly what happened.

Commissioner McAdoo said he had received a letter signed Solomon Flam, which is supposed to have been written by a man who has a tailor's shop in the basement of the building where the Bon Ton Club is situated. Flam wrote the Commissioner that he could produce at least twenty witnesses who had been brutally assaulted by the police at the time of the raid, and others who had their property destroyed. The Commissioner wrote and asked him to send his witnesses along to Police Headquarters.

What attitude the Commissioner finally will take in regard to one of the first acts of the two men he sent to the Tenderloin with orders to clean it up is as yet a riddle. Inspector Schmittberger is said to have told the Commissioner when he was ordered to the Tenderloin that he would not handle the lawless element there with kid gloves.

"I want to fight," Schmittberger said yesterday. "As matters stand now, it is either Schmittberger and Dooley in the Tenderloin or the gambler and the poolroom proprietor. The Police Department in these raids has struck at the very men who foster vice in the Tenderloin. If they are not crushed, the police might just as well give up.

"I admit that my men used force in raiding the Bon Ton Club, but they used no unnecessary force. If you want to clean up the Tenderloin you must use force and plenty of it. The trouble was that I struck at 'Bob' Nelson, who has a 'pull' and in reality is the Tenderloin. The whole neighborhood knew what that thrust meant and prepared to fight for its life."

"Bob" Nelson resents Inspector Schmittberger's statement that he is the Tenderloin; that he is at the head of the organization known as the Bon Ton Club, and that he is the man who is responsible for the troublous times the new Inspector is having just now.

"I know of no scheme to oust Inspector Schmittberger," Nelson said last night. "Because a good many people here patronize my saloon, at Sixth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, I suppose, he believes I'm agitating things against him. I take it that he thinks I've got something to do with the 'kick' that's being raised about Capt. Dooley's refusal to accept real estate as bail in misdemeanor cases. I have long been out of the bonding game. It's nothing to me."

ALL THE DOOLEYS COMING.

Immigration of a Famous Family to the Lightsome Tenderloin.

Since the ruction over the Bon Ton raid, Capt. Dooley is not finding much work for his men to do. He is himself rarely at the station, and few arrests are heing made.

William J. Dooley, a brother of the new Captain, will report for duty as a Sergeant at the Tenderloin within a day or two. Roundsman Starkey, a nephew, from down Coney way, is already on duty. More of the Dooley family are expected.

EGGERS'S AXE SWINGS AGAIN.

This Time He Leads a Raid on Alleged Poolroom in Forty-sixth Street.

Acting Captain Eggers, with his detectives and axes, went raiding again yesterday. This time, however, Capt. Gallagher, commander of the local precinct, was invited to participate. The supposed poolroom was over "The Oak," a saloon at 227 West Forty-sixth Street.

The entrance to the poolroom is next to the saloon. Detective Hamilton stepped into the hallway and tackled the lookout. The man shouted the alarm, however, and immediately a hig door at the head of the stairs slammed heavily.

Eggers, Gallagher, and the seven detectives ran up the stairs at once. The axes were put in commission, and within three minutes the heavy door and the adjoining partition had been hroken down.

Inside the room nearly 200 people were rushing about. Dozens were crowding on the fire escapes. The detectives pulled their revolvers and gave the order for everybody to stand still.

When all the men were in the room Capts. Eggers and Gallagher picked out the alleged proprietor and two other men who were charged with aiding and abetting in the running of a poolroom.

The prisoners gave their names as David Baxter, of 131 West Twenty-third Street, James O'Malley of 222 West Thirty-fifth Street, and John D. Thayer of 260 West Twenty-sixth Street. Baxter is the alleged proprietor.

DISCRIMINATION A BOON, SAYS HILL OF RATES

CERTAIN ROAD TO RUIN

Great Northern President Argues Against Federal Control Before the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 3.—In his speech last night before the Chamber of Commerce, President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern spoke as follows on the question of rates:

"The United States has to-day the lowest rate transportation in the world by a great extent. Russia has the next lowest, and there they pay for hauling a ton freight 100 miles an average of $1.70. Great Britain pays an average of $2.35, and the United States pays an average of 76 cents.

"Notwithstanding that the average rate paid hy the people of the United States is only about 40 per cent. of that of Russia, we have a great many people who are preaching a new doctrine, and that is the regulation of railway rates hy Federal authority. Now, let me say to you that if the Federal laws or the State laws are what they ought to be they ought to protect every man in the enjoyment of his own proper rights and nothing beyond.

"Take the case of our own Great Northern Railway. It has been announced in an official manner that there has been no reduction of rates in the United States for twenty-five years; that earnings have been reduced at times, hut that whenever a tariff was reduced the classification got another turn of the wheel and advanced so as to offset the reduction in the tariff.

"The man who made that statement did not tell the truth. For twenty-five years our Great Northern Railway rates have been reduced, until to-day they are from 12 to 16 per cent. lower than the rates of any other transcontinental railway hut one, and that one lies alongside of us.

REDUCTION IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

"Now I have just as much satisfaction in knowing the truth of that as any one who has to pay for the transportation. The reduction in the average rate per ton per mile in twenty-five years on the Great Northern Railway aggregates $667,000,000. That is enough to huild the Northern Pacific Railway and the Great Northern and the line down the north shore of the Columbia River, equip them and everything connected with them. That has been the reduction that the people have got on one railroad, and it is difficult for a railroad to make a reduction that does not reach some other railroad.

"I remember when we came to the coast it looked rather lonesome to build a railroad across all the mountains and find nothing on all the face of the earth that was dealt in but lumber in a moderate way and town lots by wholesale. We could not make a cent carrying town lots, so there was nothing except lumber.

"We made a rate on lumber in desperation, which remains to-day the lowest rate that has ever been made on lumber. But what did it do for you people in Oregon and Washington? At that time stumpage was going begging anywhere from 10 to 20 cents a thousand. To-day you cannot buy stumpage that is at all assessable for less than $1 a thousand, and the advance in that one interest has been at least in the two States $600,000,000.

"These lines have fought it out. I find a great many of our Great Northern stockholders deeply interested in the other lines, and a great many of their stockholders are deeply interested in ours, and that happens not to be against the law. It is against the law to carry a certificate in your pocket that represents two railroads, but if you carry two certificates and one has a blue back and the other a green back, you are entirely within the law.

"That is the way we are placed at present, so that by getting the two we can join hands and make an equal and joint affair of building down the North Shore. And let me say to you, it cannot fail, because we have 22,000 miles of good, prosperous railroad behind us. We have 22,000 miles, which is about 10 per cent. of the total mileage of the United States, and it is going to have one end down here on the Columbia.

"Now, before I close, I want to call your attention in all earnestness to something that you are most deeply interested in, and that is Federal regulation of railroad rates. Every lawyer will tell you that there is a clause called the Inter-State commerce clause of the Constitution of the United States, which provides that the Federal Government shall not in any way by regulation of commerce under that clause discriminate for or against any locality at the expense of others, and so on.

EFFECT OF DISCRIMINATION.

"You could not live if the railroads did not discriminate in your favor. How can Congress pass a law or any commission on the face of the earth make a law that does not discriminate, unless they make a distance tariff that is equal for the same distance for a hundred miles here or a hundred miles there? Apply that same rule to you and see what your rates will be. I will undertake to say that your rates in one hour from the time such a law was enacted or such a tariff was published would be doubled or twice and a half what they are, and I am more than surprised that a gentleman can listen to such rotten trash.

"If there is any place that could stand it, I suppose it would be somewhere between Albany and New York, and they might get as far West as Syracuse, but by the time they got to Buffalo they would want to get off. By the time they would get to the Mississipi River the rate would be prohibitive.

"Take a distance tariff. I care not how small you make it for the first hundred miles. Suppose you made it 2 cents a hundred; what would you do with 3,500 miles? You could not live. There is not a man doing business west of the Missouri River who would not have to stop. Your fields would cease to be cultivated.

"I am not afraid that any Federal regulation will ever get down deep enough to touch us where we live, because long before they do the country will be strewn with railroad corporations. It would bankrupt two-thirds of the mileage of the United States.

"That may seem a little like talking through a megaphone, hut I put it right to you as our associates and partners in the business, because you have got to find a market and we have got to transport it for you at a price that will enable you to find the market. Let me ask you in all earnestness to look that question up fairly and see whether I am not right."

HEARST, DECLINING, STILL PRESSED TO RUN

Municipal Ownership Folks Won't Take His "No."

I AM NOT THE MAN, HE SAYS

Earnest and Disinterested, but He Has Enemies Who Might Hurt His Ticket.

William Randolph Hearst declined last night to accede to the request of the municipal ownership forces that he become the candidate of that party for the Mayoralty. Mr. Hearst's letter of declination was presented to a meeting of the municipal ownership forces held at 283 Fourth Avenue. It was addressed to Judge Samuel Seabury, who communicated to Mr. Hearst the desire of the municipal ownership advocates to have him lead their fight in the campaign.

After the letter had been read to the meeting it was voted that a committee be appointed to wait on Mr. Hearst and inform him that the municipal ownership forces would not take his "No" for an answer; that unless he absolutely prohibited the use of his name the municipal ownership convention would nominate him.

In his letter Mr. Hearst said:

I thank you for your kind letter and your good opinion, but I do not feel that it would be for the best interests of the independent movement for me to become its leader.

It does not seem to me that this fight for principle should be cumbered by the introduction of personal hostilities. I am proud of my friends, for our friendship is disinterested; and I am almost equally proud of my enemies, for these latter belong to the rich, powerful, and unscrupulous class that most people are afraid to have as enemies.

I am NOT afraid of them. I glory in doing battle with them whenever I see their greedy hands outstretched for the public purse. But I AM afraid to array their power and wealth and unscrupulous methods in their most violent form against a movement which means so much for the welfare of the community. I think this movement can best be brought to success under some other man, and I will fight harder than I would fight for myself, and more effectively than I could for myself, for any upright man who will make an honest fight against the bosses and the forces of corruption.

I would make any sacrifice to run if I thought it would benefit the independent movement, but I do NOT think so. I appeal to my friends and associates among the business men and merchants, to my friends on the east side and my constitutents on the west side, to my friends among union labor from whom I have received more favors than I can ever repay, though I shall never cease to try—I appeal to them all to unite in the movement against the traitors in office and the franchise thieves back of them. And if my friends would support me, I entreat them to support more enthusiastically whatever conscientious man may be nominated by the independents—a man who will be, I am sure, better fitted in many ways to lead this important movement to success.

Ex-Senator Ford was indorsed by the meeting for Controller. The nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen was left open, and a committee of five was appointed to canvass candidates considered available for that place on the ticket and report to the mass meeting in the Grand Central Palace to-night.

It was reported after the meeting that there had been a division of sentiment over the resolution for the appointment of a committee to call upon Mr. Hearst and request him to reconsider his declination to run for Mayor. It was said that the vote in favor of the appointment of the committee was 30 to 11, instead of being unanimous. Congressman Shober denied last night that there had been any dissent to the proposal.

The committee named to wait on Mr. Hearst was led by Judge Seabury and ex-Senator Ford, both of whom have been prominently mentioned in connection with the Mayoralty nomination on the Municipal Ownership ticket. The committee saw Mr. Hearst in his office late last night and told him of the indisposition of the advocates of municipal ownership to permit him to decline their call to head their ticket. Mr. Hearst thanked the committee for the compliment, but did not say whether or not he would reconsider. The committee departed hopeful that he might.

At the mass meeting of the municipal ownership forces in the Grand Central Palace to-night, Mr. Hearst will be among the speakers. Others will be Judge Seabury, ex-Senator Ford, Bird S. Coler, and John De Witt Warner.

CLARK ARCHITECTS DISPUTE.

Senator's House May Be Delayed by Their Legal Differences.

The trouble between the architects engaged in the construction of Senator William A. Clark's house, at Fifth Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street, occupied the attention of the Supreme Court yesterday, where the trial of the action hrought by Austin W. Lord and J. Monroe Hewlett against Washington Hull was begun. Lord, Hewlett & Hull, as a firm, had offices at 16 East Twenty-third Street. When the break came on Sept. 21, 1899, included in the work on hand was Senator Clark's house.

The plaintiffs allege that the manner in which the defendant conducted himself created a lack of confidence on the part of the Senator, and for that reason he notified the firm that no orders or certificates from them as architects would be honored unless they were signed by two members of the firm. There were also other matters in dispute, and the plaintiffs demand a receivership or other relief.

Hull in his answer to the suit alleges that the plaintiffs made many errors in carrying out the work on the Clark house. He says that the plaintiffs possessed themselves of nearly all funds payable to the firm from Senator Clark and deposited them in an account to which they alone have access. A receivership, he said, would delay the work on the house.

Justice Davis reserved decision.

DOUGH COMMITTEE.

James W. Gerard, Jr., to Head the Receivers of Tammany's Fund.

Tammany Hall's Campaign Committee for the year was announced last night, James W. Gerard, Jr., again being Chairman. This is the committee which collects and has charge of the campaign funds, and is generally known as the "dough committee."

With Mr. Gerard are Thomas J. Brady, Joseph D. Carroll, William Astor Chanler, J. Sergeant Cram, Abraham Erlanger, John B. Hasslocher, Peter A. Hendrick, George W. Loft, Alfred B. Maclay, Rocco Marasco, Charles F. Murphy, Milton Roblee, Leo Schlesinger, Charles A. Stadler, Henry S. Thompson, Harry Payne Whitney, and James T. Woodward.

FOOD.

SHOUTED UP

In England They Politely Refer to the Stomach as "Little Mary."

Little Mary.—"I say up there, won't you please quit sending down such a variety of unnatural things to me.

"Here this morning first came down some sticky, pasty material, all starchy and only partly cooked. It was wheat or oats, and was decorated with milk and sugar.

"Between the unchewed mouthfuls came gulps of coffee, finally a good big drenching of it. Then some bread and a lot of grease, perhaps it was butter, then some fried eggs and fried meat and more coffee, and some fried cakos and syrup. You load things on me as if I could stand everything.

"I try faithfully, but there's no use; I can digest part of it, and the balance sours and I simply have to push it along to the liver. He says he's badly overworked now and gets so weak he almost collapses, so he sends the sour mass on down into the intestines to raise gas and trouble of all kinds. We can't help it, and you must either select your food with better reason or stand more and more trouble down here. Suppose you try us on some cooked or raw fruit, a little Grape-Nuts and cream, 2 soft-boiled (not fried) eggs, some well-hrowned toast, and a cup of Postum. Liver and I will guarantee to make you feel the keen joy of a hearty and well man if you will send those things down to us. There's a reason, but never mind that; try it first, and when you find we know what we are talking about, you may be ready to hear the reason."

SIMPSON CRAWFORD COMPANY is the only store in New York that has a full page advertisement every day. It is necessary in order to give the special values we assemble the mention they merit, and even then it is possible to tell about only a small part of them.

Men as well as women find in this page the keenest interest. They certainly should, for they are the ones that pay for the merchandise brought into their homes.

For instance, to-day one of the principal features in this advertisement is the announcement of a number of sample brass beds worth up to $75.00, to be sold at $35.00 each. If you are on your way down town now, stop at Simpson Crawford Co.'s and make sure of securing one of these unusual bargains.

Values like this are offered every day and it is by watching this page that you are able to take advantage of them.

Annual sale of Oneita underwear for women

FALL AND WINTER UNION SUITS.

Regular prices range from 75c. to 2.50.
Sale prices range from 40c. to 1.55.

WE do not hesitate to inform you that these garments are slightly imperfect. We knew they were imperfect when we bought them, and we took five thousand garments. We are pleased that they ARE imperfect, for the concession we received on that account enables us to offer Underwear values that will surprise you.

The name "Oneita" is familiar to more women than that of any other kind of Underwear. Not because the prices are low—they range from 75c. to 2.50—but for the reason that the quality is so good, that it is less expensive at the regular prices than the cheaper grades of underwear, and you can depend upon these "seconds" wearing as well as the perfect qualites.

40c — For the 75c Union Suits, White and natural—heavy fleeced cotton. $1.10 — for the 1.75 Union Suits. 90 per cent. fine wool it is non-shrinkable.

58c — for the 1.00 Union Suits. White, medium heavy weight, light merino. $1.35 — for the 2.00 Union Suits. White merino—about ¾ wool—not too heavy.

85c — for the 1.50 Union Suits. White merino, heavy weight—fine texture. $1.55 — for the 2.50 Union Suits. White merino—about half wool—good yarn.

THIS sale of "seconds," as they're termed, has been identified with Simpson Crawford Co. so long that it is looked for and awaited by hundreds of women who know that "seconds" give just as good service as the perfect qualities. Especially the "Oneita" seconds, for in nearly every instance the defects are carefully mended.

Once in a while in the manufacture of underwear a stitch is dropped or a thread broken. Ordinarily the imperfect garments would go right in with the others, for the defects are scarcely noticeable.

But with the "Oneita" it's different. it is the policy to allow only absolutely perfect goods of this celebrated underwear to go out at regular prices, and once a year the "seconds" are shipped to us for our annual sale. Of course we get them at a big reduction, and that accounts for the above unusual prices. Main Floor.

ENGRAVING SPECIALS.

ANOTHER of New York's exclusive organizations has just placed an order with the Simpson Crawford Co for all their stationery and engraving, after securing samples and estimates from several other high-class houses. Not only was the work highly satisfactory, but the prices lower than elsewhere. In view of THAT fact, we believe you will be interested in the following specials: Second Floor.

EXACTLY SIXTEEN Sample brass beds.

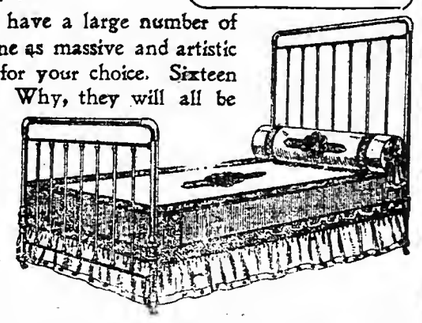
SALE PRICE 35.00

All that we have worth up to $75.00 go on sale to-day—special price

WE simply say—no more at this price, although we have a large number of 35.00 brass beds at 17.75—excellent values, but none as massive and artistic as these sample beds, worth up to 75.00—at 35.00 for your choice. Sixteen is not a large number, especially considering the value. Why, they will all be snapped up in a few hours. They'll bring a crowd to our furniture store. Now, sixteen is not a crowd, but we'll have a dozen customers for every bed. But you may have one—just consider that such an opportunity comes but once in months and you'll certainly come early enough to secure one of these beds. Fifth Floor.



We do not attempt to describe them—they're samples and the collection is too varied.

RUSSIA MAY INDORSE ANGLO-JAPANESE TREATY

An Agreement Regarding Central Asia Also Talked of.

JAPAN DISTRUSTS GERMANY

But Does Not Fear Her, Because It Is Not Believed That She Can Get France's Support.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cables. Copyright, 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 3.—The Novoe Vremya suggests that all the powers interested in the Far East, Russia, France, Germany, and the United States, should subscribe to the provisions of the Anglo-Japanese treaty respecting the maintenance of the status quo in China and that the affairs of Central Asia should become subject to a mutual guarantee between Great Britain and Russia.

The Novoe Vremya presents the case in a way suggesting official inspiration. Indeed, I have every reason to believe that it expresses the opinion held in the Foreign Office.

It is premature to discuss the ultimate objects of Russian diplomacy indicated by the desire to liquidate the whole Asiatic question, but it may be shrewdly suspected that Russia hopes thereby to have her hands free to deal with the Near East when a convenient moment arrives.

At any rate, it appears clearly established that the mooted alliance with Germany no longer finds supporters in St. Petersburg.

TOKIO, Oct. 3.—Germany's attitude toward the Anglo-Japanese alliance is the theme of much discussion in the Japanese press. The consensus of opinion ascribes to Germany a hostile feeling and the desire to organize a counter-coalition, but nothing effective in that line is considered possible, inasmuch as France is most unlikely to cooperate in such a combination.

It is evidently believed that France holds the key to the situation, for a Russo-German alliance without France is incapable of making headway in East Asia against England and Japan supported by America, which is morally allied to these two powers.

It is generally admitted that Germany's procedure during the war furnishes no ground for assuming her unfriendliness, but the utterances of some of her journals suggest the existence of a mood scarcely consistent with a genuine wish for peaceful development in the Far East.

KOMURA SAILS FOR HOME.

So Much Improved That Physician Leaves Him at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 3.—Baron Komura sailed last night on the Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of India for Yokohama.

Mr. Sato said his chief was so much improved that Dr. William Pritchard, who accompanied the Baron from New York, would leave him here.

RUSSIA WANTS $360,000,000.

This Country May Get a Part of the New Loan—Issue Price 90.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Bankers and other financiers are discussing the details of the new Russian loan. The Temps says:

"It is understood that a committee of bankers and representatives of financial institutions recently discussed the conditions of a new Russian loan, deciding that should the issue take place simultaneously in France, Germany, England, the United States, and Holland the amount demanded would be 1,800,000,000f. ($360,000,000,) half being reserved for the French market. Should, however, difficulties arise owing to differences in the quotations for Russian rentes in the various countries named, thereby preventing an agreement with reference to the issue price, the loan would be placed entirely in France, but the amount then would be only about 1,000,000,000f.

"The rate of interest, it is stated, will be 4 per cent., with an approximate issue price of 90. The Russian Government has requested French bankers and other financiers to send representatives to St. Petersburg immediately with full power to arrange details. The issue will probably take place at the end of October."

POPE WANTS TO SEND ENVOY.

Vatican Will Seek Representation at The Hague Conference.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—A dispatch to the Temps from Rome says the Vatican will seek to secure the seating of a delegate of the Holy See at The Hague peace conference.

The Vatican hopes to secure the friendly assistance of Germany, thus avoiding objection on the part of Italy to a Papal delegate.

CAUSES OF TUBERCULOSIS.

Congress Says They Are Alcoholism, Overwork, and Overcrowding.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Sections of the International Tuberculosis Congress to-day dealt at length from various points of view with tuberculosis, discussing a number of interesting papers. It was concluded that the most important causes of the disease were alcoholism, overwork, and overcrowding. The delegates emphasized the necessity for healthy dwellings, good food, and cleanliness as remedial measures.

The virulent nature of pulmonary consumption was generally recognized, opinions being expressed in favor of the isolation of patients.

Dr. Mazyck P. Ravenel, reporter of the American section, contended that bovine tuberculosis had proved in a number of instances to be transmissible to humans, and that therefore any relaxation of precautions against it would be unwise.

Dr. J. H. Lowman of Cleveland, Ohio, read a paper on the protection of children belonging to tuberculous families and proposing life in the country as a safeguard.

TEN KILLED AT ERIVAN.

Eight Mussulmans and Two Armenians —Quiet Now Restored.

TIFLIS, Oct. 3.—Quiet has been restored at Erivan, the troops having suppressed the rioters after eight Mussulmans and two Armenians had been killed and eleven persons had been wounded.

The trouble arose from an attempt on the part of a number of Armenians to rescue some of their fellow-countrymen who had been arrested for murdering a Tartar.

RAMSEY SUES GOULD TO ENJOIN ELECTION

Restraint of Trade Pleaded to Stop Voting Wabash Securities.

HEARING SET FOR FRIDAY

Gould Interests Say Plans for Tuesday Will Be Little Affected—Road's Ownership Disputed.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—Joseph Ramsey, Jr., President of the Wabash Railroad, to-day filed in the Circuit Court here suit for an injunction against the Iron Mountain and Wabash Railway Companies, the Mercantile Trust Company of New York, Walter S. Wilson, H. M. Walker, and George J. Gould. He asks the court to prevent holding the proposed annual meeting at Toledo, Ohio, next Tuesday, to elect a Board of Directors and a President of the Wabash Railroad for the ensuing year.

Judge Taylor ordered the defendants to show cause, at 10 o'clock next Friday morning, why a temporary injunction should not be issued.

The plaintiff alleges that one result of this meeting would be to stifle competition of the Wabash and Missouri Pacific roads between St. Louis and Kansas City. Mr. Ramsey sets out that he is a resident of Missouri, while the defendants are non-residents. He owns $50,000 par value Wabash debenture bonds, Class B, and 100 shares of the capital stock.

The Missouri Pacific Railway, he says, holds 20,000 shares of Wabash common and 65,000 shares of preferred stock, and the Iron Mountain holds $5,435,000, par value, debentures, these shares being held in trust by the Mercantile Trust Company, Wilson, Walker, and Gould. Gould, he says, owns or controls a majority of the stock of the Missouri Pacific and of the Iron Mountain Railway.

F. W. Lehmann, attorney for Mr. Ramsey, said to-day:

"The importance of this action to the public is that it is a suit to enjoin rival companies of the Wabash from voting its stock and debentures."

"The suit will make little difference in the outcome of the election," said Wells H. Blodgett, general solicitor of the Wabash. "It seems to be the custom for one road to hold bonds or stocks of another as part of its assets, and I cannot see how it can be classed as a combination in restraint of trade."

Alexander G. Cochran, Vice President and general solicitor of the Missouri Pacific, said:

"It is remarkable that Mr. Ramsey should suddenly become aware of the fact that competition might be stifled as a result of the meeting to be held in Toledo when Mr. Ramsey himself knows that the stock and bonds have been thus voted for ten years. There has been no suggestion on his part that competition might be stifled. There may be a question raised at the trial whether Mr. Ramsey actually owns the stock which he professes to.

"There is no allegation that the Iron Mountain is a competing line with either the Missouri Pacific or the Wabash, and as the entire petition is founded upon stifling of competition there is really no reason for the Iron Mountain being made a defendant."

The Gould interests, through a number of representatives, made it clear yesterday that it was their intention to make no statement in reply to that in which Mr. Ramsey sought to justify his opposition to the Gould management of the Wabash, in regard to the injunction suit, a man in Mr. Gould's confidence said he did not regard the action as presenting any serious difficulties.

John T. Terry and Mr. Ramsey met yesterday in a banker's office in Wall Street without prearrangement. Mr. Terry went to the office to protest against the supplying of information to Mr. Ramsey, which had resulted in the use of Mr. Terry's name in the Ramsey statement. The banker suggested that there was a chance to clear up the misunderstanding and requested Mr. Ramsey to join them.

The discussion turned on the question of the payment of more than $500,000 by Mr. Ramsey to the Grand Trunk Railway. Mr. Ramsey explained that the payment was made on order from Mr. Gould in connection with improvements undertaken by the Grand Trunk on portions of its lines used by the Wabash, the cost of which was to be met equally. The Grand Trunk protested some of the items, and, rather than be involved in a suit, Mr. Gould, it is said, ordered payment of the amount demanded by the Grand Trunk. Mr. Terry after his meeting said this matter had been "cleared up."

Mr. Ramsey said yesterday that he did not think George J. Gould and other members of his family owned more than 12 per cent. of the Wabash securities. A number of the Directors, he thought, held little more than enough stock to qualify them.

DUBLIN ROBBERY TRIVIAL.

"Priceless Antiques" Were Really a Few Curios and Medals.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—The alleged gigantic robbery of an "ancient Irish crown" and other priceless antiques, at the residence of John Mulhall, Vice Chairman of the General Prisons Board, is in reality a trivial affair.

A few curios and medals were stolen. Some of the articles were found by fishermen tied up in a handkerchief in the Grand Canal. Others were discovered in the room of a man who, together with two others, is now under remand.

BERLIN STRIKE EXTENDS.

Companies Able to Run Two-thirds of the Street Cars.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—The strike of the electrical workers has extended to two more factories. The total number of men out is 38,000. No disturbances have occurred.

Enough men have been obtained to supply a current sufficient to keep two-thirds of the street cars going.

Lord Mayor Entertains Chaffee.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Lieut. Gen. Chaffee and Brig. Gen. Crozier were entertained at luncheon by Lord Mayor Pound and the Lady Mayoress at the Mansion House to-day. Among the guests were Ambassador Reid and the staff of the American Embassy, Sir George Faudell-Phillips, ex-Lord Mayor of London, and Sir Joseph and Lady Lawrence. After the luncheon Gen. and Mrs. Chaffee and Gen. Crozier were taken in motor cars to Wrest Park, Bedfordshire, where they will be the guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Reid.

Another Tarrasch-Marshall Draw.

NUREMERG, Oct. 3.—Dr. Tarrasch this morning opened the twelfth game of the chess match of eight games up against the American, Marshall. He selected the Steinitz variation, and after 45 moves the sixth drawn game in the match was recorded. The score now stands: Tarrasch, 5; Marshall, 1; drawn, 6.

BOERS ARE ACCUSED OF PLOT.

A Nephew of De Wet and Others Arrested at Windhoek.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—Andrew de Wet, nephew of the famous Boer General Christian de Wet, has been arrested at his home in a suburb of Windhoek, German Southwest Africa, with four other Boers, accused of plotting the overthrow of German rule in Southwest Africa and the creation of a Boer Republic.

This news, purporting to come from an excellent authority, was distributed to the German press by the Hanseatic Press Bureau, and is accepted as true by leading Berlin journals.

Andrew de Wet, who is a merchant of Windhoek, is described as having arranged with the rebel natives to make common cause with them. About 15,000 Boers are said to be in German Southwest Africa, one-quarter of whom are organized. Considerable quantities of arms were seized at de Wet's house.

Although the arrests took place on Aug. 23 nothing was reported by cable to the newspapers, doubtless on account of the censorship.

Andrew de Wet married a daughter of a Prussian Army officer.

REFORM FOR HUNGARY.

Belief That the King Will Grant Modified Universal Suffrage.

VIENNA, Oct. 3.—The Emperor-King this morning received the Hungarian Premier, Baron Fejervary, and the Hungarian Interior Minister, M. Kristoffy, in special audience. Subsequently M. Lanyi, the Hungarian Minister of Justice, was summoned to the palace.

According to Hungarian reports, the reappointment of the Fejervary Cabinet, empowered to carry out the elections in Hungary on the basis of modified universal suffrage, is the outcome of the audience. The Premier was with his Majesty four hours and a half, the time being occupied by M. Kristoffy's explanation of his suffrage proposal.

Nothing is officially known, but it is reported that M. Kristoffy succeeded in favorably impressing the King, who withdrew his opposition to the principle of manhood suffrage, but insisted upon certain measures being taken, remarking that it was a "question of nationalities."

ANOTHER RIOT AT BRUENN.

A Number of Shops Wrecked—The Troops Called Out.

BRUENN, Austria, Oct. 3.—Fresh disturbances betwen the Germans and the Czechs broke out here this evening.

The Czechs marched through the streets wrecking stores and insulting Germans. Almost the whole garrison had to be called out to restore order, the rioters continuing the disturbances in the suburbs after being driven from the city.

Many persons were injured. Some of the windows of the Jewish synagogue were smashed. Strong patrols have been placed at all prominent German buildings for their protection during the night.

THOMPSON'S BODY FOUND.

New Yorker Who Escaped from a Sanitarium Committed Suicide.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The body of Peter H. Thompson, the New Yorker who has been missing from the private sanitarium of Dr. I. P. Roberts at Llanarch, was found to-day in a clump of bushes in a strip of woodland just back of Haverford, Penn., near here. In his right temple was a bullet hole and beside him was a revolver with one chamber empty. Michael Deeney of Philadelphia made the discovery, and will now claim the reward of $100 which was offered by Francis H. Sloan of New York, a brother-in-law of the dead man.

In the pockets of the dead man were found $10.44 and a gold watch and chain.

Mr. Thompson was formerly Vice President of the Peter Adams Paper Company, a New York concern, and he lived at 351 Hancock Street, Brooklyn. He retired from active business about six years ago. Recently he suffered from nervous prostration and came to a sanitarium at Llanarch, Penn. He was permitted to come and go as he chose. He was last seen alive on Wednesday morning, Sept. 27, at Llanarch, as if waiting for a car.

CROWE ACCUSES CUDAHY BOY.

Says Kidnapped Youth Got $6,000 of Ransom—Lad Denies It.

Special to The New York Times.

BUTTE, Mon., Oct. 3.—Pat Crowe, arrested here last night on a charge of kidnapping the son of Edward Cudahy of Omaha, in 1900, acknowledged his identity. Capt. W. F. McGrath and Detective McInerney caught him coming out of a saloon, and confronted him with revolvers. Crowe was terrified, thinking that they would shoot him.

This afternoon Crowe gave out a signed statement. He accuses young Cudahy of being in the deal on the kidnapping. The boy's share of the ransom was $6,000, Crowe says. Crowe and his partner took $9,500 each.

Young Cudahy himself conceived the plot, Crowe says, proposing that his father should be compelled to pay $50,000 ransom. Crowe and his partner considered this amount too steep. Finally $25,000 was agreed on. Eddie Cudahy, the prisoner says, took his share of the plunder home with him. Crowe said to-night:

"I want to go back to Omaha and face it all out. I hope I may have an opportunity to mend my ways.

"My first wrongdoing began after I was forced out of my butcher's business by the elder Cudahy. I was made the manager of the wholesale department of his plant, and began 'knocking down.' I soon became deeply involved. Since then I have been nothing but a piece of driftwood."

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 3.—Eddie Cudahy said to-night:

"There is not a single word of truth in the statement that I had anything to do either with the planning or the carrying out of the scheme, other than that I was the victim of the plot.

"The idea that I would do anything which would cause my mother the fear and anxiety which she suffered while I was in the hands of Crowe and his companions is perfectly absurd.

"Again, I was only fifteen years old at that time, and if I could plan like that I must have been a perfect wonder. And being so young, how on earth would I have got rid of $6,000 without my people knowing of it?"

This report was thoroughly investigated by the police shortly after the kidnapping. They discredited the rumor.

Roddy Association Wants Injunction.

Justice Sewell of Columbia County, while sitting in the Supreme Court in Kings County, issued an injunction last July restraining the police from interfering with or picketing the clubhouse of the John M. Roddy Association at 116th Street and Eighth Avenue. The police asserted that a poolroom was conducted there. Yesterday ex-District Attorney Ridgway of Kings County applied to Justice Stover to make the injunction permanent. Justice Stover said he would hand down a decision later.

PAPER TRUST MUST ANSWER.

Court Also Orders It to Produce Papers and Books.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 3.—Judge Vandeventer, in the United States District Court this afternoon, decided that the officers of the Hennepin Paper Company, the Itasca Paper Company, and the Northwest Paper Company should appear before the United States Examiner and answer such questions as might be asked of them in the hearing of the case of the United States against the General Paper Company and twenty-three other defendants.

The court also decided that the books and papers mentioned in the subpoena should be produced and be submitted to the Government for examination.

The court, in rendering the oral opinion in the case, held that a corporation under the Constitution stood in the same relation to the statute of immunity as an individual. He held that a corporation could testify against itself so far as a corporation could speak through its officers, its books and receipts, and that in the case at issue it should give the testimony desired, but that under the statute of immunity it could not be prosecuted criminally for any revelations that might be made on the witness stand.

As to the matter of the odium of the charge, which was one of the points raised, the court held that it could not be helped. The matters desired were pertinent to the issue, and the Government should have its request granted.

The court did not decide that the defendants were in contempt. That, he intimated, might come if the witnesses refused to obey the order of the court.

CASE OF LIEUT. HAMILTON.

President to Decide Fate of Alexander Hamilton's Grandson.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The record of the case of First Lieut. Louis McLane Hamilton of the Fourteenth Infantry, who was tried by general court-martial at Vancouver Barracks, Washington, for alleged violations of army regulations, has been received at the War Department.

As the case requires the action of the President, it is assumed that the officer was convicted and sentenced to be dismissed from the service. Lieut. Hamilton is a grandson of Alexander Hamilton.

AN ARTFUL DODGER CAUGHT.

Benny Fein Accused of Teaching the Young Idea to Pick Pockets.

Principal H. W. Smith of Public School No. 20 made complaint to the police recently that a gang of young men expert in snatching women's pocketbooks and picking pockets had headquarters in the neighborhood of Forsyth and Stanton Streets, and were recruiting pupils from among the boys of his school. Benjamin Fein, alias "Dopey Benny," who was said to be a walking recruiting station for the criminal academy, was frequently seen in the neighborhood of Mr. Smith's school talking with boys.

"Come with me," he would tell the lads, "and you won't have to sit in school all day. You'll get into a nice school, where you'll be treated right and have plenty of money."

According to Mr. Smith, Fein succeeded in getting many of the boys to follow him when they were introduced into the guild of pocketpicking and became proficient in that line.

Yesterday Fein was arrested and locked up in the Eldridge Street Police Station, charged with holding up Robert Hoffman of 451 Grand Street and assaulting Max Gordon of 71 Essex Street. In the capture of Fein the police believe that they will break up the gang. Six of its members have already been sent to prison, including "Julius the Badger," "Dick the Blond," and "Nick the Dago."

TRUST COMPANIES MAY ENTER CLEARING HOUSE

Compromise Likely on Question of Reserves..

BANK STATEMENT ATTACKED

W. A. Nash Says with the Trust Companies Excluded It Is No Guide to the Financial Situation.

As a result of steps taken by the Clearing House Association at its annual meeting yesterday, renewed efforts will be made to bring about harmonious relations between the banks and the trust companies.

At the meeting a committee was appointed to consider the relations of the trust companies to the Clearing House, and the proposal was advanced that if possible the trust companies should be taken into the Clearing House as members of that association. The subject was introduced by William A. Nash, President of the Corn Exchange Bank, and formerly Chairman of the Clearing House Committee. The resolution proposed by Mr. Nash and approved unanimously follows:

"Resolved, That the Clearing House Committee be required to consider the relations of the Clearing House and the trust companies to the end that harmonious relations may be renewed on a basis that will insure their right to the Clearing House either as members or through representative banks."

By way of introduction to this resolution, Mr. Nash presented to the members a frank review of the relations at present existing between the banks and trust companies, and made reference to the need of bringing about a change in present conditions. No official record of Mr. Nash's remarks was made public. Requested last night to give a summary of his remarks, Mr. Nash said that his statements were addressed to his associates and were not intended for publication.

Some who attended the meeting said that Mr. Nash expressed the opinion that the present condition of estrangement between the two classes of institutions was fraught with danger, and that a remedy was necessary. He argued, they said, that some modification of the present Clearing House rules in regard to trust company reserves might properly be undertaken with a view to arriving at a basis acceptable to the trust companies as well as to the Clearing House.

It was further said that Mr. Nash dealt with equal frankness with the question of the weekly bank statement. It was said that he characterized this as farcical, pointing out that the statement could not be an accurate guide to the financial situation so long as the trust companies with deposits equal almost to those of the banks were not included.

The present strained relations between the banks and the trust companies, which apparently originated in the rivalry between the two classes of institutions, was more directly the result of efforts made two years ago by the Clearing House Association to force the trust companies to carry a reserve in cash much in excess of the amount which they considered sufficient.

The Clearing House at that time ruled that all trust companies which desired the privilege of clearing through some member bank should establish a specified cash reserve that was to be gradually increased to 15 per cent. Rather than submit to this regulation many trust companies decided to forego altogether the privilege of clearing through some bank and continued to manage their reserves as they deemed best. The developments at yesterday's meeting indicate a disposition on the part of the banks to compromise on the question of reserves.

The committee appointed to take up the question of the relations of the Clearing House and the trust companies is identical with the newly appointed Clearing House committee. It is composed of William H. Porter, President of the Chemical National Bank; Valentine P. Snyder, President of the National Bank of Commerce; James Stillman, President of the National City Bank; J. E. Simmons, President of the Fourth National Bank, and Richard Delafield, President of the National Park Bank.

Dumont Clarke, President of the American Exchange National Bank, was chosen President of the Clearing House Association.

THEATRE PORTICO MUST GO.

Appellate Court Holds That the Amsterdam's Front Is Unlawful.

The heavy-columned portico of the New Amsterdam Theatre, in Forty-second Street, must go, if a decision handed down by the Appellate Division yesterday holds. The court decides that the ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen, under which the permit for the portico was issued, is unconstitutional. The action grew out of Samuel McMillan's objection to the construction of a part of the theatre which extended four feet beyond the building line. McMillan owns an adjacent lot. He insisted that the projection of the portico beyond the building line was an invasion of his rights. The Klaw & Erlanger Construction Company thought differently and went ahead with its work.

In the trial the company cited this ordinance, contending its work had been legal. Mr. McMillan demurred, but the demurrer was overruled by Justice McCall. Final judgment was rendered by Justice O'Gorman dismissing the complaint. Mr. McMillan promptly carried the case to the Appellate Division.

The action of the Appellate Division reverses the judgment, grants the relief prayed for, and assesses the cost of the action upon the theatrical firm.

MAX STEINBERG A SUICIDE.

Manufacturer Shoots Himself in Washington Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Max Steinberg, head of the manufacturing firm of Steinberg, Alexander & Co. of 100 Wooster Street, was found dead late yesterday afternoon in the Steinberg family plot in Washington Cemetery, Brooklyn, apparently a suicide. There was a bullet wound in his right temple and a revolver lay beside his body on the grass.

Mr. Steinberg was 55 years old and lived at 101 West 136th Street. He went to the Washington Cemetery early yesterday afternoon, and a gardener saw him walking about in the family plot. The gardener had occasion to go away, and when he returned, an hour or so later, he found Mr. Steinberg's body. The police of the Parkville Station found in the dead man's pockets a letter addressed to Mrs. Steinberg and another addressed to Daniel J. Frey of 101 West 136th Street. Mr. Frey, who is Mr. Steinberg's son-in-law, was notified and hurried down to Parkville.

Mr. Frey said that Mr. Steinberg had been ill for a long time, and he believed that was the cause of the suicide.

EPIDEMIC OF DEMANDS FOR JEWISH HOSPITALS

Six Societies at Work and None Knew of the Others' Plans.

THEY MAY GET ONE OR TWO

The Sudden Flood of Philanthropy from the Lower East Side Surprises Charity Commissioners.

It developed at a hearing yesterday before Commissioners William Rhinelander Stewart and Dr. Stephen Smith of the Eastern Inspection District of the State Board of Charities that, entirely unknown to each other, six associations have been formed by Jewish residents to build hospitals on the lower east side. Applications for charters had been made by each. According to law, all were referred to the State Board of Charities to determine the necessity for the institutions, and the financial responsibility of those who stand sponsors for them.

Each of the associations was represented by counsel. Champe S. Andrews was on hand to look after matters for the County Medical Society, which in a general way is opposed to a large increase in free hospitals. A remarkable feature of the hearing was that not one of the incorporators, although they all live in the same part of the city, knew that the others were at work along similar lines. The Commissioners argued from this that there probably is need for one more hospital on the east side, but it was flatly stated that charters for six would not be granted.

On a suggestion of Commissioner Smith, it was decided that at some time in the near future the commission would meet two representatives from each proposed corporation and try to have them agree upon a plan that would result in building one, or perhaps two, hospitals on the east side.

The Commissioners voiced their surprise when they learned that not one of the six sets of applicants had decided in what part of the district they intended to locate. The applicants explained their inability to fix on permanent sites because they could not collect funds or even arouse great interest until they knew that their applications would be decided upon favorably. As matters stood, Mr. Smith said, every one seemed to be working at cross purposes.

The applications were made by the Columbus Dispensary, the Zion Hospital Association, the Carmel Hospital and Dispensary, the Jewish Hospital for Deformities and Joint Diseases, the Beth Jacob Joseph Hospital, and the East Side Hospital Association. The representatives of each avowed that the motives of the proposed corporation were purely philanthropic; that there was a large population from which to draw not only patients, but also support. Some of them had specified sums pledged, but on the whole they seemed to go on the proposition that they could start a hospital first and try to support it afterward.

In each instance the application was opposed by Joseph H. Kohn, President of the Beth Israel Hospital, the largest institution of its kind on the east side. He said he not only opposed the application of the newcomers in the field because he thought it would hurt his bospital to have others in the vicinity, but also because he wanted, in the interest of philanthropy and humanity, to keep the proposed hospital builders out of trouble. He said that it was evident that they had no idea whatever of the cost of building and maintaining such an institution.

Otto Rosalsky, as a Director of the East Side Hospital Association, said that his co-Directors had about $20,000 pledged.

"Have you or your associates made a careful study of hospital requirements?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Well, only in a general way," said Mr. Rosalsky, "but there is no doubt of the need of a hospital."

"That may be true, and still there may be doubt of your ability to conduct one properly," said the Commissioner.

John L. Bernstein of the Beth Jacob Joseph Directorate showed that in the non-Jewish and also non-sectarian hospitals in New York 6,000 Jews had been treated last year. He said that while Jews received good treatment there were dietary laws to be complied with that were not in use in other than Jewish institutions and that to have more Jewish hospitals would relieve the strain on the other institutions.

"This seems to be a school for philanthropics," said Mr. Stewart. "It is the fact that persons come here applying to build and maintain hospitals and dispensaries who have absolutely no conception of the cost or labor necessary to run such institutions on modern, scientific lines. We are glad that much is learned along these lines here. I will admit that from the influx of applications, each made without the knowledge of the existence of the other, there appears to be a need for a hospital on the east side, but to grant six such applications would be a crime.

"I believe that if two of each of your bodies got together and fixed on some working plan much good might come of it."

The Commissioners said they would announce the date of the meeting when all the interests could get together.

BANK TO PUSH ROBBERY CASE.

Young Leonard's Bail Is Reduced in Court to $25,000.

Henry Ambrose Leonard, who was arrested on Sunday for stealing $360,000 in securities from the National City Bank, was arraigned before Magistrate Pool in the Tombs Police Court yesterday and held for examination to-morrow. His bail, which had been $50,000, was reduced to $25,000.

Leonard appeared in court to enjoy being the centre of interest.

It was announced yesterday that the officials of the National City Bank will push the case against Leonard. A. G. Saxe, who appeared as attorney for the bank, announced that two charges would be preferred, one for grand larceny, the other for forgery. Abraham Levy, counsel for the young man, said yesterday that after two hours' consultation with his client, he felt convinced that the theft had not been committed by Leonard with any criminal intent, but purely to arouse a sensation in Wall Street. Mr. Levy indignantly denounced the mention of the young daughter of Bronx Park Commissioner Schrader by the newspapers.

"It was an outrage," he declared. "Young Leonard and Miss Schrader were merely acquaintances, nothing more, and there never was any thought of an engagement between them."

SKIE PRITCHARD'S CLOSE CALL

Had $4,000 in a Pool Parlor and Police Arrived Just in Time.

Having with them two young men who said they had been swindled out of $150 and $84 respectively in the place within a few days, Detectives Finn and Hawkins walked into the pool parlor at 703 Sixth Avenue early last night and arrested almost everybody in sight.

In the round-up was one young man who said he was not acquainted with anybody in the place.

"Who are you?" he was asked.

"I'm Skie Pritchard, from Wisconsin, arrived in town to-day, on my way to Buenos Ayres and other South American places to sell harvesters."

"How came you in here?"

"Oh, I just met one of these nice gentlemen who said he thought he would play a little game of pool for the fun of it. They all appeared to be very fine fellows."

"How much money have you got with you?"

"Oh, about $4,000."

When told how near he had been to being arrested, to say nothing of being separated from his $4,000, Pritchard nearly fainted.

MITCHELL SUBMITS REQUEST.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—John Mitchell, President of the United Mine Workers, saw President Roosevelt to-day by appointment, spending about half an hour at the Executive office. Mitchell said he had come of his own volition to urge the President to appoint Louie Hammerling, editor of the miners' official organ, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Scranton district. Some members of the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress oppose Hammerling.

Mitchell returned to the White House about 1 o'clock, the President having asked him to come back after the Cabinet meeting. He remained but a few minutes. Mitchell left this afternoon for New York en route to Scranton.

"BATTERY DAN" FINN NOT ILL.

City Magistrate Is Taking a Rest at Atlantic City.

Magistrate Daniel E. Finn, better known by his intimates as "Battery Dan," is at Atlantic City enjoying a rest after several weeks of hard work on the bench. Magistrate Wahle, President of the Board of City Magistrates, has received several telegrams from anxious inquirers concerning the state of Magistrate Finn's health, some one evidently having started a rumor that he is ill.

A dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES says that Magistrate Finn is stopping at the Hotel Traymore, and that a good share of his time is employed in tearing up telegrams inquiring about his health as he parades the boardwalk. Battery Dan is well and enjoying himself.

TEACHERS WANT $200,000.

Brooklyn Pedagogues Make a Claim for Back Pay for 1899.

Through a suit to begin in the Supreme Court to-day 4,000 Brooklyn teachers seek to establish their claims to $200,000 for back salary alleged to be due them for the first six months of 1899.

According to Ira Leo Bamberger, counsel for the teachers, certain State school moneys were diverted from the Department of Education and used for the reduction of taxes in 1899. If this money had been available, the salaries established by the Pettingill schedule could have been paid the teachers. An opinion from the office of the State Superintendent of Schools sustains this claim.

The suit has been pending nearly five years. The original claim was $301,315,81. The payment of certain sums in supplementary checks reduced this to about $209,000.

It is probable that the teachers will win their suit, as a similar one was won by the high school teachers in 1898.

W. L. DOUGLAS

THE BEST $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN.

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

$10,000 REWARD to anyone who can disprove this statement.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes have by their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities, achieved the largest sale of any $3.50 shoe in the world. They are just as good as those that cost you $5 to $7—the only difference is the price. If I could take you into my factory at Brockton, Mass., the largest in the world under one roof making men's fine shoes, and show you the infinite care with which every pair of Douglas shoes is made, you would realize why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the best shoes produced anywhere.

If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes, you would understand why Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day.

DOUGLAS SHOES WEAR WELL.

TWO BOYS CAPTURED IN BOLD TRAIN HOLD-UP

Robbed Passengers While Men Dynamited Express Safe.

MADE THIEVES BY CHANCE

Professional Desperadoes Who Operated on the Great Northern Overland Near Seattle Got $1,000.

The train was flagged near the brick yard, and as the engineer slowed up two men, wearing raincoats and slouch hats, climbed over the tender and presented revolvers at the engineer's head. When the train was brought to a stop the baggage and express car was uncoupled by a third man and the engineer compelled to take his engine several hundred yards ahead and again stop.

The robbers then left the locomotive, taking the engineer and fireman with them, and keeping up a continuous fire with their revolvers with employes who shot at them. They went to the baggage car and called upon the messenger to open the door. He refused, and a heavy charge of dynamite was placed against the door and exploded. The car was wrecked. The safe was quickly dynamited and looted, after which the robbers allowed the train to proceed.

Meanwhile two boys who had been riding on the blind baggage slipped off and went through the train, attempting to hold up the passengers. They had no guns, but took advantage of the timidity of the passengers while the shooting, which injured no one, was going on outside. They were captured by trainhands. The boys, who gave their names as Frank Alfred and Roland Gibbs, are now in jail at Everett. They said they had no connection with the other robbers and that the idea of holding up the passengers only occurred to them after the explosion. Two of the bandits were on the blind baggage when they got on, they explained, and the third man boarded the train at Ballard.

A reward of $5,000 was offered to-day by the Great Northern Express Company for the capture and identification of the robbers.

The Sheriff and his deputies found an abandoned horse and wagon a mile and a half north of the scene of the hold-up. The horse showed evidences of having been driven hard. The officers believe this is an outfit reported yesterday as having been stolen near Kent, twenty miles from Mile Post.

Deputy Sheriff Scott said to-day that, so far as known, only about $1,000 was taken from the safe.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

MAX SPAHN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Max Spahn, hatter of 288 East Houston Street, by two creditors, Peles & Caplan, $210, and John C. Wilson, $469. It was alleged that he has transferred and concealed all his stock and fixtures.

DAVID SKOLKIN.—David Skolkin, dealer in dry goods at 127 Second Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $3,954 and nominal assets of $4,437, in outstanding accounts. Among the creditors are the Federal Bank, $157, and McL. Jarmulowsky, $833. The debts were contracted from 1902 to 1904.

SHAW COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Shaw Company, sailmakers and exporters to Japan of 37 Water Street, show liabilities $21,784 and nominal assets $18,960, consisting of cash, $1,572; stock, $1,093; office furniture, $235; accounts, $885, and shares in eight vessels, $15,175. Among the creditors are E. R. Holden, $10,000, secured by mortgage on the bark Savoia; Bank of America, $4,000; John Boyle & Co., $1,459, and Mark Shaw, trustee, $1,366.

JOSEPH H. HERBST.—Joseph H. Herbst, furrier, at 19 East Eighth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $10,939 and nominal assets of $5,957, consisting of stock $1,600, fixtures $400, notes $349, and accounts $3,608, of which $606 is owing him by the Federal Bank, which failed. Among the creditors are Leopold & Gassner, $1,265; Leipzig Fur Dyeing Company, $1,255, and Dimon Brothers & Co., $1,224. He has been in business since Jan. 1, 1901.

RANDOLPH M. SMILEY.—Randolph M. Smiley, printer and stationer of 5 East Fourteenth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $6,642 and nominal assets of $9,050, consisting of two vacant lots at Middletown, $50; a claim for $5,000 against the Bulmer Stationery Company for breach of contract, value uncertain, and shares of stocks, $4,000, consisting of 115 shares of stock of Forest Park Cemetery, Washington, D. C., and ten shares Lake Side Cemetery, Erie, Penn. Among the creditors are George P. Smiley, $3,324, secured; Carrie B. Smiley, $416; Thomas Watts, Middletown, $1,000 legal services, and Edwin Sternberger, $1,013 for rent of 94 Spring Street. He began business in 1879.

BERGER & WEISS.—Samuel Berger and Louis Weiss, who compose the firm of Berger & Weiss, liquor dealers and bakers, at Yonkers, have filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $8,645 and nominal assets of $2,553, consisting of stock, $2,000; book accounts, $250; cash, $3; two horses, $50; liquor license, surrender value, $250. Among the creditors are Ebling Brewing Company, $1,700, partly secured by a chattel mortgage; Lubetkin Brothers, $488; S. Krauss & Brother, $463, all of this city, and Stephen M. Bull, Newburg, $2,422. Mr. Berger has individual assets consisting of two lots in Yonkers valued at $700, on which he has paid $70. Judge Holt appointed Henry M. Baird, Jr., receiver of the assets.

LA ROCHELLE RESTAURANT COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against La Rochelle Restaurant Company, at 321 Columbus Avenue, by the following creditors: August Silz, $476; T. O. Smith's Sons, $612, and James Y. Watkins & Son, Incorporated, $8. It was alleged that the company is insolvent, has allowed two creditors to obtain preference for $401 by legal proceedings, made payments of $500, and given a chattel mortgage for $3,300 to a Mr. Merrill. Deputy Sheriff O'Neil went up to the place yesterday afternoon with two executions for $280. The company was incorporated on July 8, 1904, with a capital stock of $60,000. The place was started several years ago by R. M. Haan & Co. and was fitted up in fine style. They sold it on April 5, 1904, to I. H. Rosenfeld, who ran it a few months, and then turned it over to the company. Mrs. Florence L. Koevessy became President and Treasurer, and was reputed to have invested $40,000 in the business.

New Fall Overcoats for Men.

We have pictured for you here just one of our new Fall models in medium length Overcoats.

It is drawn from the figure of a living model wearing the garment.

Would you want to appear better dressed? Could you appear better dressed?

We think not.

Luxurious Silk Lined Overcoats at $18.

Medium length Overcoats (exactly like cut alongside) of black unfinished worsteds, silk lined to edge of lapels. We know of no custom tailor who would make such a garment under $25.

The matter of choosing a model that will express your individuality is easy here, for diversity is a factor of this showing. You may have a full draped back, our new Chesterfield with military back and deep centre vent; or a very conservative model.

At $12. Medium length Overcoats of black unfinished worsted, tan, coverts and Oxford gray coverts and Venetians.

At $15. Medium length Overcoats, full back and Chesterfield models of tan coverts, black Thibets, black worsted cheviots and Oxford overcoatings.

THE COMMERCIAL WORLD

WHEAT—Bulls found the wheat market a hard proposition again yesterday, and after trying to sustain the price throughout the forenoon they apparently gave up the attempt after midday and allowed prices to sag back under the previous night, New York closing ⅛@½c net lower. The news on which most of the early buying was done consisted of a re-hash of the low Russian crop estimates. Liverpool yesterday made no response at all to the strength on this side Monday, closing only ⅛d net higher. This was bad enough, but the interior movement of 1,756,000 bushels was worse, comparing as it did with only 1,390,000 bushels the previous year. World's stocks, according to Bradstreet's, increased 3,652,000 bushels. Bulls tried to use it as a factor on the idea that last year there was an increase for the corresponding week of 9,897,000 bushels, but the trade was not a ready buyer. Room sentiment throughout the entire day was more inclined to be bearish than otherwise, and the crowd took advantage of every opportunity to hammer the market. Continental markets were a shade better, but had no influence. The big primary receipts, good weather, and free offerings from Manitoba at low prices were the obstacles that loomed up every time bulls tried to boost the market. Cash prices were easier, closing here as follows: No. 2 red, 87¾c, elevator, and 89c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, 90¼c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, 91c, free on board, afloat.

CORN—In corn there was a similar effort by bull traders to advance the price, and with lower temperatures West and smaller car lot estimates for Chicago it was more successful than the attempt to bull wheat. Although reacting somewhat from high point of the day, the market closed fairly steady, with New York ¼@⅜c net higher. Liverpool was unchanged. Exporters came into the market to the extent of 15 loads, and there was a fair domestic demand. Interior receipts amounted to 580,000 bushels, compared with 308,000 bushels last year. The weekly crop bulletin was bearish. No. 2 corn closed 58c, elevator, and 58¼c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 59½c, and No. 2 yellow, 59½c, free on board, afloat.

COTTON.—The cotton market was very active, sales being estimated at fully 800,000 bales, while prices were very weak as a result of the bearish interpretation placed upon the October bureau report, and closed within a few points of the lowest, at a net decline of 36@37 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 6@8 points in response to disappointing cables, and in the early session the market acted nervous and unsettled, with prices working off to a net decline of about 12@15 points under liquidation and bear pressure arising from the weakness in October and expectations of a bearish report. The report, however, proved even more favorable than had been expected, showing a condition of 71.2 per cent. against 72.1 per cent. last month, 75.8 per cent last year, and 66.1 per cent., the ten-year average at this season. The figures were followed by very active selling, and while there was a rally of 10 or 15 points on covering in the early afternoon, the market later sold off again to the low point of the session, or a net decline of 38@44 points, under increased liquidation through wire and commission houses, as the report was circulated. The failure of the Wall Street bull pool to support the near months at any time during the day added to the bearish sentiment of local professionals, and about the only demand at the decline appeared to be that from shorts taking profits. Various deductions as to the probable crop are drawn from the condition figures, which are the last of the season, and to be followed on Dec. 3 by a final report estimating the production for the season. A leading bear operator issued a circular to the effect that the prospective supply overweighs the prospective demand, and it seemed to be the impression that the trade abroad would take a very bearish view of the report.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Mon. Close.
October	10.19	9.87	9.89@ 9.90	10.25

COFFEE.—The coffee market opened steady at an advance of 5@10 points in response to higher French cables and bullish estimates of Brazilian receipts for the month of October. Trading continued very quiet, however, and with little demand in evidence scattering liquidation eased price off slightly, the market closing dull, net unchanged to 10 points lower. Sales were only a little over 10,000 bags.

The advance in the French market, which at one time was a matter of ¾@1 franc, of which ½ franc was subsequently lost, was due, according to private cables, to the Karle Krische estimate of the Brazilian movement for the month. This estimate was 1,450,000 bags, against 1,438,000 bags for the same months last year. In considering this comparison it should be recalled that so far this season receipts are about 450,000 bags behind those of last season and that the total crop last year was about 10,000,000 bags. Every additional month from now on, therefore, which does not furnish an excess movement, as compared with last season, is considered a bullish argument, for last year there was a substantial reduction in the world's surplus and, according to usually well-informed authorities, interior supplies were also exhausted to an extent which would cause a still larger shrinkage in visible supply in the event of another season of inadequate production. Hamburg was below expectations, however, and an advance of 3-16d in the rate of Brazilian exchange was accompanied by a decline of 75 reis in the Rio market. Receipts for the day were moderate at the ports, but showed a slight increase over last year at interior points.

The market for spot coffee was steady, with quotations on the basis of 8 11-16 for Rio No. 7.

Greater New Yorks Win Two Clever Victories Over the Detroits.

The Greater New Yorks wound up their season at American League Park yesterday with two clean-cut victories over the Detroit team, the Westerners getting only one run in the two games of eighteen innings. With an infield composed of three of this year's minor league players and with another minor leaguer as catcher, the local men outplayed the visitors in the first game, and then duplicated their performance in the second. The first engagement was a contest between pitchers, Orth being pitted against the Detroits' best man in the box, Mullen, and the New Yorker came off triumphant.

Champions End Season in West with a Defeat and a Tie.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 3.—The series between the Cincinnatis and the champion New Yorks closed to-day. The combination of darkness and a tie score hung up the last of the double-header at the end of the eighth inning, with the figures 4 to 4. O'Day prolonged it as long as he could see to arbitrate between the teams. By suspending operations at the end of the seventh, when there was enough dimness to justify it, O'Day could have bestowed upon the local team the novel exhilaration of winning two in a day from the champions.

The Cincinnatis won the first cleanly against Taylor by 4 to 2, and should have put a loser into Claude Elliott's wee record, but the ex-Cincinnatian, who has been the heavy bench man for McGraw all season, was wonderfully effective at critical moments, and fourteen local players were left on the bases. Against Elliott was Bob Ewing, who had one severe inning, the fourth. Overall beat Taylor, though hit a trifle harder than the New Yorker. Pitching conditions for the two local men were exactly the reverse of the Sunday double meet.

FOR WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

First Game to be Played in Philadelphia Next Monday.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 3.—Chairman August Herrmann of the National Baseball Commission to-day gave out the following details which will govern the world's championship series to be played between the New York National League and the Philadelphia American League Clubs. The schedule is as follows:

Monday, Oct. 9, in Philadelphia.
Tuesday, Oct. 10, in New York.
Wednesday, Oct. 11, in Philadelphia.
Thursday, Oct. 12, in New York.
Friday, Oct. 13, in Philadelphia.
Saturday, Oct. 14, in New York.

All the games for Philadelphia are to be played in the American League grounds, and all scheduled for New York on the National League grounds. The schedule was determined by lot as provided by the rules. In case it becomes necessary to play the seventh game, the city in which it is to be played will be determined by the commission.

President Pulliam of the National League, has selected as umpire from his league, Henry O'Day, and President Johnson of the American League has selected John Sheridan.

The headquarters of the commission will be at the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, and the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City.

J. A. DRAKE'S BIG WINNING.

Turfman's Profits on Three Races Estimated at $60,000.

The betting ring at Belmont Park yesterday buzzed with reports of big winnings made by John A. Drake and John W. Gates, and the estimates of the winnings ran to all sorts of extravagant figures.

The rumors were in part correct concerning Mr. Drake, who, starting with his plunge on Grapple, followed that coup by backing two more winners, Rye and Waterwing, but Mr. Gates did not get to the track, and so had only a small share in the winnings that were made on Grapple.

"Skater" Reynolds, the commissioner most favored by Mr. Gates in his betting operations, was credited with having bet $5,000 for his employer, but from all that was said that was Mr. Gates's full share in the Grapple coup. Mr. Drake was credited with having bet $30,000 on Grapple, however, his winning at the odds, which averaged little better than even money, by the ring estimate, amounting to $35,000. Mr. Drake also backed Waterwing heavily, and in the fifth race accepted the opening price against Rye before the owner, C. D. Sullivan, T. D. Sullivan's cousin, was ready to back the colt, Mr. Drake thus getting all the cream of the betting on a horse which was backed from 6 to 1 down to 2 to 1.

Conservative bookmakers declared that Mr. Drake's winnings on the three races could not have been less than $60,000, though some of the layers declared that the amount was much larger.

WOMEN'S NOVEL GOLF MATCH.

Mrs. Lefferts and Mrs. White Divide Honors on Essex County Links.

An interesting golf competition that contained some novel features and was productive of highly creditable results was held yesterday on the links of the Essex County Country Club at Orange, N. J. It was a four-ball aggregate score mixed foursome. The score of each player was kept, virtually making a thirty-six-hole score for an eighteen-hole contest. Mrs. S. F. Lefferts and H. V. Keep of the Englewood Club won the trophy with a net score of 161.

Following the foursome an approaching and putting match was held in the afternoon. Four pairs originally tied at 6, and in the play-off the prize was won by Mrs. R. S. White and Charles S. Seely. The players and scores of the two events are:

HEATH HERE FOR AUTO RACE.

Vanderbilt Cup Holder Has a Fast Car to Defend His Title.

George Heath, holder of the Vanderbilt Cup who will defend it on Oct. 14 in the second annual competition for that trophy, arrived here from France yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Mr. Heath is an amateur and a man of wealth, but he is an ardent automobilist, and has raced in many of the big European events with success. He has not taken so active a part, however, during the past year as in some previous seasons. Mr. Heath went to the Waldorf-Astoria on his arrival, but he expects to go to Long Island with his Panhard racing car to-day. The car arrived here last Saturday, and it is expected to be at the garage of the Panhard Company, in West Thirteenth Street, this morning. It is a 120 horse power machine, and is practically the same car that won the Vanderbilt race last year, with the exception of some changes that have made it considerably faster.

Gershel Wins at Billiards.

William Gerschel cleverly outplayed Dr. Walter G. Douglas of the New York Athletic Club last night in the second match of the amateur handicap billiard tournament. Both men played strings of 240 points in the eighteen-inch balkline game and Gershel finished, leaving Dr. Douglas at 172 points. The winner of the match, which was played at Maurice Daly's Academy, averaged nearly 6, while Dr. Douglas was a fraction above 4. The score:

William Gershel, (240)—12 0 0 7 0 1 21 6 0 0 0 5 0 5 1 23 0 0 0 14 0 3 3 3 6 20 0 9 7 4 21 1 11 0 0 5 0 0 2 7 18 15 5 6 2. Total, 240 points. Average, 5 24-72; high runs, 23, 21, and 21.

Dr. Walter G. Douglas, (240.)—13 1 9 6 30 0 0 0 0 0 10 4 1 0 0 4 0 1 7 15 0 3 8 5 3 2 0 0 7 3 0 3 2 2 9 6 0 10 0 0 0 1 7 0. Total, 172 points. Average, 4 6-72; high runs, 30, 15, and 13.

GRAPPLE'S FAST MILE LANDS COUP FOR DRAKE

The fastest mile race of the turf year furnished an opening sensation at Belmont Park yesterday, and the result, Grapple first in a romp in 1:38 2-5, landed safely about the largest betting coup made this season by the new owner of the horse, John A. Drake, who recently purchased him from D. H. Barnes. The coup was one characteristic of Mr. Drake and his trainer, Enoch Wishard, for though every horse watcher about Belmont Park knew of the fast trials made by Grapple since he was added to the Drake stable, so-called shrewd bettors stood back and hesitated when the name of Garner was posted as the rider of Grapple. Garner is a chubby small boy employed to ride exercise for the stable, and though Garner has had a few mounts recently backers very much doubted his ability to handle any horse to advantage in a race. Mr. Drake had no such doubts, and on the assurance of his trainer had the betting against Grapple almost to himself until the weight of money had made Grapple an even-money favorite, when the crowd began to follow the lead of the owner.

Grapple ran in the first event of the card, a selling mile with twelve starters. He broke second to D'Arkle, but shot to the front in the first strides, and for the remainder of the distance led his field a hopeless pursuit, drawing further away at every jump, and winning as he pleased away off before the long chance Columbia Girl, which was second nearly all the way. Grapple's race reduced the track record by a second and three-fifths, the fractional time being: Quarter, 0:23 3-5; half mile, 0:48 1-5; three-quarters, 1:13 3-5, and mile, 1:38 2-5. The horse, however, was much favored in the weights, as he carried only 88 pounds, 30 pounds less than scale weight, an apprentice allowance of 5 pounds being included in the weight off.

Grapple was one of three favorites to win in the course of the afternoon, but as second and third choices captured the remaining races, the general crowd had a profitable day of it.

Two stake features were on the card, the Fairview, Selling, for three-year-olds, won by Right Royal, appealing most to the betting patrons, though the Corinthian Open Steeplechase made the real success of the occasion, that event, with gentlemen riders competing, in a race through the field, drawing a full representation of the hunt clubs on Long Island and filling the club boxes in holiday style. As in the Spring a number of the members of the hunting set witnessed the jumping race from the infield, and on horseback kept within view of every part of the contest.

Seven horses ran for the Corinthian Stakes, with Grandpa, ridden by Mr. Hughes, the favorite, at odds on. Grandpa made the running for a mile and a half of the two miles and a half course, and then gave way to Ivan, ridden by his owner, H. S. Page, Ivan leading the remainder of the distance and winning rather easily from Grandpa, while Ogress, ridden by Mr. Michaels, and Capt. Hayes, ridden by Mr. Harrison, both Baltimore amateurs, fell at the jump opposite the field stand, Mr. Harrison having his collar bone broken in a severe fall. Summary:

COACH MORLEY ARRESTED.

Columbia Football Squad Waits for Speeding Autoist's Release.

Police "interference," which is not exactly of the football variety, caused some waiting on the part of the Columbia squad yesterday when the men were ready for practice. It was occasioned by the holding up of the big red touring car in which Coaches Morley and Smith were journeying to the field.

The car is the property of "Billy" Tilt, the pitcher of Columbia's baseball team, and he was showing off its best speed when the trio were "nabbed." Both Morley and Smith were compelled to go to the Alexander Avenue Station, where Tilt was released upon his own recognizance to appear in court to-morrow. Morley was sharp with the squad all the afternoon and gave them plenty of work to make up for the time he had lost.

Women Golfers for Inter-City Match.

The special women's lawn tennis doubles were won by Miss Hitch and Miss Gordon yesterday on the courts of the Essex County Country Club at Orange, N. J. Both of the winning pair are members of the Montrose Lawn Tennis Club, and their play is both rapid and steady. They defeated Miss Reynolds and Miss Freeman in the final round by the score of 6—4 and 6—3.

The summary:

Women's Doubles.—Second Round—Miss Hitch and Miss Gordon defeated Miss Souther and Miss Grannis, 6—4, 4—6, defaulted; Miss Seabury and Miss Worth defeated Mrs. Von Bernuth and Mrs. Rubsammen, 6—2, 4—6, 7—5; Miss Reynolds and Miss Freeman defeated Mrs. Boyd and partner by default.

Semi-Final Round.—Miss Hitch and Miss Gordon defeated Miss Seabury and Miss Worth, 6—3, 5—7, 6—0; Miss Reynolds and Miss Freeman defeated Mrs. Holden and Miss Jewett, 0—7, 6—4.

Final Round.—Miss Hitch and Miss Gordon defeated Miss Reynolds and Miss Freeman, 6—4, 6—3.

WEPT BECAUSE BRIDE DID NOT SEE MARE WIN

Mrs. Cobb Helped to Pay for Winner of Kentucky Futurity.

MISS ABDELL'S GOOD RACE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 3.—Miss Abdell, the daughter of the sensational trotting colt Abdell, that died two years ago after John E. Madden had paid $10,000 for him for breeding purposes, won the $21,000 Kentucky Futurity for three-year-old trotters here to-day, the opening of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association meeting, in handy fashion and in excellent time.

The young mare is owned jointly by Howard Cobb of Ithaca, N. Y., and Lon. McDonald. Cobb bought her here last Fall for $2,000 and turned her over to McDonald to train. She was bred by Mrs. Thretdkel of Harrodsburg, this State, and trained as a two-year-old by Brook Curry. Cobb was on his wedding trip here when he bought Miss Abdell, and he wept when he saw her win to-day, because he said his bride, who helped him pay for her, could not be here to see the victory.

The driver, McDonald, was placed in a floral horseshoe, mounted on a chair, and carried about the track by his friends.

The favorite in the race was Susie N., winner of several three-year-old events and until to-day conceded to be the best three-year-old of the season. Katherine L. had strong backing. The winner, Miss Abdell, carried but little money, her owners winning but $1,000 in the pool. The Murphy mare won the first heat in 2:11¾, with W. H. Clark's Bon Voyage second. Katherine L. was third and Miss Adbell fourth. The next heat was trotted in 2:09¾, only a half second slower than the time made by Grace Bond last year. Susie N. took the lead at the start and maintained it until well within the stretch, apparently having the race at her mercy. McDonald, however, brought Miss Adbell up from the rear and captured the heat. The third heat was the one which killed Susie N.'s chance and showed the splendid trotting qualities of Miss Adbell. The two raced like a team for the first half, traveling the second quarter in 0:31¼. It was too fast for Susie N., and she dropped back beaten. Miss Adbell came on and won, and also took the next heat and the race without much of a contest.

The Tennessee Stake attracted much interest. Stein, favorite in last night's pools, was distanced in the first heat, which was won by Maud Kerwick, the second choice in the betting. She also won the second heat in 2:03¾, making a new record for the event. Citation took the third heat and Don Carr the next two. Maud Kerwick easily won the sixth heat and the race.

Mackie's Great Golf Score.

Isaac Mackie, the Fox Hills golf professional and winner of the Van Cortlandt open tournament in July, made a remarkable score yesterday while playing over his Staten Island club course. He did the eighteen holes in 69 strokes, an unusual record, and got the 217-yard, seventeenth hole, in two. With the exception of the second and the home hole, his putting was perfect, and his long game was wonderfully accurate. Mackie made the score while playing against the best ball of R. S. Lockitt, an amateur of the Roseville Golf Club, and Jack Mackie. The card is:

The Coward Shoe

Coward Arch-Supporting Shoe.

This special "Coward" is designed to give the needed support at the precise point where so many feet are weak—the arch.

Built into the shank, and entirely concealed (but for the three rivets appearing on the under surface) is a fitted metal support which holds the shoe snugly up into the instep. This absolutely prevents "flat-foot". There's great comfort in it. For Men, Women and Children.

THE PRESIDENT'S DETERMINATION.

All reports from Washington agree that President ROOSEVELT is "determined" that Congress shall pass a railroad rate regulation bill this Winter. Whether it be the Esch-Townsend bill or a new measure, the power to fix freight rates must be lodged with the Inter-State Commerce Commission. Most of our Presidents have been content to recommend legislation by Congress; to address that body upon the state of the country, and point out in what ways the public welfare might be promoted by the action of Congress. Presidents have now and then seemed to urge the legislative department to take action, but that is as strong a word as could be used. No other President than Mr. ROOSEVELT has ever shown a "determination" to compel action upon an independent and co-ordinate branch of the Government.

Our Washington dispatches yesterday morning brought the news that that part of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S message which deals with the railroad rate question "has been laid away as finished, not to be disturbed or revised." It is added that persons who are in the confidence of the President believe his argument for rate legislation to be "complete, patriotic, and substantially unanswerable," insomuch that "the Senate will have difficulty in evading the responsibility." Probably the Senate will neither attempt to answer the President's argument nor to evade any responsibility. It is entirely capable of coldly killing his rate-making measure after the obedient House has sent it up to the Senate end of the Capitol, without taking the trouble to consider it at all. The bill will very likely not be reported to the Senate, and advanced to the stage of debate. That a bill satisfactory to the President will be passed is not within the range of reasonable probability.

Meanwhile the country continues to get light upon the perfect needlessness and the great potentiality for mischief and destruction of this policy upon which the President so resolutely insists. Mr. JAMES J. HILL talks about rate-making at a dinner given to him by the managers of the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, Oregon, on Monday evening. He disposed of the statement made, as he said, "in an official manner," that there has been no reduction of railroad rates in the United States for twenty-five years—it having been charged that apparent reductions were nullified by changes in classification—by the simple comment that the statement was a lie. He then told in a manner that is likely to arrest the attention of the country of what has been going on on his own railroad:

> The reduction in the average rate per ton per mile in twenty-five years on the Great Northern Railway aggregates $667,000,000. That has been the reduction that the people have gotten on one railroad. I am not afraid that any Federal regulation will ever get down deep enough to touch us where we live, because, long before they do, the country will be strewn with railroad corpses. They would bankrupt two-thirds of the mileage in the United States.

Mr. HILL means, evidently, that if the Great Northern had continued to charge the freight rates in force twenty-five years ago and had carried the volume of freight actually transported over its lines since that time, it would have taken from shippers the vast sum he mentions, a good deal over half a billion dollars. To have maintained the rates in force twenty-five years ago would manifestly have been an act in restraint of trade. Trade has been encouraged by successive reductions. The experience of the Great Northern is not exceptional. That has been the course of railroad rate-making the country over until it is notorious, until it is perfectly well known to the Inter-State Commerce Commission, until it would be perfectly well known to the President of the United States if his mind were not apt to be closed as soon as it is made up upon any subject that engages its attention, that extortionate freight charges are almost unknown, and are altogether insignificant as a public evil at the present time. There are evils of discrimination and of unfair dealing on the part of the railroads for which it is urgent that a cure be found—but in that aspect of the railroad question the President seems to be less interested.

Mr. HILL'S allusion to "railroad corpses" will, of course, not affect the President's "determination." It is nevertheless true that the accomplishment of Mr. ROOSEVELT'S purpose would produce the consequences Mr. HILL describes, though perhaps the mortality would not be quite so great as he fears. Not merely the railroads, but the business of the country and its prosperity, would be hurt most seriously by so startling an innovation in our National policy by the transfer from the hands of its owners to a political commission of the control of twelve billions of property.

TRAVELED CONGRESSMEN.

That American naval officer who vehemently urged the enactment of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States adding to the qualifications of a Congressman that he should have spent a year in Europe may, if he survive, now console himself. The object he sought is in the way to be accomplished by much less cumbersome and circuitous means than he proposed.

Two parties of Congressmen have just returned to our shores, one to the Pacific and one to the Atlantic shore, from whose excursions both they themselves and the legislation of the United States ssem likely largely to profit. On those who accompanied Secretary TAFT to Asia and the Philippines the result bas been remarkable. Some of them have already publicly swallowed a number of eloquent speeches which they had made when they were without the information which they have now acquirsd at first hand. Their notions about our "imperialism" have undergone modification amounting to reversal upon being confronted with the facts of the situation. It is a personal triumph for Secretary TAFT, and, what is of more importance, an assurance of a more intelligent criticism than our insular policy has before encountered. And, almost at the same time, returns a party of Congressmen which has had the advantage of interviewing the German Emperor, who has talked to them with his usual frankness, bringing with them an assortment of new lights on the relations of this country with Europe, and of both with Asia.

All this is of excellsnt augury. We have reason to hope that the time is permanently past when the Chairman of the Foreign Committee of the Senate could be emboldened to make a speech to his constituents in Maine which consisted of a series of insults and defiances to "abroad." By such a speech, "abroad" was not so much exasperated as bewildered, finding it incredible that a man occupying so responsible a position in his own country should betray so complete a lack of responsibility in his public utterances.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S TEN MILLIONS.

To the mind accustomed only to ordinary transactions the payment of ten millions of dollars in cash is an impressive fact in itself, and it is not very many years since such a payment by an individual in the course of business would have aroused a good deal of interest and some wonderment. But when on Monday the General Education Board received that sum from Mr. ROCKEFELLER in checks—a half dozen of a million each, a couple of two millions each—the matter attracted no especial attention, none at all as to the magnitude of the payment, and not much as to its object. On the part of the giver there were evidences also of the commonplace nature of the incident. The checks wers signed by his attorneys, as if they conveyed sums too small and too frequently called for for the principal to deal with directly. If they had been warehouse receipts or bills of lading they would not more completely have followed the beaten path. The affair, as one reflects on it, seems saturated with the flavor of immense wealth. Poor BALZAC, fleeing from his creditors, and goading his fancy to the conception of boundless fortune, never hit upon a set of fictitious facts so magnificent in their suggestiveness, and to-day the record of them passes as an item of current news, a contribution to the mere "faits divers" of one big city.

The destination of this great gift, with the method adopted for determining its use, is characteristic of the age and hardly less significant of the changes steadily going on. The gift is one of many from the same hand for kindred purposes, and one of very many from the class of financially successful men to which the giver belongs. Its main object is to promote education by placing at the disposal of educational institutions and experts the services of exceptionally trained students and scholars for the compensation of whom the ordinary resources are inadequate. Previous gifts have been for the aid of special institutions and for scientific research. All these gifts have been decided on only after the most careful and systematic investigation by specially chosen agents, precisely as the giver would have proceeded in a purely business investment. In other words, Mr. ROCKEFELLER has made up his mind what he wishes to obtain with his money, has taken pains to find out how he can do it to the best advantage, and has established his enterprise on a permanent basis so that he can rely not only on its continuance but upon its progress. He is not himself an educated man in the ordinary sense of the term and would probably be quite at sea in regard to the details of educational work, or even as to the essential principles controlling it. But clearly he is apt at the selection of expert agents and advisers. And that implies a very definite grasp of the really important elements in the vast problem of education, especially higher education. It is a matter for congratulation that the wonderful ability he has shown for the accumulation of wealth is accompanied by so practical a sense of what to do with a considerable share of it, and how to do it.

WHY NOT SAY SO NOW?

An American citizen does not exactly like to read that the Secretary of State has been taking counsel with the French Ambassador with reference to the proper punitive action to be taken, either by both Powers jointly, or by the French Republic with our approbation, for the redress of French grievances against Venezuela, or rather against CASTRO, whose personal bad manners are the most conspicuous and immediate element of the French Governmental grievance.

The badness of CASTRO'S manners is unfortunately beyond dispute. Equally, it is to be feared, the administration of justice in Venezuela is nothing more than the expression of his personal desires and his personal animosities. For fuller information upon this point we shall have to await the return of Judge CALHOUN, who has been sent to Venezuela to investigate these things. But the fact remains that the ultimate grievance of France against Venezuela is that Venezuela does not fulfill her engagements with private French corporations. To be sure, this grievance is complicated with, and in a manner superseded by, the outrageous behavior of CASTRO in banishing the manager of the French Cable Company and declining to hold intercourse with the French Chargé d'Affaires. But those acts are acts of sovereignty which cannot be questioned by a foreign Power, if done in accordance with local law. No nation would presume to quarrel with the action of an equal in expelling an objectionable alien, or in declining to hold intercourse through an official personally unacceptable. Our own history, and that of every other nation, abounds with instances of both these lines of action.

While it is clearly competent for France or for ourselves to protect the chartered rights of our respective citizens, the mere owing of money by Venezuela to Frenchmen or Americans is not properly a cause of war. This latter is the grievance which Germany and Great Britain and Italy professed when they blockaded La Guayra and brought about an international tension dangerous to the peace of the world. The astonishing and self-stultifying decision of The Hague tribunal, which was instituted for the purpose of bringing about the substitution of peaceful for warlike means of settling international difficulties, that the nations which used warlike means for the collection of private debts were on that very account to be premiated and put in the position of preferred creditors, was a great shock to the humane and unofficial part of mankind. It was specially shocking to Americans, who had relied upon the tribunal's relief of their own apprehensions, since the relief would at the same time constitute a vindication of the tribunal's own existence.

Since this is not to be, the question recurs with increased force, Why should not the United States declare as a principle of international law applicable to the American republics of this hemisphere, and as a corollary of the Monroe Doctrine, that the collection of private debts by public force is not a legitimate function of government, and that as to this hemisphere we will regard such coercion as "dangerous to our peace and safety"? Surely it is coming to that. Surely the use of armies and navies as collecting agencies "mistakes the age." It is precisely upon a par with the barbarous practice of imprisonment for debt, which is now obsolete in the most advanced communities. And, as international law lags far behind municipal law in equity and civilization, so is international procedure far more shameless than the procedure permitted between individuals. Great nations make from smaller nations exactions which a private person would render himself infamous for making, even if municipal law allowed him to make them. For an instance we have only to go back to the indemnities demanded of China five years ago. And, to maintain the Monroe Doctrine, we seem to have no choice between the simple principle that private debts are not collectible by public force, and the principle that our "hegemony" as chief of the American republics requires us to see that our sister republics all behave themselves and pay their debts. This latter is the principle to which the President bas seemed to commit himself in what are known as his "big stick" speeches. It is quite true that we cannot decently avail ourselves of our position to convert ourselves into an international dog in the manger, which will neither enforce good behavior nor allow others to enforce it. But there is this alternative. No hardship and no injustice will ensue if we adopt the maxim of "Caveat creditor," and insist that whoso trusts an American nation does so at his own risk, just as he who trusts a private person. Moral risk and material risk are equally included. It is plainly a doctrine much saner and much safer than the doctrine of the big stick, and the sooner we proclaim it as our doctrine, the less trouble we are likely to have from the complications of European private creditors and American national debtors. Why not proclaim it now?

MR. SHAW IN THE SOUTH.

Secretary SHAW is pressing his campaign for the Presidential nomination in a perfectly fair way by taking every opportunity to present himself to the voters, especially in the South. Later he can be relied on to follow the same course in other parts of the country. On Monday he made his second speech within a few weeks in Virginia, and again argued the immense advantages of the Republican policy of protection. Among other things he said:

> The Republican Party has never sacrificed one industry for the saks of building up another, and never will. Neither will it prejudice one locality in the interest of another. It will be National, and not provincial. It will protect the South as well as the North; the East as well as the West, and the West as well as the East.
> The Republican Party imposes a heavy duty on steel rails, which enables the Steel Trust to extort from home consumers prices from 20 per cent. to 25 per cent. higher than the rails can be sold at a profit to foreign buyers. This money extorted from home consumers adds to the cost of construction of all railroads, to the cost of their operation, to the cost and charge for transportation, and is a considerable sacrifice forced on the whole business of the country for the sole benefit of a powerful and wealthy corporation in the nature of a monopoly. In the same way, the Republican Party imposes a tax on bituminous coal, which adds to the first cost of the products of all the manufacturing industries of New England, and prevents a profitable extension of trade with the Eastern provinces of Canada. In like manner the Republican Party imposes a heavy tax on wood and wood pulp, stimulating the destruction of our forests and requiring the expenditure of large sums by the National Government to restore or replace them, and adding largely to the cost of paper and the cost of all business dependent on the use of paper. The Republican Party imposes a heavy tax on wool, adding to the cost of good cloth and promoting the use of cheap substitutes for woolen goods, thus adding to the cost of daily living, especially for the poorer classes of the community.
>
> "Here and there," said Mr. SHAW, "a rate may be higher than necessary," and he intimated that the "tariff will be amended in due time." How would it be to begin with amending and reducing the duties on such raw materials and necessaries of manufacturing industries as we have indicated? From the point of view of the business of the country it would do very well indeed, but the moment it is proposed in Congress every recipient of tariff favors will oppose it. The tariff will not be changed under Republican rule if those who are enriched by its privileges can help it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Sarcasm and Philanthropy.

There is, or at least may be, a queer significance in the fact that Dr. D. K. PEARSONS, in offering $50,000 to the Congregational Board of Foreign Missions for the use of Anatolia College, in Turkey, has been moved to make a fairly explicit explanation of how he obtained it. "By sharp bargains and rigid economy," he says, "I acquired $10,000, and twelve years ago I purchased 100 shares of bank stock. During these twelve years the stock has paid me good interest, and now I can sell the 100 shares for $50,000." Take it or leave it, Dr. PEARSONS adds, in effect, and if you consider it tainted, I know those who are not so squeamish. It will be noticed that the doctor does not explicitly declare that he really has sold, or intends to sell, his bank stock, but merely that he can do so if he chooses, and therefore it seems to us that the origin and odor of this particular $50,000 he will give are left in some uncertainty. Moreover, he admits that the first $10,000 was the result of sharp bargains as well as of economy, and it seems to us that while he was in the explaining mood he might have told just how sharp the bargains were, permitting the Mission Board to determine for itself whether, in its opinion, the sharpness was excessive. The question is of great interest—in an academic way—and the discussion of it between Dr. PEARSONS and the members of the board would tend to clear up many of the existing uncertainties. As nobody has been writing magazine stories about the doctor, he could start fair, and both his reputation and his experience are such as to make his opinions valuable—far more valuable, it seems to us, than some others to which we have all been forced recently to pay attention. The doctor's gifts have been to small colleges, and, in comparison to the avalanches of money that have rolled down from Mount Carnegie and Mount Rockefeller upon an astonished and somewhat affrighted world, this gift were minute, but they have been very numerous, they have been distributed with great care, and a definite policy has guided their direction. Dr. PEARSONS must be so sure that his latest donation will be received without criticism of its quality that one can hardly avoid the suspicion that there is sarcasm in his affectation of doubt as to how it will be received. At whom, pray, is the sarcasm aimed? And is it possible that there is some of the bitter rivalry among the philanthropists that is known to exist among the followers of other athletic sports?

Not Success, but a Failure.

In most of the comments upon the robbery of the National City Bank by young LEONARD, the deduction from the amazing ease with which he obtained brief possession of securities worth $359,000 has been that it revealed a serious weakness in Wall Street's conduct of its affairs. It may be questioned if this deduction is very well justified by the facts. Instead of fixing attention, as most people have, upon the mere getting of certain papers out of the bank's hands into those of a thief, it would be judicious to note that after the thief had worked his little plot to complete success he had accomplished practically nothing, so far as he was himself concerned, and had inflicted upon others nothing more than the prospect of a lot of trouble—somewhat expensive trouble, to be sure, but expensive to an amount of little importance in comparison with the nominal sum involved in the robbery. Seemingly easy as was the trick that LEONARD played, it obliged him to leave behind him at least half a dozen clues that made immediate detection almost certain, and even he had no hope of being able to sell more than a small fraction of the stocks and bonds which had been so confidingly turned over to him for his forged check. All things considered, the episode vindicated rather than condemned the methods of the downtown banks and demonstrated that the routine they follow is an adequate protection from heavy losses of this kind. Stricter precautions could doubtless be devised, but it is probably safe to say that they would be more trouble than they were worth and that their interference with the prompt and convenient transaction of business would counterbalance their advantages several times over. There is nothing in LEONARD'S experience to tempt another too ambitious clerk to duplicate it. Instead of showing how easy it is to rob Wall Street, he has shown the extreme difficulty of doing it—by any such operation as the one he devised. It can be done, according to reports apparently well supported, but the way is different.

Their Case Not So Very Hard.

It has not been clearly enough brought out or strongly enough emphasized in the stories of the laborers who were clubbed ashore at Panama that they were all negroes of a very peculiar kind—so peculiar that their reluctance to quit their steamer means not at all what it would have meant if shown by men of a different quality. The black residents of Martinique have a superficial superiority to most of the West Indian negroes, but it is merely a matter of manners, and does not extend either to intelligence or character. There is not the slightest reason for supposing that their little rebellion was based on any accurate knowledge of the conditions they would encounter ashore. How could they have acquired information of that sort before disembarking? Some wild rumor or imaging had started a panic fear among them, and the melodramatic baring of breasts to a death they knew would not come was a characteristic expression of childish emotions. Of course they did not carry resistance to the point of real tragedy, but yielded as soon as they were convinced that an immediate free passage back to Martinique was out of the question. They were in exactly the position that any white man without money would have been on arriving at the Isthmus—the prisoners, not of tyrants, but of their poverty, and like anybody else they can go as soon as they can pay their way. They can work if they will, they will work if they must, and the neeessity now seems to be upon them. They are comparatively safe from the Isthmian fevers, and employment is seeking them at far better terms than they could seeure at home. It is hard to see that they have suffered any wrong or that their position has any special pathos.

Too Much Room Given to Smokers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice that the heading of my communication is published in your Oct. 1 issue as "Would Suppress Smokers Entirely." That is not exactly what I would do, but I would suppress it entirely in the cabins. There would be no objection so far as I can see in smoking on the rear of the ferryboat, outside of the cabins, unless it would be in connection with the gasoline automobiles. The offensive feature of smoking on ferryboats is the unsanitary conditions of the men's cabin and the room it takes. It is unfair to set aside 50 per cent. of the available cabin room for smokers. The reason I expressed myself on the subject is that I have time and time again found the women's cabin occupied not only by women, children, and escorts, but by many men who as near as I could ascertain by conversation and otherwise declined to use the men's cabin on account of its objectionable condition, whereas in the men's cabin there were plenty of seats unoccupied. The women's cabin was overcrowded and many women standing while men were sitting.

It would seem to an observer of the conditions mentioned that ferry companies should prohibit smoking in the men's cabin. I think that it would be for the comfort of the greater number of patrons. O. S. S.

Shaw Still Under the Ban.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to express my thanks to the person who controls the New York Library for letting us read any of his books at all. This thankfulness is aroused by the information received by the writer when he asked for "You Never Can Tell" at a branch of the library, that Shaw's books were not permitted to be read. This seems to equare not with the restoration, proclaimed in THE TIMES, of the aforesaid books to "the open shelves." When books like "You Never Can Tell" ars excluded from the library, why, in the name of common eense, is a full line of Dumas's books kept? The We See to Yous appear to be missing a grand opportunity for notoriety for pernicious activity. ANTI-BIGOT.

The Poor Weather Man!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What is the matter with the Weather Bureau man? In Monday's paper he says, "Fair, slightly cooler. Fair to-morrow." In to-day's (Tuesday's) paper he says, "Partly cloudy, cooler. Fair to-morrow." It rather reminds me of Alice's experience with the jam in "Alice in Wonderland." "jam yesterday and jam to-morrow, but never jam to-day."

A Pointed Question.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice that several eminent members of the Bar Association are protesting against the supposed intention of Tammany Hall to turn down Supreme Court Justices Ingraham and Gildersleeve for renomination for the bench.

It is extremely doubtful, however, if any of these same eminent members of the Bar Association would decline a nomination to run against either of these two Justices. Would they? TAMMANY HALLER.

Monroe Doctrine Defined.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I think that both "Impraneue" and Mr. E. Landau are wrong about the Anglo-Japanese alliance question. For Mr. Landau takes the Monroe Doctrine seriously, and "Impransus," to use Johnsonian diction, says it has dropped into the fathomless abyss of the past. However, "Impransus" might use a little more of Dr. Johneon'e verbiage and reply to Mr. Landau: "I have found you a reason and am not bound to find you an understanding."

Now, the Monroe Doctrine is not altogether a figment of President Roosevelt'e brain. It is a direct but unsuspected force that by reason of the fundamental and widespread demoralization existing in the public service is fast reducing the United Statee to the moral, civic, and social level of a South American republic; or, in more explicit terme, it is a special manifeetation of a general law of evolution which should ultimately lead, through sympathy and similarity, to a consolidation under one Government of all the different political entities that are now gathered on the Western Hemisphere. DEFERRED DIVIDENDS.

Why They Have Been Preferred in Life Insurance Practice.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dividends in life insurance are only an incidental feature of the business. In computing the net premium to be charged for various policies, the mathematician assumes that the future death rate of the company will be as indicated by the mortality table, and that a certain rate of interest, usually 3½ per cent., will be earned on the accumulated funds. It may be demonstrated mathematically that, if these assumptions should be exactly realized, the fund created by the premium as fixed would prove just sufficient for the payment of all existing policies as they matture, to the last man.

As the entire receipts and accumulations would not exceed the amount required for payment of policies, there could be in that case no dividends.

To be on the safe side, however, a lower rate of interest is assumed in computing the premium that will usually be realized in practice, while the mortality table itself was so constructed as to show a somewhat higher rate of mortality than is incurred in actual experience. The result is that in a properly managed company there will rapidly accumulate an excess of funds over the amount that will be actually necessary for the ultimate payment of existing policies. This excess will be returned to policy holders from time to time in the way of so-called dividends.

Excess funds are apportioned as dividends, either yearly or at the end of a specified period of years. The former is termed the annual dividend method, the latter the deferred dividend or deferred distribution plan. Each system has its advantages and disadvantages, and most companies allow policy holders to choose for themselves whether they will receive their dividends yearly or allow them to accumulate for a period of years, the plan selected being stipulated in the contract.

The chief advantage of the deferred dividend lies in the fact that, accumulated during a period of, say, fifteen or twenty years, it will amount to a much larger sum than the aggregate of fifteen or twenty annual dividends. It comes in an amount large enough to be of material service, and at a time of life when it is apt to be especially acceptable; while the annual dividend received each year is an amount too small to be of any great use to the policy holder or to be invested profitably, and the insured, as a rule, has nothing to show for it fifteen or twenty years later.

There is a very general impression in this country that the deferred dividend system is an American device of comparatively recent invention; and, as it has been wonderfully popular and hard to meet in competition, there is a disposition in some quarters to look upon it as an inspiration of the Evil One. They tell us that it leads to corruption, extravagance, and waste, and that practically all the evils of modern life insurance, real or imaginary, are attributable to the deferred dividend system. These charges have been so often refuted that I shall not dwell upon them now further than to cite a little life insurance history bearing on the case.

The deferred dividend is not a modern invention. The first dividends of the Mutual Life, the oldest American company, were on the five-year distribution plan, and the same was true in the case of many other companies fifty and sixty years ago. Subsequently annual dividends were adopted, and had become nearly universal in the early seventies, though the Equitable and the New York Life were then beginning the introduction of their tontine contracts. With the beginning of that decade was ushered in the darkest period of American life insurance. It was a time of gross mismanagement and error, of panic and disaster. Many companies failed—many more in that decade than in all the other fifty years of life insurance in this country.

It is a sufficient answer to the hue and cry recently raised against deferred dividends, and to the ridiculous charge made in some quarters that all the evils of the present day are attributable to that system, to point to the experience of the seventies. The worst that has been proved or even surmised in the present day is insignificant in comparison with the mismanagement and disasters of that earlier period, and every company that failed was an annual dividend company. I do not charge, mark you, that the troubles of that period—the extravagance, the mismanagement, the failures—were attributable to the annual dividend system, but it would be as logical to do so as to attribute the comparatively few cases of wrongdoing unearthed by recent investigations to deferred distribution.

It should be noted here that, while the failures of the seventies were not chargeable to the annual dividend system, it is, nevertheless, true that there would have been few, if any, failures had these same companies, during the fifteen or twenty years preceding, been accumulating their dividends on the deferred distribution plan. The deferred dividend system, by accumulating the dividends on every policy for a period of years, involves, of necessity, the piling up of large assets in excess of the legal reserve, constituting a contingent guarantee fund, primarily for distribution among the policy holders as their several dividend periods mature, but standing always as an impregnable defense between the legal reserve and impairment—a margin of safety that no other system can give. Take the most notable failure of the period referred to—the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. Its reserve was but slightly impaired at the worst. Had it been accumulating its dividends on all policies on the deferred dividend plan during the preceding fifteen or twenty years, it would have had on hand, in excess of the legal reserve, a fund amounting to millions, and failure would have been impossible. On the contrary, the companies of that day, by distributing their surplus yearly, and, because of the competitive demand for big dividends, by constantly shearing the margin of assets in excess of reserves down to the danger line, were many of them in no condition to withstand the strain when the panic came, and loss of business ensued and confidence vanished.

Not only is the deferred dividend system not a modern invention, but it is not an American device. It had its origin at the birth of life insurance. The oldest company in the world the first ever organized on a scientific basis, the "Old Equitable" of London, established in 1762, has always been a deferred dividend company. During its 142 years of successful experience it never until in 1904 made use of a shorter dividend period than ten years. Understand, it has not only deferred its dividends, but it has not even apportioned them annually, as some deferred dividend companies do in this country. The Old Equitable is one of the best companies in the world. Though a deferred dividend company, it has never had a scandal in all its history, and no company in existence is more economically administered.

It will, in fact, be conceded that British companies in general are quite as free from criticism, quite as economical and conservative in their management, quite as safe and worthy of confidence as the best American companies; and yet annual dividends and annual apportionments are almost unknown in that country. Until recently the prevailing distribution period of British companies was five, seven, or ten years; though to-day most of them distribute their surplus every five years, at the time of their quinquennial valuation.

It may be true that the demand for annual dividend policies has increased lately to some extent, and it may be that the belief to that effect is a delusion. It is more likely that the supposed increase in demand for annual dividends is simply the increase in the noise which the annual dividend fellows are making.

No new arguments have been advanced in favor of annual dividends—not one. Every point to be made for deferred distribution is as true and convincing now as ever it was. The temperament, the natural inclination, the speculative instinct of the average man have not changed suddenly, in the twinkling of an eye. The plan of accumulating his dividends until they amount to something worth while, of making a substantial provision for future years or old age—increasing the amount of his endowment or the surrender value of his life policy without increasing his premium payment; the fact that, by reason of deaths and lapses and compound interest, the deferred dividend will amount to a much larger sum than the aggregate of fifteen or twenty annual dividends—all these elements appeal to the average man to-day as forcibly as ever they did. WHICH SEX IS THE HAPPIER?

Case of the Coal Dealer and the Lady Who Sent Back Eight Tons.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is simply due to environment that I hesitate over the mental capacity of any man, yet I may possibly be allowed to express some surprise when an inquisitive male man in yesterday's paper expressed some doubt as to the relative happiness of your male and female readers.

As a male, presumably as happy as other males, I may possibly be permitted to acknowledge that I am in the coal business, and, like all other dealers, I may add I have greatly to depend on the word of my customers for my livelihood.

Per order, after breakfasting this morning, a half hour earlier than usual, I conscientiously weighed out eight tons of coal which, with five horses to cart it and five men to put it in, arrived before 8 o'clock at a residence some three miles distant.

It was promptly returned for the good reason that the good lady who ordered it had an engagement with her dressmaker. Who was the happier!

POLICE METHODS CONDEMNED.

Unseemly Conduct Not Excusable Even When Raiding a Poolroom.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note with satisfaction in this morning's TIMES that Mayor McClellan is about to conduct a rigid investigation in regard to the actions of the police in the raid on the Bon Ton Social Club. Whether the club was conducted as a poolroom or not I have no means of ascertaining, but from information I gathered on the spot from men who were in the clubroom at the time the raid was made, and whose stories tallied in every particular, the police acted in a manner that was and is a disgrace to the force.

Whatever Inspector Schmittberger may say or has said to the contrary notwithstanding, they completely wrecked the room, and, to cap the climax, lined up the men captured in the raid and deliberately kicked each one as they filed through the door. Bottles of liquor were drunk, cigars and cigarettes pilfered by these "enforcers of the law." Inspector Schmittberger's statement that the rooms were in good condition when he and Mr. Howells made an examination five hours after the raid is not supported by the facts. Without considering that the club was nothing but a poolroom, the actions of the police in this instance should call for the severest condemnation. ROBERT H. MILLER.

Meaning of International Socialism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was to be expected that THE TIMES, which so frequently merits the characterization bestowed on it as the "classic organ of capitalist ethics," would come out with a vindictive screed against international Socialism, the only really effective and vital force in the world to-day making for the true brotherhood of man and universal peace.

Chancellor von Buelow of Germany, it will be remembered, only a short time ago unwittingly rendered a striking service to the German Social Democracy by refusing to permit Jean Jaures, the well-known French Socialist Deputy, to speak at a peace meeting in Berlin, fearing the pacific influence it might have over German and French workingmen, which is a condition of mind the belligerent Kaiser does not desire to cultivate.

It must not be forgotten also that during the Russian-Japanese war Russian and Japanese Socialist workingmen were on the friendliest terms, sending messages of fellowship and kindliest greetings to one another and strikingly exemplifying the fraternal spirit of genuine brotherhood.

A distinction should be drawn between true and false patriotism. The true patriot loves his native or chosen country well and wisely, but that does not mean that he should hate the people of other countries. He may love his country, but that may be very different from loving her Government or institutions. It has been said that true love of country not infrequently involves a hatred of the existing Government and a determination to change or destroy that Government, Czarism, for instance.

It is the goal of international Socialism to abolish class distinctions by abolishing the economic injustice which causes them by means of an intelligent, class-conscious ballot in the hands of those who are suffering most from the conditions caused by the workings of the capitalist system of production. An' ain't got any parents 'cuz
His folks is dead, you see.
An' w'en he sees my toys an' things—
My, but his eyes 'ist shine;
An' he ain't got no marbles, so
I give him half of mine.

An' oncs it 's orful stormy w'en
It 's noon an' he can't go
Back where he works for board an' clo'es
To get his lunch, an' so
I had some san'wiches an' things
'At he thought was 'ist fine,
An' 'cuz he didn't have no lunch
I give him half of mine.

An' once w'en we went down to fish
He come along with me,
An' w'en we're there says he 'ist wish
'At he could fish. You see
He's orful poor an' brought a pole
But didn't have a line,
An' w'en I saw how bad he felt
I give him half of mine.

An' one time I 'ist told my Ma
How he don't have much fun
'Cuz he ain't got no Ma or Pa
Or Aunt or any one.
An' 'en I told her how I thought
'At it would be 'ist fine
'Cuz he ain't got no mother if
I'd give him half of mine.

He ain't my brother, really true,
He 's 'ist an orfant, so
My Ma she took him, 'cuz she knew
He had no place to go.
I'm awful glad we got him an'
My Pa thinks it 'ist fine—
He didn't have no mother, so
I give him half of mine.

MISS BABCOCK WED TO HENRY R. WINTHROP

Guests at Ceremony Include the Duchess of Marlborough.

MERRY RIDE IN OLD COACHES

Dr. Stires Marries the Equitable's Financial Manager and the Daughter of Henry D. Babcock.

Henry Rogers Winthrop, Financial Manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and Miss Alice Woodward Babcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Babcock, were married at Roslyn, L. I., yesterday. The wedding was one of the most fashionable of the season.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room of the Stow place, which the Babcocks leased for the season. This residence is one of the largest and finest on Long Island. It was beautifully yet simply decorated yesterday. The drawing room is in white and green. In this was a white and green bower, built of lilies of the valley, with ferns and palms for a background.

Most of the guests who went to the wedding from New York rode out from Long Island City in a special train, which left for Roslyn at about 11 o'clock in the morning. At Roslyn they were met by forty old-fashioned stage coaches. Into these the visitors stepped merrily, much amusement being caused by unexpected accidents to silk hats that did not fit the low door frames and by the crushing of gowns in cramped seats. Carriages and automobiles took a few of the guests up to the Stow estate, which adjoins Harbor Hill.

There were about 400 guests. They saw Mr. Winthrop and Miss Babcock married at 12:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires of St. Thomas's Church performed the ceremony. Miss Babcock was given away by her father. She wore a trained robe of soft satin, trimmed with point lace. Her attendants as matrons of honor were Mrs. Nannie Langhorne Shaw and Mrs. Reginald Brooks, who are sisters. Frederic Kernochan was Mr. Winthrop's best man.

James Hazen Hyde was to have been an usher, but at a late hour his regrets were received. The other ushers were Samuel D. Babcock, brother of the bride; Ashbel H. Barney, Julian A. Ripley, whose marriage to Miss Helen Bell is set for Oct. 18; Monson Morris, and Le Roy McKim.

The ceremony was followed by a breakfast served by Delmonico. The Twelfth Regiment, of which Mr. Winthrop is an officer, sent its band, and Frenko's orchestra also played. At 3 o'clock most of the guests had started back to the railway station two miles distant to take the special train back to New York.

None of the wedding gifts was on exhibition, as it was deemed unwise, owing to their number and costliness, to have them sent to Long Island at all. They were put into safe deposit vaults, where most of them will remain until the handsome home that Mr. Winthrop is building at Jericho, L. I., is completed.

On their return from their bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop will occupy a suite of rooms at the Hotel Renaissance, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, which will be their home until their Long Island residence is completed.

There were many notable guests at the wedding, including the Duchess of Marlborough. Mr. Winthrop was an usher ten years ago when Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt married and became a Duchess. The Duchess was one of the few guests at a dinner which Miss Babcock gave to her friends on Monday evening.

Mr. Winthrop has been prominent in society for many years. He is a son of the late Buchanan Winthrop, and is a descendant of John Winthrop, the famous liberty-loving Governor of Massachusetts in its colonial days.

Mrs. Winthrop, the bride, has been one of the best known young women in society for several years. At the wedding of Miss May Goelet to the Duke of Roxburgh she was one of the bridesmaids. Mr. Winthrop was an usher. A little later Miss Babcock was maid of honor and sole attendant of Miss Pauline Whittier when she married Ernest Iselin. She and Mr. Winthrop have also been attendants at many other weddings. Miss Winthrop's grandfather was Samuel D. Babcock.

RAID ON PETROSINO.

Smart Policeman Thought Detective Was a Counterfeiter.

Detective Sergt. Petrosino and his Italian aides were installed yesterday in special rooms at Police Headquarters by Commissioner McAdoo. The [illegible]blishment of an Italian bureau at H[illegible]quarters was the occasion of a good deal of merriment, because it came out that it has been necessary to protect the Italian detectives against their pals in the Detective Bureau.

In hunting some time ago for a confederation of Italian criminals Petrosino, with the permission of the Commissioner, hired rooms at 175 Waverley Place. The roundsman on the beat was young and ambitious. He saw Petrosino and his fellow-detectives coming in and out of the place in what he regarded as a suspicious manner. With proper foresight and a good deal of imagination he sent word to Police Headquarters that Italians were counterfeiting money in Waverley Place. They spent good money in the near-by resorts and seemed to be anxious to avoid observation.

Capt. John O'Brien headed a raiding force. They broke into the branch office of the detective bureau. Petrosino happened to be following a Brooklyn clue at the time. The policemen ripped up everything, including the carpet.

When the head of the Italian detectives returned it was to find a highly excited landlady, begging him to fly at once, as the police were after him. While he was endeavoring to explain that there must be a mistake, the policeman with the suspicious eye notified Capt. O'Brien that the counterfeiter had returned. There was another raid. Capt. O'Brien, not in uniform, grabbed Petrosino, who wore the garb of an Italian laborer.

Petrosino gave the Captain a hip-lock back heel that sent him staggering to the wall. Pulling out his gun, the Captain placed it close to the face of the detective and asked him if he would go to the station without the trouble of sending for a hearse. Petrosino opened his coat, showing his shield. There were mutual explanations, and Capt. O'Brien soon after found himself dodging trolleys in the City of Churches, and now Petrosino has an office of his own in Mulberry Street.

It is rumored there that the Italian has urged the Commissioner to appoint the wide-awake policeman who caused his arrest to a place among the Detective Sergeants.

OUT OF THE ALIMONY RANKS.

George E. Faile, Divorced Twelve Years Ago, Need Pay No Longer.

George E. Faile, whose wife, Stella, got a divorce twelve years ago; and who started out in the alimony ranks by paying $900 a year, will not pay any more money of that sort. Justice O'Gorman decided that in the Supreme Court yesterday.

After paying $900 a year for several years Faile got the alimony reduced to $400. His wife said that was necessary for the support of their son Edward. Mrs. Faile married again after getting her divorce. Faile testified yesterday that her second husband had recently acquired a fortune, and that the boy had become of age.

MOTHER OF 17 TESTIFIES.

Did She Thrash a Negro? Sure—Smiling Jury Says Not Guilty.

The twelve jurymen were lounging in their chairs in the listless attitude of men who were being bored. They had just heard Waverly J. Williams, a six-foot negro, stumble through a story about how he had been assaulted and mercilessly beaten by Mrs. Kate O'Brien of 2,012 Third Avenue and her eighteen-year-old daughter, Annie. The lawyer for the defense called Mrs. O'Brien to the stand.

Mrs. O'Brien walked up to the witness chair and sat down with much dignity. Two of the jurymen yawned until it seemed as if they would never be able to close their jaws again. The clerk went through the formula of taking the name and address of the witness. Then the lawyer began his questioning.

"How many children have you had, Mrs. O'Brien?" he asked.

"Siventeen," answered Mrs. O'Brien, drawing a deep breath and folding her arms.

"What?" cried Judge Newburger, leaning forward eagerly. The twelve jurymen sat suddenly upright.

"Siventeen, plase yer Honor," repeated the witness, turning around to the Judge. "An' if Oi'm to say it meself, as good children as ivver was. Tin are still aloive—an' if it plase yer Honor to turn round yer kin see six of 'em in coort."

All the jurors turned toward one of the front benches, where six young O'Briens, all newly washed, were smiling at their mother. Mrs. O'Brien got out her handkerchief.

"An' siven dear little ones be buried, worse luck."

"Just tell the Judge how this thing happened," said the lawyer.

"Sure as Oi live, yer Honor," Mrs. O'Brien resumed, "an' it came about for nothin' else but me children. It was a case of dispossess such as Oi've had many a wan in me day, yer Honor, an', belave me, but there is not a landlord in this town what wants me whin he foinds out about me tin children. Oi pay rigularly, Oi do, an' me children's not a bit woorse than any other children, but out we go ivv'ry toime as sure as rint day comes."

"All right," broke in the lawyer a little impatiently, "but let us hear how this alleged assault came about."

"Sure," said Mrs. O'Brien, "an' it was me boy Tom what was assaulted by this naygur. He came to our house to dispossess us. An' out we wuz goin' whin me boy Tom heard the critter call Katie, that's me second choild, clear out of her name, and Tom, me boy, sez, sez he, 'What's that yez said?' and thin, yer Honor, he shtruck Tom a terrifick blow, and thin Oi—"

"You defended your son against the attack?" the lawyer interrupted.

"Sure an' Oi did," said Mrs. O'Brien, blazing up. "What wud yez have a mother do?"

Annie, Mrs. O'Brien's eldest daughter, corroborated her mother's story. The jury withdrew, smiling. Three minutes later by the court clock they filed in again and the Foreman replied triumphantly to the clerk's question, "Not guilty."

The little O'Briens showed an unmistakable inclination to cheer. Mrs. O'Brien herself wanted to shake hands with everybody.

DINGWALL IN LITT'S WILL.

The Late Manager Has Left Two Salaries and $5,000 for His Friend.

The will of Jacob Litt, the theatrical manager, filed yesterday, disposed of an estate of almost a quarter of a million dollars. The bulk of the property will go to the widow, Ruth Carpenter Litt, and the testator's two sons, Jacob Litt, Jr., and Willard D. Litt. Mr. Litt died last Thursday in Yonkers.

In his will he named his friend and associate in business, Alexander W. Dingwall, and his nephew, Sol Litt, as executors and trustees of his estate. To each is allowed a salary of $2,000 a year for managing the estate. In addition, the will specifies that each shall receive the same salary as he received in the theatrical business, which business is not to be carried on for more than five years. However, the executors are empowered to wind up the estate before the expiration of five years.

The Litt home, at 317 West 100th Street, is bequeathed to the widow, who will also receive an income of $3,500 a year until the estate is distributed among the heirs. Among the special bequests is one of $5,000 to Mr. Dingwall, who is referred to in these words:

"To my friend Alexander W. Dingwall of Milwaukee, $5,000 in recognition of faithful work in my behalf and as a slight token of my esteem for him after many years of intimate association."

Trust funds are then created by the will to pay annuities, one to the widow and another to the sister of the testator, Louise Litt Fisher of San Francisco. If the executors deem it wise to distribute the estate immediately they are empowered to sell the Litt theatrical interests.

When they decide to wind up Mr. Litt's affairs they are to divide the residue of the estate into sixty equal parts, twenty of which are to go to the widow and ten parts to each of the testator's sons. The remainder is to go to Mr. Litt's sisters, nephews, and nieces.

BELASCO'S NEW PLAY.

Blanche Bates Appears as "The Girl of the Golden West."

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 3.—David Belasco tonight presented Blanche Bates in "The Girl of the Golden West." The audience approved of it. There was not a vacant seat in the Belasco Theatre.

"The Girl" owns a saloon, faro bank, poker joint, and dance hall. She is also the local banker. A noted road agent appears at the saloon for the purpose of robbing it. He had met the girl before and had loved her. At the second meeting in the saloon the girl, not knowing his real character, invites him to her cabin. While there the Sheriff's posse arrives and with the stranger hidden behind a curtain, she is told that her sweetheart is the road agent they are after.

When they are gone she turns the stranger out into the storm. He returns wounded by the Sheriff, and she harbors him in the loft, but the dripping of his blood discloses his presence, and the Sheriff compels him to come down.

"The Girl," challenges the Sheriff to play a game of poker for the life of the suitor, whom she had previously spurned. She had forgiven him because he was a thief, but she could not forgive him because a woman claimed him and had given the Sheriff the clue. The Sheriff won the gme of cards, but the girl cheated and claimed the stake.

Mr. Belasco was called before the curtain after the second act, and in part said: "I am thankful to the Pittsburg public for its assistance. We want your help to make the stage what it was when Lester Wallack and Daly left it to us. We must have your assistance to bring out our art and free it from commercialism. We want to make the artists independent so they can be free to improve their condition and to lift up the work in which they are devoting their lives."

"A FOUR-LEAF CLOVER."

New Musical Comedy Produced at Hartford.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 3.—"A Four Leaf Clover," a four-act musical comedy, the play and the lyrics by Martha Morton, and the music by A. Baldwin Sloane, was produced for the first time this evening at the Parsons Theatre. The audience, while not large, showed its appreciation.

The leading rôle of Clover Brown was in the capable hands of Edna Aug, who interpreted four characters, a mountain boy, a Dutch girl, a French danseuse, and a boarding school miss. Supporting her were George C. Boniface, Jr., Claude Brooke, Brandon Hurst, Walter Perkins, Snitz Edwards, Edouard Durand, Maude Granger, Viola Carlstedt, Grace Whitworth, and Emmalyn Lackaye.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Henry W. Savage has decided to change the name of the musical comedy "2905" to "Tomorrow Land."

Florence Davis, a young actress who made a tour of the South last season in the new comedy "The Player Maid," by Louise Malloy, will give a special matinée of the play at the Hudson Theatre on Friday afternoon, Oct. 13.

Maxine Elliott purchased yesterday from Clyde Fitch the English rights for "Her Great Match," and will appear in this play for her next engagement in London in April, 1907.

Charles Frohman has arranged to postpone the appearance of Lawrance D'Orsay in "The Embassy Ball," to continue the run of "Just Out of College," at the Lyceum Theatre. Mr. D'Orsay will take up the road tour of the latter play.

DANDY POP DU BOIS'S DIVORCE IN QUESTION

Widow Who Was a Noted Beauty May Share in Estate.

BELLE OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

In Court She Nodded and Smiled When a Witness Told of Her Girlhood Days.

Justice Kellogg's court room in the old County Court House was crowded yesterday when the trial of the suit of Mrs. Ivy Blanche McKee to recover $500,000 of her father's estate was resumed. Mrs. McKee's father, Alpheus D. Du Bois, who was known as "Old Pop" Du Bois in Grammar School 36, where he was Principal for fifty years, left $500,000, but only bequeathed $10,000 of it to his daughter. She had not seen him for forty-five years, and had been led to believe that he had died in the civil war.

When the trial was resumed yesterday the testimony of Mrs. Du Bois's sister, Mrs. L. C. V. Freligh, was read to the jury. She declared that Principal Du Bois in his early days was a "dandy," that he painted and powdered his face, and put his hair up in curl papers every night, and that in his later days he practically became money mad, giving his wife only $10 a month for household expenses.

Under cross-examination the witness stated that Du Bois had always paid his debts, and that after he left his wife to get a divorce in Iowa he wrote one letter to the witness. The witness declared that when Du Bois was at a theatre in 1857 all during the performance he kept his eyes on his wife, paying no attention to the play, but simply admiring the woman whom he later cast aside.

The Cashier of the First National Bank at Ossining, N. Y., Rodney S. Lockwood, was called as a witness. He had witnessed the signing of the will made by Du Bois in the Summer of 1903. The will was signed in a boarding house at Ossining. It was signed in the room of Mrs. Jones, Du Bois's sister. Lockwood was boarding at the house at the time. He had been acquainted with Mrs. Jones about thirty years. Du Bois seemed perfectly rational, the witness said, and said that he wanted those present to witness his signature to his will.

Silas T. Young, another witness, said he knew Du Bois two years, and was present in the boarding house at Ossining when Du Bois signed the will. Mr. Du Bois appeared to be rational at the time, and the witness complimented him on his good penmanship.

Louisa M. R. Gilbert, a third witness to the will, said she was the owner of the boarding house in which the will was signed. Du Bois, the witness said, was perfectly calm.

William Manning Skinner, the next witness, said he was a brother-in-law of Du Bois.

"What is your occupation?" counsel asked.

"Well," said the witness, "I've been Surrogate's clerk, Justice of the Peace at White Plains, and later became a lawyer. I married Du Bois's sister, Elizabeth Ann."

"Who was Du Bois's father?" asked counsel.

"George Du Bois," replied the witness. "He was a clergyman, and pastor of the Old Dutch Reformed Church at Sleepy Hollow, Tarrytown, in 1836. His mother was Caroline Maison. They are all fine people."

The witness said that Mrs. Caroline Seaman was one of Du Bois's sisters. She had been married twice. Her first husband was De Lancey Kane and her second Gen. Seaman.

"When did you first meet Mr. Du Bois?" asked counsel.

"In 1849," answered the witness.

"What was his appearance then?"

"A dapper little gentleman. He always dressed well, but peculiarly."

"Did he take particular pride with his hands and feet?"

"I can't say. The whole family had beautiful hands and feet. I can't say that he was stuck on his feet and hands."

"Did he write poetry?"

"Oh, yes; he wrote everything."

"Did he spend money freely?"

"He was close; penurious. He inherited that trait."

Mr. Skinner said he had met Du Bois's wife shortly after the marriage. Du Bois's daughter, Mrs. McKee, who has gray hair, was in the courtroom, and, pointing to her, the witness said he remembered her when she was a baby. The witness added that Du Bois treated his wife and daughter as if they were strangers to him, and added that Mrs. Du Bois was a kind, delightful little woman.

The aged widow of Du Bois, who was in court, smiled and nodded her head pleasantly when the witness complimented her. Then the witness said that fifty years ago Mrs. Du Bois was much admired in New York for her beauty. Again the old lady smiled.

Here counsel for the executors cross-examined the ex-Justice, and asked:

"Were there not charges against you at one time that you were drinking and gambling very hard?"

"That's a lie!" shouted the witness, whereupon Justice Kellogg remarked: "Don't repeat that word."

"I won't," said Mr. Skinner, "but it's true."

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Hill, owner of the Irving Place house where Du Bois had lived in a hall bedroom, testified that when Du Bois was served with toast or eggs or oatmeal he usually declared he didn't want such things to eat, as they were too expensive.

"And when he went on his vacation how did he go?" asked counsel.

"He usually rode on his trunk in the express wagon," said Mrs. Hill.

Mrs. Julia Du Bois, widow of Du Bois and mother of Mrs. McKee, the plaintiff, was assisted to the witness stand. She said that she came to New York in 1845, and at the age of 12 years attended Public School No. 36. Six years later she was wooed by Principal Du Bois, and was married to him in November, 1854, by the Rev. Dr. Varian, at St. John's Church. She said her daughter was born on Dec. 3, 1857, and that Du Bois went to Iowa for the express purpose of abandoning her in August, 1858.

At this point counsel for the executors of the will produced court records from Iowa showing that Du Bois had obtained a divorce from his wife on the plea that she had deserted him on Aug. 20, 1858. At the time the service was granted Du Bois swore that he had lived in Iowa a year.

After the divorce papers had been read to the jury the plaintiff's counsel introduced the records of the Board of Education of New York establishing the fact that Du Bois was a resident of New York at the time he represented himself to be a resident of Iowa.

On reading these papers, Justice Kellogg said there appeared to be nothing to prevent Mrs. Du Bois from suing for her dower share of the estate.

RATHER SWEAR IN JAIL.

Husband Wouldn't Sign Pledge to Refrain from Oaths and Drink.

Rather than sign a paper drawn up by his wife to give up liquor and swearing, Charles Wiedenhaefer, a Long Island City baker, went to jail yesterday for three months. Wiedenhaefer, who lives at 283 Theodore Street, was arrested on a charge of threatening to kill his wife. When arraigned before Magistrate Connorton he denied he ever had made any such threat. He told the court that always when he got home from work he found his rooms crowded with his wife's relatives, and that they ate up all the good things around the house.

Mrs. Wiedenhaefer produced a carefully worded document and laid it before the court. She said that if her husband would sign it she would forgive him and withdraw the charge. The document proved to be an agreement making Wiedenhaefer pledge himself to forever refrain from the use of profane words and intoxicating drinks.

When Wiedenhaefer had heard the document in full he was asked if he would sign it. Without a moment's hesitation he declared that he would rather live in jail than be at large under such restrictions down in the agreement.

The court told Wiedenhaefer he could sign the paper, give $300 bond to keep the peace or go to jail for three months. The baker went to jail.

ROOSTERS FOR MR. HENKEL,

With $9.75 Express Charges—They're to Crow for the Odell Ticket.

As Marshal William Henkel walked into his office in the Federal Building yesterday morning the cashier beckoned to him and began to speak. He was interrupted by a shrill

"Cock-a-doodle-do-o-o-o!"

"Yes, Sir," resumed the cashier. "I paid the express charges. $9.75."

"$9.75 on what?" cried Marshal Henkel.

"On the hens, Mr. Henkel. They—"

"Cock-a-doodle-do-o-o-o!"

The Marshal looked over the cashier's shoulders and saw two large Leghorn roosters, each with an express tag attached. Then the roosters crowed again in unison.

"Here, put 'em in a locker and explain," said Mr. Henkel.

The roosters were stowed away. The cashier wiped the feathers from his eyes and began.

"They came this morning, crowing as they've been crowing every blessed minute since. The tag showed they came from Princeton, N. J.—"

"Ah!" murmured Marshal Henkel. "I remember now. But that doesn't help any."

He explained that a friend, Prof. August von Rausmildern of the Faculty of Princeton University, was a chicken enthusiast. Last Spring, when the Marshal was looking over the prize chickens at Princeton, the professor, warming up, had said:

"When you go to your Summer home this year, Henkel, I'm going to send you a pair of Leghorns. That's a promise."

Marshal Henkel has been to his Summer home and back. The professor was absent-minded and forgot.

"Cock-a-doodle-do-o-o!" came muffled but triumphant from the locker.

Just then Peter Katzung, a member of the Marshal's political club on Third Avenue, came into the office.

"They crow," said the shoemaker, "for all the world as if they were saying, 'I-I-I'm a Repub-lic-an-n-n!'"

Marshal Henkel looked relieved.

"The very thing!" said he. "Take 'em to the club, Katzung, and we'll let 'em crow a straight ticket if they want to."

Katzung departed with the roosters, still crowing a Republican slogan. When Henkel, Jr., heard about them, he said:

"Wait till ma and the cook pot get the story."

ALDERMEN NO GOOD; ONE VIEW

"May Be True," Said Little Tim Sullivan, but the Critic Was Thrown Out.

A poorly dressed man wandered with unsteady gait into the Aldermanic Chamber yesterday and took a seat in the gallery while the Aldermen were in session. He cast a look of evident disfavor at the august body.

"The whole damn Board of Aldermen is no good!" he shouted finally, rising to his feet and shaking his fist in the direction of President Fornes.

"He may be right; who knows?" remarked "Little Tim" Sullivan. "However, I do not care for his characterization. Throw him out!"

President Fornes industriously used his gavel to restore order, and then two husky citizens drawing salaries from the city for such work laid hold of the defamer of the board's dignity and cast him out of the City Hall. His hat was thrown into the park after him.

The next act on the programme was a discussion of "Little Tim's" resolution for the purification of the bill boards. After some fun on the part of Alderman Downing and others, who hinted that Mr. Sullivan was seeking publicity for his political elevation on a reform ticket, the resolution was laid over for a week.

Alderman Downing offered a resolution requiring the Brooklyn Rapid Transit to alternate open and closed cars on their lines from Oct. 1 to April 1. It was sent to a committee.

WHAT IS DOING IN SOCIETY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Prentice Kellogg have closed their cottage on the Rumson Road, near Seabright, and have returned to town.

Mrs. Frederic J. de Peyster and her daughters, the Misses Helen, Frances, Augusta, and Ella de Peyster, who have been at the Edgewood Inn, Greenwich, intend to leave Greenwich the first of next week for Lakewood, where they will spend most of their time until their new home in East Eighty-sixth Street is completed. This will probably be the last of November or early in December.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Shoemaker will close Cedar Cliff, their country home at Riverside, Conn., on Oct. 15, and return to their city residence, 26 East Fifty-third Street.

James N. Nelson, to whom Miss Rosemary Sartoris, a granddaughter of President Grant, is engaged, is a son of Louis C. Nelson of St. Louis, whose home, Nelsonia, in the Florisant Valley, is one of the beautiful private places in this country.

Mrs. William Sheffield Cowles, wife of Capt. Cowles and sister of President Roosevelt, is having many improvements made in the Washington residence which she purchased several years ago from Rear Admiral Rodgers. This, her house, is sometimes called the Little White House, because it was there that President Roosevelt went immediately after taking his oath of office after President McKinley died.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, while the racing at Belmont Park is on, will occupy a cottage that they have taken at Hempstead. Later they will return to Newport.

Mrs. William Whitehead Ladd and her daughter, Miss Ladd, who have been abroad since February, are now in Paris, but are booked to sail on the Fuerst Bismarck, which is due here the middle of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ives Plumb have closed their country place, Shadow Brook, at Islip, L. I., and are at the Waldorf-Astoria for the Winter.

A DAY'S WEDDINGS.

BUCKLEY—OSBORNE.

The wedding of Miss Alice Harriet Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Osborne, to Dr. Charles Frederick Buckley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Buckley, took place at the bride's home, 104 Decatur Street, Brooklyn, last evening. The ceremony was attended only by relatives. It was performed by the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, assisted by Dr. J. Elwy Lloyd. The bride was attended by her younger sister, Martha L. Osborne, as her maid of honor. The ushers were Dr. Walter A. Sherwood of Brooklyn and Mr. R. E. Spencer Geare of Jersey City.

Dr. G. O. Pelgram Marries.

Dr. George Oscar Pelgram of 240 West Seventy-second Street and Miss Maude Pauline Cole of Chattanooga were married yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Grannis of St. Michael's Church. Until recently Dr. Pelgram was assistant bacteriologist at Roosevelt Hospital. He will take his bride to Deming, New Mexico, where they will reside.

Authors of plays are not proverbially grateful to the actors who set their works before the public, but if Grace Livingston Furniss is wise she will sit down this morning and write a pleasant little note to each of several clever players whose skillful histrionic skating enabled them to glide over some very thin theatrical ice at the Madison Square Theatre.

"The Man on the Box," which had its first production at that house last night, is a not uninteresting dramatization of a story of the same name by Harold MacGrath. It has, in fact, so many diverting moments that one regrets that the work has not been better done. As in most of the book-made plays, there has been an effort to get too much of the story on the stage. In consequence a melodramatic incident, of no essential value to the main theme, is lugged in by the heels, the sense of continuity is destroyed, and we have in the last act, in place of a scene of supposed intensity, one of these ridiculously theatrical makeshifts, without which no thriller of the Bowery would be worthy of its name.

It develops early in the action that Lieut. Robert Worberton, having just returned to his home in Washington, after a prolonged absence at a military post, has conceived the idea of playing a practical joke on his sister, by taking the place of her coachman and driving her home from an embassy ball. He makes a mistake, however, in the number of the carriage call, and carries away, instead a strange young woman. When she alights he kisses her, thinking she is his sister, and she promptly calls a policeman.

Then he finds himself in the station house charged with abduction, disorderly conduct and fast driving. The young woman, who, as may be inferred, ultimately becomes the object of his affection, presses the second charge against him, but pays the fine which the judge imposes. She imagines from his bearing that he is not really a servant, and invites him to take a place in her service. When he accepts there is a battle for points betwen them. She makes it as disagreeable as possible for him, but he good-humoredly accommodates himself to the situation.

Here is good material for fun, and for three acts this part of the story ambles along, interesting passages alternating with others which hardly arouse the mildest kind of curiosity. We are also suddenly confronted with the fact that the young woman's father, a retired officer of the United States Army, has agreed to sell plans of the coast defenses to a secret agent of the Russian Government. It appears now that the plot is to thicken. But nothing comes of all this until near the end of the last act, when the deal is finally consummated, and the daughter and her masquerading lover appear on the scene just in time to save the family honor and fall into each other's arms.

No one who saw the play last night could doubt that Miss Furniss had good material to work upon. The main theme, if handled with anything like the requisite skill, would have made an exceptionally entertaining farce. Miss Furniss, however, seldom gets above the polite parlor sort of thing.

One does not demand plausibility in an affair of this kind, nor is there any in "The Man on the Box," which involves the masquerading antics of a retired army officer who has fallen in love with a young woman, into whose house he has entered in the capacity of a groom. We have seen this sort of thing done frequently in musical comedy, and it is a situation that almost always contains comic possibilities. There were, indeed, many mirthful moments, but there should have been more. The lapses between the laughs were much too frequent.

But even as it stands the play is likely to enjoy a measure of success, chiefly on account of the exceptionally admirable acting of Carlotta Nillson, who, after having demonstrated in "Letty" that she is one of the best emotional actresses on our stage, now stands revealed as a comedienne of most attractive method. We have always considered Miss Nillson an emotional actress, pure and simple. Temperamentally and in appearance she suggests the woman who weeps. But that she has broader artistic resources is indicated unmistakably in her playing of the present rôle—one requiring the lightest sort of comedy touch and go.

Henry Dixey's name appeared on the programme in the large capitals. Essentially a comedian—and a good one—he played with admirable lightness throughout—easily, fluently, and nataurally. But he seemed ill at ease in the occasional passages of sentiment with which the part is encumbered.

Of the other actors one cannot speak in unqualified praise, although two or three of them gave valuable assistance. John Westley, as the Russian spy, played his first scene very well indeed, and did about all that was possible with his share of the melodramatic passage later on, but Lee Baker, who figured with him in the attempt to betray the United States Government, was a most unsoldierly and lachrymose sort of veteran. Both Sydney Booth and Marie Nordstrom overacted in rôles that made no great demands. A capital bit was contributed by Chester Beecroft, who as a member of the mounted police delivered an Irish dialect that sounded very much like the real article. The others ranged from medium to worse.

New Pantomime for Hammerstein.

Oscar Hammerstein announced last night that he has just closed by cable a contract with Fred Karno's London comedy-pantomime company to appear at the Victoria Theatre, on Oct. 16. There are fifteen persons in the company, which presents a music hall scene. When the curtain rises there is shown a stage within a stage. A performance is going on and the audience contributes to the entertainment. It is called "A Night in a Music Hall."

DE HEREDIA, THE POET, DEAD.

A Member of the French Academy—Born in 1842.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—José Maria de Hérédia, the poet and member of the French Academy, is dead.

José Maria de Hérédia was a son of José Maria de Hérédia, who was considered to be the greatest of the Spanish-American poets. Born at Santiago, Cuba, in 1842, and receiving his preliminary education in Havana, he went to Paris and entered the Ecole des Chartes. On leaving college he engaged in literary journalism. His style at that time was terse and incisive, and this, with the vigor of his views on contemporary littérateurs, especially the poets, speedily attracted attention, as did also his own poems, and as his talent matured and his verse became more lurid he had many followers.

He was elected to the Academy in 1894, following the publication of "Les Trophées," which was much talked about. Among other things he translated Diaz del Castello's "History of the Conquest of New Spain" and the "Life of the Nun Alferez."

"WILL" M'CONNELL DEAD.

Well-Known Manager and Dramatic Writer Succumbs to Appendicitis.

W. A. McConnell, the theatrical manager, who was operated on for appendicitis a week ago, died last night in Roosevelt Hospital of complications following the operation. From the first his case was looked upon as most serious. He rallied slightly the latter part of last week, but on Sunday his condition again became critical.

Mr. McConnell was fifty years old. In early life he was an actor. He supported John McCullough in that actor's repertoire and later played in "The Rajah." He was at one time the manager of the Brooklyn Theatre and also managed a number of companies.

The later years of his life he devoted to theatrical newspaper work, not only for managers, but as a writer on The Telegraph of this city. Last year he was the press representative of William A. Brady and this season he had undertaken the same work for James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering.

PROF. W. P. TONRY DEAD.

Chemist Figured as Expert in Many Murder Trials.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Prof. William P. Tonry, M. D., Ph. D., widely known as a chemist and toxicologist, died to-day of heart disease. He was 65 years old. Prof. Tonry had given expert testimony in more than forty trials for murder and in over a hundred other cases in which testimony relating to chemistry figured prominently.

His wife, who died about a year ago, was the daughter of Mrs. Surratt, who was executed for her connection with the murder of Lincoln.

DEATH LIST OF A DAY.

Justice James Madison Barker.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Justice James Madison Barker of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts died to-day from heart disease at the Union Club, this city. He was a resident of Pittsfield. He had been an associate on the Supreme judicial bench since 1891. Previously he was a member of the Superior bench, to which he was appointed in 1882. He was born at Pittsfield, Oct. 23, 1839. After being graduated from Williams College he studied law in New York and at the Harvard Law School. He saw service in the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1872 and 1873.

William A. Minard.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, Oct. 3.—William A. Minard, former district engineer of the Brooklyn Fire Department, died to-day at the home of his nephew, William A. Minard. In 1886 Mr. Minard joined the United States Engine Company, No. 4. In the civil war he served under Admiral Porter. He was a personal friend of Gen. Grant. After the war Mr. Minard joined the Fire Department of Brooklyn and in 1890 he was retired on a pension.

Richard Clarkson.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 3.—Richard Clarkson, United States Pension Agent for Iowa and Nebraska and for thirty years manager of the Iowa State Register, died this morning in this city. With his brother, J. S. Clarkson, formerly Surveyor of the Port of New York, he was actively engaged in Iowa journalism for forty years.

Obituary Notes.

Dr. WILSON T. BASSETT died at his home in Cooperstown, N. Y., yesterday, aged 84 years. He was a graduate of Albany Medical College, class of 1844.

HENRY KELDER, a well-known horseman, died of heart disease yesterday at Kingston, N. Y., aged 68 years. He was an expert driver, for which reason he was selected to drive President Grant's team when the President made his trip through the Catskills as the guest of the late Gen. George H. Sharpe.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

APPELLATE DIVISION OF THE SUPREME Court, First Department.—In the matter of the Application of the Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners for the City of New York for the Appointment of Three Commissioners to Determine Whether a Rapid Transit Railway or Railways ought to be Constructed and Operated. Modification of Park Avenue Section.—Notice.

To all persons who have subsequent to the 21st day of February, 1900, owned any premises abutting on Park Avenue, between 34th and 41st Streets, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, or their legal representatives:

Pursuant to an order made by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, for the First Department, on the 12th day of May, 1905, and entered in the office of the Clerk of said Court on the 7th day of September, 1905, notice is hereby given as follows:

1. That the Court has appointed the undersigned referee to take testimony, and to report to the said Court the same, with his opinion as to the amounts of damages, if any, which at any time prior to the hearing before the undersigned have been respectively sustained by owners of real property abutting on the easterly side of Park Avenue, between 34th and 41st Streets, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, by reason of the construction of the easterly tunnel section of said railway.

2. Claims for such damages must be presented, in form as hereinafter prescribed, to the undersigned referee at his office, No. 26 Liberty Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on or before the 21st day of October, 1905, at 12 o'clock noon. No claims not so presented will be considered.

3. Such claims must be presented in writing, subscribed and verified under oath, by the claimant or claimants, or by his, her, or their authorized representative or representatives. The claim must set forth the items of damage with the nature and amount thereof fully and intelligently stated, and must contain a stipulation by the claimant or claimants that any notice with respect to the claim may, in the proceeding before the referee, or in the said Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, be served by personal delivery of a copy thereof at an office within the City of New York, or by mailing a copy thereof, postage prepaid, addressed to the said office.

New York, September 18th, 1905.

HIGH COTTON REPORT BRINGS DOWN BULLS

Government Puts the Condition at 71.2 Per Cent.

OCTOBER FALLS 37 POINTS

The Indicated Crop of 11,000,000 Bales a Hard Blow to the Bull Pool.

When Supt. King read the Government report on the cotton crop condition from the rostrum of the Cotton Exchange yesterday, there was a stampede. The bulls were routed, and the bears were triumphant. Nobody had expected the Government to make the condition over 69—that was the highest guess. When the brokers heard the Superintendent say "Seventy-one" they were thrown into a frenzy. Prices dropped 5 and 10 points at a time. October cotton fell 37 points—about $2 a bale—and December broke 36.

Yesterday's break is a sad blow to the pool which has been operating in October cotton. The manipulators a week ago were crying a crop of 8,500,000 bales. The Government report indicates a crop of 11,000,000 bales.

Theodore H. Price, who has been a consistent bear, issued a bulletin in which he computed the probable cotton production of this year, "assuming a season identical, past and future," with the years from 1900 to 1904, inclusive. This is his table:

	Crop.
With 1900 as basis	11,925,000
With 1901 as basis	12,765,000
With 1902 as basis	13,770,000
With 1903 as basis	11,065,000
With 1904 as basis	11,135,000
Average	12,132,000

Though Mr. Price has been operating on the short side and thinks prices will fall still lower, it was he, strangely enough, who came to the rescue of the market when the bottom seemed to have dropped out. The bulls were caught heavily loaded, and could render little assistance.

In the decline yesterday October option, which closed at 10.27 on Monday, broke to 9.90, and December went off from 10.54 to 10.18. There were spasmodic attempts to rally in the early afternoon, but they came to naught, and at the close the bears were hammering down prices unmercifully.

From last month's high figures the low prices of yesterday show a decline of more than 125 points, or some $6 a bale. The clique that has been operating in October cotton or the long side met one of the most crushing defeats that has been witnessed in the cotton market in recent years. Hundreds of amateur "plungers," their imagination fired by the lurid and alluring prophesies of 12 and 13 cent cotton, go down in defeat with the discredited prophets.

An interesting result of the break will be the contest between the spinners and the growers. The spinners, no doubt, will hold their cotton for a rise. Hitherto the Southern growers have been steadfast in their determination not to part with their cotton, urged and encouraged all the while by the leaders who have been trying to maintain prices at a high level.

The Government report of 71.2 per cent. means that the crop has deteriorated only 1 point, instead of the 6 or 7 points' decrease which is usually expected in September. It is about 5 per cent. higher than the average condition for the last ten years.

Stocks Firm; Call Money Rates, 4½@5¾ Per Cent.

Market Moves Up Moderately After Early Uncertainty—Favorable Cotton Report.

After showing some hesitation in the early trading yesterday, the result, apparently, of a similar movement on the London Exchange, where higher money rates and the advance in the discount rate of the Bank of Germany were the influencing factors, stocks assumed strength and maintained this, with unimportant irregularities, to the close. In addition to the absence of pressure, which has been the conspicuous fact in all recent markets, yesterday's movement was aided materially by the Government's October report on the condition of cotton. The condition of 71.2 represents a decline of less than a point from the September condition, and has been surpassed only twice at this period in the last ten years, a situation which ends the fears of a ten-million-bale crop, adds weight to the estimates of 11,000,000 bales, or even more, and makes it certain that to the splendid harvests of corn and wheat is now to be added a full yield of cotton. The new light as to the size of the crop and the consequent decline in prices should logically lead to freer exports and liberal supplies of cotton bills. The probable effects on the question of gold imports seem clear. Demand sterling advanced sharply yesterday, rising to 4.8565 following the announcement of the $3,300,000 gold engagement made on Monday.

The advance of the German Bank's discount rate to 5 per cent. followed the rise in the Bank of England's rate on Thursday of last week. The Berlin institution reported a loss of $41,000,000 in cash and an increase of $77,000,000 in loans, thus disclosing a weak position and giving point to the opinion of international banking houses here that the speculative situation in Berlin is precarious owing to the over-speculation which has long been under way, particularly in bank and coal stocks and the shares of steamship lines. There was a further moderate easing in call money rates here, 5¾ per cent. representing the highest rate touched, with 4½ per cent. as the minimum. Discussion of the bank statement and its misleading phases was renewed by the vigorous speech of President Nash of the Corn Exchange Bank at the Clearing House meeting yesterday. In this address not only were the objectionable features of the statement itself brought out, but the unsatisfactory nature of existing relations between the banks and trust companies was clearly presented.

Other developments of the day of interest to the markets included the August returns of various railroads, including the Pennsylvania, with a net gain of $382,000 and the Rock Island and Alton with decreases of $44,000 and $137,000 each, and the further increase of ⅛ of a cent in the price of copper metal. The banks reduced their loss to the Sub-Treasury since Friday last through more favorable movements yesterday, but the Government's gain is still $1,200,000. Shipments of $75,000 to St. Louis and of $200,000 each to New Orleans and Cincinnati were made through the Sub-Treasury.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—There was less activity in the local market to-day, as well as less snap to the demand. Some realizing in Lehigh Valley and Reading held their prices in check, but the buying was of the same character as has been prominent all week. There was considerable "laundry" work in Cambria Steel, including the "washing" of a 10,000 share block at 29½. Keystone Telephone after early weakness was advanced a full point. Northern Central was off ⅞, but Pennsylvania Steel common was up 5, and the preferred ¾ on light trading, and Rochester Railway and Light preferred 3. The remainder of the list held firm. Bonds were fairly active.

"The attitude of mingled distrust and hostility with which the general public has recently regarded the speculative inducements held forth in the stock market is easily accounted for, I think," says a Wall Street authority, who delights on occasions to vent opinions which are unpopular in the financial community. "The public is periodically seized with a mania. Every few years it becomes animated with a mania for speculation, and while that lasts it is irresistible. It is now possessed with a perfect mania for exposures, preferring exposures in high finance, and its scent for these is quite extraordinary. Think of the disclosures that have been made in the last few months! They have followed each other with bewildering rapidity, and apparently we are not at the end of them yet. Do you tell me that public sentiment is indifferent to such facts as have been brought out in the course of this seemingly interminable life insurance investigation, beginning with the Equitable and continuing still? Think how the methods of Wall Street have been subjected to scrutiny; consider the output of Wall Street literature intended to be educational. The magazines are full of it; the newspapers devote more space to it than ever before, and the aim of a great deal of such writing is to show people how they lose their money in speculation. The pulpit has joined in the general chorus of denunciation. Perhaps the most singular thing of all is that Wall Street people are not averse to promoting feelings of distrust. After the appearance of last week's bank statement, brokers denounced it as a feat of financial legerdemain, and their opinions of it were telegraphed all over the country by private wires. The financial press similarly denounced it as it had each of several preceding bank statements. Do you still wonder that the public is distrustful and is not easily induced to enter the stock market?"

United States Steel common sold yesterday at 39, the highest point so far reached on this movement, and in the preferred stock the previous high quotation of 105¾, touched in August, was repeated. This movement in Steel common has been handled throughout in a manner calculated to appeal strongly to speculative confidence, and the fact that the outside public so far has not responded is somewhat discouraging. This is the first campaign of the kind under Morgan leadership to which the commission house element has not made willing response. The speculation has strong Wall Street support, however, and may be continued without public participation. The bull party predicts confidently that the stock will sell into the 40s on this movement.

***

Traders approached the market yesterday morning in a reactionary mood, but, on slight price recessions the scarcity of stocks became as pronounced as ever before, and selling for the short account was discouraged. The last few weeks have been very trying upon the nerves of a determined party of reactionists, all bulls at heart, but playing the market for a break on technical conditions. This element has lost money steadily "feeling for the top," and perhaps for that reason is only the more obstinate in its position. One of the hardest things a successful trader ever has to do is to turn and go with a market that he has been fighting. Every fresh bulge in prices causes the opposition to cover up its short stocks at a loss, and then as soon as the market becomes a little soft the same stocks go out again ⅜ or ½ per cent. lower than the prices at which they were covered a few hours before. Thus has the bear element been frittering away its money, believing obstinately that something would happen to bring selling pressure upon the market.

***

Traders who are sticking to the bull side are impressed by the experience that when the market moves it goes up. When prices fall back a little, the activity leaves it.

***

For several days stocks answering to the description of "specialties," including a number of obscure industrials in which there is no general interest, have been rather too prominent to suit those who from long experience have learned to regard activity in securities of this class as the sign of the culmination of a bull swing in the market. In the last year or eighteen months, however, the sign has been fallible. On several occasions the activity has left the higher-priced and better-established issues and gone into specialties, only to return again to the favorite vehicles of speculation without any break in the general market. There is now evidence of a concerted effort to stimulate a more general interest in low-priced stocks, especially in cheap industrials. The public has refused to trade in the high-priced stocks. It may be induced, some think, to take hold of cheap securities.

"I am going to buy the thin stocks for a while," said a well-known trader a few days ago. "The fat stocks may grow fatter, but they have room also to become a great deal thinner, while it seems to me that the thin stocks can only grow fatter."

***

The metal stocks were all very strong yesterday—Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and Refining, National Lead, and Federal Smelting and Refining. There is a suspicion that the Boston crowd has been buying Amalgamated Copper on this advance. The stock has been a laggard for several weeks—in fact, ever since the last Boston attack, and it is only now moving into line with the general market. There was a further advance yesterday in the price of copper metal. The interest in Amalgamated Copper is highly professional. Commission houses seem to be doing very little in it. Independently of the organization referred to as the Boston crowd, speculative sentiment in Boston appears to be strongly bullish on the copper situation, and various houses which have had very little to say for a long time about Boston "coppers" are now bulling them enthusiastically.

***

A capitalist who has varied interests in the stock market remarked wearily a few days ago that as the stocks in which he was most concerned did not advance, the only thing he could think of to do was to sell such of other people's stocks as were advancing.

***

Gates & Co. have issued a pretentious bull circular on Southern Pacific. Wall Street is superstitious about such things. The last attempt to advertise the speculative and investment possibilities of Southern Pacific on a large scale was followed by disastrous happenings to Mr. Keene's bull pool in the stock.

***

Union Pacific became very strong in the last hour yesterday, selling as high as 134½. The highest previous quotation on this movement was 134⅜, and after having sold at that price in the short session of week before last the stock broke abruptly. Now for the first time the bull crowd appears to have been able to establish it above 134. It closed at 134⅜. Between 132 and 134 there has been a large volume of trading, and opinion is hopelessly divided as to whether the process has been one of distribution or one of accumulation.

***

The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton deal seems to have killed the bull campaign in the Erie issues.

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

American Can Preferred Most Active on the Curb.

It Gained Nearly 2 Points—Chicago Subway Has Lapsed Into Dullness—Little Movement In Other Stocks.

American Can preferred was the most active stock on the curb yesterday. The sales amounted to 9,000 shares. Buyers were eager for the stock; the price jumped from 70¾ to 73 and closed at 72¼. The common gained ¼ under transactions of 4,000 shares. Standard Oil was strong, closing at 652. Chicago Subway was dull. Interborough stayed at 213. Thirteen hundred shares of Greene Copper changed hands, but the gain was only ⅛. Bethlehem Steel remained stationary at 30, and the preferred at 89. Japanese bonds again closed at 90¼.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.—Trade to-day was fairly active, and prices generally advanced. The transactions were principally in investment bonds and stocks of the better class, little being done in the speculative issues. The most striking advance was in United States Fidelity, which gained 2 points on a single transaction.

Virginia Midland fives sold 3 points up. Macon Railways and Light fives sold ¼ up. Atlantic Coast Line of Connecticut fives certificates ¼ up, and Charleston and Western Carolina fives advanced 2½ points. At noon recess some of the securities eased off from the higher prices of the morning.

The close was dull and steady. Shares, 723; bonds, $87,000.

WEEKLY CROP SUMMARY.

Large Corn Harvest Assured—Cotton Unchanged—Potato Outlook Poor.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The weekly crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau says that highly favorable weather prevailed for the week throughout the principal corn States. An exceptionally large and fine yield of corn is now assured.

As a whole, the reports indicate no decided change in the condition of cotton, a slight improvement being shown in Northern Alabama and in portions of Texas, while in other sections of the latter State there has been a slight deterioration.

In the Carolinas Georgia, Florida, and Alabama from 60 to 75 per cent. of the crop has been gathered; in Texas from 55 to 60 per cent.; in Mississippi, Louisiana, and Oklahoma, and Indian Territories, from 25 to 50 per cent., and in Arkansas and Tennessee from 15 to 33 per cent.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call on Stock Exchange collateral loaned at 4½@5¾ per cent., with the last loan at 4½ per cent. Most of the day's business was done at 5¼ per cent.

Time money rates, 4¼@4½ per cent. for all periods.

Mercantile paper rates, 4½ per cent. for sixty to ninety days' indorsed bills receivable, 4½@5 per cent. for choice four to six months' single names, and 5½ per cent. for others.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Money was slightly easier in the market to-day in consequence of the release of dividends, &c., but foreign demands prevented a material decline.

It is stated that $4,000,000, being practically all the bar gold in the open market, was bought up for America yesterday, resulting in a hardening of discounts.

Prices on the Stock Exchange were fairly steady, and trading was moderately active. Prices closed irregular. Consols were easier. The consols for money closed at 88⅞ and consols for the account at 89⅛.

Americans opened irregular and dull, and mostly below parity. The movements frequently were lower on realizations. The market closed dull.

Foreigners generally were depressed. Japanese hardened. Peruvians were weak. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 105¼.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Madrid, 60.02; Lisbon, 4.50.

The gold premium at Lisbon has advanced to 5.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—New York exchange was 10c discount before and 15c discount after clearings. Time and call loans, 4@5 per cent.

Insiders were buying American Can stock to-day, especially the preferred stock. Brokers usually representing the Moore-Reid party were active in the market. Accompanying the strength in the stocks, which took the common to 11½ and the preferred from 71 up to 72¾, was the old report which stated that plans would be worked out to pay off the accumulated dividends on the preferred issues.

In Boxboard stocks the principal development of the morning was the apparent unloading of a small pool upon the insiders, who bought the stock, especially the preferred, on recent "tips" emanating from Directors. During the morning hours the preferred eased from 13¼ to around 12½, with subsequent minor gains.

In the afternoon good absorption was seen in Boxboard preferred, and the stock ran back to 13¾. Subway also improved to 57⅝ on buying of a character said to be identical with that which accompanied the big bull movement. Tunnel bonds sold at 95½. The list:

Minneapolis and St. Louis Election.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—The stockholders of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad held their annual meeting here today. The Directors met immediately afterward and adjourned to a later date in New York City, when officers will be elected. George Crocker and H. E. Huntington were re-elected Directors, and James N. Wallace of New York was elected to succeed Edward Langdon.

Sale of Bank Stock.

Two shares of Bank of Commerce sold on the Stock Exchange yesterday at 201½.

MORGAN, JR., ON N. P. BOARD.

Rumor That Father Is to Retire Gradually Warmly Denied.

At the annual meeting of the Northern Pacific Railway Company yesterday, J. P. Morgan, Jr., was elected a Director for a year, to fill the unexpired term of the late Daniel S. Lamont. The Directors whose terms expired were re-elected for three years.

The meeting was attended in person by J. P. Morgan, whose presence was needed as a member of the Proxy Committee. The choice of his son as a Director led to a rumor that the father intends to place the son on the boards of the other companies in which he has large interests and gradually retire from active management of affairs. Friends of Mr. Morgan said with emphasis that this report was rubbish.

The annual report of the Northern Pacific is not yet ready for publication. It will probably be completed in a week.

SOUTHWESTERN'S REPORT.

Gould Road Free from Floating Debt—Yellow Fever Affects Traffic.

The full pamphlet report of the St. Louis and Southwestern Railway Company for the year ended June 30 has been issued. The income account for 1904-1905 was published in August.

The total surplus on June 30 was $3,145,155. Extra deductions of $252,224 were made during the year; they included $163,158 for loss on obsolete freight cars and $59,000 for taxes. In the report President Edwin Gould says:

Your company is absolutely free from floating debt, has no outstanding notes or bills payable of any kind, and, on the other hand, the amount of cash and other current or working assets is largely in excess of the amount of current liabilities. There has been no change in the capital stock of the company during the fiscal year.

The crops in the territory adjacent to your company's lines appear to be quite generally up to the average, and the prospects for future traffic are therefore favorable.

A statement from General Manager F. H. Britton accompanies the report. He says:

The new bridge of the Southern Illinois and Missouri Bridge Company across the Mississippi River between Illmo, Mo., and Thebes, Ill., was completed and opened for traffic on April 18, 1905. This company owns a one-fifth proprietary interest in this structure. With the opening of the bridge the delay to traffic incident to the operation of car ferries at this crossing was done away with, and the position of the company materially strengthened both from an operating and traffic standpoint.

The traffic prospects for the coming year are reasonably bright at the date of this report, although the cotton crop will likely fall short of the crop of last season. Passenger traffic will also suffer somewhat by comparison with the year for which this report is rendered, on account of the temporary annulment of passenger train service and limited passenger travel in sections where strict quarantine regulations, due to the yellow fever epidemic of 1905, are effective, and the heavy travel during the World's Fair period of the previous year.

RECORD DEBIT BALANCE.

Bank of Commerce a Champion on Both Sides of the Ledger.

The National Bank of Commerce, which on Saturday had a record credit balance at the Clearing House, and a very large credit balance again on Monday, had yesterday the largest debit balance ever recorded in a day's clearings against a single bank. As a result of the day's exchanges, it paid into the Clearing House $37,661,685, or about $10,000,000 more than its credit balance of last Saturday. Owing to this very large debit balance, the total debit balances also made a new record at $42,331,709.

None of the day's credit balances approximated the debit balance of the National Bank of Commerce. The National City Bank, which had a large debit on Saturday, had the largest credit yesterday—more than $10,000,000.

The redistribution of money paid into the Bank of Commerce in connection with the week-end payments on account of the Pennsylvania and Atchison bond issues were regarded as largely responsible for the record debit of the bank yesterday.

Financial Notes.

Subscriptions to the syndicate which has underwritten the $12,000,000 Erie convertible bonds, to be issued in connection with the purchase of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad, are greatly in excess of the issue. The present issue of bonds is convertible at 60; the first was exchangeable into stock at 50.

Transfers of currency through the Sub-Treasury yesterday totaled $475,000. Two transfers of $200,000 each were made to New Orleans and Cincinnati, respectively, and $75,000 was sent to St. Louis.

The Windsor Trust Company has opened a branch office in the Mutual Life Building, at Nassau and Cedar Streets.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—The local money market is firm. The usual table of rates, &c., follows:

Call loans, 5 per cent.; time loans on collateral, 4½@5 per cent.; time loans on mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent.; Clearing House loans, 4 per cent.; New York funds, 10@12½c discount; clearings, $36,263,974; balances, $2,635,664; Sub-Treasury debit, $141,103.

The Boston market opened active and strong and continued strong. Commission house business in the copper shares continues to improve, their brokers appearing with more orders each morning. The feature to-day was a sharp rise in North Butte to 58¼, and the strength of Copper Range. There was considerable profit taking by traders who believe a reaction is due, but their sales were in most instances eagerly sought, and the market continued to show strength until the close. The tone was greatly helped by the strength of Amalgamated.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Varian Estate Property in the Bronx Sold at Auction for $234,000—Buyer for Thirtieth Street Building—Other Dealings by Brokers.

That there has been no decline in the demand for well-situated lots in the northerly part of the Bronx was abundantly demonstrated at yesterday's auction sale of the Varian estate property, conducted by R. E. Simon of L. J. Phillips & Co.

The entire offering, consisting of 181 lots, was disposed of for a total of $234,000, a figure somewhat above the advance estimates made by the owners of the property. The buying was confined very largely to small investors and property owners in the neighborhood, although the names of William C. Oesting, John M. Linck, Robert Ghames, and one or two other well-known Bronx builders and operators appear in the list of purchasers.

The property is situated on Woodlawn Road and Rochambeau Avenue, extending from 207th up to 210th Street. It lies just east of the Mosholu Parkway and is about midway between Bronx and Van Cortlandt Parks. The old Varian mansion, a massive structure of hewn stone, said to be over 200 years old, is still standing on the property, near the junction of Woodlawn Road and Van Cortlandt Avenue. The old house was the subject of some competition at yesterday's sale, being struck down finally, together with a plot of four lots, to William F. Beiler for $6,000.

The highest bid of the afternoon, $3,750, was made for the irregular plot, equivalent to a little more than one full lot, at the junction of Woodlawn Road, Reservoir Oval, and 208th Street. For inside lots on Woodlawn Road, the prices ranged from $1,475, near 207th Street, up to $1,675 north of 208th Street. Corners on Woodlawn Road brought $2,000 at Van Cortlandt Avenue, $2,770 at 208th Street, and $2,000 at 210th Street. Lots of extra depth along Reservoir Oval were struck down at from $800 to $875 each.

On Rochambeau Avenue corners were sold at from $1,400 to $1,600 each, and inside lots at from $825 to $1,050 each.

HOW TO GET A DRINK AT THE HOTEL GOTHAM

Fill Out a Blank and the Boy Does the Rest.

SUPPLY BASE A BLOCK AWAY

Drought Is Unknown at New York's Newest Hostelry, Where the New Scheme Beats the Law.

If you chance to be passing along West Fifty-fifth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, and see a demure little boy heading east or west with an impressive wicker basket on his arm, and another little boy with an impressive wicker basket, and two other little boys with prim-looking milliners' boxes, and several other little boys, all of them looking as if sugar wouldn't melt in their mouths, with either baskets or boxes which they handle with care, don't lose yourself in wonder, especially if it is dinner time. The demure little boys are members of the Hotel Gotham's bottle brigade, doing their duty in the prevention of drought.

The Hotel Gotham, by virtue of its proximity to the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, is not permitted to sell liquors, malt or spirituous, on its own account, and Proprietor Bennett perforce has organized and put in running order a scheme by which thirst may be assuaged. The demure little boys—they were all of them picked with an eye to their appearance, and those who did not look seraphic had no chance—the wicker baskets, and the milliners 'boxes are all part of the scheme.

So far everything has worked to perfection. The very first step was to establish a base of supplies. A list of the wines and other liquid refreshments which the Gotham's commissary department deemed appropriate was given to the man in charge, and he stocked up accordingly. Then the baskets and boxes were built to order, and finally the boys were hired.

There is no attempt to evade the law, nor could the most decorous resident of the vicinity object to the frequent passing of the boys with their burdens. There is nothing to suggest a drink in the appearance of the boys, and the baskets and boxes they carry are innocent enough, to all outward seeming, to be bound for Sunday school picnics or the homes of fashion.

There is little circumlocution when a guest of the hotel wants a drink in having the want supplied. Whether it be when he gets up in the morning or when he sits down to a meal, all he has to do is to voice his desire. Immediately a bellboy, if he is in his room, or a waiter, if he is at table, supplies him with a card, which reads as follows:

> I herewith commission waiter known by No. — to purchase for me the following wines and liquors, viz.:
>
> .....
>
> .....
>
> The price of this order, $——, I paid to Waiter ——.
> Signature.....

He fills out the blanks, turns over the money for the drinks, and presently is served. He has made the hotel his representative in the transaction. If he is breakfasting, dining, or lunching, the price of the drink or drinks must be forthcoming separately from the price of the meal. No orders are filled until the money is paid. The purchaser signs his own name to the order, and the order is really sent to the base of supplies, which is a full block from the hotel. The hotel cashier does not keep the money an instant.

While the wines or liquors are purchased outside they are served in the hotel's best style. The head of the bottle brigade has an office adjoining the dining room, where all manner of glasses are at his elbow. All drinks are brought to him bottled—whether mixed or straight. He is something of a mixologist himself, and if occasion arises he may send out for such alcoholic elements as he may need, and do the concocting himself.

"There hasn't been a kick so far," said Proprietor Bennett last evening. "And there will be none. It's astonishing how quickly we can fill an order."

The baskets and boxes are masterpieces. The former, built in regulation hamper style, are filled with compartments of different sizes, with a space at the bottom calculated to accommodate cold quarts. The milliner's boxes suggest picture hats at the very first glance.

FOUNDRIES BUSINESS GOOD.

Judge Gary Is Optimistic—Offices to be Moved to Chicago.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the American Steel Foundries Company, held in Jersey City yesterday, it was decided to reduce the number of Directors from twenty-one to fifteen. George B. Leighton, Max Pam, Edward Shearson, J. A. Middleton, and John H. Harrison were elected Directors for three years. The general offices of the company will be moved from 42 Broadway, New York, to Chicago, to be nearer the properties of the company.

Judge E. H. Gary presided. He announced that the recent bond issue had been disposed of, half the bonds having been taken by the stockholders. The outlook for the coming year was extremely good, he said. Business has improved, prices have gone up, expenses are less, and profits larger than before. There is every reason to believe the company's earnings will materially increase. He read a preliminary report, which said, in part:

The company has lost by operations during the year ending July 31, $329,000. It has, however, expended for improvements and betterments $315,000. These improvements and betterments were of such a character that they will probably be capitalized, in which cass the actual loss will be about $12,000.

The report also said that the Foundries Company had taken over the Simplex Railway Supply Company. This company earned $365,000 for the last thirteen months.

MR. JECKLE WEDS MISS LYNCH

They Were Romantic, So They Ran Away Without Telling Their Friends.

Friends of Oscar Charles Jeckle and Elizabeth Kathryn Lynch were much surprised last night when they learned that they had been secretly married. That there was any unusual affectionate regard between them was not noticed by their friends who saw them at various social functions.

Jeckle is the only son of Christian Jeckle, a jeweler at 860 Third Avenue. Miss Lynch is heir to the estate of Patrick J. Lynch, whose saloon at Fifty-ninth Street was the headquarters of "Sam" Parks and his men in the labor troubles which led to Parks serving time in Sing Sing. Lynch died a year ago and left a fortune estimated at $200,000.

Why the bride and bridegroom chose to be secretly married is still a mystery to their friends, except Joseph F. Murroney, secretary to Park Commissioner Pallas, who says it was because they were romantic. He acted as sponsor for them when they were married a week ago by the Rev. Father Graves of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin.

TAX PAYMENTS STILL HEAVY.

Tax Receiver Austen Says the Total to Date Will Reach $35,000,000.

Tax payments at the office of the Receiver of Taxes yesterday aggregated $2,000,000. In addition to the large number of checks received the day before too late to be credited on the books of that date. Tax Receiver David E. Austen issued a statement of the sums received the day before, and deposited in the National City Bank. His table shows a slight falling off from the sum received the first day of last year. Property owners paying on the first day receive a rebate of 1 per cent. There is a rebate for all money paid during October, but the percentage decreases each day. Here are the total receipts for Oct. 2:

Manhattan	$11,570,093.19	$11,708,024.52
Bronx	968,231.17	880,472.45
Brooklyn	1,819,370.16	1,476,041.78
Queens	434,132.84	414,122.60
Richmond	131,932.02	149,562.16
Total	$14,924,324.38	$14,630,123.51

Payments received yesterday included $100,000 from Trinity Corporation; $35,000 from W. Gould Brokaw; $20,000 from Russell Sage; $125,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad; $55,000 from the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; $100,000 from the Higgins estate, and $150,000 from J Pierpont Morgan.

There are still hundreds of checks unentered, and it will take several days' hard work before an announcement can be made of the total collections. Col. Austen believes, however, that upward of $35,000,000 has been paid up to date.

ALBANY'S POWER ALARMING.

Justices Say Legislature May Actually Run a Corporation.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court handed down an opinion yesterday in the case of Sylvester B. Hinckley against the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company and others. The opinion was written by Justice Hatch, and all the Justices concur. The Appellate Division affirms a judgment of the Special Term.

The action was brought to restrain the company from issuing preferred stock and subordinating the original stock to the payment of capital, and dividends thereon. The plaintiff, a shareholder, set up that unanimous consent of the stockholders was necessary under the charter for the issuance of preferred stock. The company declared, however, that under the law of 1901 the consent of two-thirds of the stockholders was sufficient. The plaintiff attacked the constitutionality of this act, alleging that it impaired the obligations due under contracts and affected vested rights.

Justice Blanchard dismissed the complaint, and his judgment is now affirmed on the strength of authority. The court, however, reaches this conclusion reluctantly. Justice Hatch, speaking of the power of the Legislature, says:

"The power thus reserved is not only vast in extent, but is in many respects alarming. It is readily seen that the Legislature may regulate any and all affairs of a corporation through the simple medium of conditioning its right to exist as a corporation."

JEFFERSON PARK READY.

New Playgrounds to be Formally Opened Next Saturday.

The Park Department will formally open Thomas Jefferson Park, between 111th and 114th Streets, First Avenue and the river, on next Saturday with a concert and athletic tournament. Mayor McClellan will attend and accept the park on behalf of the city.

The park has the finest athletic equipment of any municipal park in the United States. There are two outdoor gymnasiums, one for boys and the other for girls; two spacious playgrounds and kindergartens, with an area of 44,962 square feet each, and two separate running tracks, each seven laps to the mile. Another feature is a pavilion, which cost $91,000, and includes kindergarten and classrooms and a large shower bath plant. The improvement of the park, exclusive of the equipment, cost $262,212. The site cost $2,748,122.

John J. Pallas, President of the Park Board, will formally turn the park over to the city. The athletic programme will begin immediately after the Mayor's speech and includes a 100-yard senior race, 100-yard junior race, medley race, 440-yard senior race, 220-yard junior race, basketball game, baseball game, junior and senior relay races.

FAINTED IN COTTON PIT.

Excitement in Market Too Much for Broker Suffering from Nephritis.

The excitement in the cotton market yesterday proved serious to Benjamin R. Smith of 1 West Eighty-third Street, a broker with Marshall, Spader & Co. of 74 Broadway.

Mr. Smith is a sufferer from nephritis. Early yesterday morning he was taken ill in his office. Dr. Harvey Dew, his physician, of 65 West Sixty-eighth Street, was summoned, and advised Mr. Smith not to go on 'Change. There were prospects, in view of a crop report from Washington, that there would be activity in the market, however, and Mr. Smith disregarded the doctor's injunction.

The Washington report came in and cotton prices quickly broke 25 points. The market was demoralized. The floor was crowded with excited men all trying to sell. Smith became excited too, and was seized with a fainting spell. Some of his friends saw him press his hand against his head and reel. They assisted him to a chair. He appeared to be dying, and an ambulance from the Hudson Street Hospital was summoned. He improved shortly after reaching the hospital, and probably will be removed to his home this morning.

U. S. AUCTION NETS $10,000.

Bidders Paying Good Prices for Custom House Leftovers.

The Government is nearly $10,000 ahead as the result of the semi-annual rummage sale of unclaimed and abandoned articles passing through the New York Custom House the past six months.

Nearly every known article figured in the sale, and purchasers appeared for all the merchandise. There were many Bowery jewelers, whisky and dry goods merchants, and a score of women. Lively competition on the part of the women began when a pair of corsets were put up. One man who had the temerity to bid 50 cents was promptly howled down. The corset prize was won by a stout lady, who left $2.50 with the auctioneer. She said that if they didn't fit she would return them in the morning and demand her money.

There was spirited bidding for the cigars and liquors, and several cases of dead plants, set down as of no value, were given to the women. They declared that with a little coaxing they would again become things of life and beauty. A spinning wheel went for $5. The prices obtained were uniformly good.

HARRIMAN ESTATE SETTLED.

Nearly $4,000,000 Distributed Among the Heirs Under the Will.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Oct. 3.—The entire estate of the late Oliver Harriman, amounting to more than $4,000,000, is distributed under a final decree of Surrogate Silkman, filed in the Westchester Surrogate's office at White Plains to-day, and the estate is closed up. The millions are divided equally among the Harriman children. Mr. Harriman's personal property was made up almost entirely of railroad bonds and stocks.

The executors who are discharged from office by the Surrogate were Oliver Harriman, Jr., J. Borden Harriman, and the United States Trust Company. According to the decree the executors received $4,097,200.57 and distributed $3,936,665 among the children. Each executor, including the trust company, is allowed $41,444 for services.

SAY COMPLAINANT IS DEVIL'S ISLAND CONVICT

Charge Made by Alleged Highwaymen Against Accuser.

RECORDER TO INVESTIGATE

Chef Is Said to Have Committed a Murder in Paris and to Have Escaped from Penal Colony.

An unexpected and sensational turn was given to the trial of two alleged hold-up men before Recorder Goff in the General Sessions yesterday. The prisoners were Joseph Lafargue and Edmund Fisher, French waiters. Eugene Richards, a chef, appeared as complainant, charging them with having held him up early on the morning of Sept. 8 and robbed him of $17 and a gold watch and chain.

As the case was about to go to the jury Assistant District Attorney Clark, acting for the prosecution, told the court that information had come to him which tended to show that the complainant was an escaped life prisoner from Devil's Island, the French penal colony off the coast of French Guiana, where Capt. Dreyfus was so long confined. A cursory inquiry into the matter caused Recorder Goff to suspend the trial and send the complainant to the House of Detention pending a more careful investigation.

The prisoners were arrested by detectives from the Tenderloin Station within an hour of the alleged hold-up. They denied criminal intent, saying they had only been having fun with Richards, as he was an old acquaintance and was slightly intoxicated. Richards insisted, nevertheless, that they should be locked up. Later the prisoners gave to the police all the details of the alleged escape, but the police paid no attention to the story.

Mr. Clark said yesterday that, according to the story told him, Richards was one of four life prisoners who had succeeded in escaping from Devil's Island. Richards had been sent there, Mr. Clark said, for strangling a woman in Paris twenty years ago and throwing her body into the Seine. The prisoners, he said, had told him they were in Paris at the time and remembered the crime.

When Mr. Clark mentioned Devil's Island, Richards stepped back as if from a blow. As the prosecuting attorney continued the Frenchman trembled and changed color. No sooner had Mr. Clark concluded than the Recorder whispered to a clerk. The clerk stepped over to Richards, who walked up close to the bench and took off his coat. Recorder Goff leaned forward and the man rolled up his left shirt sleeve. On the arm a mark was seen plainly. When Recorder Goff saw it he uttered an exclamation. The mark was tattooed.

Recorder Goff explained that prisoners sent to Devil's Island for life usually were branded on the arm or on the shoulder. It was impossible to examine the prisoner's shoulder in open court, the Recorder said; but he would see that it was done in the proper place.

In reply to questions put to him Richards said that he had been away from France ten years, and had spent one year in Colon and nine years in this country. He denied ever having been convicted of crime or having served time on Devil's Island. In spite of his denials Recorder Goff ordered that a mistrial be noted in the case against Lafargue and Fisher, and both were remanded back to the Tombs. He then ordered Richards confined in the House of Detention until the French Consul General could be communicated with.

WARNING TO WIFE BEATERS.

No Mercy Will Be Shown by Special Sessions to Such Offenders.

After having sentenced Frank McDonald of 1,726 Lexington Avenue to a year in the penitentiary and a fine of $250 for beating his wife, Justice Olmsted announced in Special Sessions yesterday that hereafter this would be the measure of punishment meted out to every offender of that kind.

"And intoxication is no defense," continued Justice Olmsted. "I refrain from inflicting the maximum punishment only because you have pleaded guilty. Hereafter men of your kind will get no mercy in this court. There is entirely too much of this kind of thing going on. And my colleagues agree with me."

James Cumisky of 514 West Twenty-ninth Street, who also had been sentenced to nine months in the penitentiary for knocking down his wife, pleaded drunkenness as an ameliorating circumstance.

OLD CAR TRACKS STAY.

Vesey Street Improvement Again Stopped by a Court Order.

Acting under orders from Borough President Ahearn, George F. Scannell, Superintendent of Highways, began yesterday to tear up the disused car tracks in Vesey Street. Contracts have been let for repaving the street with wooden blocks, and the tracks prevented the work.

Later in the day the New York City Street Railway Company got an injunction from Justice Greenbaum and served it on the Borough President, preventing the removal of the tracks until the courts pass on the merits of the case.

For years these tracks have been in the street, and formerly they served as the terminal for the old Eighth Avenue horse car line. Every time the city has attempted to remove them, the company has prevented action.

WOMAN LAWYER CAUSES MAN'S DISBARMENT

He Charged Excessive Fee in the Immigration Court.

BARRA WOULDN'T REFUND

Told Mrs. Quackenbos of the People's Law Firm to Crack Her Whip—She Did.

Caesar B. F. Barra, lawyer, may no longer practice at any immigration station in the United States. Notification of his disbarment from this particular branch of practice was received yesterday by Mrs. Mary Quackenbos of the People's Law Firm, who filed the charges on which the immigration authorities acted.

Rule 11 of the Immigration Laws provides that when the verdict of deportation is pronounced by the authorities of any port, an appeal may be taken to Washington, at an expense to the applicant of no more than $10, in so far as the attorney's fee is concerned. This rule has long been a dead letter.

Possibly no legal safeguard was ever more easy of evasion. In the case of New York, where immigration is measured by figures running into the hundreds of thousands, there are many instances where naturalized citizens are ready to go to almost any expense to have their relatives or friends admitted.

Say that a son has come to this country, and, becoming prosperous, has sent home for his mother or father. If Ellis Island should pronounce an unfavorable verdict when the parent arrived, he would spend his all to prevent deportation. Affection usually prevails over regard for dollars and cents, when a lawyer says that for a specified sum he can "fix it" and get the loved one in.

Last August, a brother of Antonio Vigiani, a well-to-do New York barber, and the brother's family, were rejected at Ellis Island and ordered deported. Attorney Barra undertook to have the verdict reversed, but instead of charging the $10 fee provided by law, he asked $150. He obtained $50 and a note for $100 from the barber.

The brother and his family were deported, the decision of the Ellis Island authorities being sustained at Washington. Viggiani put his case in the hands of Mrs. Quackenbos. There was nothing more to be done in the way of obtaining the admission to this country of the deported. Mrs. Quackenbos bent her energies toward recovering the $40 excess charge obtained by Barra, and the cancellation of the note. She wrote to Barra, demanding restoration.

"You evidently are unaware of the provisions of Rule 11," she told him.

Barra said he would return nothing. "Go ahead and crack your whip," he wrote to the woman lawyer.

"I cracked the whip," Mrs. Quackenbos said yesterday, "and now Mr. Barra is disbarred before the immigration courts.

"I hope and believe that the step taken by the immigration authorities will have a beneficial effect in preventing the violation of Rule 11, and insuring the $10 fee in cases where appeals are taken from deportation rulings."

DRUGGISTS IN CONVENTION.

They Are Concerned About the Stamp Tax and Department Stores.

The thirty-first annual convention of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association began yesterday at the Hotel Astor, to remain in session until Friday. The delegates expected to hear addresses of welcome from the Mayor, District Attorney Jerome, and the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, but none of these appeared. The only greeting came from Chairman Thomas P. Cook of the local Committee of Arrangements.

A delegation of three from the Metropolitan Retail Drug Association asked the assistance of the wholesalers in the fight to prevent the department stores from cutting prices. The reply was a promise to think the matter over. Chairman M. N. Kline of the Committee on Legislation made a strong appeal to the delegates to oppose the reimposition of the stamp, which is now being considered by the Congressional Committee of Ways and Means.

VAN WYCK HOME AGAIN.

Says Parker Would Have Won Had Insurance Facts Been Known Then.

Ex-Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck got home yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II., from his automobile trip through Europe. Last night his friends in the Democratic Club gave a dinner there in his honor.

Mr. Van Wyck said at the pier that the present insurance revelations, due to the investigations of the Armstrong Committee, would result in a great Democratic victory this Fall.

"These men," he said, "to whom bas been intrusted the hard-earned money of the people are nearly all men who have railed against Democrats and the Democratic Party. They have preserved a 'holier thou thou' attitude, and many have believed them. Now their sheep's clothing has been torn from them by the legislative committee and Mr. Hughes. I understand that John A. McCall testified that he gave $50,000 to the Republican campaign fund last year.

"This admission proves the statement made by Judge Parker on the eve of the election concerning that fund. Had the facts now disclosed been known at that time, Judge Parker would have been elected President."

There were several novel features at the dinner to Mr. Van Wyck. The table was banked with flowers which laid out in miniature roadway. On this ran a small gasoline motor car, making stops at various points representing towns which the ex-Mayor visited on his tour. Each stopping place was in front of one of the speakers, and the person so indicated would rise and give a humorous account of what he thought Mr. Van Wyck did at that point.

Ex-President John Keller of the club presided. The chief guests included Charles F. Murphy, ex-Justice Augustus Van Wyck, James W. Osborne, John F. Carroll, Magistrate Steinert, Andrew Freedman, Philip Britt, Judge Warren W. Foster, Edward Sheedy, Richard Croker, Jr., Judge Newburger, Dr. John B. Cosby, and Judge Wyatt.

Home from Europe.

On the Kaiser Wilhelm, arriving yesterday from Europe, were John F. Carroll, Andrew Freedman, and William S. Fanshawe, the banker.

Others on board were Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Danforth, Mrs. H. C. Frick and Miss Frick, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Guggenheim, Mrs. E. Cadwalader Guild, Mr. and Mrs. Luther T. Kountze, the Prince and Princess Collovedo-Mansfeld, Dr. and Mrs. C. von Noorden, Col. John Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Schiff, Judge C. E. Fenner, and Congressman Richard Barthoidt of St. Louis, who was President of the recent Interparliamentary Congress at Brussels.

If the men's new sack suits were worn by our better-halves, we might well call them "sweetness long drawn out."

For all our coats are long this Fall, while for young men who will go to any length that good form permits we have a still longer model with which the trousers are cut in larger proportions.

Many of these long coated suits are of the livelier patterns proper in the more pronounced style.

Men's and young men's sizes, from 32 chest up, $20 to $35.

Though we decided to make for this Fall a considerable variety of boys' suits so good that they must be priced from $10.50 to $15.50, we feared it might be a long pull to create a buying interest in really high class boys' clothes.

No longer!

We suspect now that there always have been many mothers willing to pay fair prices for fine clothes for their boys if they only knew where to find them and could be sure of getting substantial material as well as smartness.

ODELL PICKS ASPINALL AS HIS MAN FOR MAYOR

"FIGHTING JOE" IS HIS NAME

Jerome Rejected a Deal to Get Him to Run with Gaynor—No Pledges, Said William T.

State Chairman Odell, County Chairman Halpin, and Col. Michael J. Dady of Brooklyn held a conference at the Republican Club last night, and afterward Col. Dady announced that he had obtained the consent of County Judge Joseph Aspinall of Brooklyn to the use of his name as a Republican candidate for Mayor.

Judge Aspinall is under favorable consideration by Messrs. Odell and Halpin. He may be regarded as a probability—if Messrs. Odell and Halpin are unable to persuade a Republican of greater strength to accept the nomination between now and ths meeting of the Republican City Convention next Friday.

Judge Aspinall served a term in the Stats Senats. In his legislative career he was known as "Fighting Joe" Aspinall. Hs was elected County Judge by 18,000 majority.

"Judge Aspinall," said Col. Dady late last night, "is not one of those who regards the coming fight as hopeless for the Republicans. He is convinced that there is an excellent chance for victory if the fight against Tammany is cerried on as it should be. He is willing to lead it if the Republican Convention calls upon him to do so."

Though all but six of the Republican district leaders at the conference held at the Republican Club last week declared their opposition to the indorsement of Mr. Jerome by the Republicans under any conditions, prominent Republicans who are understood to be acting with the consent of the leaders of the Republican organization are now engaged in an effort to induce Mr. Jerome to consent to run on a ticket with Justice William J. Gaynor in opposition to Tammany. Mr. Jerome has given them no encouragement that he will abandon his independent position.

The effort to bring Justice Gaynor and Mr. Jerome together was tried last Monday, when Edward Lauterbach and several other prominent Republicans had Judge Gaynor and Mr. Jerome as their guests at dinner. Previous to the dinner those who gave it had been allowed to understand by Justice Gaynor that if Mr. Jerome could be induced to accept a nomination on the Republican ticket, with the pledge that he would not take a Tammany indorsement, Justice Gaynor might reconsider his decision not to run for Mayor.

Such a deal was suggested to Mr. Jerome. The District Attorney promptly rejected it. Having solicited an independent nomination and having formally declared to the public that he would make no bargain with any party organization for a nomination, Mr. Jerome ssid he could not agree to the proposal made to him without stultifying himself.

"I am an independent candidate," said Mr. Jerome, "and the party organizations will have either to support or ignore my candidacy without any pledge from me. I will take sny indorsement that comes to me unsolicited, but I cannot bargain for an indorsement."

The plea is understood to have been mads to Mr. Jerome that he and Justice Gaynor could reach an agreement between themselves, and in that way he could avoid a repudiation of the principle on which he announced his candidacy. Mr. Jerome was not greatly impressed. He is reported to have said that if he did enter into such negotiations it would be impossible to persuade the public that he had not gone back on his declarations of independence and bargained for a party indorsement. That, he declared, he positively would not do. He would rather run without any party indorsement than obtain one in such a manner as would create the suspicion that he had not been "on the level" in his statement to the puhlic announcing his intention of becoming an independent candidate.

Some of the leading Republicans are inclined to believe that Mr. Jerome's refusal to take a Republican indorsement under the condition that he will not permit his name to go on the Tammany ticket is due to his confidence that he will be indorsed hy Tammany without solicitation and without the exaction of a pledge.

The condition in which the Republican leaders find themselves with respect to a candidate of the character they desire, was a source of fun yesterday to the rank and file of Republicans.

"Are you the mysterious Mr. Candidate whom the Republicans intend to nominate for Mayor?" was one form of greeting which svery Republicsn of prominence recsived when he came into the Fifth Avenue. Another was:

"Are you that dark man with a bundle whom Odell and Halpin are looking for?"

Republicsn friends of ex-Senator Ford, who made inquiries of the Republican leadors yesterday ss to why the Republican leaders had dropped the name of Mr. Ford from consideration as an available Mayoralty candidate after having suggested him as a good man to head the Fusion ticket, received two explanations, both interesting.

The first explanation offered was that if Mr. Ford were the candidate it would be impossible for the Republicans to raise a campaign fund. The second was that when Republicans suggested Mr. Ford in the Fusion conference, the conferrees of the Municipal Ownership League objected to him, and presented affidavits bearing upon a receivership which Mr. Ford held several years ago, as the ground of their objection. In the light of those affidavits, it was said, Mr. Ford's executive ability would be seriously brought into question.

Evsr since the Fusion conference, Mr. Ford has been acting with the Municipal Ownership League to induce Mr. Hearst to accept the nomination for Mayor. The League hes indorsed Mr. Ford for Controller.

THREE CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE.

Father Dragged Out by Firemen Falls from Fire Escape.

Three children were hurned to death and several others wero mortally injured in a fire which occurred shortly before 1 o'clock this morning in a row of houses known as 278, 280, and 282 Reid Avenus, Brooklyn. The dead are Rohert Donnelly, 6 years old; Charles Donnelly, 10 years old, and Mary Donnelly, 8 years old. Their father, Charles Donnelly, who was sevorely hurned in trying to rescus them, and their mother were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in a critical condition.

The Donnellys lived on the top floor of the four-story brick flathouse at 280 Reid Avenue. It was in this house that the fire was first discovered.

Fireman Teeze of Engine 14, Manhattan, and Fireman Nugent of Engine 3, who were off duty, were passing the house at 12:45 o'clock. Seeing smoke coming from the cellar. Teeze turned in an alarm and then, with Nugent, startsd into the house to arouse the tenants. They found the hall door locked and battered it down. Then they ran into the halls, shouted to arouse the tenants, and dragged sleepy men and women into the street. After making several rescues Teeze and Nugent found ths stairway leading to the top floor cut off by the flames, which had crept up the airshaft to the roof.

Climbing out on a rear fire escape the two firemen saw women and children at the windows above. Sheets of flames were shooting from the roof, hut the firemen climbed up to the top floor where they dragged out two women and a man. The man was Donnelly!

Fireman Teeze helped him out to the fire escape balcony and then carried out the boy Charles, but the boy died on the sidewalk. Donnelly had jumped from the fire escape and was pickad up bleeding and unconscious. The two other Donnelly children were burned in their beds.

The fire spread to the two adjoining huildings hefore the firemsn got it under control. On the way to the firs Chief Croker was upset in his automobile, and with Capt. Rush was slightly injured.

WOMAN'S VIGIL IN AN AUTO.

Mrs. Charles N. Matterhorn Alone All Night in a Forest.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 4.—Overcome by the strain of a night passed in an automobile in a dense forest, with only a Boston terrier to keep her company and with fears as to the fate of her husband and hrother, W. B. Seaver of Boston, to add to her terror, Mrs. Charles N. Matterhorn of New York is prostrated at the home of a friend, L. M. Sperry, in Watertown.

The party of three, in a hig French touring car, were going through the Black Woods, near Woodbury, on Tuesday night on their way to Watertown. Although the road is not a good one for automohiling, they took chances and determined to hrave the darkness in order to complete their journey.

They had difficulties with the road, and because of these the engine of the big car suddenly broke down. They were in the densest part of the forest at the time.

Mr. Matterhorn and his brother-in-law endeavored to repair the engine, but finally had to give up the task. Then, believing that they need be gone only a few minutes, they left Mrs. Matterhorn and her dog in the machine and took different directions in search for help.

The place where the automobile was stranded, however, was a mile from any habitation, and in some way hoth strayed from the road and got lost in the woods. Mr. Matterhorn wandered about all night trying to find a habitation, and then trying to get back to his wife, but hecame so completely confused that it was late in the morning before he was able to find his way out at all.

Mr. Seaver was almost drowned as a result of his attempt to get back to his sister after he had searched vainly for a house. While wandering in the woods he fell into a pond, where the water was up to his neck, and had great difficulty in getting out. Thoroughly chilled and almost exhausted he continued his search for the automobile, arriving at the side of his sister at daybreak.

Mrs. Matterhorn was nearly frantic over her vigil of more than eight hours. She had been frightened from the first, for her dog had been uneasy and had harked at whst she thought were night prowlers. As the absence of the men lengthened, she became fearful that some tramp would take advantage of her loneliness. The men had some extra clothing along, and she changed her garb, feeling that this would add to her security. She believes that her dog and her garh gave her protection, for tramps wers in the neighborhood.

SAYS SWINDLERS GOT $17,000

Connecticut Farmer Has a Lawyer and a New Yorker Arrested.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 4.—Charged with swindling Henry G. Wheeler, a wealthy farmer of Stratford out of $17,000, Frank L. Rodgers, a well-known lawyer of this city, and D. K. Tripp, said to be a New York business man, are locked up at Police Headquarters in default of $10,000 bail each. A warrent was issued to-night for the arrest of William B, Sutphen of New York, said to be Tripp's business partner, who is accused of complicity in the alleged swindle.

Mr. Wheeler says that Rodgers and Tripp gave him a bundle of worthless mining securities in return for his indorsement of checks, and that he loaned several large sums on hogus notes, his losses amounting to more than $17,000.

Rodgers and Tripp appeared at the Court House at the appointed time, and awaiting them in the Sheriff's office was Mr. Wheeler. Both men were surprised when tol dthat they had been accused by Mr. Wheeler of swindling and denied the charge. The warrants were served, however, and they were put in jail.

The names of D. K. Tripp and William B. Sutphen do not appear in the New York City Directory.

HENRY W. SAVAGE ROBBED.

Cashier of His Boston Real Estate Office Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 4.—Charged with the larceny of $1,900, which he is alleged to have lost in stock speculation, Howard B. Lent, cashier for Henry W. Savage's real estate firm, was arrested late this afternoon. He had been employed by Mr. Savage for nearly six years.

"When our hooks were audited this month, we discovered a shortage of $1,900," ssid Mr. Savage. "Lent's books were correct, hut his cash was short. The money was taken during the last month."

GOULD HAS DETECTIVES SHADOWING RAMSEY

Trailing the Wabash Head During His Enforced Vacation.

A NEW MOVE TO OUST HIM

Plan Is to Do It Before the Annual Meeting, but He Still Has Some Cards to Play.

Two detectives employed by the Gould interests have been shadowing Joseph Ramsey, Jr., President of the Wahash Railroad, for the last week. This latest development in the struggle between Mr. Ramsey and George J. Gould for the control of the Wabash became known yesterday. It also hecame known that the Gould interests are planning to remove Mr. Ramsey as President of the Wabash in advance of the annual meeting next Tuesday.

Mr. Ramsey's friends say that he is prepared to meet this move by the Directors, and that other proceedings in addition to the injunction proceedings at St. Louis are likely to he hegun hefore the annual meeting tekes place there. Just whst these proceedings will be could not he learned yesterday.

Mr. Ramsey made a visit to St. Louis last week in connection with the injunction proceedings begun by him there on Tuesday. His friends knsw nothing of his visit, but he was followed to the railroad station by detectives, and his departure for St. Louis was promptly reported at the Gould offices, 195 Broadway. From the beginning of Mr. Ramsey's efforts to get control of the board before the annual meeting of the Wabash on Tuesday, the spokesmen of the Gould interests have pretended to he indifferent to what Mr. Ramsey did or did not do.

Mr. Ramsey has heen making his headquarters here at the Holland House. The hotel detectives discovered that detectives were following Mr. Rsmsey, and so informed him: Mr. Ramsey said last night that the fact that he was being shadowed did not disturb him.

"Is it true that you have heen followed hy detectives?" he was asked.

"I have heard that that is so."

"Have you seen anything to indicate that you have been shadowed?"

"Well, when you double in your tracks several times and bump up against the same man, you come pretty near knowing that you are being followed."

Mr. Ramsey expects to go to St. Louis in a day or two in connection with the injunction proceedings brought hy him in that city. One of the points that Mr. Rsmsey will contest with the Goulds is their right to maks use at the annual meeting of proxies representing $4,000,000 of the company's debenture bonds, which were borrowed just hefore the closing of the books and returned soon afterward.

These bonds were borrowed by a prominent Stock Exchange house, put in the names of their clerks, and, after the books were closed, were returned to their owners. The supporters of Mr. Ramsey maintain that these proxies which have heen given to the Gould interests are invalid. If any attempt is made to use them at the mceting Mr. Ramsey will protest against it.

Realizing that their position will be stronger with a Gould sdherent as Chairman, the Goulds are planning to prevent Mr. Ramsey presiding at that meeting. It was said yesterday that Mr. Ramsey, as President of the company, would assert his right to preside.

Ths first effort to keep Mr. Ramsey from presiding wes made on Monday, when the Board of Directors extended his leave of absence. The Directors were informed hy Mr. Ramsey that he did not think they had the power to do this. He has visited his office every day since that time, just as if no auch action had been taken. The Gould forces will make another effort to get rid of Mr. Ramsey, but just what will be done could not he learned.

MISSOURI AFTER GOULD.

Attorney General to Bring Suit Independently of Ramsey.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—Growing out of the injunction proceedings brought by Joseph Ramsey, Jr., against the Missouri Pacific and the Iron Mountain Railroads, George J. Gould, Walter S. Wilson, H. M. Walker, and the Mercantile Trust Company of New York, to restrain the railroads mentioned from voting their holdings of stock in the Wahash at the annual election of Directors at Toledo on Oct. 10, there probahly will be brought within the next few days another and more important proceeding. This will be an attempt to expose by legal process the "minority control method of railroad financiering" and to enforce the Missouri laws against two or more competing railroads having identical officers.

This action is to be hrought on hehalf of the Stats of Missouri by the Attorney General or special counsel representing him, most likely the latter. The procesding will be bassd on revelations to be made at the Ramsey injunction suit. It is expected to result in an important extension of the principles enunciated in the famous Northern Sscurities decision and undouhtedly would have a vital effect on the present controversy for control of the Wabash. It is said positively that the new proceeding was not instigated hy Joseph Ramsey, Jr., and that he is not behind the men who are urging the Attorney General to take action.

The principle that the court may be asked to decide is whether a group of financiers may acquire ownership or control of a road hy a small margin and then exsrcise this control to have the road issue honds in order to get control of another road; in the same manner to acquire another road, and ultimately to beget the condition of one group of minority stockholders dominating largs systems which they do not own. The definite question will be whether it is legal for an "active and energetic minority" to manage the properties of an inactive majority and have the unrestricted power of manipulating the value of securities and real property.

"David Harum" Netted $125,000.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 4.—"David Harum," the novel written by the late Edward Noyes Westcott of this city, netted the author's estate about $125,000, according to a sstement made in the Surrogate's Court to-day, when the final accounting of the executrix of the estsle was filed. Mr. Westcott, who was a banker, died seven years ago, and the estate was held open to derive the benefits from the sale of the novel.

NO THIRD TERM—ROOSEVELT.

President Says He Is Firm in His Determination.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The President gave an interesting turn to his conversation to-day with Senator Simmons of North Carolina when he called at the White House.

Referring to the repeated suggestion that when his present term is finished the people will demand that he again be a candidate for the Presidency, Mr. Roosevelt said he would not allow himself to he a candidate in 1908, and that hs was as firm now as he was when he first made the announcement of his determination. He said that the consciousness of this unalterable resolution was the complement of his freedom from pledges when he entered on the office. It made him free to act as he thought was right, gave him great satisfaction, and enabled him to enjoy his official life better than he could if he were striving for some political ambition.

STONE HIT ROOSEVELT HOUSE.

A charge of dynamite set off yesterday at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, where an excavation is being made for a hig department store, alarmed the neighborhood, and hurled two big pieces of stone in the air.

One of the pieces struck the rear of the house at 200 Madison Avenue, which is occupied by James Roosevelt and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt. It tore a hole in the back wall of the house. No one was injured.

GEN. BASIL DUKE ASSAULTED.

Knocked Down by Alleged Democratic Repeaters at Louisville.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—Two men, said to he Democratic repeaters, to-dey assaulted Gen. Basil Duke while he was inspecting the registration for the Fusionists at one of the registration booths. Gen. Duke was knocked down from behind and was then roughly handled by a crowd, which closed in, not knowing who he was.

The Democratic leaders disavow any hand in the matter. Gen. Duke is not seriously hurt. No arrests have heen made.

BANKER FALLS FROM WINDOW.

George F. Krapp Killed—Son Tried Hard to Save Him.

In spite of the efforts of his son to save him, George F. Krapp, cashier of ths Cooper Exchange Bank, fell yesterdey morning from a window in his home on the fourth floor of 200 West Ninety-seventh Street to the areaway, and suffered injnries which caused his death within a few minutss. According to statements made hy the widow and the son, the fall was an accident.

Krapp, who was 52 years old, had been indisposed for soms days. He was sitting on a window sill, when he pitched forward. His son Herbert succeeded in getting hold of his father's feet, and called for help. The mother responded, but became hysterical. Finally the young man had to let go.

TO PROMOTE GEN. WESTON.

President Decides to Make Him a Major General.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The President to-night decided to promots Brig. Gen. John F. Weston, now Commissary General of Subsistence of the Army, to be a Major General, to succeed Major Gen. George M. Randall, who will be retired on Oct. 9. Gen. Weston will take his place in the line of the army, and will probahly be assigned to the command of a division or a department when a vacancy occurs.

Gen. Weston's successor as head of the Commissary Department will, it is expected, be Col. Henry G. Sharpe, now the chief assistant to Gen. Weston.

SAW METEOR STRIKE OCEAN.

Fishermen Say It Glowed in Daylight and Made the Sea Boil.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 4.—Winfield and Richard Johnson, brothers, and fishermen, cams eshore yesterday with a story about a meteor that plunged at white heat into the water only fifty feet away from them.

A ball of fire, dazzling in full daylight, came from the upper air with the velocity of lightning. They heard the object plunge hissing into the water. Clouds of vapor rose and the sea boiled. They are satisfied that the moltsn mass was as big as a washtub.

HIS LEGS OUT OF THE CAR.

Belmont Stable Boy Dragged from a Train and Mortally Hurt.

Clyde Shsffield, a fifteen-year-old stable boy in the smploy of August Belmont, started to Manhattan yesterday afternoon on an electric Atlantic Avenue train, and to make himself more comfortable he lay down on the floor of the baggage car, which was the last car of the train, and let his feet hang out of the side door.

Along the incline near Norwood Avenue, East New York, the track is fenced in with an iron railing. The distances between the passing car and the top rail was less than a foot. The boy's feet were caught by the first post and he was dragged out of the car and thrown on the track. The thing happened so quickly that the boy had no chance to cry out, and no one saw the accident.

The boy was found by the motorman of the next train that came along. He was unconscious and lying across one track with his legs up against the railing. Fortunately the incline reduced the speed of the train, so that it was possible to stop it in time. The boy was taken on board and the train was run to the Nostrand Avenue Station at top speed. At St. Mary's Hospital it was said that his legs were broken and his skull fractured, and that he had no chance of life. His home is in Hot Springs, Ark.

HAVEMEYER FAMILY IN MINE EXPLOSION

Head of Sugar Trust in Chamber Where Dynamite Is Set Off.

MISS HAVEMEYER INJURED

Leg Cut by Flying Rock—W. B. Thomas Burned in Accident 500 Feet Underground.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Oct. 4.—Henry O. Havemeyer, President of the American Sugar Refining Company, and the members of his party nearly met death by a dynamite explosion yesterday 500 feet under ground in the great Portland Mine at Cripple Creek. W. B. Thomas of Boston was the most seriously injured. He stood within five feet of the explosion, and the right side of his face was hurned. It was several minutes hefore hs recovered from the shock.

Miss Adeline Havemeyer, eldest daughter of Mr. Havemeyer, was cut on the leg by a flying piece of rock. Miss Helen Thomas and Miss Electra Havemeyer, who were standing close together, were knocked down by the shock. Miss Margaret Thomas and Horace Havemeyer were some distance from the explosion and escaped unhurt.

The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Havemeyer were a few feet further away than Mr. Thomas saved them from an experience as painful as his. As it was hoth were severely shocked, and the entire party had to he assisted to the surface. Some of the womsn fainted before the top was reached, and when the party had returned to Colorado Springs last night, they were still fesling the effects of their experience.

The Portland manegement, it is understood, has ordered an investigation as to why the Havemeyer party was taken into a chamber of the mine in which a shot of dynamite was to be fired. Mine Manager F. M. Kurie and Supt. Frank Small wsre with the party. The only explanation offered is that they were so long in exploring the mine and reaching the fifth level that all knowledge of the time had escaped the Superintendent, else he must have known that shots were about to be set off.

When the party entered the fifth level, the miners had scattered in anticipation of the explosion, and, ignorant of the trap they were walking into, Mr. Havemeyer, his family, and friends curiously inspected the rock crevices. They walked within five feet, it is said, of the stick of dynamite. When the explosion occurred the chamber became dense with smoke. The shrieks of the women penetrated to an upper level of the mine and were heard by the miners. Manager Kurie and Supt. Small were thoroughly alarmed. Probably all that saved the party from death was the peculiar position in which the stick was placed and the fact that several of the members had scattsred to other parts of the chamber before the explosion took place.

News of the accident was suppressed. The miners, it is understood, were cautioned not to say a word about it. Upon the Havemeyer party reaching the surface they were taken to their special train on the Short Line and left immediately for Colorado Springs, in charge of W. L. Kennedy, who also was with them when the explosion occurred.

The parlor has light yellow cartridge paper and woodwork stained in mahogany. The library is in a darker shade of yellow, furnished with mahogany hook cases which reach from floor to ceiling. The dining-room decorations correspond with the parlor. The bedroom and dressing room are done in pale hiue, and the woodwork is finished in white. The kitchen is entirely in white enamel. Mr. Stokes had the decorating done at his own expense, and the cost is estimated at $500.

The neighborhood ie taking great interest in the arrival of the pair and plans a reception on the 15th.

Mr. Stokes's neighbors on the sixth floor will be Mr. Epstein, en actor; J. M. Shapiro, a grocer, and E. Schneider. The rent of the flat is $38 a month.

CRAFT RUN DOWN, HE SWAM.

Seaman of Disabled Launch Picked Up Half a Mile Away.

While the tug Transfer No. 16 of the New York, Nsw Haven and Hartford Railroad was steaming up the East River at 10:40 o'clock last night it ran into a thirty-foot naphtha launch a little below Thirty-fourth Street. Just before the crash a man was observed in the small craft.

The tug plowed the launch right under the surface a moment after the man was seen to jump. A minute later the launch came up astern, floating down stream, bottom upward. Capt. Haight of the tug reversed engines, whistling for assistance. The tugboat Long Island of the Long Island Railroad put out from the Williamsburg side and picked up the launch, towing it back to the ferry slip.

Some time later Capt. Haight saw a man swimming off Twenty-fourth Street. A line was thrown to him and he was dragged aboard the tug. He gave his nams as John Anderson, and said that the name of the launch was the Invisible. Capt. Haight notified Police Headquarters of the accident some time after midnight.

Through express service between New York and Portland will be extended, leaving New York, eastbound, at 3:02 P. M. daily, except Sunday, until and including Oct. 28th.—Adv.

EMBEZZLEMENT, FOLK SAYS.

Missouri Governor Talks of Insurance Aid to Campaign Funds.

Special to The New York Times.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Oct. 4.—Gov. Folk in a speech here announced his views on life-insurance "graft" in this language:

"When Directors of the great insurance companies use money for their own profit, that is 'graft' when the President of a great insurance company takes funds held in trust for the beneficiaries of insurance policies, and without their knowledge and consent, converts a part of a trust fund into a political campaign fund, that is embezzlement, just the same as if a public official in charge of public funds were to put his hands into the public Treasury and take therefrom money which he turns over to some one else for political or private purposes.

"If Insurancs compsnies cannot exist without resorting to bribery and surreptitious violations of the law, it would bs better for the people that they he wiped out of existence. The time may come when the State will insure her own citizens at a far less cost and with far more safety to those who need that protection. When one reflects that Missouri alone sends away premiums amounting to $14,084,946.18 a year, the gigantic nature of the Insurance Trust can be realized. The millions piled up in the great insurance companies seem to be the foundetion of what is known as the 'system' whereby the financial affairs of the country are manipulated to the injury of the people and the benefit of the special few."

MAY BAR NEW YORK LIFE.

Missouri State Superintendent Demands McCall's Resignation.

Special to The New York Times.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 4.—Supt. W. D. Vandiver of ths Missouri Insurance Department in all prohahility will take action to revoke the license of the New York Life Insurance Company to do business in this State, along the same lincs followed in Nevada.

He returned ysterday from the convention of Insurance Commissioners, which met at Bretton Woods, N. H., last week. In that convention he had offered a resolution that insurance company officials gullty of diverting the funds of policy holders to political purposes or other improper uses should be required to replace the funds so used and to resign. Personally, the convention seemed to approve this measure, but refused officially to adopt it at present. Asked this evening what action the Missouri Insurance Department would take, Mr. Vandiver replied:

"Thc resolution referred to expresses my conviction of what is right in the premises and what I believe will be the outcome.

"Mr. McCall and Mr. Perkins and all others who are guilty of misuse of funds must resign the trust, and if ths case is within the criminal statutes of New York they should he prosecuted as embezzlers by the New York authorities. One thing is certain—they must replace the funds or they can't do business in Missouri while I am Superintendent.

"Mr. McCall has admitted on the witness stand enough to convict him of gross violation of a sacred trust, and I think the demand for his resignetion should he imperative. He has not only taken policy holders' money and contrihuted it to a political committee, hut has put vast sums of moncy belonging to the policy holders in the hands of a notorious lobbyist to he used without any accounting or auditing of the books of the company. And hs used hundreds of thousands of dollars to protect a subsidizing trust company which made a had investment in New Orleans bonds.

"This kind of management cannot be tolerated. Mr. McCall must resign."

CAME "COLLECT" TO McCALL.

And He, Sent Back That Nevada Chap's $6.40 Telegram.

President McCall of the New York Life was asked yesterday what action his company would take with relation to ths refusal of the Insurance Commissioner of Nevada to allow it to do business in that State under present conditions.

"We will fight it to the death," he replied.

"By what means?" he was asked.

"By injunction. We can heat that order hy proper legal proceedings."

Mr. McCall was asked if he had heard from the Insurance Commissioner of Colorado, who in the dispatches of Tuesday night was quoted as saying that if Mr. McCall and Mr. Perkins did not get out of ths New York Life and President McCurdy out of the Mutual Life licenses for those companies to do business in Colorado would he refused.

"I haven't heard a word from Colorado," said President McCall, "hut that Nevada chap sent me his notice in a telegram which had $6.40 charges to be collected on it."

"Did you pay it?" a reporter asked.

"I did not," said President McCall. "I sent the telegram hack to him."

$200,000 COLLECTION STOLEN

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The Rev. Jeremiah Zimmerman of Syracuse, N. Y., the well-known numismatist and Egyptologist, who stopped over in Paris on his way to the United States from Egypt, was to-day the victim of thieves, who stole the entire collection of ancient coins, medals, and cameos obtained hy him during his Egyptian tour, which were destined for the Metropolitan Museum of Art at New York.

The value of the collection is estimated at $200,000. An Englishman staying at the same hotel has been arrested on suspicion.

The Rev. Dr. Jeremiah Zimmerman is a well-known writer on numismatics. He is a member of the Victoria Institute of Great Britain, of the Royal Numismatic Society of London. He is pastor of the English Lutheran Church of Syracuse and a lecturer in Syracuse University.

BILLS TO BLACKMAIL INSURANCE CONCERNS

Three-fourths of Them Are "Strikes," McCall Says.

HE GOT $75,000 LOAN AT 1 1-2

That Was From the Metropolitan Life, of Which He Is a Director—$786,000 to Hamilton.

President John A. McCall of the New York Life Insurance Company was again the chief witness hefore the Armstrong Investigating Committee yesterday. This is ons thing he said::

"Mainly the general Insurancs legislation of this country, if you will follow it, emanates from people who ere desirous of striking at insurance companies. I may even say that I believe that three-fourths of the insurance bills introduced in the United States are blackmailing hills, until the management of these companies really tremhle in the beginning of the year as to what they have to encountsr during the following six months of the year."

From President McCall and Chief Actuary Rufus W. Weeks of the New York Life these additions were obtained to the eum of the information elicited by the Armstrong committee regarding the way Insurance business is done in this State:

1. The loan which the New York Life made to President John R. Hegeman of the Metropolitan Life several years ago continued at 1½ per cent. for an extended time irrespective of the market rate of interest, had its counterpart in a loan of $50,000 which President McCall of the New York Life negotiated with the Metropolitan Life, of which he is a Director, on Jan. 22, 1903, and an additional loan of $25,000 in March, 1904. Both of these loans were made at 1½ per cent., which rate Mr. McCall paid up to the 1st of July of this year, when it was increased to 2½ per cent.

In 1903 call money did not decline to 1½ per cent. in the open money market until the week ending May 22. At one tims in early April it reached 15 per cent. In 1902 it never got lower than 2 per cent. It got as high as 35 per cent. in October of that year. It got down as low as one-half of 1 per cent. once in 1904, was frequently as low as 1½, and never got higher than 6.

$786,000 to Hamilton.

2. The New York Life paid to Andrew Hamilton as a part of its "legal expenses" hetween June 1, 1900, and Aug. 1, 1905, $476,927.02, and took from him no statement of account or itemized voucher other than the general receipts already introduced in evidence. This is in addition to the $235,000 of the New York Life's money which Hamilton is charged with on account of "real estate" acquisitions, and another $75,000 which he expended in some manner unaccounted for to President McCall between June 1 and Oct. 1, 1904. This latter sum, which appeared in evidence for the first time yesterday, was a part of a check for $111,139.04 originally placed in Hamilton's hands for the peyment of taxes. In October of last year he notified the New York Life that he had but $36,139.04 of it left, and accordingly a check for $75,000 was sent direct to the Controller to settle the tax hill. Judge Hamilton turned over the balance which he had in hand at the same time. This makes a total of $786,927 of New York Life money which has been expended by Judge Hamilton in the last five years. President McCall, however, yesterday could not edd much to the information already brought out as to the details of Hamilton's duties. He did say, however, that W. J. Holden, who was under retainer for several years to represent the New York Life in Boston, was a registered lohhyist in the Massachusetts Legislature and not an attornsy at all.

3. Nelle F. Townley, Andrsw Hamilton's Albany law partner, told the committee yesterday that he didn't know anything about his partner's bank accounts. Hs said, however, that he recently went to the Albany Trust Company, got the passhook and canceled checks of Judge Hamilton there, took them to the offics and put them in a drawer. When he went to look for them just hefore coming down to testify he discovered that they wers gone. Mr. Townley didn't know what had become of them.

Texans Didn't Learn All.

4. President McCall, when ths representative of Gov. Culherson of Texas visited him last Fall to ask about campaign contributions of the New York Life, turned the matter ovcr to the Controller and the lawyers of his company, who; Mr. McCall said he believed, wers not informed that any contributions had ever been made. Mr. McCall said that the Texan Commissioner arrived at a time of the year when he himself was very busy, and that although if he had been asked to make an affidavit he would have expressed his belief that contributions to the Republican National campaign fund had been made, he did not consider it necessary to volunteer the information in the absence of a specific request. Mr. McCall sxpressed it in this way:

"I was not in a frame of mind to chase througb our books with this man to help him find this money, hecause of course I understood he was inimical. I did not believe that the Texas officials had any authority to ask the question, and you may be assured I didn't feel very friendly toward the commission."

Mr. McCall said he didn't know what information was given to the representative of the Governor of Texas hy his legal department and by the Controller of the company, adding that he had instructed the Controllcr to let the visitor have access to the books, which, however, showed no trace of the payments to the Republican campaign fund.

5. It developed yesterday that the New York Life and—to the best of President McCall's information—other companies, were behind the bill which was introduced in Congress a couple of years ago seeking to put insurance under Federal supervision. At least they sent Solicitor Thummel of the Mutual down to Washington—under the joint agreement that has existed—to advocate the measure. This fact was received with interest in view of the advocacy of such a measure at the present time by attorneys for the Mutual Life and by President Dryden of the Prudential of Newark.

Annual Dividend Policies.

6. President McCall and Actuary Weeks are joint authority for the assertion that it is the policy of the New York Life to discourage annual dividend policies, on the basis that the New York Life is "a deferred dividend company;" and it is the practice of the company to pay higher commissions for deferred dividend policies than on any other kind. This, although Mr. Weeks said he believed that the deferred dividend business is easier to write. Contrasting with this situation is a fact elicited through a letter which Actuary Grow of the company wrote to the manager of the Paris office in 1903. This letter showed that in the three years previous $700,000,000 new business had been placed on the books of the company at an expense so much greater than its first-year premium return that it had been necessary to borrow $14,000,000 from the surplus to obtain it. The explanation made was that the deferred dividend business paid up the advances in a few years after it was put on the books; but it was admitted, none the less, that in general the first-year premiums on the deferred dividend business for the New York Life at the present time are not sufficient to cover the expense of getting it.

Cheap Rents for the McCalls.

7. It came out that John C. McCall, son of President McCall; Leonard McCall and Ballard McCall, nephews of President McCall, and A. R. McClave, Mr. McCall's son-in-law, all occupied apartments in the New York Life's house at 49 West Seventy-second Street, of nine rooms and two baths each, paying $1,500 a year in rent for apartments. Other tenants in this house have paid $2,400 and $1,800 a year. The house earned in 1904 2.3 per cent. on its cost to the company.

The Testimony.

The treatment that was accorded the Texas Governor's representative became a part of the records early in the afternoon session, when Mr. Hughes asked the President of the New York Life whether he remembered that affidavits had been made by Cashier Banta and other officials of the company denying that such payments had ever been made. Mr. McCall said that he didn't recall the making of the affidavits, and then said:

"The representative of Gov. Culberson came to the office and said he was authorized to make certain inquiries about our business in connection with the campaign. I practically told him at that interview that while I was quite willing to give him every information on the subject, yet at the same time that the New York Life was being struck at because of the very pronounced position of its officers during the McKinley campaign, and that I should have to think it over before giving him an answer as to whether or not I would let him come in and examine the books of the company. He went away. After he went away I made up my mind that he should do it if he wanted to, and so a man in the employ of the company, not now with us, named Stewart Brown, went to see the representative of the Texas Governor and told him he was perfectly willing to have him come in and ask those questions. He said he preferred to make a report, and so he came back to the company in connection with it. It was at the close of the year, and I never talked with him on the subject again.

Q.—Did you give any instructions as to the furnishing of information from your books with reference to such contribution? A.—I told the Controller of the company to give the representative of the Governor all the information that he wanted from our books.

Q.—Did you know that the books of the New York Life would not show that such a contribution had been made? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—You stated the other day that you had been unable to find any reference to that contribution. Have you since been able to find it? A.—That is true to-day.

"You People Are Interested."

Q.—Can you explain why it is possible that such a contribution should be made without any trace of it appearing upon the books? A.—No, I cannot explain it except in this way: That the then Treasurer of our company, Mr. Gibbs, was very largely interested in other corporations, and was a very pronounced man in his politics and was very active, if you will, in a business way with political matters. How he wanted that payment I haven't any idea: I never had but two conversations with him on the subject. One was the statement that the representative of the Republican Campaign Committee expected that the people connected with the New York Life, if you will—"you people," as he used the phrase—"you people here are interested in this sound money campaign and you should help the sound money campaign along." And I talked with the Treasurer of the company about that request, and he said to me: "Then you wish me to handle it?" I said I would prefer that he should do it, and he said: "Very well, I will take care of it." About a month after that he said: "I think there will be no fault found in connection with what I have done in the campaign." So I had every reason to believe that he had paid Mr. Hughes; I have no reason to know how he did it.

Mr. Hughes remarked that the committee was not interested so much in the fact that the contribution was made as in the system of accounting which would allow $50,000 to be paid out of the money of the New York Life without leaving a trace that even the President of the company could find four years later. Mr. McCall said that all he could do was to repeat his previous statement that he assumed it was paid out because Mr. Gibbs told him so.

"You made no concealment of the fact that the New York Life was making that contribution, did you?"

No Concealment, McCall Says.

"We made no concealment of the fact that the New York Life, through its officers, was doing all it could in that campaign."

"Did you turn this inquiry of Gov. Culberson over to your legal department?" Mr. Hughes asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "Mr. Hubbell finally handled it."

"Did Mr. Hubbell know that a contribution had in fact been made?"

"He did not."

"Then you didn't advise him that a contribution had been made?"

"I did not."

"Did you know that Mr. Hubbell was getting affidavits as to the fact whether such contribution had been made?" Mr. Hughes asked.

"No," said President McCall; "as to the affidavits, I knew he was in touch with the Texas representative, and let him explain the books himself. The details I didn't know anything about."

"Don't you appreciate the fact," said Mr. Hughes, as he shook his finger at the witness, "that if this examination of the books did not disclose to this representative that such a contribution had been made, he would go away laboring under a misapprehension?"

"No," said Mr. McCall, "because, while I felt and believed it had been made, and believe now that it had been made, yet I couldn't swear. I could take the same affidavit that our officers did that I didn't know that it was paid."

Q.—But you couldn't take the affidavit that your officers did, that to the best of your knowledge and belief it had not been made? A.—No; I couldn't do that.

Q.—What information or belief had your officers on the subject when they said that to the best of their knowledge and belief it had not been made? A.—I don't think that they had any idea of the subject at all.

Q.—Did you have any interview with Mr. Banta regarding it? A.—I don't recall any.

Q.—Or with Mr. Thompson or Mr. Whitney? A.—I don't recall any interview on the subject. It was the close of the year—December—when it is the busiest time of my year, and I am carrying it late into the evening, and so the thing was turned over as many such things are. I don't recall now that I ever discussed the subject in any way, shape, manner, or form.

Q.—Are we to assume that this inquiry having been made, and you having turned it over to the legal department, that these affidavits were furnished to Gov. Culberson to satisfy him that no contribution had been made without any knowledge on your part? A.—That the affidavits were turned over to him stating that?

Q.—Yes. A.—No, I have no knowledge of how the affidavits were turned over to him. I had no knowledge. I certainly did not have any discussion with anybody on the subject. It was understood that the legal department of the company had that.

Q.—May we assume that you did not know that, whether in the form of affidavits or otherwise, Gov. Culberson was informed that any such contribution had been made to the belief of these officers? A.—Well, that would be hard to say: that is, I can't assume a condition that was never brought to me in connection with the affidavits. That is, I wasn't asked to make an affidavit. Nothing was said to me on the subject, nothing was said to me on the subject at all in connection with it, and if I were asked by any of those people as to what I knew about it I would only tell them just as I tell you now—that I believed a payment was made. I believe now one was made.

"Did you state the fact?" Mr. Hughes demanded.

"No, I did not," said President McCall with a little laugh, in which most people in the room joined. "I was never interrogated on that at all."

"Now," said Mr. Hughes, "what I want to get at is this. You expressed entire satisfaction with the course that had been taken and justified it in your testimony the other day."

"I did," said President McCall emphatically.

Not Privy to Concealment.

"Now," continued Mr. Hughes, "were you in any way privy to the concealment of that in the affidavits or the information which the officers of your company gave?"

"Not at all," said Mr. McCall, still smiling. "I was just in the position of the person who believed that the company was being struck at because of its attitude on the free silver subject. Now, I was not of a frame of mind to chase through our books with this man to help him find this money, because, of course, I understood, he was inimical. His whole proposition—for example, he asked what we had for lunches and wine—the whole attitude of the inquiry was one of attack on the New York Life."

Q.—You were satisfied to let him go without the information if he didn't find it out from your books? A.—If he didn't. Well, I was satisfied to have him do just as he would do about it, and then if he came to me regarding it, and asked whether so-and-so was the situation, I should certainly have told him the truth so far as my knowledge went. I might say, Mr. Hughes, if you will, if it is pertinent, that after these inquiries were made that again another inquiry was made as to how much the salary of each of the officials of the company was. That was a second inquiry that was made by the Governor. We answered that in an affidavit in detail, and gave him all the affidavits in connection with it, and the furnishing of that information was made the subject of an attack on the company in a message of the Governor to the State, and that was used very generally by competitors against us, and I am very happy to say that in the end we did more business in Texas than ever before.

Q.—You don't mean to imply that you thought the State of Texas was not entitled through the officers of your company to be informed as to whether you did give to that campaign fund? A.—Yes; I did believe that very seriously. I thought they had no authority whatever to ask that question.

No Friendly Feeling.

Q.—Was it for that reason that you were willing that he should get what information he could from the books, so that if he didn't find it out there he could go without knowledge of the facts? A.—No, not necessarily, but you may be assured that I didn't have a very friendly feeling toward him.

Mr. Hughes asked President McCall whether he had been able to trace the payments to the Republican campaign funds in 1900 and 1896, and the witness said that try as he might he could not get any track of them. The only explanation he could offer was that the money had been taken from profits coming to the New York Life in certain operations which the books of the company did not altogether disclose.

"Has that occurred at various times?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"I don't say it even occurred this time," was Mr. McCall's reply, "but it is the only way I can imagine in which it might be done."

He did not go beyond this in explaining the payments.

It was at the morning session that Mr. McCall first declared that most of the insurance bills introduced in the State Legislatures had blackmail as their primary object. Mr. Hughes took him up on the statement in the afternoon, wanting to know what he meant by it.

Judge Hamilton's Bureau.

"Well," said the New York Life's President, "the organization of Judge Hamilton's bureau was such that he was intrusted and put in charge of the legislation of the United States and Canada in its entirety; all bills introduced every year he had gathered in his own way; he had statements made of all proposed and introduced and passed-up legislation, and there were constant consultations about the laws that were offered. I might say there were over 700 laws relating to life insurance, in the past five years, and all of that means—he took hold in 1895, if you will—in 1892, 1893, and 1894 there was a constant clashing as to the bills in the various States.

"This agent would write in, say, from Texas, that the best man in connection with a bill was John Doe and another agent said he would suggest Richard Roe, and there was a constant clashing and iteration and reiteration, until the thing could not be handled at all to any one's satisfaction, and for that reason the bureau was organized in 1895, giving Judge Hamilton absolute and entire control of all legislation introduced in the United States and Canada."

Paid to Hamilton.

The following statement of payments to "Judge" Hamilton in the last five years, as contrasted with the total legal expense of the company, was then put in evidence:

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Statement of law expenses from June 1, 1900, to Aug. 31, 1905, and the amounts in that account paid to Andrew Hamilton:

1901—Law expenses, $212,773.55; Andrew Hamilton, $107,809.35.
1903—Law expenses, $254,793.95; Andrew Hamilton, $88,126.35
1904—Law expenses, $172,698.42; Andrew Hamilton, $140,077.42.
1905—Law expenses, $87,229.01; Andrew Hamilton, $12,164.90.
Total law expenses, 1900 to 1905, $1,103,920.14; total payments to Andrew Hamilton, the same period, $476,927.02.

Mr. Hughes then took the witness up again on his statement at a previous session that none of the payments to Judge Hamilton had been accounted for to the company by more than a general voucher which did not go into details. Mr. McCall repeated his previous assertion and said that it applied also to William A. Morse, who has represented the company in Massachusetts as counsel for three years. Mr. Hughes wanted to know if the New York Life or any of its agencies had ever contributed anything to the expenses of Mr. Morse's campaigns for election to the Massachusetts Senate. Mr. McCall said he never heard of anything of this kind.

"Do you always in dealing with men in States where you desire to prevent legislation, deal with the attorneys and counselors?" Mr. Hughes asked.

"As far as the company itself is concerned, we do. Whether Mr. Hamilton does or not, I don't know," was President McCall's reply.

Deal with Those Who Produce.

"Was Mr. Hamilton expected to deal with the man who could produce results?" Mr. Hughes wanted to know.

"I think he was, Mr. Hughes," said Mr. McCall, with a little laugh, and again the audience joined in his merriment. Mr. Hughes kept on:

"Whether he was an attorney or whether he was any other man."

"The best fellow he could find," was Mr. McCall's reply.

Mr. McCall said that he didn't know anything about the arrangement testified to by Assistant Auditor Maine of the Equitable at the last session, whereby the Equitable, the Mutual, and the New York Life divided the territory between them for the purposes of legislative influence. He said that Mr. Hamilton was retained to handle the general question and had entire freedom to consult with whoever he pleased and make such arrangements as he thought wise.

"And to do whatever was necessary to prevent the attacks that you feared?" Mr. Hughes demanded.

"Yes, Sir," said President McCall.

Mr. McCall said that he had met Mr. Thummell, the solicitor of the Mutual Life, on one or two occasions, and that the New York Life had retained him twice, paying him fees amounting to $5,000. One case he said was in Iowa and the other in Washington, D. C. Mr. Hughes wanted to know why Mr. Thummell should be retained to represent the New York Life in Iowa, and Mr. McCall said he supposed it was because Mr. Thummell knew more about the Iowa tax situation, which was the topic up for consideration, than anybody else.

Q.—Did he go to Iowa on that occasion? A.—I think so.

Q.—And did he represent any other companies? A.—Yes, I think he did.

Q.—Did he represent the Mutual? A.—Very likely.

Q.—Did he represent the Equitable? A.—Possibly.

Q.—And what was the result of his mission? A.—I think he succeeded.

Q.—He succeeded in doing what? A.—In defeating the tax of 3 per cent.

Q.—In defeating the bill for that purpose? A.—Yes.

Mr. Thummell at Washington.

It developed that the other case in which Mr. Thummell was retained to represent the New York Life was in connection with the bill introduced in Washington a couple of years ago seeking to place life insurance under Federal supervision, and that the New York Life was favoring this bill. President McCall explained that Mr. Thummell had been suggested as the man who knew the "people at Washington" better than anybody else, except Judge Hamilton, and added that he believed Mr. Thummell represented other companies at that time. This statement had an interesting bearing on a question which Mr. Hughes asked the witness earlier in the day. That was whether the New York Life had ever received, directly or indirectly, a quid pro quo from the Republican organization in consequence of its campaign contribution. President McCall's answer was:

"Not the slightest statement of that kind has ever been made because insurance has been held not to be commerce, and how a Republican Government at Washington could help the New York Life is past finding out."

Mr. McCall remarked at the time that he was telling about the bill to put insurance under Federal supervision, that it "did not amount to anything." Mr. Thummell's retainer in this case was $1,600.

Mr. Hughes wanted to know if the witness had ever heard of insurance contributions being made to Congressional committees, and Mr. McCall said he had never heard of any such thing. He added that from time to time he had conferred with insurance men from other States regarding the legislative situation in their localities.

Then Mr. Hughes took up the case of W. J. Holden, who was under retainer from 1901 to 1903 to look out for the legislative interests of the New York Life in Massachusetts. He said that the $3,000 salary that Mr. Holden received was paid him directly by the company and charged to legal expenses. The Massachusetts law, he said, did not require that a lawyer must appear before committees of the Legislature, and Mr. Holden himself happened not to be a member of the bar. The Massachusetts law does require that everybody appearing in legislative service must be registered as a lobbyist. Then Mr. Hughes asked:

"You are conversant enough with the situation in the various States to know that men in a position to deal with such matters frequently represent a great many interests, not simply insurance, but other interests as well?"

"I presume that is so," was Mr. McCall's reply.

Might Prevent Re-election.

Q.—And they are in position by reason of their knowledge of such matters and the press that they can bring to bear upon men really to prevent the re-election of a man who opposes their wishes? A.—I think they might be instrumental in doing it.

Q.—It is pretty well known that they are in a position by reason of such facts to prevent the re-election of a man who opposes their wishes? A.—I think that is so.

Q.—And so the right man is retained in the particular place who is in such relation to such matters and has an acquaintance, perhaps, which will enable him to prevent legislation which you deem inimical to your company? A.—I believe he could.

Q.—And the man that balked him or went against his wishes would probably go out of politics? A.—I would not like to go as far as that.

Q.—That is a matter generally known to most of us, it is not? A.—His position might be strained. [Laughter.]

Q.—Frequently the fact is that it is only necessary to retain the right man without spending money otherwise. A.—I think that is the sole object—to get the right man.

Mr. Hughes brought it out next that William H. Buckley, who was well known at Albany, has been under retainer by the New York Life for several years, most of the time at $2,700 a year. He is one of the men who have been mentioned with Messrs. Hamilton and Thummell, "Al" Fields, Eugene Wood, and "Dinkelspiel of Albany." President McCall's explanation was that Mr. Buckley had a sort of general commission to investigate and report on anything that might occur affecting the company's interests at any place, and he did not believe that Mr. Buckley had ever received any money from Judge Hamilton. President McCall said he didn't know that the company had ever paid any money to A. G. Fields, better known as "Al."

Fields Aided the Democrats.

"Have you ever had any interviews with him?" Mr. Hughes asked.

"Never—" and then Mr. McCall corrected, "Yes, I have, as to a few things."

"Regarding what matters?" said Mr. Hughes.

"I have seen him probably in four years to speak to him twice," was Mr. McCall's reply; "but I used to know him at Albany, and he was very active in the work of the Democratic State Committee."

Mr. Hughes called the attention of the witness to an entry in the bank account of Andrew Hamilton with the Albany Trust Company on Sept. 1, 1905, showing that there had been deposited to his credit on that day $162,041.67. Mr. McCall explained that the New York Life had not paid Hamilton any money this year except what he might have gathered from the assignment of the tax claims which he fought through the Court of Appeals. The amount recovered for the New York Life in these cases was approximately $270,000. Hamilton, under the arrangements that had been made at the beginning, was entitled to one-third of it.

Mr. Hughes led the witness through a long explanation of the purposes of this litigation. Mr. McCall explained that in 1901 a law was passed taxing all life companies doing business in the State on their premium receipts, the first payment to be made in 1902. In 1904, he said, Hamilton had suggested to him that he did not think the law constitutional, and, the New York Life not desiring to appear as a plaintiff in the matter, it was arranged that the Provident Savings Life Association of this city should start a test case. It was arranged that if the case was won, Judge Hamilton was to receive one-third the refunds of the New York Life on the taxes that it had paid in the two years the law had been in force; if it was lost, he was to stand the expense. In October, 1904, the case was decided favorably to the company by the Court of Appeals, and a refund of approximately $1,000,000 to the three largest companies here was in order.

The arrangement for the payment of Mr. Hamilton was made in this way: The New York Life, in the current year, has paid no taxes to the State, and Mr. Hamilton took for his remuneration an assignment of the company's claim against the money which was to be refunded through the Controller. The only explanation Mr. McCall could think of for the $162,000 entry in Judge Hamilton's bank account was that suggested by this assignment.

Mr. Hughes at this point brought out the fact that the attorney who started the litigation on behalf of the Provident Savings Life Association was Edward A. McCall, brother of the New York Life's President, and counsel for that company until his elevation to the bench. Then he asked:

What Hamilton Did.

"Up to the time that the case reached the Court of Appeals Judge Hamilton had nothing to do with it so far as appearance in court was concerned, did he?"

"I think not," said Mr. McCall.

Q.—Yes. The argument was not a very extended one was it? A.—Well, I read the briefs in the case; I thought they were so.

Q.—Or very thorough? A.—I think they were very thoroughly considered.

Q.—Thorough and complete, and ultimately effective, but the argument necessarily lay within a very small point—lay upon the meaning of these words in the act? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—There was no evidence to be taken? A.—No, I think not.

Q.—And the record was a very short one—it was the legal proceedings on petition? A.—Yes, not very long, I think.

Q.—No. Now, can you explain why it would not have been appropriate for the New York Life Insurance Company, with this case admittedly of importance, and with a question of law which should be reviewed, to employ one of its counsel upon the usual terms to bring the proceeding and make the argument, for a reasonable compensation? A.—Well, very likely the New York Life would not care to appear as plaintiff in the transaction.

Q.—Well, that would not furnish a reason why, from its desire not to appear as plaintiff, it should make a contingent arrangement to give a third of the recovery? A.—I think that the arrangement was a very excellent one, if you will permit me to say it, Mr. Hughes—we ran no risk; he agreed to take the case to the highest court, and found a client in a company in another State, or several clients—two or three, at least, and the arrangement was that if he did not win his case he wasn't to get anything, and if he did win that he should have one-third of the recovery.

Q.—Of course the New York Life is an institution of dignity and power and resources; where it thinks a question of law should be reviewed it is in a position to review it, even though the decision is against it? A.—Yes, Sir.

Mr. McCall said that he did not know whether the Provident Life or any of the other companies benefited had paid Judge Hamilton anything from their share of the refund.

More from Other States.

Mr. McCall went on to say that the New York Life was interested in similar legislation in five other States, having all told a total of $416,000 of premiums involved, and that as the matter in the other States went upon the decision of the case in this State, Judge Hamilton was also entitled to some $44,000 as the result of the tax cases in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, New Jersey, and one other State which he did not mention, making his total compensation thus $136,000. Judge Hamilton's bills for the current year, so far as Mr. McCall could estimate, are likely to amount to $120,000, but this fact did not throw any light on the deposit of $163,000 in September, and Mr. McCall did not know anything about deposits of $124,200 on June 24 and $21,961 a few days later. The New York Life, he said, had not paid Judge Hamilton this amount or anything like it. Then Mr. Hughes said:

"I merely want to ask you this additional question: Have you at any time had any conversation with Judge Hamilton or anybody else in which you have given any intimation as to what was to be done by Judge Hamilton with the moneys that you placed in his hands for the purpose of avoiding undesirable legislation?"

"I have not, absolutely; not in this State," Mr. McCall said.

"Or any other?" interrupted Mr. Hughes.

"No, Sir," was the emphatic reply.

No Bribery Talk.

Q.—You said no intimation? A.—I meant no general knowledge, no specific intimation; I mean for bribery, or buying Legislatures; I mean to be emphatic about that; that never was discussed in my hearing.

Q.—Well, do you know, as would seem to be implied in your statement—did you have any information as to what was done with the money paid Hamilton? A.—No, except he was given the whole of Canada and the United States to manage.

Q.—You have no information as to any money given to him by anybody either for a proper or improper purpose? A.—I have not.

Mr. Hughes brought out the fact that the way in which Judge Hamilton's expenses in the various States were handled was by payments to the branch offices of the company, directed from the central office, and charged eventually to law expenses in the general office.

Q.—And have you directed agencies of the New York Life in various States to give Judge Hamilton cash? A.—No; I would direct them to pay under this warrant which he would take with him for a thousand dollars, two thousand dollars, and that he would present. How he got it I don't know.

Q.—Did you supply the branch office with any information as to what this was to be used for? A.—Never.

Q.—Or did you provide them with your receipt—any voucher, other than his receipt? A.—That was all.

Q.—Didn't you get from Judge Hamilton any information as to why he should want to be in Rhode Island or Illinois? A.—No, no other arrangement other than he had his warrant for Illinois.

Q.—The point was that as he traveled around he could go to your branch offices, and they would give him the money? A.—That is correct.

Q.—Why wasn't the money given direct to him at the home office? A—Well, I suppose for convenience. He never had, of course, any order that directed him to get all the money that he wanted.

Q.—If Judge Hamilton had wanted to use any of these moneys for aiding in the election of a particular legislator, or defeating the election of an obnoxious person, he could have done it without the matter being brought to your attention? A.—He could have, yes.

Q.—You don't know anything about the matter? A.—I don't know, Mr. Hughes.

Doesn't Control the President.

Mr. Hughes next asked the witness whether the Provident Life, which had figured as plaintiff in the tax suits, was in the control of the New York Life or any of its people. Mr. McCall said it was not. Then Mr. Hughes took up the handling of the $111,139 tax payment by Judge Hamilton last Fall, eliciting the fact that the amount credited as having been paid on Oct. 1 was apparently made up of two items, one of $75,000 and one of $36,139. Mr. McCall explained how the $111,000 had been placed in Mr. Hamilton's hands in June, and how the latter had asked his permission to use some of the money to defray his bills for the rest of the year, or pending decision of the tax litigation. In October, when it became apparent that the taxes would have to be paid for that year, Mr. McCall said, Hamilton called for a check for $75,000 to make good the portion of the other amount, which he had been obliged to spend.

Mr. Hughes asked if Mr. McCall had suggested to Mr. Hamilton at this time that he had $235,000 of the company's money already in his hands, as testified to at previous hearings.

"I never connected the two things together, Mr. Hughes," said President McCall.

Q.—It is suggested that I bring to your attention your previous testimony that a great deal of work was done for you in appearing before committees of Legislatures. Will you explain how these bills which were inimical to your company, which have sometimes been called strike bills, could have been defeated by appearance before committees, by arguments? A.—Well, not necessarily defeated, but I think the more arguments before a committee on a bill—I don't recall my exact testimony there and even as you speak of it now, I should like to refresh my memory on any statement that I made at that time—but I do say that any bill, whether it be good or bad, can be best shown up by public discussion of its merits or demerits as the case may be.

This had reference to the statement which Mr. McCall made in his morning testimony in regard to legislative blackmail. He had said:

"With the beginning of every year, I dare say, it is the feeling of every executive officer—I know it is of myself—that for the ensuing five or six months of the year we shall be badgered and harassed to death in every State in the Union by the introduction of bad bills of every kind; sometimes men of honor will feel they have a right to amend a law, and their motives are all right, but mainly the general insurance legislation of this country, if you will follow it, emanates from people who are desirous of striking at insurance companies.

"I may even continue that thought further and say that I believe that three-fourths of the insurance bills introduced in the United States are blackmailing bills, until, as I have said, that the management of these companies really tremble in the beginning of the year as to what they have to encounter during the following six months of the year.

"It is a condition which, I think, your committee, if it will, Mr. Chairman, can do much to provide against if it will but pass a law similar, if you will, to the Massachusetts law, which has been very effective. I think that every bill introduced shall be lodged or reported in the office of the Secretary of State—every insurance bill—the introducer mentioned and on the corresponding page the name of the man, the author, attorney, or agent selected by the corporation to oppose or favor that measure, so that every bill will have its record and every man appearing at the capital or before a committee will also be recorded on this book of the Secretary of State. And then, when the Legislature, if you will, compels the officers of the companies under oath to state exactly how much they have paid their agents and those attorneys, you will have very much less blackmailing legislation and fewer opportunities for blackmailers to strike at insurance companies."

Loan at 1½ to McCall.

The story of the Metropolitan Life's loan to President McCall came up quite unexpectedly and was told of his own initiative. Mr. Hughes undertook to question Mr. McCall about the loan of $50,000 to John R. Hegeman, which ran for a considerable period at 1½ per cent. Mr. McCall replied that he never did know anything about this loan, which had probably been negotiated with Mr. Gibbs, the former Treasurer. Then he remarked cheerfully, when Mr. Hughes wanted to know if he didn't think the rate of interest a trifle low:

"I don't know. I had a loan, too, myself, with Mr. Hegeman at a low rate of interest, and it was increased from 1½ to 2½ per cent."

"You mean a loan from the Metropolitan Life?" said Mr. Hughes.

"Yes," said Mr. McCall, "the Metropolitan Life."

Q.—When did you get that loan from the Metropolitan Life? A.—Oh, I think about two years ago—maybe two years and a half. I am not so sure about the date.

Q.—Are you a Director in the Metropolitan Life? A.—I am.

Q.—Were you at that time? A.—I was.

Q.—With whom did you negotiate that loan—I mean what officer represented the Metropolitan Life? A.—Mr. Hegeman.

Q.—Was that loan made to you on Jan. 2, 1903? A.—I think that is the date.

Q.—For $50,000? A.—Yes.

Q.—And the rate of interest was 1½ per cent.? A.—Yes, I think that is right, Mr. Hughes.

Q.—And then on Jan. 2, 1904, it was renewed? A.—Yes; it still exists.

Q.—It was renewed and ran through the year 1904 at 1½ per cent.? A.—Yes.

$25,000 More, Same Rate.

Q.—And on March 16, 1904, an additional loan of $25,000 was made to you by the Metropolitan? A.—Yes.

Q.—At 1½ per cent.? A.—Yes.

Q.—And that continued through the year 1904? A.—It did.

Q.—The amount still outstanding is $75,000? A.—That is right—$75,000.

Q.—The rate of interest remained 1½ per cent. until July 1, 1905? A.—Until this year.

Q.—Until July 1, 1905? A.—I guess that is right.

Q.—And then it was changed to 2½ per cent.? A.—I paid 2½ per cent. this year.

"Will you kindly explain, Mr. McCall," said Mr. Hughes, "how you could justify taking a loan from the Metropolitan Life at that rate of interest?"

"Well," replied the witness, "I might have taken it at a lower rate if they had given it."

"You, as a Director of the Metropolitan Life, were interested in seeing that its investments were properly made?"

"Well, it wasn't for me to decide on the rate of interest."

"But your duty as Director was still quite obvious, wasn't it?"

"Well," said Mr. McCall, "I don't think my duty as Director called on me to pay a higher rate of interest than the company was willing to charge me."

A Reductio ad Absurdum.

"Then you would be willing to get the money from the company for nothing if they had been willing to give it to you?"

Mr. McCall hesitated a moment; then he replied: "I think that is a reductio ad absurdum."

Q.—Are we to understand frankly that you didn't allow your relation to the company as a Director in any way to come into your mind when you were dealing with this matter for your personal interest? A.—No.

Q.—Are you on any of the committees of the Metropolitan Life? A.—I have never served on a committee.

Q.—Do you as a Director of the Metropolitan Life know that loans have been made to J. R. Hegeman by the Metropolitan Life at 1½ per cent. interest? A.—No.

Q.—Was it ever brought to your attention? A.—No.

Mr. Hughes then took up the employment of some of President McCall's relatives by the New York Life, learning that Albert McClave, the son-in-law of the company's President and one of the Inspectors of Contracts, received a regular salary of $10,000 a year, with $5,000 additional and commissions on any insurance he might write himself. John A. Horan, the brother of Mrs. John A. McCall, it appeared, was employed as an auditor in the Paris office of the company at $7,500 a year. Mr. McCall said that Mr. Horan had no other remuneration from the company. In addition to these two, Mr. McCall's son, John C. McCall, the Secretary of the New York Life, had $14,000 a year.

Mr. Hughes next wanted to know whether it was the practice of the insurance companies to contribute equally in legislative matters, and Mr. McCall said that he only knew of one case in which this was done. That instance was an action brought against the Equitable Life by the Commissioner of Insurance in Wisconsin and involving the right to use the deferred dividend contract. Reminded that this was a question of litigation, and not legislation, he said he didn't know of any other instances where such expenses had been divided. Nor did Mr. McCall know anything about the efforts made in this State to get the bonds of the Chicago and Northern Railroad, in which the New York Life had invested heavily, admitted to the savings bank list. At least, he said that the company had nothing whatever to do with this effort.

Before leaving the financial operations of the company Mr. Hughes came back again to the relations of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. through George W. Perkins to the New York Life, and incidentally asked Mr. McCall whether he was in any syndicate at any time.

The witness replied that he had been in syndicates, but never in any that sold securities to the company. He had, however, been in two in which the New York Life also participated, netting him altogether $2,000. Mr. Hughes wanted to know what they were, and Mr. McCall began by remarking:

"The International Mercantile Marine, which has not been dissolved."

"Oh," said Mr. Hughes, "were you in that, too?"

"Yes," replied Mr. McCall, and when the laugh that followed subsided, he remarked, "a fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind!"

Q.—Well, now, what was your interest in that? A.—$100,000.

Q.—Yes, that is not one of the ones that paid $2,000? A.—I will sell it to you for what I paid for it.

Q.—Well, you would have to buy it back the next day. [Laughter.] A.—I wish you would give me a leeway of three days on that.

Q.—Well, let us go on, Mr. McCall, if you will, and mention the others. A.—Yes, Sir, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, that is the only one; I had $20,000 in that, and got $2,000 profit out.

Q.—And you say the New York Life didn't buy any bonds in that? A.—No, they bought bonds, but bought them in the open market.

Q.—You have recalled the International Mercantile Marine, and I don't know whether I have thought to ask you whether you knew anything about the transaction at the end of the year, without any imputation upon yourself, when $800,000 was sold to J. P. Morgan & Co. and on Jan. 1 turned over to you? A.—Without any reflection on me, I don't know anything about it.

Q.—Did you actually suppose that you had disposed of these securities for good and all? A.—I thought there was a sale at 90, and afterward it didn't materialize.

Q.—You knew the $800,000 was to be sold? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—And you supposed it was an absolute sale? A.—I did.

Q.—Were you not surprised when these things came back? A.—I was surprised to find the man wanted to buy them at 90 and would not take them, and they were bought back at 90.

Q.—The point is that they were sold at par and bought back at par? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At the end of 1903—you don't know anything about that? A.—No.

Q.—Either the sale or the repurchase? A.—No, I do not.

Q.—That was handled exclusively by Mr. Perkins? A.—By Mr. Perkins, and, I think, Mr. Randolph; they handled that.

Changed Mind as to Perkins.

"Now," said Mr. Hughes, "I want to ask you this question—I understand that you said, in April, 1901, substantially as follows: 'Mr. Perkins severs his connection with the New York Life completely when he enters the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., and we do not believe it right that an officer of a firm making such enormous investments as ours should be connected with any banking firm handling investments'—did you use that language?"

"I don't recall," Mr. McCall replied. "I may have used something like that, because the question then was whether Mr. Perkins could go to J. P. Morgan & Co. and stay in the New York Life and try to give full time to each firm, and I didn't think it should be done."

Q.—Did you change your opinion in this matter that you speak of? A.—Yes, Sir; I am a very thorough believer in Mr. Perkins being connected with the New York Life and Mr. Morgan.

Q.—When did you come to that conclusion? A.—Probably about a year after he went with the firm.

Q.—You thought it worked well? A.—I think it did.

The question of deferred dividends was referred to at various stages of the session yesterday in the testimony of both President McCall and Actuary Weeks of the company. Mr. McCall, at the morning session, had given a history of insurance supervision in this country, and had remarked that in England there was practically no supervision that could be called properly by such a name. Taking up the matter of reserves, Mr. McKeen, who at that time was conducting the examination, asked him whether he believed that the entire reserve of the company was the absolute property of the policy holders. Mr. McCall replied that he did not—that he thought deductions should be made as a charge against the reserve for the purpose of adding to the company's policy holders.

He sketched carefully the course of the life insurance business in this State in the somewhat chaotic period from 1876 to 1884, in which there were 46 New York companies doing business, as against fourteen at the present time. He said that the evils of the insurance business at this period, in which all but four of the forty-six went to the wall, and only ten paid their liabilities in full, lay in the extravagance and incompetence of the management.

Before taking up the deferred dividend situation in itself, Mr. McCall sketched the history of the tontine scheme which the French Government set up in 1659 and carried on in one form and another until the opening of nineteenth century. This, he said, was a pure gamble or lottery, and of course had nothing to do with the tontine system of insurance originated by Henry B. Hyde, the founder of the Equitable. Mr. McCall said that he believed that the tontine plan was adopted by the Equitable because the elder Mr. Hyde realized that it would be extremely difficult for the Equitable in its early years to compete against a company like the Mutual Life, much older and stronger, while paying annual dividends. And so he hit upon the scheme that would not put the Equitable to the test of paying dividends in competition with the companies whose surplus was materially larger.

President McCall, however, declared that the present plan of deferred dividend policies had no more relation to the original tontine plan than the whole life insurance policy would have to a term life insurance contract, because the deferred dividend scheme included a contract guaranteeing "a most liberal" repayment of money and including the non-forfeiture feature. A long technical discussion of the theory of reserves as carried out by the New York Life followed. Then Actuary Weeks was put upon the stand temporarily to tell something more about the deferred dividend feature of insurance. Mr. Weeks declared that the deferred dividend insurance was "better for everybody." Committeeman Rogers interrupted him with the question:

"Isn't it a fact that the companies have run mad, if I may use that expression, for new business, so that the interests of the policy holders already in the company are lost sight of?"

Cost of New Business.

Mr. Weeks said he didn't think so, and then Mr. Hughes produced the letter which was written by Actuary Grow of the New York Life to the manager of the Paris office, in 1903, explaining the fact that there had been a small increase in the company's surplus the preceding year. Here it is in part:

Dear Mr. Ingersoll:

Your letter of the 19th ultimo to Mr. Hearn has been referred to us for reply.

Your inquiry regarding the reason for these comparatively small increases in our surplus is a very natural one; as it may be necessary to answer criticism based on our surplus, we have prepared the following reply, which may be used in such cases.

By referring to last year's report you will find that 20 per cent. was deducted from the gross premiums uncollected in default for both new business and renewals.

This year we increased the deduction to 22½ per cent., which means a decrease in our surplus from that item alone of $175,000.

By referring to the amount, ledger asset, you will find that the market value of bonds over the book value was $7,445,181 at the end of 1901, and $6,616,244 at the end of 1902, a decrease of $828,887, which naturally came out of the surplus earned during the year 1902.

It happened that there was a bad slump in the money market at the end of last year, which resulted in the decrease in values of all securities, even the very best.

Had we been investing in stock the depreciation would have been very great; the only stocks which show a larger value at the end of 1902 over the value at the end of 1901 were the stocks of trust companies and banks.

Neither the Equitable nor the Mutual would have shown an increase in surplus this year had it not been for the increase in value of the banks and trust companies practically owned by them.

The third reason for our surplus not increasing so rapidly as in previous years is the enormous increase in the amount of new business.

Taking the issues of 1900, 1901, 1902 we have insurance on our books at the end of 1902 for these three years amounting to very nearly $700,000,000.

It is unnecessary to tell an insurance man of any experience that none of this business is contributed to surplus; in fact, the cost of putting it on the books after deducting the contribution to loading was about $14,000,000 at the end of 1902.

$14,000,000 in Three Years.

In other words, we have borrowed about $14,000,000 from the surplus in order to purchase the new business in the last three years which, however, will all be returned to the respective groups from which it was borrowed before they reached the end of their accumulation period.

"Now, doesn't it happen," counsel asked, "that it is a disadvantage to the old policy holders to obtain new insurance?"

"Yes, Sir," said Mr. McCall. "It would depend on the expenses incurred in getting the new business."

Mr. Hughes then took up the gain and loss exhibit of the company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1903, and read off the total expense chargeable to the business of that year as $10,765,575, of which $6,564,180 was for commissions paid on new business. He showed that $3,085,640 had been loaded upon the premiums received on the new business for that year. This being deducted from the total expenses chargeable to new business, left about $7,700,000, which Mr. Hughes figured out represented the amount the new business had cost that year over and above what had been collected out of the premiums for the purpose of defraying the expenses. And then he asked:

"Now that sum of $7,700,000, which went to agents and others for writing new business, came out of the company's general accumulations, did it not?"

The witness said he preferred to have it that the portion of the reserve which was borrowed to meet this excess expense came out of the company's general accumulations, but he said it was simply a case of the money coming out of one box and going into another, and didn't make any real difference in the actual situation. Mr. Hughes, however, stuck to his argument that the writing of so much new business under these conditions means a loss to the present policy holders of the company, and then he took up the year 1904, bringing out that the total expenses were $19,543,000 and the direct expenses in commissions and the like, apart from the general expenses of management, were $11,000,000.

Q.—In other words, the expenses of your company, apart from the expense directly attributable to new business in 1904, was only about $8,000,000? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And you had a loading upon all the premiums, including the first year's business, of an amount practically the same as the total amount of expenses? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Of $19,000,000? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—If you had had no new business written at all, the loading upon the premiums of the old policy holders would have provided a large fund in excess of all the expenses of the company, would it not? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And if you stopped writing new business to-day your expenses would be in the neighborhood of $8,000,000 instead of $19,000,000? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And you are loading the premiums $8,000,000 to provide what would still be between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000? A.—Yes, Sir.

Before counsel was through with President McCall at the afternoon session he brought him around to the same question, asking:

"Is it the policy of your company to discourage annual dividend policies?"

"Yes," said President McCall. "We don't believe in them. The cost of getting business in earlier years made annual dividend policy holders dissatisfied policy holders."

Mr. McCall insisted that other companies which do an annual dividend business pay to their agents a larger proportion of first year premiums than the New York Life pays on its deferred dividend business. He said he hoped that the contracts of these other companies would be brought in. Mr. Hughes assured him that they would. Before Mr. McCall left the stand Mr. Hughes said:

"Now, the business on your books at the end of last year was $1,998,000,000."

"Yes," was the reply.

"And you are increasing this business at the rate of $348,000,000 a year?"

"Not this year," said President McCall. And the audience joined him in a laugh.

"And the net increase has been about $180,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year?"

"Yes."

"Now, in your judgment as an insurance man, should that go on indefinitely? Is there no time when an insurance company must say that it is better, all things considered, to call a halt?"

"Well," said Mr. McCall, "I think there is a limit to capacity."

"And the capacity for effective supervision?"

"Yes."

"And a capacity to handle such gigantic accumulations?"

"Absolutely. I think it is a very serious question, and I think this committee could do a very good work in that line."

"That is exactly what I have in mind," said Mr. Hughes. "Here you are rolling up what all realize to be enormous sums, and are insuring a great many people, and the question is whether there is any point at which an insurance should stop writing business and limit itself to keeping up the amount of business which it may deem advisable to properly distribute its risk."

Mr. McCall again said that he thought the subject should be considered by the committee. Mr. Hughes asked if it had been considered by the company.

"No, Mr. Hughes," was the reply. "It has been mooted, but with no desire to restrain the New York Life."

Mr. McCall's explanation of the expenditure of upward of $3,000,000 on the Paris building of the New York Life had been that it was necessary to have a "show building" in Paris, which was the centre of the foreign business of the company.

Late in the afternoon Supt. Devlin, who has charge of the New York Life's real estate in the United States and Canada, was called to the stand and was questioned about some of the foreign office buildings of the company. It appeared that the Amsterdam building, which cost $100,000 and was carried at a book value of $115,000, earned gross in 1904, $7,... and net, $3,842, or 2½ per cent. on the book value. The company charged itself with $1,300 rent. The building at Budapest cost $625,310, and is carried, according to the witness, at $550,000. Its gross earnings in 1904 were $22,045 and its net earnings $13,518, representing about 2 per cent. on the book value. The main office building at 346 Broadway, the witness said, cost $7,121,267, and is carried at a book value of $5,000,000. Its gross income last year was $231,089, of which the company paid $150,000, and its net income, $186,410, which is 3.1 per cent. on the book value and 2.6 per cent. on the cost.

Finally Mr. Hughes took up the apartment building at 49 West Seventy-second Street, which is carried by the New York Life at $175,000 and represents an outlay by the company of $203,056. The gross income for 1904 was $10,375 and the disbursement $6,247, leaving a net income of $4,128, representing 2.3 per cent. on the cost. In this building were quartered two tenants not related to the officers of the New York Life, who paid, respectively, for ground floor apartments $2,400 and $1,800. John C. McCall, son of the President of the company; Leonard McCall, and Ballard McCall, John A. McCall's nephews, and McClave, the President's son-in-law, have occupied since the building was remodeled for the New York Life in 1903, the remaining apartments. These, Mr. Devlin said, were of from nine to ten rooms each, with two baths each. The relatives of President McCall have paid $1,500 a year rent each.

Mr. Hughes brought out the fact that the New York Life after acquiring the building had spent $43,500 on it by way of general renovation in 1902 and $18,000 more in 1903. Then he asked:

"Who fixes the rents?"

"In that case," replied Mr. Devlin, "as in most other cases, they are fixed after advising with the President. He knows the neighborhood, and he wanted to get tenants in this house which would give it a good repute."

"For what terms are the lease?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"Two of the leases run from year to year," was the reply, "but there are no leases on the apartments occupied by the McCalls and by Mr. McClave. That is practically a month-to-month arrangement."

The adjournment was until 10:30 this morning.

McCALL ISSUES AN APPEAL.

Asks Denver Policy Holders to Stand by the New York Life.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Oct. 4.—Denver policy holders have just received an appeal issued by President McCall of the New York Life asking them to stand by the company. Here are some of the things it says:

No officer of the company can borrow money from the company or in any way use the company's funds for his own benefit.

Remember, that as a policy holder in the New York Life Insurance Company, you are one of its owners. Any unjust insurance law or insurance tax measure placed upon the statute books of your State harms you and affects the dividend earnings of your policy.

It is purely a mutual company.

It is owned by the policy holders and is conducted solely in their interest.

It does not loan upon, nor invest in any kind of stocks.

Its financial transactions are carried on in the name of the company, not in individual names.

The company's money is never used, directly or indirectly, in any transaction for the benefit of any individual.

All profits of any kind belong to the policy holders and therefore their sole benefit.

No officer of the company receives compensation from the company in any form except his regular stated salary.

WHO GAVE $20,000?

The Rev. James Palmer, pastor of Manor Chapel, in the Chelsea district, on the lower west side, appealed to his congregation recently to start a fund for a new building.

Circulars were sent out and many of them went to members of the South Reformed Church, Madison Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. A woman member of that church responded by giving $20,000, but requested that her name be withheld.

But somehow the news of the gift got out in both churches. Now nearly every woman in the South Reformed Church has hazarded from one to a dozen guesses as to who gave the $20,000. It is said that Pastor Palmer has been constrained to forego attending ice cream festivals and pound parties for the last two weeks lest he be held up and forced to divulge the identity of the giver of $20,000.

MISS GOULD HAD TO WAIT.

Committee Got Trains Mixed and Did Not Meet Her.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 4.—Miss Helen Gould and party, who have been visiting Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations, had an unpleasant experience at the little village of New Paris yesterday.

They arrived at this place at noon. The plan of the local associations was to meet them with a big automobile procession and escort them to Goshen and Winona. When they alighted from a train not a person was there to greet them. After they had remained in a shanty three hours a Big Four train was flagged and the party boarded it for Warsaw. Then it was found that the Reception Committee got the trains confused.

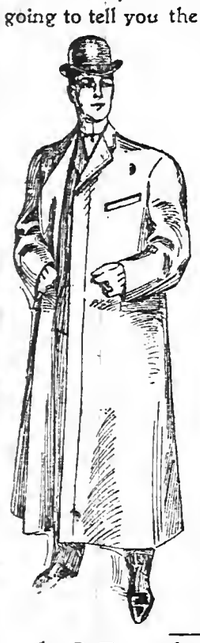
THREE HUNDRED OCTOBER COATS FOR MEN.

Genuine Priestley cravenette coats at $10.

WE don't ask one to believe a word of this argument simply because we say it is so; we put the burden of the proof on the coats. We're simply going to tell you the facts about these rain-proof coats and then let you be the judge as to whether it's an opportunity worth considering. Second Floor.



To get to the meat of the nut we bought these coats at a reduction of one-third to one-half their value, and we couldn't be on the "square" with you and ask more than $10.00 for them.

They're as fine as any $15.00 and $18.00 cravenettes we ever saw and the trade mark on each one lends a value that makes them quick sellers at those prices. The lot isn't very large—in fact you couldn't buy a large number to sell at this price—but variety and quality are there.

We're showing them in twenty-five different shades of fabric, including silk mixed worsteds, fancy cassimeres, rough cheviots, Scotch tweeds—also plain black thibet. $10.00

The sizes are 33 to 46 chest, and stout men will have no trouble in being fitted. They're popularly called October coats because they're needed when it's too warm for an overcoat and too cool for none at all, and then the weather's so uncertain—likely to rain any day and they're absolutely rainproof. They look like those long, swell $25.00 overcoats and have that snap and swing of the tailor-made garment—broad shoulders, close fitting collar and all the rest of the smart style attributes. So we unhesitatingly say—$15.00, $18.00 and $20.00 cravenette coats at $10.00.

THIS fascinating neckwear is absolutely new in New York and exclusive at Simpson Crawford's.

With our representative scouring the fashion centers of the old and new worlds for leaders, we found the artistic neckwear conceit in Paris. First noticed them in the Bois de Boulogne.

That this bewitching boa could be made of maline is almost beyond belief. Artistic French ingenuity alone could compass such a result. Some are made of chiffon also; and the good point of it all is they are very inexpensive.

They're extremely stylish and serviceable. You'll see them worn by correct dressers on the drive or at the theatre these chilly Autumn days. They're such a rage in New York that though we have practically turned our entire neckwear workroom over to boas, we can hardly keep up with the demand. At our neckwear counters from $3.95 to $15.50.

Sale of Fall and Winter "Oneita" underwear.

500 SLIGHTLY IMPERFECT GARMENTS.

WHEN we first started, a few years ago, to hold an annual sale of slightly imperfect garments, many of our customers refrained from purchasing, thinking that defects would not warrant their buying them. 2,500 CALL TO HEARST TO LEAD A CITY TICKET

Choose Him as the Champion of Municipal Ownership.

ODELL-RYAN DEAL CHARGED

Committee to Wait on the Editor To-day and Ask Him Please to Try to Be Mayor.

For seven minutes an audience of about 2,500 cheered William R. Hearst in the Grand Central Palace last night, and shouted their desire that he become the candidate of the Municipal Ownership forces for Mayor. Mr. Hearst spoke in favor of a third ticket and expressed his wish that Judge Seabury be made the Mayoralty candidate.

The audience, however, was unwilling to listen to any other suggestion than that of Hearst for Mayor, and both Judge Seabury and ex-Senator Ford seconded the motion of Simon Levy of the Citizens' Union that Mr. Hearst be made the nominee. There were a dozen other seconders from municipal ownership bodies and other organizations in the different boroughs.

The result of the enthusiasm for Mr. Heast's nomination was the adoption of a resolution that it was the sense of the meeting that Mr. Heerst should leed the Municipal Ownership fight this Fall. The resolution also authorized the Chairman to appoint a committee of six to wait upon Mr. Hearst and use its best efforts to get him to accept.

A feature of the meeting was the charge made by Clarence J. Shearn that State Chairman Odell and Thomas F. Ryan had met in the latter's office a week ago last Monday and decided upon the disruption of Fusion. The consideration which Mr. Odell was to receive for his part in breaking up fusion and bringing about the nomination of a streight Republican ticket so as to make the way easy for Tammany to elect Mayor McClellan, Mr. Shearn said, was an egreement by Mr. Ryan to give $100,000 to Chairman Odell for the Republican campaign fund.

State Chairmen Odell wes seen after the meeting and told of the assertion made by Mr. Shearn with respect to the alleged meeting between him and Mr. Ryan. Mr. Odell laughed and said:

"I have not seen Mr. Ryan in four months, and unless my information is incorrect, Mr. Ryan was in the Far West at the time the alleged meeting is said to have occurred. The story is so ridiculous that it does not merit notice on my part. However, I will say that I have had no communication with Mr. Ryan, either directly or indirectly, about this campaign or about ahy other campaign witb whicb I have been connected."

The meeting was called to order by Thomas F. Gilleran, who introduced J. G Pbelps Stokes as the permanent Chairman. Mr. Stokes made a brief speech, in which he said that neither of the old political organizations could be relied upon to protect the people's rights as against the public utility corporations, and that the time had come for a third party movement.

Mr. Stokes introduced Clarence J. Shearn as the first speaker of the meeting. The most noteworthy part of Mr. Shearn's speecb was his charge against Chairman Odell and Mr. Ryan. He reviewed the history of the gas legislation and repeatedly referred to Mayor McClellan as "the Gas Man."

After Mr. Shearn's speecb Max F. Ihmsen, the Secretary of the meeting, read a letter from the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst in response to a request for an expression on the issue of municipal ownership. In his letter Dr. Parkhurst said, among other things:

"So long as individual interests are properly cared for by private corporations the less the Federal, the State, or the municipal Government concerns itself in matters of Post Office, telegraphs, railroads, telephones, gas manufacturing, &c., the better for all concerned. But when in any one or other of these particular individual interests are neglected and the corporation is worked for its own aggrandizement exclusively, and in contempt of public necessity, it is time for the Government to step in and secure to citizens the rights inallenably belonging to them.

"It is my opinion that the situation here being what it is, we ought to adopt a system of municipal ownership; nnly it is to be hoped that the man whose candidacy is to be put forward as representative of the scheme will be one of sufficient wisdom to appreciate its difficulties and of sufficient strength and dignity of character to command popular respect. Otherwise, the very attempts that are made to promote this mnvement will only retard its progress and postpone its realization."

Ex-Senator Ford was introduced after the reading of Dr. Parkhurst's letter. He said:

"This fair city of ours is cursed by a plethora of bosses. Some bosses we know very well and were in large measure prepared to deal with. Boss Odell does his business in the open. He never pretended to be anything but a boss. I knew him when I was at Albany, and I saw him bossing. Mr. Murphy is a boss, does his business as a boss, but a new boss is now discovered, the most dangerous of all, because he poses as an opponent of bossism. We did not know how to deal with him, but we do now. I allude to the prince of bosses, 'Miss Cissy Cutting.' Thank God, his day for doing harm to the rights of the people is past."

Mr. Ford said that the value of Subway franchises to be granted in the next four years was in the neighborhood of a billion dollars. There were nineteen new Subway routes laid out by the Rapid Transit Commission, he said, and he based their prospective value upon the known value of the Belmont Subway.

Mr. Ford charged that there was now a conspiracy on between the Republican and Democratic organizations to deprive the citizens of New York of the billion dollars of franchise value which were and ought to remain the property of the people. The man to prevent the consummation of this conspiracy, he said, was William R. Hearst.

Mr. Hearst was introduced when Mr. Ford had concluded, and when the strenuous efforts of Chairman Stokes, with an iron boathook, to end the demonstration had succeeded at the end of seven minutes, Mr. Hearst said in part:

"One of our greatest National heroes has said that our Government is a government of the people, by the people, and for the people. It was true in his time; it was true when Jefferson and the Fathers framed the Government. It was true when Washington fought and established the Government; it was true when Lincoln maintained the Government, but is it true to-day? Is there a Government in this city for the people?

"You are the people, and what has it done for you? It has taken your public property and it has made it a gift to grafters. Your representatives have taken your public franchises and given them away. Perhaps I should say they have sold them, but not for your benefit.

"If you left your house with your servant, and came back and found that he had taken the pictures off the walls, and the carpets nff the floor, and disposed of them, what would you do? If he said that he had given them away for your special interest, what would you say? You would say, 'You are a thief,' and you would put him in all.

"That is the government for the people in New York to-day. You have your votes and the privilege of casting them, but for whom? For Mr. Murphy's puppet or for Mr. Odell's puppet? If you want gas that will burn and not merely poison you can vote for Mr. Murphy's puppet and you won't get it, and if you want the reduction in your extortion of bills you can vote for Mr. Odell's puppet and not get it.

"Remember this, that if you vote for Mr. Murpby's man or Mr. Odell's man you are voting for Mr. Ryan's man—Mr. Ryan, the gas man, the electric light man, the transit man, and the controller of that highly moral corporation, the Equitable Life Assurance Company.

"I do not come here to flatter the voters of New York. You know what kind of government you have. I do not believe that Mr. Murphy or Mr. Odell, or Mr. Murphy's man or Mr. Odell's man is at fault—I am afraid you are at fault. You are a sleeping majority, pledged by pigmies. Wake up, nominate honest and independent men, men like Judge Seabury or Senator Ford."

At the conclusion of Mr. Hearst's speech a series of resolutions was adopted condemning the Republican and Democratic machines for their alleged betrayal of the interests of the people. The resolutions concluded with the sentiment that it was the sense of the meeting that a third ticket be nominated. It was when the resolutions had been adopted that Mr. Levy of the Citizens' Union got the floor, and amid great enthusiasm nominated Mr. Hearst as the man to lead the municipal ownership fight.

Chairmen Stokes appointed the following committee to wait on Mr. Hearst and ask him to accept: Judge Samuel Van Vleck, Brooklyn; John A. Martin, Richmond, and Coroner William O'Gorman, Jr., The Bronx.

The committee probably will visit Mr. Hearst this afternoon. If he accepts he will be regularly and formally nominated at the City Convention of the Municipal Ownership League, which is to be held a few days after the Republican and Democratic Conventions.

CHARGES FRAUD IN WILL.

Contest Starts Over the Estate of a Woman Who Couldn't Read.

Special to The New York Times.

YONKERS, Oct. 4.—When Surrogate Silkman opened court to-day, Miss Lavinia Lally, a lawyer, of New York, asked for an order to show cause why Edward J. Hert, a New York attorney, should not be appointed temporary administrator of the estate of Rosetta Brady, who died in this city on Sept. 25, aged 77 years. The order sets forth thet Viola E. Hess, a niece, is the only living relative of Mrs. Brady, and it was in her behalf that the application was made.

The application was opposed by Daniel Hayes, and he presented a will alleged to have been made by Mrs. Brady on May 1, 1905. This will gave all the real estate and personal property to the Church of St. Josepb of the City of Yonkers. A clause in the will says: "If for any reason whatsoever this bequest be declared invalid, then I give, devise, and bequeath all my real and personal property, wherever situated, to the Rev. Albert A. Lings."

Dean Lings and John Savage are named executors, and the will is witnessed by John D. Sullivan, Patrick F. Christopher, and Annie Savage. Mrs. Brady signed the will by meking the mark, "X."

The introduction of the will and the request of Mr. Hayes that Dean Lings be appointed temporary administrator brought forth a vigorous objection from Miss Lally.

"Father Lings is a very old man," she said, "and is the head of the church corporation named in that will. I will say right hero that money bas been stolen from this estate. Mrs. Brady, who could neither read nor write, was my client for years, and got me to bring Viola Hess here from California. She once said to my client, speaking of her property, 'Viola, this will be yours when I am dead.' In view of these facts, we insist that an uninterested administrator be appointed."

Judge Silkman took the matter under advisement, and agreed to nppoint an administrator later. Miss Lally stated that developments of a most astonishing neture would be brought out later.

CONFIDENTIAL CLERK IN JAIL.

Robbed Houses He Visited, Police Say —Wed Employer's Daughter.

James C. Munn of 164 West Fifty-fourth Street was arrested last night at Sixty-fifth Street and Columbus Avenue on a charge of grand larceny. According to Detective Sergeant Funston, the man is known as Harold Prescott, and he married the daughter of a member of the firm of J. H. Moran & Co., decorators, at Columbus Avenue and Seventieth Street. He was a confidential clerk of the firm.

On April 1, according to Funston, Munn went to the house of Mrs. Mary Scofield of 153 East Thirty-fourth Street and said he was a representative of Moran & Co. and he had been sent to make an estimate for decorations. He was allowed to roam through the house, and when he had gone Mrs. Scofield missed $100 and $500 worth of jewelry.

Funston also alleged that Munn had robbed in similar fashion Mrs. George F. Leggett of 113 East Twenty-ninth Street.

STRONGEST FIREBOAT.

The New Yorker Can Now Throw 12,000 Gallons of Water a Minute.

The fireboat New Yorker made a trial trip yesterday after having undergone alterations which have practically made a new boat of her. Her draught has been diminished by 14 inches and her speed increased from 12 to 14 knots. She is equipped with a new system of pumps devised by Fire Chief Croker. The pumps are in two towers midships. Each turret accommodates nine hose lines, throwing together 12,000 gallons of water a minute.

MAY NAME M'GOWAN FOR FORNES'S PLACE

But the Cry "Who's McGowan?" Makes Murphy Pause.

TAMMANY TICKET TO-NIGHT

For McClellan and Metz Unanimously —Further Conferences on Aldermanic Presidency To-day.

When the Democratic City Convention meets to-night in Carnegie Hall George Brinton McClellan will be renominated for Mayor and Herman A. Metz of Brooklyn will be named for Controller. Patrick Francis McGowan may be selected for President of the Board of Aldermen, but this was not settled definitely last night, although he is tentatively on the slate.

"Who is McGowan?" is the question which reverberated through Tammany Hall yesterday afternoon while the Executive Committee was in session. The same was heard around the Democratic Club in the evening while the members of the City Committee were meeting at the Democratic Club.

It is this question which raised the doubte about Mr. McGowan's nomination. Few Democrats yesterday even knew who he was, and they anxiously sought information when the report of his prospective nomination was circulated from sources of good authority.

Charles F. Murphy would say only that the selection for the place would be left to the convention, but his intimates stated confidently during the afternoon and evening that McGowan had been selected.

After the meeting of the City Committee, however, it became known that there was much opposition to McGowan on the ground that he was too little known, and would prove a drag to the ticket instead of adding strength. Dock Commissioner Maurice Featherson, leader of the Twenty-eighth Assembly District and member of the City Committee in place of ex-Senator Plunkitt, made a strong fight to get the place for Alderman John T. McCall, and the name of Thomas F. Quinlan, a wire manufacturer and a prominent figure in the old County Democracy, also was urged. Some of the Manhattan men thought there might still be hope of getting Thomas M. Mulry to reconsider his refusal to run, so no agreement was reached.

Senator McCarren and other representatives of the Kings County organization, while expressing a willingness to accept anybody upon whom the Manhattan representatives egreed, advised choice of some men better known than McGowan. Finally the Manhattan men requested that the matter be left open until to-day, when they will get together at Tammany Hall. Murphy, it is understood, favors McGowan, who has the friendship of Mayor McClellan. For more than an hour yesterday the Mayor and Mr. McGowan were together.

"But who is McGowan?" is the echo on all sides.

Mr. McGowan is 53 years old, a manufacturer of underwear at 224 East Twelfth Street, and lives at the same address. He is a Trustee of the West Side Savings Bank, and was appointed by Mayor Van Wyck to the Board of Education. Mayor McClellan gave him a like appointment on the recommendation, among others, of Archbishop Farley and Bishop Potter. Mr. McGowan is a member of the Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum, a Trustee in St. Ann's Church, and a member of the Tammany General Committee in the Fourteenth Assembly District. He is a governor of the Pensacola Club, the Tammany organization in the district of which Water Commissioner John T. Oakley is the leader.

Mr. McGowan was born in Connecticut, and has been in business here for twenty years. He is married and has a son, Frank, attending Holy Crose College, at Worcester, Mass.

Beyond the discussion of Mr. McGowan as a candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, most of the time of the City Committee was taken up with revising the draft of the party platform submitted by Thomas F. Grady, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. Prior to the meeting in the Democratic Club a committee from the Public Ownership League waited on Mr. Murphy and submitted a draft of a radical municipal ownership plank. Mr. Murphy submitted it to the Committee on Resolutions.

There will be a strong municipal ownership plank in the platform, which will call attention to two important steps the McClellan administration hee taken. These are ownership and operation of the Staten Island ferry service and establishment of a municipal lighting plant, for which an appropriation hes been made and a site acquired.

Chairman James J. Martin presided at the committee meeting, and will open to-night's convention, presenting the name of Charles V. Fornes as Chairman of the convention. Eugene A. Philbin will place Mayor McClellan in nomination, and Controller Grout will make the seconding speech for Brooklyn. William H. Hughes, an Assistant Corporation Counsel in Brooklyn, will nominate Mr. Metz for Controller. After the nominations, a committee representing the five boroughs, will be named to bring the candidates before the convention for official notification.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DEGENERATE

So a Speaker Tells a Conference of Protestants.

A conference of clergy, Superintendents, and members of the joint commission of the Sunday schools of the Protestant Episcopal Church was held last night in St. Bartholomew's Church.

"The last fifty years has been a season of only half-hearted playing with the spiritual education of our children," said the Rev. Mr. Lester Bradner of Providence, R. I. "The church has been afraid of too much book learning. Education has not been taken seriously."

"Sunday schools have degenerated, I am sorry to say. If the church is to take the subject of the children's education seriously, it should start at once."

The Rev. Llewellyn N. Caley of Philadelphia said that training schools should be established for teachers.

GOV. HERRICK THREATENED.

Receives Letters Telling Him Bodily Harm Will Be Done to Him.

Special to The New York Times.

KENT, Ohio, Oct. 4.—Gov. Herrick announced in a campaign speech here to-night that he had received letters threatening him with bodily harm. He said he thought their authors were cranks, and he refused to take them seriously.

Two of the letters came by special delivery. One of these reads as follows:

"We may not get you politically, but we will get you personally after the campaign."

Another letter said: "We will fix you with your family."

It is believed that the latter letter refers to the blackmailing case in which Mrs. Lee of Chicago is the central figure.

FACULTY AFTER HAZERS.

Got Names When Columbia Students Claimed Hats and Coats.

Twenty-five participants in the class fight on the opening day at Columbia are likely to be disciplined by the Faculty. Their names were obtained when they went to the Superintendent's office to claim hats and coats picked up by the janitore while the struggle between the two lower classes wae going on.

The penalty for hazing may be anything from a reprimand to euspension. It is unlikely that the discipline in these casee will be severe.

PRESIDENT PLANS HIS TRIP.

Assured He Will Not Be In Danger from Yellow Fever.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Representatives Meyer and Davy and Postmaster Thomas J. Woodward of New Orleans called on the President to-day to discuss his approaching visit to New Orleans. They told him he would be as safe from yellow fever in New Orleans at the time of his visit as he was to-day in Washington from smallpox or typhoid fever.

The President is scheduled to arrive at New Orleans on the morning of Oct. 26. It was the desire of the New Orleans people that he should remain over night and be the guest at an elaborate banquet, but probably he will sail for Washington in the evening.

Joseph O. Thompson, Collector of Internel Revenue at Birmingham, Ala., also called on the President representing the commercial bodies of that city to arrange finally the details of the President's visit to their city on the 24th inst. He will spend two hours there and will deliver two addresses.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina urged the President to make a longer stop at Raleigh than has been scheduled, and to make stops in the State in addition to those arranged, but the President said he could not vary from the programme now laid down. The President's speech at Raleigh will be one of the most important on the trip. He will make stops at Durham, High Point, Greensborough, and Charlotte.

The armored cruiser Pennsylvania has been tentatively chosen to convey President Roosevelt from New Orleans to Norfolk on the return from his Southern trip. From Norfolk the President will be conveyed to Washington by the Mayflower.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 4.—Senator Tillman, who arrived here to-day and was held up at the Union Railway Station several hours under the quarantine regulations, took occasion to protest against the President's plan for a Southern trip while there is still danger from the yellow fever. He said Mr. Roosevelt as a citizen had the right to risk his life by going to New Orleans at this time, but as President of the United States his action is censurable.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—Twenty-two new cases of yellow fever, six new foci, and four deathe is the record for the twenty-four hours ended at 6 o'clock this evening. Four new cases at Vicksburg, Miss., and three at Natchez are reported.

Last Chance for Wall Street.

The last of the Wall Street services under the Greater New York Evangelistic Committee will be held in Trinity Church at noon to-morrow at 12:10 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix will read a short service, and the Rev. William Wilkinson of Minnesota will preach. Bishop Greer will pronounce the benediction.

Is This True?

A City official, who is an old 7th and 13th Warder and knows his New York pretty well, talking about "prosperity and things," said to Mr. Brill:

"The wage earner pays more for his food, rent and living expenses than formerly, but when he buys his clothes from you he pays the same price he always paid and gets better quality and more style."

And it is true.

Despite increased cost of material and labor and high rentals, Brill Brothers maintain their old standard of high quality and low prices.

For example, here are:

A SHOE THAT WON'T "RUN OVER"

Good many people don't appreciate the remarkable "stand-up" quality of the Regal Shoe till they've been wearing their first pair a few months and notice how they hold their shape.

It isn't a happen-so circumstance in just that one pair. It's no accident. It costs money to make a pair of shoes hold shape—careful lasting, good old-fashioned hand workmanship, and honest materials in the hidden parts.

It's a quality you can't see when you buy the shoes. But when you've worn them a while you find them treading flat and square across the ball; not sagging under the arch, but snugging up without a wrinkle; the toe preserving its original smooth shape; the back part above the heel curving around firmly with no sign of a bulge.

And then you are pretty sure to buy Regals next time.

And next time.

So it pays.

INDORSES INGRAHAM AND GILDERSLEEVE

But Bar Association Makes No Attack on Murphy or Tammany.

HEEDS REQUEST OF JUSTICES

They Asked That the Political Issue Be Kept Out of the Resolutions and Speeches.

With only one dissenting voice the Bar Association decided last night to use such efforts as it had at its command to bring about the renomination and re-election of Justices Ingraham and Gildersleeve to the Supreme Court.

The meeting was largely attended, and when Julien T. Davies, who acted as Chairman in the absence of Secretary Root, put the resolution offered by William B. Hornblower there was a chorus of 224 yeas for its adoption. More as a matter of form than anything else, Mr. Davies called for the nays, and one feeble voice was raised in opposition. Immediately every neck was craned and eyes turned in the direction whence the voice came, but the identity of the dissenter remained a secret.

The call for the meeting was started by Judge Henry E. Howland, and it was signed by twenty members of the association. It was an executive session. The meeting was in marked contrast to some former meetings of the Bar Association, in that there was no political attack on any one. Neither the name of Charles F. Murphy, who is responsible for the statement that the Justices are not to be renominated, nor that of Tammany Hall was mentioned in the speeches.

THE TIMES reporter learned on authority that this action was due entirely to the wishes of Justices Ingraham and Gildersleeve. When the call was sent out for the meeting the two Justices sought to have the meeting postponed, or at least something done so as to make it as innocuous as possible so far as any attack on Mr. Murphy was concerned.

It was pointed out to the Justices that the call having been sent out, even though it had been issued without their knowledge, it would be impossible to call the meeting off without comment. It was shown that it might even be inferred from such action that the Bar Association had repented of its action or that there were not enough members in favor of the renomination of the Justices to hold the meeting.

Then it was that the two Justices asked that the resolutions and the speeches concerning them be confined to a reassertion of the well known principle of the Bar Association that worthy Judges be renominated and elected, and that the speakers should not stir up strife by any attack on Tammany Hall or its leader.

It was said that the Justices had in mind the case of Judge Daly, in whose favor a campaign was started by the Bar Association and other bodies, and in which Richard Croker, then leader of Tammany Hall, was bitterly assailed. It was after the election that Croker said that if Judge Daly had "taken his medicine" he might have had a chance for the nomination a year later, but that as matters stood Judge Daly would never get on any ticket that Croker had anything to do with.

When Judge Howland was asked if the Justices had requested that no attack be made on Mr. Murphy, he denied that any one had come to him from either of the Justices on any such errand.

"I don't say that such a thing might not have been done," he said, "but at least it was not engineered through me. The fact is that the name of no person or political organization was mentioned by the speakers. They confined themselves solely to the principle that these Justices, having given efficient service, should be re-elected for the good of the community and the lawyers practicing in their courts. I believe the association was wise in not taking any political stand or making any attack, and the Justices in question would be wise not to indorse anything of the kind. The Bar Association has not always been right. In the case of Justice Leventritt, when it went on record as saying he was unfit for the bench, it made a great mistake, and I hope, and so do many of the members, that some day this action will be expunged from its records."

These resolutions were introduced by William B. Hornblower:

Resolved, That this association reaffirms the principle heretofore expressed by it on more than one occasion and now generally recognized and approved at the polls, that in the interest of the community faithful and efficient Judges whose terms are about to expire should be renominated and re-elected in order that the judiciary may feel that their tenure of office is not dependent upon political expediency or political favoritism.

Resolved, That this principle is particularly applicable where a high order of ability, integrity, industry, learning, and experience has been exhibited by a Judge sitting in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, that being a court called upon to decide the most important questions which can affect the personal and property rights of the citizens of this great community, and in a large number of important cases under the present Constitution being a court of last resort.

Resolved, That this association urges upon all the conventions of the political parties in this county that the principle above referred to shall be applied by the renomination of the Hon. George L. Ingraham as a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State in this district; and

Further Resolved, That the Hon. Henry A. Gildersleeve, having performed the duties of his office in a faithful, efficient, and impartial manner, should, in accordance with the principle above set forth, be renominated by all political parties and re-elected; and

Resolved, further, That a committee of five be appointed by the chair, with power to add to its number, to present these resolutions to the various County Conventions through the proper authorities, and to take such further steps as it may deem proper to secure the adoption of the views herein expressed.

Seconding speeches were made by ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, De Lancey Nicoll, Henry W. Taft, and Judge Howland. Judge Parker said that there should be no politics in the renomination of the two Justices, and that all parties should unite to send back to the bench faithful and efficient Judges.

Judge Howland said that, as the Appellate Division, where Justice Ingraham has sat for ten years, was in many cases a court of last resort, there should be in it such men as Justice Ingraham, who had been a shining light there for so many years.

Chairman Davies appointed Judge Parker, Judge Howland, Joseph S. Auerbach, Henry W. Taft, and Edward M. Shepard a committee to carry out the provisions of the resolution.

There was a report last night that Mr. Murphy had reconsidered his intention not to put Justice Ingraham on the ticket. It was said that the renomination of Mr. Ingraham had been urged upon him by Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, the presiding Justice of the Appellate Division, who is a close personal friend of Murphy and his neighbor at Good Ground.

OHIO INTERESTS ROOSEVELT.

He Consults with Senator Dick—Cabinet in the Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Senator Dick, Chairman of the Ohio Republican Executive Committee, had a conference with President Roosevelt to-day relative to the political situation in that State. The President is particularly interested in the approaching Ohio election, and told Senator Dick he would do everything in his power to insure the success of the Republican cause there this Fall.

Senator Dick is anxious that as many members of the Cabinet as possible may make speeches in Ohio in the course of the campaign, and it has been agreed tentatively that Secretaries Taft, Shaw, Wilson, and Bonaparte and Attorney General Moody will participate in the campaign.

SCATTERED JACKPOTS.

Bankers' Special Had Close Call—Century Limited Delayed, Too.

"Jackpots" were knocked all over the cars and after-breakfast perfectos were shocked from the mouths of smokers yesterday morning when the "Bankers' Special," as the Croton express on the Hudson Division of the New York Central is called, came to a sudden and disconcerting halt just above High Bridge. Engineer Ed. Blakeman had seen a huge gondola cinder car stretched right across the track.

He had just turned a curve, and was making fast time when he saw the obstruction. The emergency brakes shook up the passengers, but a wreck was averted.

Then somebody happened to remember that the Twentieth Century Limited from Chicago was due within a few minutes. Flagmen were put out to stop her. And so while some of the passengers went up to pat Blakeman and Frank Cambles, his fireman, on the back, others sat down and calculated what would have happened to the limited if the Croton train had not got in ahead of it by a minute or two.

The Croton train makes fast time, picking up bankers and brokers and a few other persons at Dobb's Ferry, Irvington, Tarrytown, and other points, and landing them at the Grand Central at 9:27, in good time for Wall Street business.

About 9 o'clock a yard locomotive ran two cars into a switch a little above Highbridge so hard that they bumped into the loaded gondola and jumped it across the main track. Then the Croton express came around the bend. When it had come to a stop the cowcatcher was nosing the gondola.

Presently the Twentieth Century wheezed cautiously up, followed shortly by the Wolverine, the Adirondack special, and a Yonkers local. Because two or three of them were off schedule by a few minutes, it happened that the five trains were running almost together. There was a small congress of trainmen and passengers where Blakeman halted his train.

All five trains were sent through the Putnam Division, the passengers transferring to the elevated road at 155th Street. The bankers and brokers and ordinary people suffered considerable delay. The tardiness of some of its familiar figures surprised Wall Street yesterday, as the "Bankers' Special" is rarely late more than a minute or two.

There was a rumor last night that the patrons of the Croton express would confiscate ten jackpots this morning for the benefit of a watch for Blakeman of Mott Haven roundhouse. Grand Central employes are wondering what is coming to Blakeman. Such well-known financiers as James H. Stillman, Giovanni Morosini, and J. A. Burden, Jr., use the Croton express.

It required two hours to get the gondola off the main track and clear up the wreckage.

AFTER GOLDFOGLE'S SCALP.

B'rith Abraham Insurance Order Condemns Its Grand Master.

The Associated ex-Presidents of the Order of Brith Abraham, a fraternal order with a membership of about 50,000, adopted resolutions yesterday condemning the administration of Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle, its Grand Master. The order is a life insurance organization and the protest against Mr. Goldfogle has been sent to the Legislative Investigating Committee and to the State Insurance Department.

The preamble characterizes Mr. Goldfogle's administration as arbitrary and oppressive, and stress is laid upon the fact that he expelled recently the entire Paterson City Lodge, with its 275 members, without, it is asserted, giving them a hearing. Many of the members of this lodge had been paying dues for eighteen years, and, it is charged, that they were robbed of their rights because one of their number attacked the Grand Lodge.

The resolutions instruct a committee "to oppose the nomination or election of said Henry M. Goldfogle to any public office and to send an appeal on behalf of the members of the order to Jacob H. Schiff, Isidor Straus, and Nathan Bijur, that they may take up the cause of their oppressed brethren."

WEATHER PROPHETS TALK.

Champions Who'll Try to Beat Uncle Sam Tell How It's Done.

F. R. Fast, a lawyer at 97 Nassau Street, who has a hobby for weather predicting, offered a prize of $100 three weeks ago to the person who would correctly forecast the weather from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 next. Mr. Fast says that the Government's predictions are only 47 per cent. "correct," and he thinks that isn't good enough. Six hundred have already entered the competition.

Last night Mr. Fast had two champion prophets lecture at the Graduates' Club in Fifth Avenue. They are Mrs. G. M. Somerville of Jacksonville and the celebrated Devoe of Hackensack, Jersey bean planters swear by Devoe. Mrs. Somerville's pet theory is that all the diamonds reached us in meteorites. She is a strong believer in the barometer and the moon.

Her scientific terms apparently astonished Mr. Devoe. He said he used official weather reports, almanacs, moon, and tides. Mr. Somerville declared at the end of the lecturing that his wife used science, and that Mr. Devoe used guesswork.

Mr. Devoe didn't reply. He rested on his record.

FIGHT FOR RELICS OF DEAD.

Removal of Bodies from an Old Church Attracts Souvenir Hunters.

Persons attracted to the spot where the Bloomingdale Reform Church formerly stood, at Sixty-eighth Street and Broadway, to watch the removal of 121 bodies from the crypt, became so anxious for souvenirs that a fight finally resulted and Henry Lipsky of 167 Ridge Street and Andrew Klaufman of 102 West Twenty-eighth Street were arrested.

The church, which originally was in the centre of the old Bloomingdale Cemetery 100 years ago, is being torn down, and yesterday the Board of Health was notified by the Rev. W. C. Stinson, the pastor, that the time had arrived for the removal of the bodies. Dr. Charles S. Roberts, Superintendent of the Sanitary Department, went to the church and after making an inspection gave permission for the removal of the bodies.

Hundreds of persons were attracted to the spot by the sight of the ancient caskets, and there was a struggle to gather up small pieces of wood, metal, or anything else that could be found.

LOST TWO SENSES ON A CAR.

Taste and Smell Gone, Says Richards, But Court Gives Him Nothing.

Charles S. Richards of 324 York Street, Jersey City, was heard in a suit against the North Jersey Street Railway Company before Justice Dixon yesterday for $10,000. He alleged that, by the sudden starting of a trolley car on Nov. 2, 1904, he was thrown from the car step and permanently injured.

Among other things, he testified, his sense of taste and smell had been destroyed. To test this aloes was placed in his mouth and a strong solution of ammonia held under his nose. He said he could not taste one nor smell the other. The jury, however, rendered a verdict in favor of the company on the ground of contributory negligence.

ITALIAN STEAMER ASHORE.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 4.—The Italian steamer Citta di Palermo, Capt. Massardo, from New York and Norfolk for New Orleans, stranded on Diamond Shoals last night during thick weather. The crew of thirty men were landed in lifeboats this morning by the Cape Hatteras and Creeds Hill life-saving station. Tugs have been hurried to her assistance.

Her cargo includes 2,519 packages of merchandise loaded at Genoa and 836 packages loaded at Leghorn. Included are Italian art works, raw Italian marble, vermicelli, macaroni, wines, and cordials. The value does not appear on the ship's manifest, but it is evidently great.

ROOT EXTOLS PORTER TO THE LOYAL LEGION

Pays Tribute to His Career as an Ambassador.

CHEERS FOR THE SECRETARY

Dinner in Honor of Gen. Porter Proves An Ovation for the New Cabinet Member.

Elihu Root made his first public appearance as Secretary of State at Delmonico's last night. The occasion was a dinner given by the New York Commandery of the Loyal Legion to Gen. Horace Porter, Ambassador to France for eight years. Mr. Root came from Washington especially for the dinner, and left for the capital on a midnight train a few minutes after he had finished speaking.

The welcome he received from the 400 members of the Loyal Legion was most demonstrative. The members almost cheered themselves hoarse when he arose to speak. Gen. Porter, the guest of honor, led in the speaking, being introduced by Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard.

"The population of this city has grown so since I left," said Gen. Porter, "that I am led to the suspicion that New Yorkers must have been leading double lives! I am glad to be here with you and —" (here the ex-Ambassador looked up toward the boxes) "with the ladies. When we consider them we are forced to follow the Scriptural injunction to set our thoughts on higher things. By the way, I never could have any patience with Milton for writing a book telling of the creation of woman in the Garden of Eden and then calling it 'Paradise Lost.'

"When I went abroad I didn't know why it was unless because the Government wanted to increase its exports. But I had to come back—Paris was too far from the Loyal Legion. I could not make myself immortal by making my stay eternal. Besides, I was afraid those succulent French dishes might do for me, and then they would declare my death to be due to a 'foreign growth in the stomach.'

"I wish you could have had the chance to study the administration of the vast armies of the States of Europe. Their system differs from ours. They make a machine of a soldier. His brilliant uniform, for one thing, is too much of a target. A too perfect machine will work well until a cog is knocked out—then it will go to pieces. Gen. Meade tried to make every private soldier an integral part of the army, able, if occasion demanded, to take the place of an officer.

"Well, now I'm here I'll never go away again unless the Sheriff drags me out of the house. I've come to stay."

After the guest of honor had sat down Secretary Root was introduced. He had to wait several minutes for the cheering to stop. Then he said:

"I have come from Washington to attend this dinner, drawn by a deep and strong sympathy and by loyal and warm friendship for the honored guest of the evening. I cannot claim comradeship with you men of the Loyal Legion in a technical sense, though I can in the broader sense of sympathy and patriotism. I can claim comradeship with Gen. Porter through many a year of unfailing and unwavering friendship, through my admiration for him as a friend and my respect for him as a man.

"For eight years he represented us in France with such a loyal spirit, such true patriotism, that we all owe him a debt of gratitude. Our Diplomatic Service is defective in many respects—it lacks the machinery and provision for effective action which most great countries have. We are able to get along only because, when occasion demands, somehow this fortunate people finds a man who can do things that must be done.

"That is what Gen. Porter did in Paris. In 1898, when European complications were imminent, Gen. Porter's services were worth untold millions to this country. His resourcefulness, his adaptability to turn his hand to the doing of difficult tasks, made Paris become the diplomatic centre of affairs. Under his skilful and untiring efforts we had the benefit of information and of knowledge which went far to make European intervention impossible.

"Beginning with Benjamin Franklin and ending with Horace Porter as representatives from America, it is manifest that the French must have a good opinion of us. The French are a nation of such nobility, of such chivalric sentiment, such delicate taste in art and literature, such commanding ability in diplomacy, that I feel grateful to the man who has presented to them this admirable type of the American citizen."

The remainder of Secretary Root's speech was in emphasis of the benefits that came to the American people from the spirit which was created by the great struggle between the States. Present American greatness, he said, was largely due to the spirit that had its birth then. Once, when he referred to Gen. Porter as "this black-haired boy," the four hundred Legionaries shouted with delight.

A letter from Ambassador Jusserand was read, expressing deep regret that he was unable to attend, and said that the French people held a very tender place in their hearts for Gen. Porter.

Among those at the guests' table were Gen. O. O. Howard, Gen. Henry L. Burnett, Admiral Schley, Admiral Coghlan, Admiral Sigsbee, Gen. Plume, and Stewart L. Woodford.

At the close of Mr. Root's speech Admiral Sigsbee was received with much applause and shouts of "Remember the Maine!" He spoke highly of Gen. Porter's services in connection with the finding of the body of Paul Jones and the subsequent ceremonies. Gen. Howard also made a speech.

KIDNAPPING SUSPECT HERE.

Laduca, Wanted in Merendino Case, Arrested on Mannino Charge.

Vito Laduca, arrested in Baltimore Tuesday night on a warrant issued by Police Magistrate Tighe, was locked up in the Adams Street Station, Brooklyn, last night. In Laduca the detectives profess to have the man who kidnapped Tony Merendino of 556 Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn, on Sept. 23.

The warrant on which the arrest was made was issued by Magistrate Tighe a year ago on a charge of abducting Tony Mannino, son of an Italian contractor living at 62 Amity Street. Laduca was arrested in this case, but discharged for lack of evidence after the boy had been returned to his home.

The prisoner was one of the men arrested and released in connection with the murder of Benedito Madonia, whose body was found in Avenue D, Manhattan, packed in a sugar barrel, three years ago.

Appointees to Calcutta and Hang Chow Refuse to Act.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—In a letter dated at Paris, Stanley Stoner informs the State Department that he has decided not to accept his appointment as Consul General at Calcutta because of the ill-health of his wife, and has asked that he be given employment in the Diplomatic Service.

George L. Dobson, formerly Secretary of State of Iowa, has resigned as Consul General at Hang Chow, China, after only a few weeks of work. He has written to friends here complaining of the mode of life of the Chinese, which he cannot stand.

"INVISIBLE" STAIR ROD.

THE "INVISIBLE" STAIR ROD, of which we are the sole patentees and owners, has entirely supplanted the old fashioned rods that were fastened over the surface of the carpet. This modern device, which may be applied to wood, iron or stone steps of any width, is concealed behind the carpet, and grips the fabric firmly, without revealing its presence or doing the slightest injury to the texture.
It is inexpensive and simple to apply.

Fashion Is Turning Blue

Best dressers know this; blue is steadily creeping to the fore as a favored color. We've had a sort of premonition as to this new trend of fashion. Our stocks offer evidence in a handsome series of blue suits in the newest single and double breasted sack models.

The series involves cheviots, rough and smooth surface worsteds in plain blue, blue with broken checks, stripes and indefinite plaids. Priced at $15, $17, $18, $20 and $25.

PEACE TREATY PASSED BY MIKADO'S COUNCIL

The Agreement Will Now Be Ratified Immediately.

PEACE FINALE IN AMERICA

Rosen and Takahira Are to Exchange Ratifications in the President's Presence.

TOKIO, Oct. 4.—At a prolonged meeting of the Privy Council to-day the treaty of peace with Russia was approved. The treaty will immediately be ratified.

An order abrogating martial law at Sasebo, Nagasaki, Tsushima, and Hakodate was passed by the Council.

Baron Shibusawa, addressing the Associated Chambers of Commerce to-day, said the development of trade communications and carrying power was of the highest importance to Japan. He criticised the ultra-pessimistic views taken of Japan's financial future and said he was confident of the greater development of Japan's resources and also of those of Korea.

The Baron said he was highly delighted to find that his efforts while travelling abroad to invite the investment of foreign capital in Japan were bearing fruit in the present co-operation of foreign capitalists. He believed they would find an extensive field of activity in this part of the world, especially in Korea.

While admitting that Japan was heavily in debt as a result of the war, the Baron said he believed that adequate efforts on the part of the business men of Japan would open a way to increasing the wealth of the empire.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Ratifications of the treaty of Portsmouth will be exchanged at Washington between Baron Rosen, the Russian Ambassador, and Mr. Tskahira, the Japanese Minister, as soon as these important documents are received from St. Petersburg and Tokio. The ratifications will contain the French and English texts of the treaty.

This was decided at a conference to-day between Baron Rosen and Mr. Takahira, which began in the Russian Ambassador's apartments and was concluded at the State Department. Mr. Takahira called on Baron Rosen this morning to find out from him the usual form of the Russian ratification. In order that the Minister might inspect a copy, they went to the State Department, where Mr. Adee, the Third Assistant Secretary of State, received them and showed them the ratification of the Russian-American extradition treaty. Mr. Takahira will advise his Government fully on the subject, so that the ratifications may conform. The special plenary powers to be conferred upon the two plenipotentiaries enabling them to exchange ratifications will be identical in scope.

The approval of the treaty by the Privy Council at Tokio in effect ratifies the convention, and it is expected that the formalities of the Emperor's signature will follow shortly. As the treaty becomes effective as soon as it is ratified, the exchange of ratifications is only a formality. It is not believed that the Russian ratification will be long delayed.

Diplomatic relations between the two countries have been practically resumed at Washington. Returning the courtesy paid to him in New York by Baron Rosen, who called several times on the Japanese plenipotentiaries, Mr. Takahira made his call this morning personal as well as official, and the two envoys have corresponded frequently since the treaty was signed.

No arrangements have been concluded for the ceremony of the exchange of ratifications, but it probably will be even more simple than was the signing of the treaty at Portsmouth. The chief difference between the two ceremonies will be the presence of President Roosevelt, who will be invited by the two envoys to witness the exchange.

It is probable that the President will place the White House at the disposal of the envoys on this occasion.

Mr. Takahira expects to leave Washington about Dec. 1 for Japan on a six months' leave of absence, the first he has taken in several years. Eki Hioki, First Secretary, will be Chargé d'Affaires. Mr. Takahira was ill last Spring as the result of an attack of appendicitis the preceding Winter, and his participation in the peace conference was strongly against the advice of his physician, who urged upon him the necessity of taking a long rest.

Reports have been in circulation that Mr. Takahira would soon be transferred to St. Petersburg or some other European post in recognition of his successful work at Washington. In diplomatic circles it is believed that the imperial recognition will take the form of an order returning Mr. Takahira to Washington as Japan's first Ambassador to the United States.

TO HURRY PEACE CONFERENCE

Russia Will Announce Date as Soon as Replies Are All In.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 4.—The Russian Government has received a large number of replies to the peace conference invitations, all of which are favorable and contain no suggestions regarding the subjects for discussion.

The announcement of the programme and the date for the meeting of the conference will be sent out as soon as all the replies are received.

The meeting will take place without greater delay than is necessary to permit all the delegates to reach The Hague.

Miss Roosevelt Back in Japan.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 4.—Miss Alice Roosevelt and her party arrived here to-day on the steamer Minnesota from Shimonoseki. The Americans were received by the American Minister, the American Consul, the Imperial Master of Ceremonies, and the Governor, but they declined any formalities. Miss Roosevelt will stay at a hotel here to-night, and to-morrow will go sight-seeing into the interior. She will stay in Japan until Oct. 13, when E. H. Harriman and Miss Roosevelt's party will leave Yokohama for San Francisco on the steamer Siberia.

GEN. GOMEZ MAY SEE ROOT.

But It Will Be as a Private Citizen and Not as a Cuban Official.

It is probable that Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, Governor of the Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, who is in New York, will go to Washington within forty-eight hours, where he will seek an interview with Secretary Root and perhaps the President.

If Gen. Gomez, who says that Cuban liberty is a farce, is received by the State Department the reception is likely to be of an unofficial character, and he will go as a Cuban citizen, and not as an officer of the new Republic.

Gen. Gomez denied himself to reporters yesterday. It was intimated that he might have something to say to-day in criticism of the present government in Cuba.

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—When the statements made yesterday in New York by Gen. Gomez were shown to him, President Palma read them carefully and returned them with the laconic remark:

"You know very well that those things are not true."

Gen. Andrade, Minister of the Interior, emphatically denies all the allegations made by Gen. Gomez. He says that nobody was in any manner restrained from voting at the recent primaries, and points out that the original strength of the Liberal Party dwindled rapidly when its leaders used inflammatory language and adopted extreme methods, while in the meantime the followers of Gen. Nunez became strong allies of the Moderate Party, rendering the Gomez campaign hopeless.

Thirty-four men were arrested by Rural Guards at San Juan y Martinez, Province of Pinar del Rio, charged with the seizure of a ballot box, but the majority of them were released. The box was recovered.

The Italian Minister has protested to the authorities against what he declares to be the unfair treatment of Italian subjects by local officials because of alleged participation in election affairs. The Government has instructed all Mayors scrupulously to respect the rights of foreigners.

WE'RE WRONG ABOUT ANGELS.

An Up-State Clergyman Proves That They're All Males.

Ecclesiastics in this city were recovering yesterday from the shock caused by the discovery of an up-State clergyman that for at least six centuries the world of art and theology has been blundering about the sex of angels.

In the fifteenth century Fra Angelico depicted women angels. In all the centuries that have elapsed until the Building Committee, accompanied by clergymen from other parts of the State, went to view the unfinished cathedral of St. John the Divine on Morningside Heights, art and theology have continued to blunder.

There are about forty plaster cast statues of angels in the Belmont Memorial Chapel of the cathedral. The clergy were admiring them when the up-State clergyman stopped before two statues, and broke the silence with this:

"Whoever heard of a woman angel?"

The clergy gasped; then the truth dawned upon them. For hundreds of years all over the world art had been dispicting angels as female and in no place in the Bible could it be ascertained that angels were other than male.

"It was the most amusing thing I ever heard," said the Rev. Dr. John P. Peters of St. Michael's, who is Secretary of the Building Committee. "When I realized it I shouted! To think that for centuries ecclesiastics regarded angels, theologically, as men, that art all these centuries has regarded them, picturesquely, as women, and that no one should have noticed the glaring inconsistency."

Then Dr. Peters went to dinner. His assistant took up the discussion where Dr. Peters had left off.

"How can any one tell the sex of angels," said he. "I have never seen one. Those who have—the shepherds who lay in the fields—were too frightened to notice whether they were male or female. And no one has ever come back to tell us about Azrael. Ecclesiastical history prefers to regard them as an unknown quantity, something which is singularly referred to as 'he,' so that our intelligence may grasp something tangible. But it will always be a moot point, even the color of angels, for I have heard that in the South Bibles are circulated in which the angels in the illustrations are black."

"We prefer to have our angel statues of no pronounced sex," said Dr. Peters after dinner. "That was the trouble with the St. John statues. Gabriel, the Angel of the Annunciation, was presumably a male, but the other—the Angel of the Resurrection—may or may not have been. It is not stated. I understand that Mr. Mathe-Borglum, the sculptor, has agreed to make Gabriel a male, leaving the other practically as it is."

J. Guntzer Mathe-Borglum, when asked about the trouble, said that he was an artist and would make the statues any sex that was wanted. Personally, he believed than angels ought always to be women.

WRIGHT DEAD-LOCK UNBROKEN

He and De Angelis Tied—Democrats May Indorse Wright.

OSWEGO, Oct. 4.—The Republican Convention of the Fifth Judicial District, which reconvened to-day, is still in a dead-lock. Eighty ballots had been taken and the count still stood 25 to 25 for P. C. J. Angelis of Utica and Justice Wright of Oswego when the convention took a recess late to-day until Thursday. Both sides expressed confidence in an ultimate victory. In the course of the balloting Irving R. Dicfendorf of Herkimer was urged as a compromise candidate.

The fact that judicial nominations must be filed before noon of Saturday, Oct. 7, caused determined efforts to break the dead-lock. Neither side was willing to compromise. The following Judicial Committee was named to-day: Charles H. Waits, Lewis; E. J. Bosbart, Herkimer; Charles D. Thomas, Onelda; R. S. Johnson, Onondaga; A. H. Cowie, Oswego.

The Democratic County Convention here to-day named J. B. Higgins and J. H. Gill of Oswego and Ross L. Symons of Mexico delegates to the Judicial Convention. No instructions were given, but the delegates favor the indorsement of Justice Wright.

INVITED BY THE PRESIDENT.

Next Tuberculosis Congress Likely to be Held in America.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—There is every reason to anticipate the cordial and unanimous acceptance of an invitation conveyed by the American delegates to the Tuberculosis Congress to hold the next congress in the United States, particularly in view of the fact that it is made in the name of President Roosevelt.

That is certainly the feeling of the French and British delegates, who have the highest admiration for the President as a peacemaker and for the excellent example given by the American people in the struggle against tuberculosis.

The question will be submitted to the Congress on Saturday.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The International Tuberculosis Congress to-day discussed the varied forms and chemical aspects of consumption. It was admitted that a specific curative medicine had not been discovered, but the palliative qualities of certain remedies were recognized.

Dr. Pierre Roux, Director of the Pasteur Institute, maintained the efficacy of surgical intervention in the initial stages of intestinal tuberculosis.

Great interest was manifested in suggestions made for the protection of school children, and it was proposed to institute hooks of record showing the state of health of the children in order eventually to separate the pupils into categories by dividing the affected from the healthy.

A LITTLE REICHSRATH ROW.

VIENNA, Oct. 4.—In the lower house of Parliament to-day, while Baron von Sternberg was speaking on the Government's declaration of policy, he was continually interrupted by Dr. Wolff, the Pan-German leader. Von Sternberg appealed to Dr. Wolff to desist, but Wolff persisted.

Finally von Sternberg lost his temper and threw a water glass at Wolff, striking his chest. Great uproar followed and the President of the House called von Sternberg to order. The German members were not satisfied with this measure, and demanded that von Sternberg apologize. This the Baron refused to do, and the President, being unable to restore order, declared the sitting suspended. The uproar continued until von Sternberg left the House.

The sitting was resumed after an hour, when the President said he expected an expression of regret from Baron von Sternberg. The Baron, in apologizing, admitted that his action had not been in accordance with the rules of the House, but he insisted that he had acted in legitimate self-defense, though certainly he had not been polite. The President withdrew the Baron's right to speak, but the latter attempted to continue amid the wildest uproar.

The President was unable to secure order and adjourned the House until to-morrow.

Great Wave Strikes a Village.

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—A wave to-day struck the village of Campechuela, near Manzanillo. Fifty houses were damaged but no lives were lost.

NEW DUNFERMLINE WAY TO USE CARNEGIE CASH

College of Hygiene and Physical Training the Latest.

$125,000 A YEAR TO SPEND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES. [Copyright, 1905.]

EDINBURGH, Oct. 4.—The new College of Hygiene and Physical Training instituted by the Carnegie Dunfermline Trustees was formally opened to-day by Lord Linlithgow, Secretary for Scotland and Vice President of the Council of Education in Scotland.

The opening ceremony took place in the gymnasium and was attended by about 500 ladies and gentlemen. The chair was occupied by Dr. John Ross, Chairman of the Carnegie Trust.

Lord Linlithgow in his address expressed the conviction that there was great need in Scotland for a thorough system of physical training for young people and careful study of the laws of health in schools. Therefore, he said, he most heartily approved of the institution he had been called upon to open. He had no hesitation in saying that the college deserved public recognition and support.

The College of Hygiene and Physical Training is the latest scheme evolved by the Carnegie Trustees to get rid of the £25,000 a year which is received from the £500,000 given by Andrew Carnegie for the benefit of Dunfermline, his native city.

One of the first things the Trustees did was to supply Dunfermline with concerts of a kind which are usually only to be heard in the great cities. Artists of the first rank were engaged, and for a time the obscure little Scottish town had musical facilities rivaling those of Milan and Munich. The idea was a failure, and before long music for which New York, for instance, would pay its dollars and be glad to the chance to do so, was being performed to empty halls.

The Trustees, foiled in their attempt to make Dunfermline musical in this way, have recently started a Carnegie band, which has been giving open-air concerts almost every day this Summer. The band is composed of local talent, with the addition of high-priced performers from outside.

A school of music has also been founded, and almost immediately after it was started it fell foul of the long-established local Choral Union.

The trust has also established a school of art, in which special teachers and lecturers from Edinburgh assist the local masters.

One of the latest plans of the Trustees is the acquisition of a bowling green for the young men of Dunfermline. Land has been bought at Baldridgeburn, a suburb of the city, and by next year this will be ready for the use of the people for all sorts of sports. The Carnegie Trust has already supplied Dunfermline with a gymnasium and baths, outside of those in the new college, which are quite popular.

BOARD UPHOLDS BERLINGER.

City Civil Service Commission Refuses to Remove Its Secretary.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission yesterday issued a statement defending Secretary Henry Berlinger in reply to the findings of the State Board, recently returned to Gov. Higgins. The local board points out that Commissioner Roscoe Conkling Ensign Brown of the State Commission is a member of the Civil Service Reform Association, which brought the charges against Secretary Berlinger, and that, therefore, Commissioner Brown was disqualified to pass upon these charges in a semi-judicial way.

Looseness in business methods is one of the charges upheld by the State Commission. The local board declares that every instance of looseness brought out at the investigation was committed under the administration of President McCooey, who, with his associates, was removed by Mayor McClellan. The Commissioners declare that there is no reason for removing Secretary Berlinger as suggested by the State Commission.

TWO KILLED IN COURT HOUSE.

Gas Explosion, Due to a Leak, in Cincinnati Public Building.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—By an explosion of gas in the County Court House to-day two members of the clerical force of the County Commissioners, George Zimmerman, chief clerk, and Russell Blair, assistant, were killed. George Kleiman, another employe, was severely injured, and several persons were slightly hurt in the stampede that ensued. The Court House

Just inside the wall at the washstand at the County Clerk's office, alongside a window, was the leak. A man with a lighted match was tracing the pipe to the point where the odor seemed strongest. As he put the match down to the spot where the gas pipe entered the wall, the explosion came.

GOV. HIGGINS PARDONS THREE.

One Formerly Worked at His Residence—Others from Brooklyn.

ALBANY, Oct. 4.—Gov. Higgins to-day pardoned John Spry, who used to be employed about the Governor's residence in Olean, before he was sent to prison two years ago for perjury. The Governor said he had learned that Spry was a dupe and had been punished enough.

The Governor also pardoned John Branton of Brooklyn, who was imprisoned in May, 1896, for burglary, and Mrs. Matilda Smith of Brooklyn, who is serving a six months' sentence for intoxication. Mrs. Smith's husband wants her at home to care for their large family.

A RUSSIAN-AMERICAN LINE.

Plan for Steamship Service Finds Favor In St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 4.—In order to further closer commercial relations between the United States and Russia the Department of Merchant Marine, of which the Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch is President, is considering a project for the establishment of a direct steamship service between New York and a Baltic port, either Riga or Libau, under Governmental encouragement.

The project is viewed with favor, and a decision is expected shortly.

TO HELP CARNEGIE RESEARCH.

Assistant of Sir William Ramsay Takes Up Work at City College.

Dr. Leo F. Guttman of London, for two years research assistant to Sir William Ramsay, has come to take up his duties as chief Carnegie research assistant to Prof. Charles Baskeville of the City College in chemical investigations of the rarer earths. Dr. Guttman received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Leipsic. He will take the place of Dr. Fritz Zerban, who resigned to accept a professorship at a German institution. There are 3,200 students enrolled in the college. Of these 800 have just entered the academic or sub-freshman department from the public schools. Eleven hundred students are reciting in the new Townsend Harris building, 139th Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

I don't sell anything but office furniture and fittings, and because I give my entire attention to those things only is why I claim to have a finer line at more reasonable prices than you'll find anywhere else in New York.

A visit to my store, 275 Canal St., will convince you, I'm sure.

NEW GROUPS OF POWERS LIKELY TO BE FORMED

Result of End of War and Anglo-Japanese Treaty.

FRANCE TO DO NOTHING YET

Will Await Result of Moroccan Conference Before Considering German Overtures.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Chancelleries here and throughout Europe are taing the keenest interest in the possible, and even probable, formation of a new European alliance consequent upon the termination of the Russo-Japanese war and the conclusion of a closer Anglo-Japanese alliance. This has advanced beyond discussion in the newspapers and has already reached the stage of discreet diplomatic soundings.

The various proposed realignments of European powers are divided into three main movements—first, British inclination toward an accord with Russia; second, a German-Russian movement for an alliance offsetting the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and, third, Russo-German overtures to induce France to join the latter grouping.

Great Britain's desire for a rapprochement with Russia has brought about the distinct diplomatic suggestion that Great Britain is ready to give fuller recognition to Russia's privileged position in Southern Turkey, notably at Constantinople and along the Bosphorus. Russia's ambitions in that direction have heretofore encountered strong opposition in England.

The view in French official quarters is distinctly favorable to an Anglo-Russian rapprochement. It was one of the projects of M. Delcassé, when Foreign Minister, to have King Edward visit Emperor Nicholas as a means for furthering the reconciliation of Russia and Great Britain. Since the retirement of M. Delcassé this project has been in abeyance, but the officials continue favorable to an Anglo-Russian entente.

Concerning the proposed German-Russian agreement, strong elements in both countries favor an accord as a counterpoise to the Anglo-Japanese alliance. The Temps to-night prints an authorized interview with Prince von Bülow, the German Imperial Chancellor, at Baden-Baden, openly advocating a German-Russian rapprochement. The Prince says:

"It is natural and traditional that we should have the best relations with Russia. Why should France take umbrage? We do not take umbrage because of the Franco-Russian alliance. A system of pacific alliances would assure the equilibrium of Europe. The Franco-Italian rapprochement has not an anti-German character, nor should a Russo-German rapprochement have an anti-French character."

In connection with French participation in a Russo-German rapprochement it can be definitely stated that France, before considering a new alignment of the powers, intends to await the final determination of the controversy with regard to Morocco, in which country Germany first interrupted the French programme. Afterward France might consider German overtures, but until Morocco's future is assured French bonds of sympathy will continue with Russia and Great Britain.

KRONSTADT, Oct. 4.—The dock laborers here have again struck for more wages and shorter hours. Work on all the foreign ships is at a standstill.

FOOD.

NOTICED IT

"Coffee gave me terrible spells of indigestion which, coming on every week or so, made my life wretched until some one told me that the coffee I drank was to blame. That seemed nonsense, but I noticed these attacks used to come on shortly after eating, and were accompanied by such excruciating pains in the pit of the stomach that I could only find relief by loosening my clothing and lying down.

"If circumstances made it impossible for me to lie down, I spent houre in great misery.

"I refused to really believe it was the coffee until finally I thought a trial would at least do no harm, so I quit coffee in 1901 and began on Postum. My troubles left entirely and convinced me of the cause.

"Postum brought no discomfort, nor did indigestion follow its use. I have had no return of the trouble since I began to drink Postum. It has built me up, restored my health, and given me a new interest in life. It certainly is a joy to be well again." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

OVER FORTY different makes of Piano-players are now on the market. Only one has received the endorsement of the world's greatest musicians.

Only one is well known in London, Paris, Berlin and St. Petersburg as it is in New York or San Francisco.

Only one has the Metrostyle, which insures artistic expression in addition to correct technique.

That One Is The Pianola

The Pianola has a greater sale and popularity than all of the other forty Piano-players together. No other is entitled to the use of the name "Pianola"—a distinction made necessary by the fact that the great supremacy of the Pianola has led some to suppose that the word applies to any instrument playing the music by means of perforated music-rolls. There is but one Pianola, made only by The Aeolian Company.

The Pianola plays with greater delicacy than any other Piano-player, and at the same time it has greater power in fortissimo passages.

The Pianola is the simplest of all Piano-players to operate. Only three levers are used to control the expression. These are so plain and simple to operate that even a child can in five minutes learn how to use them.

The Pianola is the greatest of all Piano-players in its repertory. On October 1 there were 15,083 compositions available to Pianola owners. No other Piano-player offers nearly so vast a range of choice.

The Pianola is to-day not only universally recognized as "The Standard Piano-player of the World," but it is unapproached in the many details of its musical and mechanical perfection.

NEITHER TAFT NOR ROOT EAGER FOR CANAL

War Secretary Suggests That He Go to the State Department.

PLAN NOT WARMLY WELCOMED

New Head of Cabinet Believes He Has Enough to Do In Modernizing His Department.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The plan of transferring the Panama Canal Commission to the State Department is under consideration. Secretary Taft would be glad to part with it, but Secretary Root suspects that he has before him more work he can do without the canal on his shoulders.

When Secretary Taft learned on his arrival at San Francisco the last of August that Mr. Root had consented to become Secretary of State, he telegraphed to the President urging upon him the propriety of transferring the canal to the State Department, where, Mr. Taft suggested, it would have the benefit of the superior ability of Mr. Root in connection with the administration, of which Mr. Taft as Governor General of the Philippines enjoyed the opportunity to judge.

To this suggestion, when duly forwarded by the President to him, Mr. Root promptly put in a declination. He said the State Department had no organization with which to deal with such a matter as the canal; that he had accepted the department as it was, and should prefer to remain in the same condition.

The whole reason for the change lies in the fact that the War Department is loaded up with work enough for one Cabinet officer in having the Philippines and the army to attend to. Secretary Taft cherishes as earnestly as ever the welfare and development of the Philippines, and he now looks forward to the introduction of railroads as likely to accomplish for the people of the archipelago greater progress in civilization than any other part of the Orient enjoys. To this work, undisturbed by any other responsibilities, he would like to devote his energies.

At the same time, Secretary Root has entered the State Department to reorganize it. He intends to modernize and breathe the breath of life into it. This will be task enough for one man. This implies what his predecessors never even planned to do. He will go to Congress and strike hard for larger appropriations for the foreign service on the plea that the United States has become a world power, and that we must seek and get and hold the trade that our manufacturing industries are ready to meet. The subject of transferring the canal to the State Department was thoroughly discussed by Secretary Taft and the President to-night, but no conclusion has yet been reached by the President.

ENGINEERS REACH ISTHMUS.

Mr. Shonts and His Party Land at Colon and Go to Panama.

PANAMA, Oct. 4.—Chairman Shonts and other members of the Canal Commission and the Advisory Board of Consulting Engineers arrived here this afternoon from Colon.

COLON, Oct. 4.—The steamer Havana, from New York Sept. 28, having on board the Advisory Board of Consulting Engineers of the Panama Canal and some of the members of the Canal Commission, arrived here early this morning. All on board were well. The visitors went on a special train to Panama, stopping a few minutes at points of interest.

From Panama the party will visit La Boca and then embark on steam launches and visit the islands in Panama harbor.

To-day's cursory visit was arranged in order to give those of the engineers who are now visiting the Isthmus for the first time a general idea of the features of the route. To-morrow the visitors will begin a close and minute examination of the route from end to end.

The whole party will make the steamer Havana their headquarters while on the Isthmus, returning to Colon every evening.

T. F. RYAN NOT IN THIS.

Denial That He, His Syndicate, or Hyde Backs Independent Telephones.

Representatives of Thomas F. Ryan denied yesterday that Mr. Ryan was interested in any of the independent telephone companies which are seeking franchises from the Board of Estimate to operate in New York.

Reports have been circulated that Mr. Ryan, the Elkins-Widener syndicate, and James Hazen Hyde were interested in the movement. The spokesmen for Mr. Ryan said that none of these interests was connected with an independent telephone movement in any way.

No Hope for Jerry Simpson.

WICHITA, Oct. 4.—Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson, who is ill in St. Francis's Hospital in this city, is not improved. The attending physician said to-night that the blood vessels extending from the heart in the chest are enlarged, and it is only a question of time when death will result.

THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is required the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from very objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually, without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the old-time cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.—is printed on the front of every package. In order to get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine only. For sale by all reliable druggists.

Athletics Close Season at Home with Third Victory Over St. Louis.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The local American League season ended to-day, the home club winning the third straight game from St. Louis. Philadelphia's victory was due principally to poor fielding by St. Louis. Plank and Howell both pitched well. Score:

WOMEN PLAY FAST TENNIS.

Carnival on Courts of Essex County Club Attracts Leading Experts.

Dashing racquet work brought the play up to the semi-final round yesterday in ths women's lawn tennis singles tournament on the courts of ths Essex County Country Club at Orange, N. J. The field of twenty-six competitors, representing a number of country clubs, began play yesterday morning, and at twilight Miss Souther and Miss Heywood had gained their places on the semi-final bracket of the lower half. Miss Souther defeated Miss Gordon in a lively match, in which both women drove exceptionally well for placement. Miss Souther hit the ball harder than her opponent, and was more accurate in cutting to the lines. One of the best matches in the upper half of the play was that in which Miss Jewett defeated Miss Firth after three hotly contested sets. Miss Firth proved remarkably strong overheed, but she was not steady enough, and Miss Jewett finally won the deciding sst after deuce had been called. Summary:

Women's Singles.—First Round—Miss Elsie Jewett defeated Mrs. Underhill, 6—2, 1—6, 6—4; Miss Firth defeated Mrs. Aufermann by default; Miss Freeman defeated Miss Miller, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Underhill defeated Miss Worth by default; Miss Dill defeated Miss Emma Dill, 7—5, 8—6; Mrs. John Gallett, Jr., defeated Miss M. Jewett, 5—7, 6—3, 6—4; Miss M. McCoy defeated Miss Von Epps, 6—4, 7—5; Miss Grannis defeated Mrs. Percy Byron by default; Miss Gordon defeated Mrs. Von Pyk, 6—0, 6—0; Miss Amy Crane defeated Miss Pugh by default; Miss Souther defeated Miss Seabury, 6—3, 6—4; Miss E. Crane defeated Mrs. Von Bernuth by default; Miss Heywood defeated Mrs. Boyd, 6—1, 6—3.

Second Round—Miss Jewett defeated Miss Firth, 6—4, 0—6, 7—5; Miss Freeman defeated Miss Underhill by default; Miss Dill defeated Mrs. John Gallett, Jr., 6—2, 6—2; Miss Grannis defeated Miss McCoy, 6—4, 6—3; Miss Gordon defeated Miss Amy Crane, 6—0, 6—2; Miss Souther defeated Miss E. Crane, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Heywood, a bye.

Third Round—Miss Souther defeated Miss Gordon, 6—4, 6—2; Miss Heywood takes bracket by a bye.

STEAM AUTO'S FAST TIME.

Walter White Goes Ten Miles in Nine Minutes on Jericho Turnpike.

Walter C. White drove his White steam car ten miles yesterday morning over the Jericho turnpike in 9 minutes. The care is one of the accepted American cars for the coming Vanderbilt Cup race on Oct. 14, and its performence yesterday is the best that the car has shown since it hes been on the Long Island course. The car has been thoroughly overhauled since its accident immediately preceding the climination race, and Walter White has been driving it over the twenty-eight-mile course every morning for over a week, averaging from 30 to 33 minutes.

Mr. White says hs fully expects to show much faster epeed before the big race comes off. Special arrangements have been made to catch the time accuratsly and the result has given considerable encouragement to the American contingent, who are anxiously hoping that one of the five American cars will finish close among the leaders in the 283-mile race.

GERMAN AUTO OUT OF RACE.

Bowden's Car May Take Place of Dinsmore's in Vanderbilt Contest.

Clarence Grey Dinsmore's Mercedes machine will not compete in the Vanderbilt Cup race, and efforts are being mada to secure the Flying Dutchman II., owned by H. L. Bowden, to fill ths vacancy thus caused in the German team. Mr. Dinsmore's car was to have been driven by Werner, but it has been impossible to complete it in time for shipment to race on Oct. 14. Mr. Bowden's car is a ninety horse power Mercedes, and if plans can be arranged to enter it in the race it will be driven by Charles Basle.

A telegram hes been sent to Mr. Bowden, who lives near Boston, asking him to communicate with Chairman Morrell of the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association regarding the matter. The Flying Dutchman II. is in good racing condition, as Mr. Bowden brought it to Long Island during the elimination contest. The machine hes shown fast speed, although all the other Mercedes cars are of 120 horse power. If it is impossible to enter Mr. Bowden's car, the German team will be reduced to four competitors, and there will be nineteen starters instead of twenty.

SWEET MARIE'S FAST MILE.

READVILLE, Mass., Oct. 4.—With the exception of a light breeze that blew down the stretch et the last quarter, conditions at the Readville track to-dey were perfect for record time, and although Sweet Marie trotted a mile in 2:04¼, Audubon Boy could do no better than 2:03¼ in his endeavor to beat his previous pacing record of 1:59¼. Sweet Marie's performance to-day was the fastest mile trotted in public this season. Major Delmar trotted in 2:04, but as no admission fee was charged ths record could not stand as a trial.

Sweet Marie went off to a good start, and passed the quarter in 0:31½. Keeping up her gait, she completed half the distance in 1:02. The third quarter was a fest one, the watches registering 0:30¾, and she came down the stretch with a good burst of speed, passing the wire in 2:04¼. The middle half of the mile was trotted with the wind in 1:01½. The performance was without the aid of a running horse.

Audubon Boy made a break after covering the first half mile of his initial attempt in one minute flat. An hour later he triad again, making the fractional parts of the mile in 0:31¼, 1:01, 1:31¼, 2:03¼. The only reason assigned for the pacer's poor showing was that he was not in the best physical condition. The pacemaking was wellnight perfect, a runner going at his wheel to the half, where another runner was in waiting, and the two joined in an endeavor to encourage Audubon Boy to the wire. The horse was driven out at the finish.

NEW RECORD FOR TROTTING.

Norman B. Wins Fastest Four-Heat Race at Lexington.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 4.—Some sensational trotting was seen at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' meeting to-day when Lightsome, a rank outsider, won the two-year-old division of the rich Kentucky Futurity in almost record time, and Norman B. captured the 2:06 trot in the fastest four-heat race on record. In the Futurity Ed Custer, the favorite, selling in the pools at $100 against $65 for the field, finished outside the money, being last in the second heat. Lightsome, which was driven by her owner, K. Dodge, won in straight heats. McCoy, driver of Lydidite in the second heat of the 2:12 pace, was suspended for one year for pulling his horse. Summaries:

INTERCOLLEGIATE TENNIS.

Dewhurst and Register Win Close Match on Merion Cricket Club Courts.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The most interesting contest to-day in the intercollegiate lawn tennis championship tourney on the Merion Cricket Club courts was the match in doubles between Dewhurst and Register, University of Pennsylvania, and Behr and Spaulding of Yale. Dewhurst and Register won after repeated rallies and play remarkable for its closeness. Le Roy of Columbia, the present intercollegiate champion in singles, did not enter this year, and Dewhurst will play Behr to-morrow for the title. In the finals for doubles Dewhurst and Register will play Wells and Field, Yale, for the championship. Summary:

Singles, Semi-Finals.—Behr, Yale, defeated Whitman, Harvard, 6—3, 6—3; Dewhurst, Pennsylvania, defeated Sulloway, Harvard, 6—0, 6—3.

Doubles.—Dewhurst and Register, Pennsylvania, defeated Behr and Spaulding, Yale, 6—4, 6—3; Wells and Field, Yale, defeated Rendall and Thompson, Princeton, 6—4, 6—1.

HARD FOOTBALL PLAY RESULTS IN ACCIDENTS

Post, Columbia End, Has Arm Broken in Seton Hall Match.

PENN IS SCORED AGAINST

The early stages of the football season matches, which later bring about the perfect, machine-like eleven, was continued yesterday by the big and little universities and colleges. There were no reversals of form shown in the results, although in some instances the coaches changed whole teams from end to end before the contests were completed. None of the big fellows were scored against, with the exception of Pennsylvania, as the Gettysburg Collegians held their opponents close, the final score being 16 to 6. Yale's light line experienced its first test in what was the opening game of their season, and the players acquitted themselves well against the heavyweights of Wesleyan to the score of 27 to 0.

Although Harvard defeated Bowdoin by a small score the wearers of the Crimson displayed some ragged work and fumbled at critical times. Thsre was a lack of spirit about the Columbia-Seton Hall match upon the side of the Morningside collegians. They won principally by pushing lighter players about the field, and in doing so broke the ribs of one and the arm of one of their own best men. The Indians again topped all of the other teams in the scoring, and during the game they practically put three different elevens in the field. Before the redskins the Susquehanna team was as paper, the Indians' final score being 47 to 0. Dartmouth, the expected new member of ths big collegiate football fraternity, rolled up a small score by good playing against the University of Vermont.

Columbia, 21; Seton Hall, 0.
Yale, 27; Wesleyan, 0.
Harvard, 16; Bowdoin, 0.
Cornell, 28; Hobart, 0.
Pennsylvania, 16; Gettysburg College, 6.
Indians, 47; Susquehanna, 0.
Dartmouth, 12; University of Vermont, 0.

COLUMBIA'S ELEVEN SLOW.

Defeats Seton Hall, However, by 21 to 0—Two Players Injured.

By sheer weight on the line, which in the plunges resulted in the breaking of bones and serious injury of two players, the Columbia football eleven yesterday defeated the team of Seton Hall by the score of 21 to 0. All of the real flavor of excitement which the game possessed was the result of plays on the part of the youngsters from New Jersey, and in this category were two as pretty runs as has ever been made upon the gridiron of American League Park, where the two teams met. The Columbia men were slow both on the line and in the back field, and they confined their efforts to pushing the Seton Hall boys over the field, for the latter were good enough not to give them an opportunity for a run.

At the beginning of the game the Seton Hall boys showed their mettle by stealing the ball on their fifteen-yard line after Columbia had pushed them the length of the field. Then there was a double pass, and, despite the fact that it was badly fumbled, Barrett made a run of thirty-five yards straight through the Columbia line before he was downed. The line-plunging tactics were resumed after this, when Columbia got the ball in her possession, and it led to two serious accidents. Clark, left tackle of Seton Hall, had two of his ribs broken and was replaced by Mullins, while Henry Post, at Columbia's left end, broke some of the small bones of his right arm. Although his arm pained him, Post did not realize that he had been seriously hurt, and it was not until the game was over and his arm was carefully examined that the true state of his injury was ascertained. Post is rated as one of the best ends of the team.

The first half was ended with Willard scoring a touch-down for Columbia. Echeverria failing to kick the goal. H. McDonald made a fifty-yard run in which he hurdled Donovan, who was not anxious to stop him, and this was the feature of the second half. Sheridan also made a twenty-five-yard run, but Seton Hall could not get the ball over the line. Columbia made three touch-downs and one goal in this half. The line-up:

YALE, 27; WESLEYAN, 0.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4.—Yale easily defeated Wesleyan in the first game of the season here to-day, by a score of 27 to 0. There was much fumbling and poor interference in running. The Yale line, though, stood up to a man, and had no difficulty in holding Wesleyan's heavy forwards on nearly every play. Erwin and Tripp at guard tore big holes repeatedly. Forbes, who captained Wesleyan two years ago, opened up big breaches and interfered well, and Flanders handled Doe with ease. The first half saw Yale make steady but short advances on mass plays with one touch-down only. In the second half Yale played spectacular football, the half backs and quarters romping almost at will through the Wesleyan line. Though the visitors put in fresh men, Yale swept the gridiron time and again. Stevenson opened with a sixty-five-yard run through a wide gap opened by Forbes's clever line playing. Flinn added fifteen through Flanders's position, Veeder took five more, and Stevenson fell across the line on a twenty-yard dash.

On the second kick-off Bigelow caught the ball, fumbled it, recaught it, and raced through the whole Wesleyan team behind Flanders in the sensational run of the game. He had covered ninety yards when little Van Surdam of Wesleyan eluded heavy Flanders and nailed Bigelow on the Wesleyan ten-yard line, when a touch-down looked certain. Veeder made it a touch-down in the second play by a pretty twenty-five-yard end run. The line-up:

HARVARD, 16; BOWDOIN, 0.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 4. — Harvard defeated Bowdoin 16 to 0 to-day in a game marred by fumbling, offside play, and holding. Bowdoin's line averaged only 160 pounds, and was unable to withstand the attacks of the Crimson backs, who would have scored oftener had it not been for constant punting and bad handling of the ball. Harvard's first score was by Hanley after short rushes from the middle of the field. In the next few minutes the ball changed hands several times, and the half ended with no more scoring. In the second half Harvard scored as the direct result of a bad pass by the Bowdoin quarter back over the full back's head. The third and last touch-down was made by Newhall on a quarter back run. The line-up:

Harvard, 16. Position. Bowdoin, 0.

PENNA., 16; GETTYSBURG, 6.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Ths Gettysburg College football team to-day crossed the University of Pennsylvania team's goal line, although Pennsylvania won by a score of 16 to 6. The game cost tbs university ths services of Garfield Weede, the brilliant left end, who in the second half was so violently tackled while attempting to circle right end that one of his legs wes broken. Previous to the accident Weede had kicked a goal from placement and made a touch-down. Pennsylvania's first touch-down was made by Scarlett, who fell on the ball when it rebounded from the goal post after a kick from the fisld. Capt. Seiber of Gettysburg in tbe second half made a 35-yard run through the centre and by steady gains Gettysburg succeedsd in pushing Selber over Pennsylvania's goal line. Ths line-up:

INDIANS, 47; SUSQUEHANNA, 0.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Oct. 4.—The Carlisle Indian football eleven to-day defeated the Susquehanna University eleven, which boasted a new wingshift play of strength, by a score of 47 to 0. The Indians rolled up 35 points and the second half saw twenty-two redskins substituted. Archie Libby, as quarter back, in the second half speeded the braves faster than they have gone this year. Archiquette, Bowen, Gardnsr, Dubois, and Dillon starred for Carlisle in spectacular work. The line-up:

Indians, 47. Position. Susquehanna, 0.
Wahoo, Jude,

COMMERCE, 28; MOUNT VERNON, 0.

Pfletchinger at right half back and Ware at right tackle were the bright spots yesterday in the game in which the team of the High School of Commerce defeated the Mount Vernon High School by the score of 28 to 0. The game was played upon Ontario Field, 149th Street and Eighth Avenue, before nearly 1,000 schoolboy enthusiasts. The High School of Commerce team bucked the line of the opposing eleven for gains throughout both halves. The line-up:

H. S. of C., 28. Position. Mount Vernon, 0.

CORNELL, 28; HOBART, 0.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Cornell easily defeated Hobart to-day, 28 to 0. Coach Warner saved most of his 'Varsity men for Saturday's game with Bucknell, but even the Cornell substitutes scored easily. Waldera's punting for Cornell attracted favorable comment. Earle, half back, played a brilliant game for the Ithacans, making several long runs. The line-up:

Cornell, 28. Position. Hobart, 0.

DARTMOUTH, 12; VERMONT, 0.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 4.—Dartmouth won a poorly played game of football from the University of Vermont to-day, 12 to 0. Dartmouth's showing was discouraging to its supporters, the men fumbling the ball frequently. In the second period the ball changed hands eight times on fumbles by both teams. Capt. Main and Glaze did the best work for the home team, while Capt. Moclair excelled for Vermont, making several long gains on quarterback runs. The visitors used several trick plays, and twice threatened Dartmouth's goal.

Scores of Other Games.

Football Notes.

No football game was played at Princeton yesterday, but the scrub and 'Varsity had a short, hard contest on University Field. The coaches devoted most of their attention to the backs and ends. Mass plays were eliminated from the practice and straight line bucking, trick plays, and kicking were the order of the day. Bard, Simons, and Otis made up the 'Varsity first string of backs and Bard's playing was the best of the three.

West Point's eleven practiced against the scrub yesterday and a special formation similar to the famous "tackles back" was used with good effect. Beavers and Carey both got through for long runs. Capt. Gillespie kept the men going lightning fast all the way through the practice, and when the day's work was done the team was making a perfect showing.

The regular eleven of New York University held a formidable scrub team down to no score and made two touch-downs themselves yesterday on Ohio Field. Left Half Back Swartz made both of the breaks through the opposing line that landed the ball behind the posts. F. McDowell, who held the position of right half back two years ago, returned to college yesterday and played quarter back for the scrubs. He is expected to play his old position Saturday in the match with Lehigh.

New Yorks Welcomed Home.

The champion New Yorks returned from their last Western trip at 6 o'clock last evening and were welcomed by a large crowd at the Grand Central Station. Several of the team arrived in town on Tuesday, but a majority of the team, who for the second consecutive season won the National League pennant, was in the party, headed by Secretary Knowles and Manager McGraw. Mathewson received the biggest sort of an ovation and everybody seemed to want to shake the ex-Bucknell student's hands.

To-day the champions will begin a series of five games, including two that were postponed, at the Polo Grounds, and will present their full strength, with Mathewson and McGinnity probably in the box, for the two games.

ZUNA, HEAVILY BACKED, WON THE HURRICANA

Hamburg Filly, Ridden Out, Captured the Selling Stakes.

THREE POST CHOICES FIRST

Racing at Belmont Park dropped back to the ordinary yesterday, although in one event a new mark was made at six furlongs around the turn. Klmesha, winner of the mile condition race, eased up at the end, finished in 1:38 3-5, within one-fifth of a second of the record made by Grapple the day before. Good-sized fields ran in all the races, but the programme was a rather modest one, though there were two stake fixtures—the Hurricana, a selling sprint for two-year-olds, and the Bronx Handicap, for all ages.

For the Hurricana, twelve of the horses named on the card went to the post, with Benevolent always the favorite. The best-backed horse in the race, however, was H. B. Duryea's Hamburg filly Zuna, which was one of several "good things" that cropped up in the course of the afternoon's racing. Zuna, with the successful light-weight jockey, Knapp, riding, was backed from 10 to 1 down to a starting price of 5 to 1, and justified the confidence of her stable by winning in a smart finish by a half length from Nostrome. Good Luck, a long-chance horse, that also was backed, broke first, but was passed in the first strides by Nostrome, which made the pace, followed by Zuna into the last furlong. There Zuna moved to the front and won, hustled out, from the pacemaker, with all the others beaten off.

Maxnar, backed from 10 to 1 down to 7 to 1, made all the running in the last race, and won cleverly from the favorite, Tyron, which closed from back in the crowd, but never got dangerously near the winner. In the opening race, Jacquin, the favorite, heavily backed by D. C. Johnson and his stable connections, always was back in the crowd. Rusk and Handzarra raced out in the lead nearly all the distance, with Handzarra the winner in a sharply fought finish, a head before Rusk. In the remaining three races the post favorites were successful, Roseben of the number, winning about the most impressive victory of the day in the Bronx Highweight Handicap, at six furlongs.

Roseben once more carried the 140 pounds which has been his impost so frequently before that backers accepted it as the most natural thing in the world, and backed the weight-carrying hero of the season with the utmost confidence, Roseben starting at a price only a shade better than even money in a field of nine, though he was conceding fifty pounds in actual weight to the lightest weighted horse that opposed him. The race was remarkable only for the style in which Roseben won, for the big sprinter broke first, and going on with the track, galloped in front all the way and won with ease, far off before Ancestor, with ninety pounds, after running the six furlongs around the turn in 1:12, a record for the main course.

In the one-mile condition race, Klamesha always was the favorite, though Pretension was backed down to a price only a fraction of a point longer than that against Klamesha, which made all the pace and won rather easily. In a sprint for fillies two years old, Brookdale Nymph, from the Harry Payne Whitney stable, started at odds on, and after leading all the way, won from the well-backed second choice, Lotus. Notes of the Thoroughbreds.

Hello, a starter in the closing race at Belmont Park yesterday, broke down so badly that he was pulled up, and did not finish.

Jockeys L. Smith and Lyne yesterday were suspended for the remainder of the Belmont Park meeting by Starter Cassidy for misbehavior at the post in the first race.

The Speedway Stable's smart two-year-old filly Speedway, by Dieudonne-Speedy, who was injured in a race at Gravesend, yesterday was destroyed, as it was found that she could not be saved.

The racing stable of John Sanford, after a season of extraordinary misfortune, has closed its campaign for the year, and the horses to-day will be shipped back to the Sanford farm at Amsterdam, N. Y. All the best horses of the establishment had been retired, the number including Mohawk II., regarded as one of the best two-year-olds of the season, he having met with an accident at Saratoga.

August Belmont's great mare Beldame, the champion filly of last season and winner of the Suburban Handicap in the Spring of the present year, has been shipped to Mr. Belmont's nursery farm in Kentucky to be retired to the stud. It has not been decided yet what horse the mare will be mated with, but it is probable that Mr. Belmont will send her to Meddler, that horse having been selected for her in a popular voting contest conducted by a Kentucky turf paper, and having met with Mr. Belmont's approval at the time.

Morristown Horse Show Opens To-day.

The eighth annual horse show of the Morristown (N. J.) Field Club will open to-day and continue until the end of the week. Over 800 entries have been received and the display of horses and equipages will be exceptionally good. The New York exhibitors in the harness class are Mrs. John Gerken, Mrs. A. O. Van Heusen, Charles R. Scott, and David J. Gould. Those from Morristown will include H. McK. Twombly, Thomas Dickson, J. W. Ogden, A. L. Revere, Granville M. White, B. Ogden Chisolm, Miss Eva Schley, W. P. Bliss, and C. Ledyard Blair.

A feature of the programme on the last day will be a race for four-in-hand road teams. Fourteen events are down for decision to-day, including the harness classes, which have a big entry list. The judges will be R. A. Fairburn, roadsters; H. K. Bloodgood, J. F. Carlisle, and J. W. Barnum, harness horses, and W. S. Elliott and R. L. Maclay, saddle horses and jumpers.

AMATEURS' GOOD BILLIARDS.

Poggenburg Wins with High Average in Handicap Tournament.

The ex-National billiard champion, J. Ferdinand Poggenburg, found his stroke yesterday in the eighteen-inch balk line billiard tournament at Maurice Daly's Academy. Poggenburg defeated Dr. Walter G. Douglas by 300 points to 97, and in making his string he gathered runs of 73 and 60. His average was 12. Harry A. Coleman defeated William Gershel in the evening game by 240 points. The scores:

J. F. Poggenburg, (300)—5 0 0 0 0 4 8 8 0 0 34 2 13 15 00 1 0 3 14 32 4 0 23 1 73. Total, 300 points; average, 12; high runs, 73, 60, and 32.

THE COMPETITION OF JAPAN.

From opposite sides of the globe come warnings of the Japanese competition we must meet in the future struggle for industrial and commercial existence in the Pacific. Congressman WILLIAM S. MCNARY is home from Europe and confirms the report that the German Emperor spoke to the American Congressmen who recently visited him upon the subject of Japanese commercial ambition. Mr. MCNARY gives this report of the Kaiser's discourse:

> The Kaiser did say that it ought now to be apparent to everybody—and this, he said, had been his own position both before and during the war—that with the triumph of Japan that nation would enter upon a period of aggressive competition with Western nations for the markets of the world.
>
> Japan, he pointed out, was so near to China that the commercial interests of Japan and China would be practically identical. The United States, being between Japan and Europe, would feel the competition of Japan much sooner than Europe, and hence it was clearly, in the Kaiser's view, to the interest of the United States to join with the nations of Europe in a commercial alliance to protect their markets from the competition of Japan and China.

It is a manifest misrepresentation to speak of this as a warning against the "yellow peril." It will be remembered that the Japanese Minister in Berlin was instructed to inquire at the Foreign Office whether the report was true that the Emperor had spoken unpleasantly of the Japanese. With the exception of the reference to a "commercial alliance" to shut out the competition of China and Japan the Emperor's observations quoted by Mr. MCNARY are throughout businesslike and such as the head of any nation might make without giving cause of offense to the Japanese. But it is plain that the Kaiser is much alive to the fact that the Western nations must be alert if they are to hold their own in Asiatic markets against the Japanese and the Chinese, newly awakened to a sense of their commercial and industrial capacity by the outcome of the war.

The other warning comes from Hawaii. We have for some time had a Japanese immigration question in our interesting island in the middle of the Pacific and of late it has shown a tendency to become a burning one. When Japanese laborers have once been received in territory belonging to the United States there is no convenient way of preventing their migrating to other territory of the United States—from Hawaii to San Francisco, for instance. The status of the Japanese in this country in respect to naturalization and other rights and privileges remains to be accurately defined. There is, we believe, a disposition to defer the raising of the question. So in Hawaii Japanese laborers have been permitted to land in great numbers on a general understanding that they were not to prolong their wanderings to the United States. It is now said that there are so many of them in Hawaii that the islands have become an undesirable place of residence for white Americans. The economic pressure of the Japanese working for small wages and living with incredible cheapness is forcing out the white race. On the other hand the cheap labor of Asia is undoubtedly required for the profitable development of the natural resources of Hawaii.

This Hawaiian experience is not without its teaching in respect to the questions raised by the Kaiser's remarks to the Congressmen. We know now, and, of course, we knew before, that the American laborer cannot hold his own in competition with the Japanese laborer in those occupations which are equally open to both. The lowness of the wage more than makes up for inferior productive capacity. But how much information have our manufacturers, commission houses, and exporters as to their ability to get and hold a footing in the markets of Eastern Asia? Are they confident that they can sell cotton piece goods in Manchuria against Japanese competition after the Japanese have begun the serious development of their industrial abilities? These things are of vital importance to our commercial success and advancement in the Orient. Our Consular reports have from time to time given valuable information. British and Japanese trade reports have also contributed much to our stock of knowledge. THE TIMES has done something to put the facts before American manufacturers and exporters. Undoubtedly the Treasury Department will cause inquiries to be made into trade conditions in these great Eastern markets, as it has done in the past, and will from time to time in Commerce and Navigation reports put the facts before whomsoever it may concern in this country. If it shall prove that the Japanese can undersell us in the Chinese market, where we had made such a hopeful beginning in export trade—they will be perfectly within their right, and their success would be in no wise a manifestation of the "yellow peril." But we must not let the Japanese crowd us out without a struggle to retain our footing. A thorough inquiry into the present condition and future prospects of manufacturing in Japan would yield valuable results. If the Japanese are going to be as efficient in the factory as they have shown themselves to be in fighting, they will run us a hard race. We ought to know more about them.

QUARANTINE AND LOCAL SANITATION.

In no section of the United States is the principle of home rule as fomulated in the doctrine of State rights so firmly established as in the South. Southern communities are tenacious of their local police powers. This being so, some surprise may be felt at the unanimity of the sentiment now prevalent throughout the portion of the South which has experienced or feared the yellow fever in epidemic form in favor of the surrender of their quarantine system to the Federal Government and of turning over the campaign against the mosquito to the Marine Hospital Service.

But it is not surprising at all. The experience of the past three months has very clearly shown that it is impossible to leave to such bodies as local Boards of Health the determination of the large problems of commerce and intercommunication between States which arise when such an emergency as that now existing creates a popular panic. "The shotgun quarantine" is a system so barbarous as to have become intolerable. That a citizen going about his business in a perfectly proper way may be arrested arbitrarily, thrust into a detention camp without conveniences or a commissariat, tied to a tree if suspected of a desire to escape, and confronted by the muzzle of a shotgun in the hands of a farmer or village idler if he steps out of bounds, establishes conditions to which the more intelligent communities having important relations with other parts of the country cannot remain willingly subject. The system now existing is impossible. If, therefore, Congress shall transfer the control of the whole question of quarantine, external and internal, to one of the Federal departments with supreme powers for the protection of inter-State commerce and the rights of citizens, those who denounce such action as an invasion of the rights and powers of the States may remember that it was not taken until it became necessary, by reason of the fact that State and local powers were abused.

There will remain, however, larger functions for the local Boards of Health than they are likely to discharge with the highest intelligence. The acceptance of the theory that the mosquito is the agent of inoculating human beings with the contagium of yellow fever marks a step in the direction of progress upon which the Southern communities are to be congratulated. But this suggests considerations which should not be lost sight of under the impression that the Federal Government may hereafter take the entire responsibility for the public health in the States most exposed to epidemics of yellow fever. Not all who are stung by the Stegomyia fasciata suffer ill-effects therefrom. If this were not true the South would be depopulated. Millions of these insects have access to infected persons, and they probably sting millions of people who never know it. There must be a reason for this. The analogies of experience would warrant the belief that those succumb most quickly, or at least most readily, who are in a condition favorable to the development of the germs thus implanted. The conclusion from this would seem to be that in a community where the general health is good the liability to infection is lessened, and that since the elimination of the mosquito as a factor in the problem is not possible in a long time, if ever, notwithstanding the fact that the danger from this cause may be minimized, the aim of local sanitation should be to correct as completely as possible every cause tending to prepare a community for an epidemic of any kind through the lowering of the standard of general health and the weakening of the powers of resistance. If this is done the co-operation of the Federal and local authorities will be effective beyond the powers of either working alone.

COLUMBIA DORMITORIES.

The opening this week of two extensive residences for students, in connection with the work of Columbia University, is a subject of great collegiate and considerable municipal interest. It is a very old complaint that a youngster did not acquire at Columbia the "college spirit" to which it is somehow assumed that he has a right, and which it is somehow assumed would do him a great deal of unspecified good. We are not contesting either of these assumptions when we say that there is no evidence in behalf of either. No doubt the undergraduate associations of a boy who goes from home to college are more with the college than with the home. But the assumption that, from 18 to 22, say, it is better for a boy to have college associations than home associations is an assumption disputable, and, if not unverifiable, at least unverified.

It is true that the great universities of the world have been universities "in partibus," so to speak, where an internecine feud prevailed between "town" and "gown." Paris, to be sure, was one of the earliest and most famous. But London has never managed to compete with Oxford and Cambridge, nor, until the resources of the Deutsches Reich were employed in its behalf, did Berlin begin to rival Heidelberg and Göttingen. Harvard, on occasion, can defy Cambridge, and the constabulary of New Haven shrinks from tackling all Yale, as much more does that of Princeton from facing an angered and unanimous university. But the metropolitan police has never been deterred, excepting by philopaedic considerations, from suppressing Columbian excesses.

Doubtless the five millions and a half, more or less, of Greater New York ought to maintain a first-class college, and even a first-class university. Since the sincere and persistent attempt, begun under President LOW, and continued under President BUTLER, was undertaken to convert Columbia College, not even of the first rank as a college, to a university of the first rank, as a university, the question of "college feeling" has become more urgent. But, as part of that attempt, has come the admirable and impartial opening by Columbia to all institutions of its prizes on the same basis as that of the graduates of Columbia College. The natural expectation is that the winners from outside of the Columbia scholarships and fellowships, and not the residents of this great municipality, will chiefly occupy the new dormitories. But these prize winners will by hypothesis be mature students, and more or less independent investigators, with whom the police or the "town" will have nothing to do. It is difficult to make it out that the opening of these dormitories will do anything at all for the "college spirit" in Columbia.

THE SERVANT GIRL PROBLEM.

The servant girl problem, it seems, we have always with us. But the present phase of it is acute. The tendency of people fairly well to do to betake themselves from private houses to apartments and from apartments to "family hotels" is accounted for, by those who are interested in accounting for it, by the increasing difficulty of getting domestic service satisfactorily done at reasonable rates. The complaint is chronic. But we repeat that the stage that has been reached is acute. It appears, from the reports of agents and housekeepers, that none but foreigners will take domestic service. Even so, with the enormous and unprecedented immigration, and the supply of this variety of unskilled labor so increasingly outrunning the demand, the wages of this variety of unskilled labor steadily rise.

It seems they have now reached the point of an economical solecism. Newly landed servant girls, who are free to admit that they know nothing, require something like $20 a month to be taught something. It is not a question of the competent specialist in domestic service, but a question of the rawest of raw material. Twenty dollars a month and found! Meanwhile Uncle Sam is paying "able-bodied men of good moral character" but $13 a month and found, to serve him in his army. Meanwhile American girls of much better education and general adaptability than these greenhorns and incompetents are getting as shopgirls just about the same $20 a month and not found. On the contrary, they are put to a daily outlay of 10 cents at least for carfare, they have to dress more expensively than the general houseworker, and they have to find themselves the board and lodging which are found for the general houseworker who knows nothing of her business. A demand for $20 a month and found is a demand for a chance, on the part of a perfectly unskilled person, for the opportunity of saving, at the rate of $180 a year from the very beginning of her apprenticeship. The American boy who has spent ten years in educating himself, at school and at college, has not, on the average, the chance to make such a saving from the beginning of his period of independent support.

On the face of it the position of the servant girl is a monstrous and ridiculous anomaly. It seems to show that, on the average, the female housekeeper and employer is absurdly incompetent to make a bargain. However that may be, the fact that this country, and especially this city, is the very Paradise and Tom Tiddler's ground of imported and unskilled female "help" is not to be gainsaid.

THE STATE OF "SEQUOYAH."

An interesting campaign is in progress in the Indian Territory. The five civilized tribes of Indians, comprising about 60,000 individuals, acting independently of the nearly 600,000 other inhabitants of the Territory, appointed delegates who met in convention at Muskogee and drafted a Constitution which provides among other things for prohibition and Statehood without Oklahoma, under the name of Sequoyah. At the election, which will be held in November, for the adoption of this Constitution, all the citizens of the Territory have been invited to vote, regardless of race or color. The arrangements for taking and counting the ballot are practically within the hands of the Indians and are as crude as the machinery of the old style mob primaries.

In these circumstances it would not be surprising if the election returns in November should show a large majority in favor of the adoption of the Constitution. The election will be open to suspicion, however, and the results will not generally be looked upon as expressing the prevailing sentiment in the Territory either upon prohibition, the Statehood question, or upon any other disputable provision of the Constitution. But although the coming election may be irregular it cannot possibly be any more so than all former attempts which have been made to place on record the will and opinion of the people of the "Twin Territories" upon the issues that most vitally concern them. Many conventions have been held and resolutions adopted; committees and delegations have been selected and sent to Washington, but in no instance have they represented more than individual groups of opinion. "Separate" Statehood advocates have gotten together and voiced their sentiments. "Single" Statehood advocates have done likewise, but never have the citizens as a whole held a real constitutional convention nor taken any other regular steps to show that they are deeply interested in the matter. The territorial press and politicians declare that Oklahoma and Indian Territory are in need of Statehood, but they do not seem to have any clear idea or positive and unalterable conviction as to the form or time in which it should be granted.

Some want one State, some want two States, some want Statehood for Oklahoma with the Indian Territory attached when tribal governments are abolished there and lands are allotted and subject to taxation. Others want Statehood with organic regulations on prohibition, woman suffrage, the negro vote, trusts, corporations, and other problems agitated by radical Southern and Western reformers; while there is hardly a public man prominent or influential in the Territories that has not changed opinion on these points time and time again.

It is the practice of the "patriots" of the Territories to blame and berate the East for preventing them from having Statehood. Orators and editors persist in saying that the only reason why the Territories are kept out of the Union is that the Eastern States do not want any more Western Senators and Representatives. This may or may not be true; but it might be well for those who are abusing the East to consider whether the lack of interest, confusion of mind, and continual changing of opinion which we have noted above are not causes which have contributed to make Congress unwilling to pass any Statehood bill.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Too Terrible to be Terrifying.

Gen. JOSE MIGUEL GOMEZ, a Cuban of substance and repute, draws the political picture of his island in the darkest of colore, but it is considerably harder to believe in the accuracy of his portrayal than in the sincerity of his belief in that accuracy. The General, legitimately ambitious to succeed President PALMA in office, finds himself confronted by the certainty of defeat. This is a situation well calculated to make any except the most cool-headed and clear-eyed of statesmen take a gloomy view of the conditions that create it. We know what it does in the case of our own aspirants for office, and that its effect should be as much greater on a Spanish-American, as he is more emotional than the repreeentative citizens of the United States is a matter of couree. It is also a matter that should lead to a particularly careful examination of the Spanish-American's statements in describing the doings of his antagonists. Thus examined, Gen. GOMEZ's description of the state of things in Cuba loses much of its horror in a realization that it simply cannot be all true. For instance, it is imposeible to believe that even in Cuba 20 per cent. of the voters have the remainder so terrorized and restrained that they not only cannot make their voices heard in the conduct of public affairs, but are not even trying to do so. Yet Gen. GOMEZ says that 80 per cent. of the enfranchieed islanders are members of his own party, the Liberal, and would elect him President if they had a chance. If that is so, the Liberals are a pretty poor lot—so poor that their right to take part in a republican form of government is much more than questionable. To excuse this amazing inaction of a great majority, the General says that the inevitable consequencs of armed revolt would be intervention by the United States. Worse fates could be imagined, and intervention would certainly be better for the Liberals, if their case is anything like as good as Gen. GOMEZ thinks, than a longer endurance of the ills from which he says they are suffering. There is no reason at all to suppose that intervention would be anything more than a forced arbitration between the contending parties, and if the Liberals are so very right and the Moderates so very wrong, it is the Moderates, not the Liberals, who should fear the judgment of their big neighbor. The United States no more wants Cuba now than it did seven years ago, and the assumption with which the General's whole argument stands or falls—the assumption that intervention means the necessary and immediate end of Cuban independence—is no more supported by existing facts than by recent history. President PALMA lived among us for a good many years, and we find the same difficulty in recognizing him as a Demon Dictator that a visitor to Cuba had not long ago in believing an eminent resident of Havana who solemnly told him that President PALMA could not read and write.

Advice on Baths and Dress.

In her address opening the new college year at Bryn Mawr, this week, President THOMAS first told her gentle charges that the habit of reading good books was a valuable one to acquire. This is the sort of thing that all college Presidents are obliged to say at stated intervals, just as a guarantee of good faith, perhaps, and nobody thinks of complaining about it, but it is evident enough from the reports of President THOMAS's that she really woke up—and woke up her hearers—when she turned to topics of a different nature. Among those which she discussed with somewhat surprising vivacity and emphasis was the necessity and utility of—the daily bath! She is reported by The Philadelphia Ledger as saying: "In my own generation, and, of course, in your generation, a great gulf that no democracy or Socialistic theories could bridge is fixed between men and women that take a bath every day and men and women that do not. Personally, I know of no greater privation than to be compelled to do without one. Here in college you have in our newer dormitories one bathroom to every four and one-half students and an exhaustless supply of hot water every hour of the twenty-four. I assure you that there is no bill we pay with greater satisfaction than the water bill. Personally, I should almost as soon think of having for an intimate friend a woman who could not read or write as a woman who did not bathe daily. It is the difference of which bathing is a symbol that makes marriage between people of different social habits so disastrous." Dress also received attention in the Presidential address—thus: "We gain in influsnce and power over our fellows if we pay attention even to such details as our dress and appearance. Even the lowest savages know this. He sticks a few feathers in his hair and she puts on a few beads when they appear in public. It is, of course, carried much too far among the civilized women, and above all among American women, but I assure you that a well-groomed woman, scrupulously clean and well cared for, who pays attention to her hands and hair and clothes, enjoys double the success and influence that is experienced by a slovenly woman. This difference can exist between two women who wear clothes of precisely the same cost, just as we imagine that it could exist between two savage women who wore no clothes at all." That last is a bit mysterious, but no doubt it's sound doctrine.

Discussing a Great Problem.

It is a little discouraging, at least at first thought, to learn from the cable dispatches that a day's proceedings of the great Tuberculosis Congress in Paris could be summed up by the statements that the most important causes of this malady are alcoholism, overwork and overcrowding, and that the remedial measures to be emphasized are healthy dwellings, good food, and cleanliness. Apparently the summarizing was not by an expert, for the "causes" mentioned could much more accurately be described as "opportunities," while of the remedies, one begs the whole question, the second is practically unattainable by a majority of the victims, and the third is much more of a protection than a cure. This is not the sort of talk that is going to conquer consumption, despite the large element of truth which it contains, and it is safe to assume that the real work of the congress will be done, if not along other lines, yet at different points on these lines. Perfect sanitation and perfect living are certainly desirable as ideals, but to discuss them as if they were at hand, or even in sight, is little better than a waste of immensely valuable time.

BOSTON GETS CRITICAL.

Finds Fault with New York Mail Service and Does Worse Itself.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A couple of days ago there was published in one of the papers here an overdrawn attack upon the New York Post Office, the purpose being to show that the administration of the Post Office here is superior to that in New York. In substance, it was this: A Boston man removed to New York a few weeks ago and instructed the Postmaster here to forward all his mail to New York, giving the Post Office box number as the address. Some of his mail not being delivered promptly, because it was addressed merely to his name, New York City, he concluded to make a test. He addressed two postal cards, one to "Mr. ——, New York City, N. Y.," and the other to "Mr. ——, P. O. Box ——, Boston, Mass." The Postmaster here, having his correct box number in New York City posted conspicuously over his old box, promptly forwarded it to the box number in New York. The other postal was handed to the directory readers at the New York Post Office, and they, not finding his name in the directory—it not being there—marked it, "Not in directory." It finally reached the person addressed the following day after the one forwarded from Boston, correctly addressed, was received by him.

Now, as to my own experiencs: Six months ago I subscribed for your paper to be delivered to my home address here for one month. It should have been delivered at one of the deliveries before noon, but I rarely got it in the morning, and not very often before the 5 P. M. delivery; and the Sunday paper I could not get till Monday morning, usually at the 11 A. M. delivery. This result was that I did not resubscribe, and I have since bought it of ths newsman down town before 9 A. M.

NEW YORK MAN IN BOSTON.
Boston, Oct. 2, 1905.

A Brother to "Lily."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was exceedingly interested by your article this morning concerning "Lily," as some time ago an almost identical incident was related to me by a young man who had been the principal in the affair. His, however, had not taken the trouble to bruise himself, merely looked injured, and thereby secured $50 from a rather hurried road agent.

The young man seemed, also, to regard the incident as a huge joke, and an instance of unusual smartness and presence of mind on his part; and when I expressed my disgust at the lack of common honesty shown, he looked superior, and muttered something about feminine high-flown notions and want of humor.

Further comment would be superfluous.

A LOVER OF HONESTY,
(though a woman.)

New York, Oct. 3, 1905.

Thumping.

From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mr. Kipling is still alive and uses language vigorously. He says he goes down to the cape in Africa every year to see the first chapter of Genesis alive, the world in creation, a civilization which is being made out of fragments. When the operation is further advanced Mr. Kipling will put it in a poem marked by his thumping power of expression.

Tipped with Malice.

From The Springfield Republican.

It is reported from Washington that Congress at the coming session will be asked to consider a bill appropriating money to buy a private car for the use of the President, and pay for such transportation as he wants. Better this, certainly, than the use of the railroads gratuitously, but will the appropriated money also be available for campaigning swings around the circle?

What He Seems.

From The Philadelphia Press.

"Who is that youngster?" asked the visitor to the sanctum.

"That," replied the editor, "is just the new office boy."

"O! His face seemed familiar—"

"Perhaps it is, but his manner is more so."

On Purpose, Too.

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Queer world, isn't it?"

"Why so?"

"When English fishermen are shot at it becomes a matter of international concern; when American fishermen are shot at everybody laughs."

NO CARDS FOR DALZELL.

Standpatter Says Republicans Hold a Full House in the Tariff Game.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—"Whoever heard of a man drawing when he had a full hand?" said Representative John Dalzell, the leading standpatter of the Ways and Means Committee, to-day when asked as to the prospect of tariff legislation this Winter.

"The whole situation in respect to the tariff is embraced in the idea that the country wants to let conditions remain as they are. The deficit is showing a tendency to disappear, but if there is a deficit, an increase in the revenue cannot possibly be made by lowering the tariff except that increase is based on the displacement of American goods by the goods from foreign countries.

"I have been criticised for my assertion that I had been unable to find in this country any important sentiment in favor of tariff revision. But I really have not been able to discover such a sentiment. Of course here and there are people who want it, but the aggregate of such sentiment cannot be deemed of any importance. What did the people vote for in the last election? They did not vote for Roosevelt nor for any particular policy, except so far as they voted for policies involved in their wish to let the country go on as it was going. That was the issue—let things alone."

Mr. Dalzell said he should favor removing the tariff between the United States and the Philippines. That, however, cannot come until Spain's ten years' right to equal trade privileges in the Philippines shall expire.

POLITICS AND THE BENCH.

No Excuse for Any Meddling with an Efficient Judge.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As far as I have been able to gather from the public press, no definite reason has been advanced why Justices Ingraham and Gildersleeve should not be renominated, aside from the puerile one in the case of the former, that he has incurred the displeasure of the present leader of the Democratic organization in this borough, because of his refusal some months ago to vote in favor of a person for Commissioner of Jurors whom Mr. Murphy desired should hold ths office. Certainly Mr. Murphy would be the last one to admit that a reason of this kind would be allowed to exert any influence with him in determining the desirability of renominating Justice Ingraham. As a matter of fact, there is no substantial argument to be urged why both Judges should not be permitted to retain the places on the bench which they have so long occupied.

If one may be permitted to read between the lines, however, ths consideration which seems to be weighing against them is political expediency. It apparently is felt that younger men on the bench would be of more service and benefit to the organization than the present incumbents. This revives, in its usual form, the vital question of the judiciary and its freedom from political influences. No greater opportunity has been presented in many years to reaffirm the principle that a lawyer, when once elevated to the bench, becomes free from the influences of active politics, and having demonstrated his worth and fitness as a judicial officer, he is entitled to continue his work as a Judge until the age limitation of the Constitution becomes applicable. It is trifling with the rights of litigants and with the members of the bar as well, to refuse to renominate Justice Ingraham and Justice Gildersleeve, who by their many years of service have proved both their capacity and their ability. Of what use is it to train men in the judicial side of the law, if, when the opportunity arises to continue their services, they are forcibly turned away and their places filled with new and untried men? Experience is an invaluable aid in the work of a Judge, and yet in ths present instance it seems to go for naught.

Ths situation as it exists now is one which ought to arouse an active public sentiment in favor of the retention in office of those two Judges. It is only in this way that the interest which the people of this city have in this question can be demonstrated and their wishes made known. HOWARD HASBROUCK.

An Englishman Makes Protest.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is a touch of the usual all-pervading American self-partiality in Mr. Landau's letter of to-day, in which he speaks of America "introducing Japan to civilization." I had fancied that Sir Rutherford Alcock's charming book on Japan had effected the first introduction some sixty years since. Then the several visits of high Japanese personages to the English Court and the adoption of English Court forms, usages, and dress; ths training of Togo and many Japanese officers in our naval schools, the building of the Japanese Navy (for the most part) in England, and now its alliance; many years of trading and commercial intercourse, &c. But we "live and learn."

PRESIDENT'S RATE BILL BROADER THAN LAST ONE

Mr. Townsend Confers with Mr. Roosevelt on New Measure.

NO LOOPHOLE THIS TIME

Michigan Congressman Enthusiastic Over the Administration's Attitude on Railroad Control.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The President and Representative Townsend of Michigan to-day had a conference on the Railroad Rate bill, which will be urged on Congress. The general outline of the bill was gone over, and it was decided to have another conference to-morrow afternoon before putting the measure aside as perfected.

Mr. Townsend is enthusiastic over the President's attitude on rate legislation.

"I found him," said he, "as strong as ever for rate regulation. He told me he was in no way responsible for the reports that his attitude was different from what it was last year. On the contrary, he said, everybody would know on Dec. 4 just what he thought. He added that he did not see how it was necessary for him to declare himself any further.

"The President was very busy, and asked me to call at 2:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, when he would have time to go over ths whole subject with me. He did not go into details in regard to his ideas, so I cannot speak for him at this time. For my part, however, I am of the opinion that the bill of this year will be broadened and not narrowed. There has been some doubt as to its clearness in regard to refregirator cars, private cars, and terminal charges. Mr. Esch and I thought we had covered these points, but we will see to it that there is no doubt next time.

"The bill must provide for giving power to the Inter-State Commerce Commission to fix a new rate in place of one found to be unreasonable. That is the crux of the whole situation. There must be given to the Inter-State Commerce Commission or some other commission the power to change rates—that is to say, when it finds, upon fair investigation and full hearing, that a rate is bad the commission should have the power to cancel that rate and substitute a fair one. If it received power merely to recommend such a substitution its recommendation never would be followed.

"The only real fault that can be found with the Esch-Townsend bill is that it is too conservative. It conserves the interests of the railroads at every point. We want a bill that will not interfere with the honest business of the railroads, but we want one that will prevent their overstepping the bounds."

UNEQUAL RAILROAD RATES.

Shipper Tells How He Made Money by Using Roundabout Route.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—W. S. Tasker of Chicago, a live stock commission dealer, testified before the Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day on freight rates on live stock and live stock products from Missouri River points to Chicago.

He provoked lively interest when he testified that on one occasion he shipped a herd of cattle from points in Northwestern Wisconsin to Chicago by way of South St. Paul and saved money. The tariff direct to Chicago was 25 cents a hundred pounds, but by shipping to South St. Paul and thence to Chicago, or 300 miles further, he was able to obtain a rate of 15½ cents per hundred pounds.

ECKELS ON RATE CONTROL.

Says It Would Mean Disaster to the Public, Not Individuals.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—James H. Eckels, President of the Commercial National Bank of Chicago, and ex-Controller of the Currency, at the annual convention of the Kentucky Bankers' Association to-day said:

"It has become a fashion to denounce railroads and ask that the law be invoked to regulate ths business of a dozen or a thousand men. No one would dare to invoke legislation to control the business of a private individual. Any attempt to legislate on such questions as are purely of a business nature and to take from the owner the virtual management of his business is a mistake which will bring National disaster, and the public in general and not individuals will suffer."

CABINET OFFICERS AT ODDS.

Mr. Metcalf Replies to Criticisms on Regulations for Chinese.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Strong protest will be made by Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor against any modification by the State Department of its circular of June 26, directing American Consuls in China to inquire personally into the truth of statements in Chinese certificates before viseing them.

The circular was issued in consequence of the boycott established by China against the importation of American goods. It was the principal subject of discussion at yesterday's Cabinet meeting, which Secretary Metcalf was unable to attend on account of illness. He expressed great surprise to-day upon learning that in his absence the Cabinet members took the position that the regulations of the Department of Commerce and Labor were responsible more than the law for the strained relations between the two countries.

"The circular issued was based upon a provision of law and not on the department's regulations for the enforcement of the exclusion act," said the Secretary. "If immigration officers are to accept the Consular officers' vise as prima facie evidence, then the Consular officer in China must perform his part of the programme with the utmost care. If the State Department has not a sufficient number of Consular representatives in China to carry out the provision of the law then Congress should be asked to provide additional help."

BOWEN ANSWERED BY TAFT.

Secretary Says the President Was Misquoted—Loomis Sees Roosevelt.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President Roosevelt will make no reply to the statements made by Mr. Bowen as to the feeling the late Secretary Hay entertained for him and as to an offer by the President to Mr. Bowen of a diplomatic position with the remark that he "would have been glad to have hushed up the whole scandal."

Secretary Taft, who was present at Mr. Bowen's last interview with the President, said to-day that what the President said had been wholly misunderstood. Mr. Bowen said he was glad that the whole matter had come out and was generally known. Mr. Taft declares, and to this the President replied: "I do not agree with you, and I am very sorry that the whole matter has happened."

Mr. Loomis to-day had an interview with the President. From a source near the President it is stated that there is no probability that Mr. Loomis will receive a diplomatic appointment, and it is expected that he will retire to private life.

DU BOIS LET A WOMAN PAY HIS CAR FARE

Ex-Dandy Lingered on the Platform Until Miss Huleu Paid.

THEN HE'D SIT BESIDE HER

In His Foppish Days Old "Pop" Was Afraid of Getting Germs in His Clothes.

School teachers, janitors, boarding house keepers, and tradesmen were called as witnesses yesterday in the Supreme Court, where Mrs. Ivy Blanche McKee is seeking to recover a large share of the estate of her father, Alpheus Du Bois, who was Principal of Public School No. 36 for almost half a century. Like the other witnesses who had said that "Pop" Du Bois was once a dandy, who painted and powdered his face and put his hair up in curl papers, those who testified yesterday told similar stories. They said, too, that he was eccentric, and had a poor memory, all of which was brought out by the plaintiff to show that the father she had not seen for forty-five years was not mentally competent at the time he made the will which gives the bulk of his property to his sisters and brother.

S. Straubenmuller, a District Superintendent of Schools, said that Du Bois was antiquated in his ideas and kept old maps on the walls; that his instructions to the teachers were not calculated to benefit the pupils.

An effort was next made by Mrs. McKee's counsel to prove by the police records that Du Bois was arrested in 1859 on a charge of failing to support his wife, and the counsel for the defense said this would be admitted without proving it by the records.

Miss Victoria Huleu, who was Principal of the Primary Department in Du Bois's school, testified that she had known Du Bois for many years, but did not know he had a sister or other relatives until he fell ill, and she was asked to search for his relatives. This was in 1897. Once the witness asked Du Bois why his name did not appear in the City Directory, and Du Bois said he did not want to be bothered by people calling on him. The witness said she had frequently ridden in street cars with Du Bois, and he had a habit of standing on the back platform until she paid his fare. Then he would enter the car and sit down. Once she called on Du Bois after he had been retired from the school and found him living in a squalid place. Upon telling him how she intended spending her vacation at Ocean Grove with some other teachers, Du Bois said he would go there, and asked for directions, which he repeated over and over, just like a school boy committing something to memory.

Miss Huleu said that before Du Bois died he surprised his friends by telling them that he expected that trouble would be made by his wife and daughter after his death. The witness until that time did not know Du Bois had a wife and daughter.

Mrs. Alice Brann, who attended Du Bois's school, said she married a man who afterward became janitor of the school. Her father had once been janitor there, and while she was a school girl Du Bois sent her on errands. She had to carry big bundles of supplies from the headquarters of the Board of Education, but Du Bois always told her to walk one way, giving her a nickel to ride back with the bundle, and declaring that it was extravagant to pay fare both ways, although the distance was far.

Maurice Mascelle, a tailor who made clothes for Du Bois, testified that the old schoolmaster was afraid of germs getting into his clothing, so bought his cloth in one shop and had his clothing made up in another. In his early days, the tailor said, Du Bois insisted upon having natty clothes, but if he left cloth to be made into a suit on a Friday he called for it on Saturday to take it home over Sunday, this being one of his eccentricities.

Mrs. Louisa Haarman, who for a time owned the boarding house in Irving Place where Du Bois lived, testified that when he was ill she asked him why he did not employ a nurse, and he replied that he was too poor. On one occasion when he had a spell of sickness the witness said Du Bois told her that he had a wife and a daughter. When asked why he did not live with them he said he would, only it was too expensive to support a family. Frequently, the witness said, Du Bois cooked his meals in the hall bedroom where he slept.

Two weeks before he died he was crying in his room, and when Mrs. Haarman asked him what he was crying about he said it was too late to have his wife or sister with him.

CROWD AT SPRINTER'S HEELS.

Physical Culturist's Morning Spin Marred by a Practical Joke.

This story has to do with an abnormal desire for physical culture. Perry Whittaker, a young fur merchant who lives in Seventeenth Street at Stuyvesant Square, is the physical culturist. Among other things, he likes to run a mile every morning before breakfast. Since there are no regular tracks in that part of the city, he has to use the streets. His new form of exercise started only a few days ago, and since then he has been subjected to unmerciful guying on the part of his friends.

One of them, knowing Second Avenue to be Whittaker's favorite route, went into a little delicatessen shop just below Twelfth Street and asked the stout woman behind the counter:

"Have you noticed a suspicious looking man, in a red sweater, go by here in the morning?"

The woman's eyes bulged. She said she had seen such a person, she thought, two days before, and that he did have a very suspicious appearance and seemed to be in a great hurry.

"Yes," the visitor assured her. "I live in Stuyvesant Square and several times my milk has been taken from the door, where the milkman leaves it. I traced it to a fellow with a red sweater and a cap."

Similar interviews took place with a dozen or two delicatessen shopkeepers, barbers, fruitsellers, newsdealers, and cigar merchants along Second Avenue. All of them kept their eyes open for the man in the red sweater.

Yesterday morning about 7 o'clock the stout woman behind the sausage counter caught a glimpse of the red sweater as it flashed by her shop. Dropping the package of food in her hands, she ran to the door, threw up both hands, and shrieked: "Stop, thief!"

By that time the cigar merchants and the barbers and the newsdealers and the banana sellers all had spied the sprinter. They all yelled, but the sound of their voices traveled no faster than the runner, who seemed to be trying for a record. Little Hungarians just big enough to toddle took up the cry. Simon Steingut, Mayor of the avenue, stopped on the way to his office and stared at the strange scene. The fur merchant, as unfixed in his determination as the banana-bearing hero of "Excelsior," ran on toward his mile's end.

Finally a policeman, hearing the yells, looked down the street and saw Whittaker coming. He ran into the middle of the street, and in a second had Whittaker in his arms. Then the population of Second Avenue gathered around. There were gesticulations, accusations, and explanations. The puzzled policeman's mind was a muddle of bottles of milk, red sweaters, Stuyvesant Square, and several other things.

But Whittaker was equal to the emergency. He waited till the indiscriminate babble quieted down, and then explained it to the policeman, who let him go. But Whittaker rode home in a car.

HOAXED BY WIRE.

Three Young Burglary Jokers Have to Apologize in Court.

"This is Sergt. Brown of the Old Slip Police Station. Burglars have broken into your office in Water Street. Will you come down?"

Ignatz Popper, a tobacco merchant, received this telephone message at 1 o'clock in the morning about two weeks ago at his home, 141 East Ninety-fifth Street.

Mr. Popper replied that he would rush down. As he was jumping into his clothes the telephone bell rang again. A voice said:

"This is the ——newspaper office. Can you tell us anything about the burglary in your office?"

"No; I haven't been down there yet," replied Popper.

Then he ran out of the house into the pouring rain. He arrived at his Water Street office at about 2 A. M. He found it just as it had been left in the afternoon. While Mr. Popper was wondering what it all meant, a policeman who had been watching him walked up and asked what he was doing there. He told what the telephone voices had said, but the policeman said that he had better "come along to the station." The unhappy tobacco importer had to go along and explain things to the Sergeant. After hearing the story, the police called up the telephone exchange and found that both calls had come from the house of Herman Adelson, 112 West 111th Street. Mr. Popper suddenly remembered that Adelson was not one of his warmest friends. Investigation showed that Adelson had been aided and abetted by Benjamin Ablowitch of Ninety-sixth Street and Park Avenue and Jesse Levenson of Ninetieth Street and Madison Avenue. All three are freshmen in the New York University.

Mr. Popper got summonses for the youths, and all three were in the Yorkville Court before Magistrate Whitman yesterday morning. A lawyer appeared for the boys, he said, in a paternal and not a legal sense, while another lawyer represented Mr. Popper.

The boys' lawyer, Mr. Levey, said the boys pleaded guilty, and said it was a college boy's prank, but Mr. Popper did not see it in that light. Mr. Popper's lawyer, Mr. Guggenheimer, said:

"I don't think you would see any humor in it if you were called out of bed into the rain on such a fool's errand as that was. These boys ought to be sent to jail for ten days as a lesson."

Mr. Popper said that he would not have them sent to jail, but that they ought to be punished. Magistrate Whitman then told the boys that the least they could do was to apologize to their victim.

The three boys then humbly begged Mr. Popper's pardon, and all were forgiven.

MR. CLEVELAND AT HOME.

Arrives at Princeton In Good Health After His Vacation.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, Oct. 4. — Ex-President Cleveland returned to Princeton this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland and their children. They went immediately to Westlands, their home, on Bayard Lane, where the house was in readiness for the family. Mr. Cleveland came direct from New Hampshire, where he has spent a very pleasant Summer in the mountains. There was little hunting, but enough fishing within easy reach to give him a chance to enjoy himself. He appeared to be in good health.

When asked if he would accept the invitation to speak at Nebraska City this month he said he had not fully decided. He said, too, that he had been too busy to think about the Stafford Little lecture, which it is his custom to deliver every year before the university.

HAYES FOR SHERIFF.

That Is Said to Be Murphy's Plan—Keahon for County Clerk.

Fire Commissioner Nicholas J. Hayes's nomination for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket was semi-officially announced last night as a certainty. Patrick H. Keahon, who had the solid backing of the Sullivan contingent for the place, will probably be nominated for County Clerk instead.

For years the Sullivans have held a sort of suzerainty over the Sheriff's office, always making the nomination as a matter of course. This year they backed Keahon, who was long persona non grata to Charles F. Murphy, because Keahon was an irreconcilable of irreconcilables in the fight between Carroll and the anti-Carroll forces when Murphy won the Tammany leadership.

It became known last night that the Sullivans had practically agreed to accept the nomination for County Clerk for Keahon. The Sullivan clan has nothing against Hayes.

McCLELLAN'S HEADQUARTERS.

First Floor of Bartholdi Hotel to be Taken Next Monday.

Mayor McClellan's headquarters in the campaign will be opened next Monday in the Bartholdi Hotel, as in 1903. The entire first floor will be used, with bureaus for Italian, Hebrew, German, and Scandinavian speakers. Corporation Counsel Delany, who managed the campaign two years ago, probably will be nominated for the Supreme Court, so a new manager is necessary.

The Mayor will confine his speaking to the last two weeks of his campaign and will not make more than twelve speeches.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Andre Messager, composer of the London and Paris success "Veronique" and director of the Covent Garden Orchestra, will come to New York to conduct at the opening performance of the comic opera at the Broadway Theatre on Oct. 30.

So many requests have been made to Lillian Russell to sing her old Weber & Fields song "Come Down, My Evening Star" that she will add it to her next week's programme at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre.

The players that will support Mme. Bertha Kalich in her production of "Monna Vanna" at the Manhattan Theatre will include Henry Jewett, Henry Kolker, Horace Lewis, Leonard Shepherd, and Joseph O'Meara.

In the support of Elfie Fay, who makes her appearance in this city next week at the Grand Opera House in "The Belle from Avenue A," are Nat Fields, brother of Lew Fields, and Maud Earle, sister of Virginia Earle.

To-night will see the opening of the German operetta season at the Irving Place Theatre and the first performance in this country of "Fruehlingsluft," by Josef Strauss. The leading part will be interpreted by Lina Abarbanell.

YOUNG GASSAWAY DAVIS QUIT JOB AS FIREMAN

And Relatives, Including ex-Senator, Are Hunting Him.

HE HAD TIRED OF LUXURY

So Went Away from Home, and as "Oliver Hall" Got a Place in the Carnegie Mills.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 4.—The favorite nephew, namesake, and heir of Henry Gassaway Davis of West Virginia, recently candidate for Vice President, has disappeared. Young Davis lived under an assumed name here for months, and it was here that he was last seen several weeks ago. The disappearance of the young man has just been brought to light by the efforts of his father, J. H. Davis of Davis, West Va., and his uncle, ex-Senator Davis, to get some trace of the lad in Homestead or in Pittsburg.

About a year ago young Davis, it appears, tiring of the atmosphere of wealth in which he lived, announced to his relatives that he would go out into the world himself and work. He was asked not to take the name of Davis with him in any of the mills where he said he was going to seek employment, and so, when a strapping young fellow came to the Homestead Steel Works and asked for work under the name of "Oliver Hall," he got employment.

From information to-day given to the authorities by J. H. Davis, the father, Henry Gassaway Davis, the young man's uncle, kept close watch on the nephew, and soon learned that he was in the Homestead mills as a locomotive fireman.

A few days ago, however, when one of the Davis family came to the Carnegie offices at Homestead and asked to see "Oliver Hall," the information was given that Hall had left the employ of the Carnegie Company a month or more ago, and that there was a balance in the pay envelope coming to him.

The messenger returned to West Virginia and scattered the news that "young Gassaway" had disappeared.

J. H. Davis has come to Pittsburg to take up the search in person, while Henry Gassaway Davis has wired and telephoned to influential friends here to keep a lookout for the boy.

Young Davis has always had love for adventure, and it is said won the admiration of his uncle by announcing, when the uncle went to Washington as United States Senator, that he, too, must be taken along, and that he was placed in the United States Senate as a page under another name. He now is less than twenty-one years old.

KICKED TO DEATH.

Women Shoppers See an Alleged Thief Die Under Assault.

Bryan O'Donnell, a saloon-keeper of 623 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, will be arraigned in the Adams Street police court this morning on the charge of homicide. Yesterday afternoon a thief entered the rear room of O'Donnell's place and stole a cutaway overcoat. Seeing him disappear, O'Donnell ran after him and caught up with the man after a run of a block. He tripped him up and the man fell with great force on the car track in the middle of the street, becoming unconcious.

It is said that after the man fell, O'Donnell kicked him several times in the stomach. Fulton Street at this point is crowded with shoppers in the middle of the day, and the scene was witnessed by a number of women.

A policeman arrested O'Donnell and summoned an ambulance surgeon to attend the unconscious man. When the physician arrived the man was dead. It was afterward found that he was William Durand of 167 Bleecker Street, Manhattan.

MISS MABEL MONEY A BRIDE.

Daughter of Senator and Sponsor for Battleship Mississippi Weds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Miss Mabel Clare Money, yaungest daughter of Senator and Mrs. H. D. Money, who recently named the battleship Mississippi, was married this evening to Dr. William Whitney Kitchen of Buffalo, formerly of Canada. The ceremony was performed in the Church of the Covenant at 6 o'clock by the Rev. T. S. Hamlin, its pastor.

A large company filled the edifice. The ushers were Hunter Armat, Thomas Armat, H. V. D. King, and Raymond Aeton of this city. The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Hall of New York, who acted as matron of honor. The bridegroom was attended by Lieut. P. T. Magruder, cousin of the bride.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns, and cosmos blossoms, the pews for the relatives being marked with wide white satin ribbon.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white crêpe de chine made over white taffeta and trimmed with Duchesse lace. Her veil was of tulle, held in place with lilies of the valley, and her only ornament was a necklace of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

The couple will live in Buffalo.

A DAY'S WEDDINGS.

BRADFIELD—SMITH.

Miss Elizabeth Usher Smith, daughter of Mrs. Sydney Smith, was married to Herbert Stanley Bradfield, son of J. P. Bradfield, General Superintendent of the New York Central Railroad, last night at Ninety-ninth Street and Shore Road, Bay Ridge, the country home of E. E. Smathers, who is a brother-in-law of the bride. The interior of Mr. Smathers's house was decorated with smilax and calla lilies.

The Rev. Philip Cook of the Church of the Incarnation performed the ceremony. Mr. Smathers gave the bride away, and Mrs. Smathers was matron of honor. The best man was M. Allen Warren. There were no bridesmaids or ushers. The bridal gown, from Paris, was ornamented with Valenciennes and Irish point lace.

After a wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Bradfield departed in Mr. Bradfield's private car for a tour of the West.

CANTO—HERO.

Miss Evangeline Lillian Hero, daughter of Mrs. Catherine G. Hero of New York, was married to Dr. Ysidro Herrera Canto, son of Gen. and Mrs. Theodosio Canto of Meridia, Yucatan, yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria. The bride received many valuable gifts, among them jewels which are an heirloom of the Canto family. These were presented by the bridegroom's parents and consist of a combination pin, bracelet, and tiara, the centre stone of which is a black diamond of ten carats, surrounded by twenty-four blue-white diamonds.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Hulse. The best man was Gen. C. Romero, Consul General from Mexico.

The Rev. W. C. Bitting Resigns.

At a meeting of the Trustees of the Mount Morris Baptist Church last night, the clerk read a letter of resignation from the Rev. William C. Bitting, who has been minister of the church for twenty-two years. He has accepted a call to the Second Baptist Church, in St. Louis.

Aid for Philippine Sufferers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—In order that some damage resulting from the recent typhoon in the Philippine Islands may be at once repaired, the Quartermaster General of the army has cabled to Manila that an extra allotment of $50,000 has been made to meet the expenses.

BISHOP POTTER SAILS

Saying He Smiled, Not Frowned, on Dr. Chew—Some Women Should Vote.

Bishop Henry Codman Potter and Mrs. Potter sailed for Europe on the White Star liner Oceanic yesterday morning. While away, with the Archbishop of Canterbury, he will receive the degree of LL. D. at St. Andrews University, Scotland.

Before sailing Bishop Potter took occasion to deny the story that at the convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese of New York he frowned upon the resolution submitted by the Rev. J. M. Chew asking that the gospel of honesty be proclaimed anew in view of the scandals brought out recently by the investigation into the methods of high finance.

"I simply smiled," said the Bishop. "I believe in waiting for results, and not jumping at conclusions before the evidence is all in. What would you think of a Judge who would render a decision in a case before the case had been submitted to a jury or sentence a man before the jury had rendered a verdict?

"People are prone to be carried away by what comes out in print when an investigation such as this is being conducted. They say things and think things, and finally arrive at a conclusion oftentimes far from being the right one."

Of woman's suffrage and Grover Cleveland's criticism of the "new woman," he said:

"Woman's suffrage must be determined by woman's education and her fitness for the use of the ballot. The ballot is a tool. It is a weapon or a force, and the competency to handle this weapon must depend on the previous training of the persons to whom the weapon has been intrusted. I do not mean in any sense to imply that women should not be trusted with the ballot, for it is grotesque to assert that a great many women are not better trained or as intelligent in the handling of the ballot than multitudes of men.

"A woman who owns property is just as much concerned over the ballot as a man, and she should have a voice in the affairs of the community and the enactment of laws affecting her property. Under the present laws the woman without a ballot is without protection, and is a victim."

Bishop Potter said that he would go direct to St. Andrews, Scotland, and from there would go for a short visit to Edinburgh. His visit will also include a trip through Egypt, a journey up the Nile, a visit to Constantinople, and a visit to Athens, where he will meet his brother, W. A. Potter.

RAIDERS CATCH DAVID HARUM.

Who Drops a Few Aphorisms on Poolrooms—Everybody Released.

David Harum was caught in a place that somebody said was a poolroom yesterday. This David says he lives at 666 Sixth Avenue. Capt. Gallagher and his detectives found him in one of three raids, netting eight prisoners, who were promptly turned loose in the West Side Court for lack of evidence.

David Harum was bitter at being classed among the goats, and not among the sheep, whom the police turned loose. Some of the remarks he dropped follow:

"It's awful to be pinched, but to be called a piker an' a cheap skate to boot beats all."

"Every Police Cap'n in town is thinkin' of nothin' but poolrooms now since Schmittberger and Dooley got so many pictures in the papes."

"What good are hosses if you can't bet on 'em—an' lose?"

"Never kick at a copper; he has to make a showin'—specially 'bout election times. Give the poor devils a show."

"I wonder would cops make poolroom raids if they didn't get in the papes? The Judges ain't handin' out any tickets to th' Island. But the Commish'a clippin' bureau is a powerful thing."

"Back up, there; don't hit me with that billy. There's only one Dooley and one Schmittberger."

"What's a poolroom 'thout a injunction?"

The three places raided yesterday were one on Forty-sixth Street, which was broken into the day before; a club on West Fifty-third Street, which was visited on Monday, and one on West Fiftieth Street.

When the Captain had finished his day's work he sent his men over the district to poke into every saloon and clubroom on the lookout for handbook men. Neither Acting Captain Eggers nor Inspector McLaughlin had a hand in Gallagher's work yesterday. Gallagher did it all himself.

NEARLY GOT AN EXTRA OUT.

Syncopated Washington Telegram Thrilled One Newspaper Office.

A telegraph operator who was handling the New York end of the Washington wire in a local newspaper office opened his key last night, jumped to his feet while receiving a dispatch from the National Capital, and yelled:

"Great Scott, boys, the President is dead!"

A crowd of operators and messengers swarmed around.

"Let's see," excitedly snapped the chief operator.

"Here it is," answered the operator, as he asked Washington to repeat the message:

"President Roosevelt is dead——"

Without waiting for more the chief grabbed the sheet of paper in the operator's typewriter, and ran to the telegraph editor's office.

"An extra; the President's dead," he yelled. And then to the operator: "Get the rest of that Washington dispatch rushed."

The operator closed the key and received this from Washington:

"What the dickens do you mean by breaking me that way? Why don't you take this message? Get busy."

"O. K.," responded the New York operator. "Rush the rest of the President's death."

"What!" exclaimed the Washington man. The New York operator repeated his request.

"Cut it out," answered Washington. "Take this wire, and don't get gay." Then came the dispatch:

"President Roosevelt is dead in earnest on the subject of railway rate legislation, and is just as determined as ever that legislative regulations shall be enacted."

The hurry call for an extra was cancelled.

JUST A CASE OF WHEELS.

Wagon Wheels, Which the Police Got In Abe Axelrad's Wheelery.

Sergt. McCarton, who was at the desk in the East Sixty-seventh Street Police Station last night called up Police Headquarters on the telephone and shouted:

"We've got wheels up here and want a little advice."

"Well," answered the operator at Headquarters, "I'm sorry, but I can't straighten you out. There are other precinct men who've got wheels."

"It's a queer case," explained the Sergeant.

"I suppose so," replied the operator, "but it's not the first case I've heard of to-night. A bug was just in here, who said he was tired and was from Wheeling, West Va., and we sent him over to Bellevue for a rest."

"But," said the Sergeant, "the wheels here were taken in a raid, and I want to know what to do with 'em. They fill up the station."

And when the operator asked where the gambling raids were the Sergeant explained that the wheels were wagon wheels, not roulette wheels. They had been found in a shop owned by one Abe Axelrad, a wheelwright of 258 East Fifty-seventh Street, and were alleged to be stolen. The Sergeant was told to keep them.

ANCIENTS COME AND GO.

On Their Way Home After a Joyful Time in Albany.

One swallow doesn't make a Summer; neither does it make an Ancient and Honorable Artilleryman of Boston, Massachusetts. As a matter of fact, nobody has ever been able to figure out just how many swallows do go into the make-up of this gallant command. The Honourable Artillerymen of London, some time since, crossed the ocean to settle the question, and retired in confusion.

"Those fellows swallow so fast you can't keep count," was their verdict.

The good boat New York, of the Hudson River Day Line brought the Ancient and Honorables, 370 strong, from Albany last evening. When the boat reached port nothing drinkable except water remained on board. It was the dryest period in the history of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, Massachusetts—always spell Massachusetts out in full when speaking of the organization which insists on everything being full at all times.

"To think," said the Lieutenant in charge of the Commissary Department, "that we should have come to this!" We, the originators of the liquid platoon system, which guarantees to every man ten drinks in a mile's march. It is too much—I mean too little. How cheaply we were held by the Day line navy! It is a blot on our escutcheon which must be drowned!"

No sooner was the New York docked than the artilleryman captured a transport and set sail for the Fall River Line pier.

Capt. Morse was on the bridge when the pier was reached.

"Ship ahoy!" he shouted to the commander of the Priscilla. "What cheer aboard for parched throats?"

"Ten casks broached in readiness for you, and a dozen quarts to the man," came the answer.

"Saved!" gasped the Captain.

"What'll you have?" asked the Lieutenant mentioned above, when a reporter sought details of the company's two-hundred-and-sixty-eighth field day, after the Priscilla's force had been commandeered. "I'll take the same."

This is the story that came from his lips:

"On Monday morn at third drink time, matutinal schedule, we met in our armory, and using the liquid platoon system for which, as I am constantly saying, we are justly famous, made the station where we boarded the train for Albany. There was a skirmish with the enemy, which was intrenched in the buffet car. We carried the day with absurd ease. Our trip was refreshing from the time we took possession of the car until we reached Albany, where we disembarked at fourth drink time, afternoon schedule. (Did you say you took plain water on the side? What a waste of space! Hurry, boy!)

"There was a troop of soldiery at the station—the Tenth Battalion, Col. Davis commanding. We explained our liquid platoon system, for which, as I have said before, we are justly famous, and after procuring a map of the city, on which we carefully marked the sources of supply, we consented to participate in a parade.

"There was only one casualty—that of a private who drank water by mistake for gin. Poor fellow! He was simply too careless for anything!

"At sixth drink time, evening schedule, we assembled at the Albany Club, where we were most hospitably entertained. Really, none of us lacked for drinkables, and there was plenty to eat, as a side issue. (You'll have a small one, won't you? Get a move on, waiter!)

"Yesterday numerous scouting parties were organized, our plan being to subsist on the enemy's country. At eleventh drink time, midday schedule, a party under command of First Lieut. Charles Porter scented a brewery. The entire command was quickly assembled, and we assaulted in force. Not a vat in the place was even damp when the signal for retreat was drunk.

"Last night we held a banquet at the Ten Eyck, to which place we marched in a body. This morning, at second drink time, matutinal schedule, we marched to the Day Line pier. We utilized our liquid platoon system—really I meant to mention that system before—and boarded the New York for New York. We do not hold it against the boat that it was cleaned out before eighteenth drink time, vesper schedule. I suppose its capacity isn't so great as ours. Nobody has ever been able to fix our official capacity, as a body. Personally I think it's about four gallons mixed, or five gallons straight, per man. (It makes me thirsty to mention it. Wait-e-r-r-r!)

"At any rate, we are here, and with a southwest wind we'll show the Priscilla a hot time before we land in Boston. We take back our full roster, including our military band of thirty pieces. Must you go now? (Well, have just one more. I'll take the same.)

"Say, if I haven't mentioned the liquid platoon system, which has made our name a household word from pole to pole——

But the cry of "All ashore that's going ashore" came, and the Priscilla headed for Boston.

A VEST-POCKET CITIZEN.

Brings His Six-Foot Father to Court to be Naturalized.

"I would like to get citizenship papers for my father," said a youthful looking chap, whose head barely appeared over the top of the desk, to Commissioner Shields yesterday in the Federal Building.

"We don't issue papers for a foreigner unless there is some man with him," said the Commissioner without glancing up.

"I am a man and a citizen myself," assured the juvenile voice. "I took out my papers seven years ago."

"You what?" exclaimed the Commissioner.

"I took out my own papers in 1898," repeated the childlike applicant, "and my father would now like his. My name is Adolph Zink. I am an actor."

Commissioner Shields, who had frequently seen Zink in the Brooklyn playhouses, now recognized his visitor and shook hands with the diminutive comedian and called a clerk.

"This vest-pocket citizen here," explained the Commissioner, "would like to have his father's first papers."

The father, who was fully 6 feet tall, said his name was Johann Zink and that he lived at 3,365 Walton Avenue, in the Bronx. The papers were issued. Adolph Zink is a lilputian, 32 years old.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

JOSEPH H. HERBST.—Judge Holt of the United States District Court has appointed Frederick C. McLaughlin receiver in bankruptcy of the assets of Joseph H. Herbst, furrier of 19 East Eighth Street, who filed a petition in bankruptcy on Tuesday, and fixed his bond at $2,500.

THE SWITCHBOARD MANUFACTURING CO.—The Switchboard Manufacturing Company, dealers in electrical switchboards at 661 West Fifty-eighth Street, made an assignment yesterday to Edward S. Isham, the deed having been signed by Louis Kellner, Vice President. Mr. Isham was President. The liabilities, it is said, are $20,000.

HENRY LEWIS.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Henry Lewis, doing business as Henry Lewis & Bro., manufacturer of women's underwear, at 149 Wooster Street, by Leonard Bronner, attorney for H. A. Caesar & Co., creditors for $523. It is alleged that he is insolvent and between Sept. 30 and Oct. 4 transferred merchandise and accounts valued at $10,000, and removed property valued at $10,000. The liabilities are $15,000 and assets $12,000, consisting of merchandise, $4,000; machinery, $5,000, and equity in assigned accounts, $3,000.

LEO SONNEBERG.—Leo Sonneberg, a salesman, living at 1,064 Clay Avenue, the Bronx, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $17,578 and no assets. The debts were contracted from 1892 to 1905. The largest creditors are Bernheimer & Schmid, brewers, $6,000, of which $5,000 was secured by a chattel mortgage on a store at Carmine and Bleecker Streets, in 1892, and Joseph Beck & Co., $4,000, secured. He owes $209 to the Health Department on a penalty in 1896, $1,000 on a forfeited bail bond in 1899, and $597 to the National Casket Company.

LA ROCHELLE RESTAURANT COMPANY.—Judge Holt of the United States District Court has authorized Edward R. Finch, the receiver of the La Rochelle Restaurant Company at Seventy-fifth Street and Columbus Avenue, to continue the business for ten days with leave to apply for more time if a majority of the creditors consent. Mrs. Florence L. Koevessy, the President of the company, called the creditors together on Monday and explained the condition of affairs. Business was dull during the Summer, but is improving now, and the restaurant is running without loss, the receipts being $350 a day and running expenses $160. The liabilities are $42,000 and nominal assets at cost value $75,000 to $100,000.

Out of Town.

BOSTON.—Judge Colt of the United States Circuit Court has appointed Thomas J. Dumphrey receiver of the Quincy Quarries Company on a bill brought by the National Granite Bank of Quincy and others. The company is the successor of the Quincy Granite Quarries Company.

UTICA.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Lake Shore Malting Company of Syracuse by Blumenstiel & Blumenstiel, attorneys for the American Malting Company of New York, a creditor for $32,974, judgment for which was obtained here on Sept. 13. The company was incorporated on Sept. 28, 1900, with a capital stock of $250,000.

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

New York City.

A Boy That Failed
to make progress at a noted New England academy entered the Groff School recently with several having had similar experiences at other large schools. They were all put into Yale and other large colleges the following September without a condition, one year ahead of their former classmates, and their present standing at college is very high. Mr. Groff's experience with these boys is typical of the success he has had for ten years.

THE GROFF SCHOOL,
228 West 72d St., New York,
occupying the most handsome school quarters in New York, is ideal and exceptional as a boarding and day school.
No young and inexperienced teachers to experiment with students.
Absolutely individual attention, the number being strictly limited. No very young boys admitted in the main school. Separate department, with special advantages, for boys, 10-14 years old. Handsome study parlors, billiard room, electric elevator, and full and free use of skating rink, bowling alleys, fencing hall, gymnasium, swimming pool, athletic field, etc.
Proper and judicious supervision of the daily life of all students of the school, but all foolish school discipline, military drill, and consequent loss of time eliminated.
Reopens Sept. 28th.

THE COMMERCIAL WORLD

WHEAT.—Pretty much the same tactics prevailed in yesterday's wheat market as on the previous day, bulls furnishing about all the support and the crowd bearish enough to hammer it at every opportunity. The strongest piece of news was the report, partially confirmed, that some 250,000 bushels of Duluth No. 1 Northern, had been sold to Germany. Color was given to the report by the fact that discriminating German duties in favor of American wheat would make such a transaction possible at these prices. Otherwise Manitoba wheat, being considerably lower, would be likely to have first call with foreign buyers, which has all along been one of the reasons for bear pressure on the domestic markets in opposition to Chicago bull support. As it was, the export news failed to attract much speculative buying, and last figures of the day were still ¼c under the previous night, although about as much above low point of the day. At the opening there was a little buying on the idea that with perfect weather through the West, receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth were only 899 cars, against 1,067 last year, but under heavy pressure which at once developed the list, dropped off ½c, and continued weak until rallied by the export news referred to. Total interior receipts were 1,400,000 bushels, compared with 1,600,000 bushels on the corresponding day last year. The Minneapolis stock was reported to have increased 475,000 bushels in the past four days. The Liverpool market was quiet, closing net unchanged, and helped somewhat by reports that the Argentine strike was spreading. Paris closed 5 to 15 points net lower, Berlin ¼@½ mark lower, and Budapest 10 points net higher. At the close here No. 2 red was quoted 87½c, elevator, and 88c@88¾c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, 90c, and No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, 90⅝c, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—On the whole, the corn market was steady all day, responding to more or less bull support of the May at Chicago, small car-lot estimates for to-day, and advance of ⅛d at Liverpool and scattered covering. Outside of this, the bulk of news was bearish, including splendid weather all over the belt, receipts of 558,000 bushels at interior points, against 403,000 bushels last year, and a light export business, amounting to only ten loads. Locally the close was partly ⅛c higher than the previous night. No. 2 corn closed 58c, elevator, and 58⅛c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 59½c, and No. 2 yellow, 59½c, free on board, afloat.

OATS.—There was a steady tone to the Western market all day, in sympathy with corn, and on export sales of 380,000 bushels in all positions. At New York the cash market closed steady, as follows: Mixed, 26 to 32 lb, 32@33c; natural white, 30 to 32 lb, 32¼@33¼c, and clipped white, 36 to 40 lb, 35@36c.

COTTON.—The cotton market was nervous and irregular, but trading was not so active as on the previous day, and after an early break, the market ruled generally steadier. The close was steady and at about the highest point of the session, or a net advance of 6@11 points. Sales were estimated at 500,000 bales. The opening was easy at a decline of 4@7 points in response to lower cables and continued liquidation. There was active covering at the decline, and within the first ten minutes the market rallied to the closing level of Tuesday, after which it weakened again to a net loss of 7@8 points under bear pressure and continued liquidation. Covering became heavier at the decline, and while at first it was reported that Southern holders were showing weakness, later advices stated that offerings were being withdrawn. The market gradually rallied on these reports and talk of damage from rain in the central helt, and in the afternoon showed evidences of some renewed support from bullish sources, although in a general way the demand seemed to be chiefly for the covering of shorts, and it is believed that most of the scattering short interests have now been taken care of. October cotton here was said to be the cheapest market in the world during the early session, and on the rally October was relatively firm. A number of wires were received from the South, claiming that interior holders were refusing to sell at a decline, and a good business in spots was reported at the decline of 20 points in Liverpool. Bulls showed a disposition to criticise the Government report of Tuesday, hut the report has undoubtedly had the effect of modifying extremely bullish crop views. Southern spot markets were officially reported unchanged to ¼c lower.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 4.—Spot Cotton—Moderate demand; sales, 10,000 bales; speculation and export, 500 bales; American, 9,000 bales; receipts nil; middling upland, 5.41d. Futures opened easy, 14 points lower on near and 13 points off on distant months; closed steady at 12@13 points decline: October and October-November, 5.38; November-December, 5.42; December-January, 5.46; January-February, 5.49; February-March, 5.51; March-April, 5.53; April-May, 5.55; May-June, 5.56; June-July, 5.57, and July-August, 5.58. Manchester—Yarns dull and easier; cloths irregular.

COFFEE—The coffee market was much more active, sales for the day being reported of about 96,000 bags. Much of the business seemed to originate with European selling orders, and prices, after opening steady, unchanged to 5 points higher, ruled weak, with the close steady, net unchanged to 10 points lower. The initial advance was regarded as a rather disappointing response to higher French cables, firm primary markets, and a bullish visible supply statement; but these factors seemed to fall flat as an immediate market factor, and, while Havre closed net ½f higher, much of the selling during the afternoon session was supposed to be for European account, while there was some local liquidation, based, apparently, on the expectation of developments regarding the large long interest in December. The first notice day for that position is still nearly two months away, but some switching is already reported, and it seems the impression that there is a very big line to be evened up, and part of which might be sold outright in the event of any bulge. This limits the support and renders the market susceptible to moderate offerings for either account. The world's visible supply statement showed an increase for the month of only 522,097 bags to 12,624,693 bags against 12,102,496 bags last month and 12,266,592 bags last year. Hamburg was net unchanged. Of the primary markets, Rio was 75 and Santos 100 reis higher, without any change in the rate of Brazilian exchange. Receipts were moderate, but well over last year's figures at interior points. Sao Paulo reported 54,663 bags against 46,400 bags last year. The market for spot coffee was quiet, but nominally steady, on the basis of 8 11-16c for Rio No. 7.

METALS.—The London tin market was reactionary, closing at £148 7s 6d for spot and £147 10s for futures; locally the market was quiet, with spot quoted at 32.37½@32.62½c, or about unchanged on the average. Copper was quiet but firm in the local market, with lake quoted at 16.37½@16.75c, electrolytic at 16.37½@16.62½c, and casting at 16.12½@16.37½c; the London market was irregular, with spot closing at £71 5s and futures at £71. Lead was higher, at £14 16s, in London, but remained unchanged, at 4.85@4.90c, locally. Spelter was higher, at 6@6.10c, locally, but was unchanged, at £27 12s 6d, in London. Iron was irregular abroad, closing at 50s 2d for Standard foundry and 51s 9d for Middlesborough; locally iron was firm and generally higher: No. 1 foundry, Northern, was quoted at $17.75@$18; No. 2 foundry, Northern, at $17.25@$17.50; No. 1 foundry, Southern at $17@$17.75, and No. 2 foundry, Southern, at $16.50@$17.25. The market for regular pig iron certificates was steady to firm all day. Foundry grades were barely steady and dull. There was a sale of 100 tons October regulars at $15.75. Regulars follow: October, $15.70@$16; November, $15.80@$16; December, 15.85@$16.10; January, $15.90@$16.20; February, $15.90@$16.30, and March, $16.40 asked.

IRON TRADE CONDITIONS.

Reviewing the situation in the iron trade The Iron Age says in its issue to-day:

While the largest producers of iron and steel have been preparing for some time for the heavy consumption which they have anticipated, the buying movement has come somewhat earlier than they expected and has been of surprising volume. As an indication of what has been happening we may note that the September sales of the United States Steel Corporation constituted a record, and have been double of its capacity.

The most interesting development of the past week has been the rush to buy furnace coke for 1906. A number of the larger steel companies have closed very important contracts and the big iron makers generally have hastened to cover. The price has advanced to $2.55@$2.65 at ovens for strictly Connellsville coke, which is $1 above the price at which coke was sold in the Spring.

This means a very serious addition to the cost of production of pig iron, and accounts for the attitude which makers are assuming. They are putting up prices, and are chary of taking business beyond the first quarter of 1906. Then, too, the feeling is growing that speculative buying on the part of consumers, of which there are some indications, should be discouraged.

Back of all the excitement of the past few weeks is the fact that the general foundry trade, which in point of activity has so long lagged behind the steel trade, is now feeling the impulse of quickened consumption.

The large steel interests are outspoken in their determination to prevent a runaway market, and in this the makers of pig iron join, although they insist that prices must reach a level which will compensate them for the higher costs of manufacture. As prices now stand in this country and abroad there is no chance of any imports of pig iron, outside of metal brought in in order to manufacture for export.

Steel is very scarce in all parts of the country. The rail trade has quieted down a little. It is understood that a small part of the New York Central order has been placed.

It is interesting to note that Russia has again begun to take American iron and steel. Recently some satisfactory business has been done in wire, tubes, and sheets.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4.—The Iron Trade Review to-morrow will say:

Buying has been continued steadily during the past week, giving ample evidence of general prosperity in the iron and steel business, but the period has not been characterized by the placing of orders of unusual size or importance. Among conservative interests there is a growing feeling that, if there is any danger in the present situation, it is in the tendency to advance prices too rapidly, especially for raw materials.

Pig iron prices in the South are firm and tending upward. While some iron was sold late last week at Birmingham at $12 to $12.25 for No. 2, some of the largest producers are out of the market, which is now strong at $12.50. Since the recent sales of Bessemer were made to the Steel Corporation at $15, two leading sellers have withdrawn from the market with the expectation that $15.50 will prevail when they are again ready to enter. Quotations on foundry iron in the Central West show an increasing tendency to name prohibitive prices for next year's delivery.

A new system of making sales of tin plate has been announced by the principal producers. Although this system does not make much change in actual prices, it has been received with some surprise, as an advance was rather expected.

Heavy buying of rails is apparently over for the present, although during the past week a Chicago mill booked orders for 50,000 tons, and was compelled to decline an order for 50,000 additional tons on account of inability to give required delivery. The American Shipbuilding Company has placed an order for 30,000 tons of plates at Chicago.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Break—Call Money Rates 4½@8 Per Cent.

Early Advance Turned Into an Abrupt Decline by Rise in Call Money—Money Up Abroad.

In the first three hours of yesterday's stock market session money was obtainable at rates running from 4½ to 5½ per cent., and stocks advanced steadily, gains of a point or more being fairly numerous. Around 1 o'clock rates worked up to 6 per cent., and to 7 per cent., and prices immediately yielded, losing all the ground gained in the early trading and dropping still further until at the close declines of a point or more were as common as had been the former gains. A few loans were reported as concluded at 8 per cent., a new high record for the present season. The issues which rose most easily in the morning, including Reading, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, St. Paul, and Pennsylvania, fell with the greatest rapidity in the afternoon. The stocks named closed with losses of from 1 to ½ points, and Reading was down 2 points from the high price of the day. Resistance to the reactionary movement was offered by Baltimore and Ohio, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, and, to some extent, by the United States Steel shares, which, however, declined fractionally. The strength of Wabash preferred stock, which gained a point, is traceable to the Gould-Ramsey contest over the control of the property.

While the readiest explanation of the reversal of the market's course yesterday is found in the apparently unexpected rise in call money rates, there were other developments during the day not devoid of influence. Discount rates at London and Berlin rose again, and the London market was unsettled by the fear that to effectively protect its position the Bank of England might be compelled to take further steps antagonistic to speculation. Money market conditions also affected trading in the Berlin market, and the general uncertainty over money conditions was not relieved by the announcement from Paris that a Russian loan of at least $300,000,000 would be offered before the end of the present month. London regarded this announcement as a "feeler" to determine the reception of an official announcement. If this is true, the conduct of the markets of London, Berlin, and this city was not overauspicious. Discussion of the possibilities of railway rate legislation at the coming session of Congress and of President Roosevelt's expressed determination to press this matter was more general yesterday. Other developments of the day included the announcement of the Canadian Pacific's intention to issue $7,500,000 additional stock, the report of the New York City Railway Company for the June quarter revealing an increase of $58,000 in the road's deficit, and the August reports of the Denver and Rio Grande and the Great Western, showing net gains of $137,000 and $39,000, respectively.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.—Trading to-day was fairly active, and, while prices were generally strong, notable advances were made by Seaboard Air Line preferred and United States Fidelity. The higher rates for money have been against the local market, but careful observers think that money will cheapen eventually and stocks become active. With the rise in the interest rate there has been a falling off in the dealings in bonds.

Seaboard preferred gained two points on the first call. United States Fidelity, which opened ½ up, soon rose to 130.

For all of the standard issues in the bond list prices were generally higher throughout. United Railways free incomes sold ⅛ down, and the pooled bonds at 66 were unchanged. Norfolk Railways and Light 5s advanced ¼. Virginia Midland 5s were ¾ higher.

The market closed dull. Shares, 1,543; bonds, $145,000.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

In the first hour yesterday the stock market developed an activity of approximately 320,000 shares, with a sufficient breadth of trading to give the large professionals an opportunity to take profits on a pretty extensive scale. The strength was curiously distributed, as in Union Pacific, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, American Sugar, and American Smelting and Refining, not to include several less prominent issues. The Steel stocks, although they did not advance, held for a while all they had gained in the preceding session. During this first hour, notwithstanding heavy realizing by the bull crowd, the market presented an appearance of pronounced general strength. In the second hour prices began to fall back gently, and the volume of trading at once declined, as has been the case invariably of late on moderate price recessions. Transactions in the second hour were less than 140,000 shares, and in the third hour, with prices still reactionary, they only amounted to 125,000 shares. A further decline in activity occurred in the fourth hour, which embraced transactions of only 100,000, but in the last hour, on fresh declines, the trading became more animated. Even in the last hour, however, with the selling somewhat urgent in certain quarters, transactions amounted to only about 160,000 shares, as compared with nearly 320,000 in the first hour. The only interest which these comparisons have is that they show the tendency of the market to lose activity on declining prices.

***

London reports that New York operators are still investing heavily in calls on United States Steel, Union Pacific, and Southern Pacific.

***

Several of the big bull traders turned on the market after the first hour, and began to work aggressively to bring about a reaction in prices. This was most apparent, perhaps, in Union Pacific, which broke sharply under the open selling of a board room operator who had been conspicuously active for some time on the long side of the stock. A surviving bear element assisted industriously in the work of depressing prices. The reaction was accelerated by an unexpected flurry in call money in the afternoon, the rate jumping suddenly from around 5 per cent. to 6½ and then to 7. In the last hour, when the day's principal demands had already been supplied, money was quoted at 7½ and 8 per cent., and small amounts, it was reported from the floor, did loan as high as 8 per cent. on the urgent bidding of a few late borrowers. Prices closed at or near the lowest of the day, showing declines of 1 per cent. or more in a number of the active issues.

***

The market has had several such 1 per cent. reactions in the last few weeks, and each time the bear contingent has been badly fooled. Traders have rushed in and sold stocks freely at the market, fearing that the break had started and that they might miss the top, and then the market has turned directly about and become strong again. Yesterday's selling was no more than might have come from a body of aggressive traders taking profits on the long side. Each of such movements in the recent past, however, has shown that when the professional element begins to sell prices decline easily, because there is no general support.

***

A more conservative feeling was found to prevail yesterday in speculative quarters—a feeling that perhaps it would be just as well not to get too bullish on stocks until the money market is in an easier position. A good many traders seemed to think that the day's flurry in call money could be referred to a desire on the part of certain powerful banking interests to check a too aggressive speculation on the bull side.

***

Some of the international houses are a little dubious over the speculative situation in Germany.

***

The selling of Chesapeake and Ohio yesterday was due to some tardy apprehension that the dividend rate might not be increased. The stock has been bulled recently on rumors that the dividend would be raised. The Directors were in session yesterday and postponed action.

***

Under a selling movement the Steel shares seem to decline more easily than they advance on a buying movement. This is particularly true of the common stock. It sold last Saturday at 38½ for the first time and closed at that price. It took two days to advance it ½ per cent. further, to 39. It advanced ¼ per cent. on Monday, to 38¾, and another ¼ per cent. on Tuesday, to 39, and yesterday, after having opened at 39 and held there steadily for an hour or more, it broke to 38¼, and closed at the lowest. The volume of Steel common is so great that it is perhaps the heaviest stock in the whole market to lift, and it is for that same reason that it often loses more in a few hours under selling pressure than it has gained in as many days on agrressive buying.

***

Opinions going further than those quoted in this column yesterday concerning the attitude of the public toward speculation were asserted yesterday by an equally competent and interesting authority, who believes, in spite of everything, that a big outside participation in the market may reasonably be expected. "I concede that the public has been much educated in the last two or three years," he says, "and that it may have formed prejudices which are not easily broken down, but we are likely to forget two things: (1) That people are making a great deal of money, and (2) that the speculative instinct is strong in mankind. I could go back over the history of the stock market for the last twenty years and show you what the public has often done in place of what it said it was going to do. I have no doubt that the public is saying to itself now that it will not speculate, particularly on this high level of prices, but the fact that it is not speculating to any extent at present leaves it only a matter of time until it will begin. Do you remember Chicago Gas? There was a stock that used to sell between 40 and 50, and every time it got up around 50 it could be sold with perfect safety. One day a master manipulator began to make a market in the stock. He put it to 50 and Wall Street went short of it. He put it to 60 and Wall Street began to take notice. At 70 there was a bigger market than anybody had ever dreamed of seeing in Chicago Gas, and at 80 it was still broader. To put the price from 80 to 90 was mere play, because everybody was then trading in the stock. It sold eventually at 99¼, and people who said it was worthless at 50 believed in it. A lot of people had made money on the advance, and to create a big speculative interest either in a particular stock or in the general market you have first got to let people make money. They begin then to believe in you and in your market. I am an old hand at this game, but prices are as irresistible to me as to any one else, as you shall see when I tell you that after having seen Chicago Gas go from around 40 to nearly par, I couldn't conceive that it could ever go back to where it started from. While it was selling above 90, I got a 'put' on 1,000 shares, and I took out of that 'put' a profit of $700, whereas if I had held it a week I could have made $50,000. Chicago Gas did go back to its starting point in the forties. When you discuss the public in the stock market you must keep in mind that human nature is the same as it always has been, and that rising prices eventually become irresistible. The public will come into this market if the inducements are offered, because human nature has not changed in the last two or three years. I shall not turn in earnest to the bear side until my office and all the other offices that I know of are loaded up with stocks."

ROTHSCHILD COPPER STOCK.

One-Fifth Anaconda's Capital Bought When Metal Was Selling Low.

In regard to the Central Trust Company's holdings of Anaconda Mining Company's stock, reported to be 247,000 shares, the statement was published in Wall Street yesterday that these were held for the account of the Rothschilds.

The par value of the stock is $25 a share, so that the holdings represent stock of a face value of $6,175,000, one-fifth of the entire capitalization of the company. The Rothschild interest in the Anaconda, it is said, was acquired in 1895, when copper was selling under 9 cents a pound, about half the present price.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call on Stock Exchange collateral loaned at 5@8 per cent., with the last loan at 8 per cent. Most of the day's business was done at 5¼ per cent.

Time money rates, 4¼@4½ per cent. for all periods.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Money was wanted in the market to-day for the Consols settlement, and considerable sums which had to be repaid to the Bank of England. Discounts hardened.

Prices on the Stock Exchange were heavy owing to fears of dearer money. Consols opened depressed, and recovered a fraction, but lost it at the close. Home rails drooped.

Americans were an exception to the prevailing conditions, and opened steady at parity. The changes were mixed. Union Pacific was offered. Prices later were mostly firmer. Trading was quiet and the market closed dull. Canadian Pacific hardened on the traffic increase. Grand Trunk declined. The traffic returns were regarded favorably, but were used as a cover for selling.

Foreigners were moderately steady and inactive.

Japanese were in fair demand. Kafirs were weak. Japanese Imperial Sixes of 1904 were quoted at 105¼.

Bar silver steady at 28⅝d per ounce.

Gold premiums are quoted as follows: Madrid, 29.52; Lisbon, 5.

TRUST COMPANIES DEFER THEIR REPLY TO BANKS

Their Officials Disinclined to Discuss Their Attitude.

AWAIT DEFINITE PROPOSALS

Gage Says State Alone Has Right to Impose Reserves — Bannard Considers High Interest Rate Responsible for Conditions.

The plan proposed at Tuesday's meeting of the Clearing House Association for the renewal of amicable relations between the Clearing House and the trust companies was discussed by bankers yesterday. Few trust company officials, however, were inclined to tell what would be their attitude toward the Clearing House's proposition. The trust company officers hold that it is too early to express an opinion on the subject. They say that until the proposals are received in definite form it would be impossible to say what the reply of the trust companies would be.

Members of the Clearing House committee, which is charged with devising a plan by which the return of the trust companies to the Clearing House may be brought about, said that no definite line of procedure had yet been formulated. Neither could they say how soon the movement would take positive form.

It came out yesterday that the exact form of the resolution adopted at the meeting was slightly different from the published wording. The resolution is now said by a prominent member of the association to be:

Resolved, That the Clearing House Committee be requested to consider the relations of the Clearing House and the trust companies to the end that harmonious relations may be renewed on a basis that will insure their return to the Clearing House either as members or through representative banks.

The committee was "requested," not "required," to take the matter under consideration.

Otto T. Bannard, President of the New York Trust Company, expressed the opinion that the high rate of interest was the fundamental cause of unsoundness in the present relation of banks and trust companies. If the banks would only pay the companies 1 per cent. on deposits, instead of 2 per cent., he believed they would be able to carry more of the companies' funds idle, and thereby keep up the cash reserve.

"The banks pay too much interest, and the trust companies also pay too much," said Mr. Bannard yesterday. "The rivalry among the banks prevents any one of them from cutting its rate, for fear deposits might be withdrawn. When the money rate goes above 2 per cent., of course, we withdraw money from the banks and put it where we can get more interest. But we have to keep good balances with the banks on account of their constant aid in the transaction of business, and if they paid us 1 per cent., the balances would be there just the same.

"As to the question of the trust companies' re-entering the Clearing House, I can't say anything about that, because the banks have made no proposal yet. Until they do it is not for us to consider the proposition. You know the trust companies were put out of the Clearing House a year or so ago; I think we were perfectly justified in getting out when we did.

"The more statements made by both banks and trust companies the better. But we have nobody to make statements to now, since we are out of the Clearing House and have no similar organization of our own.

"In this matter of reserve, why is it that the reserves of some of the big private banking firms are not inquired into? There is continual talk of the trust companies' reserves, but none of those of the banking concerns. Yet the latter deal with the public just as much as we do, and there is just as much reason why they should have a standard reserve. For that matter, a call loan to a broker is the best reserve in the world. Why, we can call that in in two minutes—over the telephone. When this is not so we'll all—banks and trust companies—have to close up and go out of business."

Lyman J. Gage, formerly Secretary of the Treasury and now President of the United States Trust Company, showed the general attitude of the trust companies when, in response to inquiries, he said:

"The matter has not been brought to our attention in any official or formal way yet, and of course it is too soon to talk about the outcome of the proposition. The initiative, of course, will be taken by the Clearing House. The trust companies will wait and hear what the proposition is. We will of course give a reasonable proposition due consideration.

"As to the attitude of the trust companies toward any action by the Clearing House in the matter of reserves to be carried by the trust companies. I would say that the State is the only body that has power to govern this, but, if the Clearing House submits any proposition which is reasonable, the trust companies surely will give the proposition the consideration it is entitled to."

Financial Notes.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Mitchell Mining Company yesterday, Martin F. Morris was elected a Director in the place of George A. Fitch.

Application has been made to the Stock Exchange to list $3,000,000 additional unified fifty-year 4 per cent. bonds of 1940 of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway Company warrants for subscription, second installment paid, for convertible 4 per cent. bonds, have been stricken from the Stock Exchange list.

The syndicate formed by J. & W. Seligman & Co. and Redmond & Co. to purchase $5,000,000 Chicago and Eastern Illinois 4 per cent. refunding and improvement bonds, offered for sale by them this week, has been closed. This syndicate was formed only a short time ago.

Kinnicutt & Porter have issued a bulletin arguing for the superiority of railroad bonds as investments to real estate mortgages. The holder of a mortgage, the bulletin says, is at a great disadvantage because of the changing value of property, receiving no direct benefit from an increase of value and standing the larger part of the risk. First-class railroad bonds, however, generally increase in value, and the holder gets the benefit.

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Chicago Subway Again the Largest Seller on the Curb.

But the Movement In It Was Small—Mackay Companies Strong—Bethlehem Steel Shows Little Gain—Japanese Bonds Up.

Chicago Subway was the biggest seller on the curb yesterday, but the volume of sales had little effect on the movement of the stock. Opening at 57½, it hovered thereabouts all day, once rising to 58 and once falling to 57. Mackay Companies was strong around 46½; 3,030 shares were sold. Houston Oil was very active, and at the close it was going at 5. Bethlehem Steel showed a fractional gain. Interborough Rapid Transit fell off to 212½. Japanese 4½ per cent. bonds went up to 90⅝.

The principal transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

L. & N. R. R. PROSPERING.

Line Paid $3,600,000 Dividends in Its Last Fiscal Year.

The net earnings of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad increased $224,805 last year. Of the gross earnings, $38,517,071, freight traffic contributed nearly three-fourths, or $27,732,625. Operating expenses amounted to $26,490,021. The table showing comparison with 1903-4 is as follows:

	1905.	1904.
Expenses	26,490,021	25,141,548
Net earnings	$12,027,050	$11,802,245
Other income	1,627,491	1,635,154
Total income	$13,654,545	$13,437,399
Charges, taxes, sinking fund, &c.	6,827,501	6,749,228
Surplus	$6,827,040	$6,688,171
Dividends	3,600,000	3,000,000
Surplus	$3,227,040	$3,688,171

The decrease in surplus is due to the increase in dividends, $3,600,000 being paid out in dividends as compared with $3,000,000 the year before. The total profit and loss surplus, $14,899,106, is $3,000,000 greater than it was in June, 1904, and indicates that the road is in a high state of prosperity.

In his report, President M. H. Smith recites the completion of the extension from Oneonta, Ala., to a connection with the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis at Attalla, Ala. By means of this extension the Louisville and Nashville now has a through line between the Birmingham district and Atlanta. The Board of Directors has authorized the construction of a new ten-story office building in Louisville. The building will cost $600,000.

ADVANCE IN SHIPBUILDING.

American Company's Net Earnings Increased Nearly $500,000 Last Year.

The American Shipbuilding Company has issued its annual report showing an increase in net earnings of $493,914 over the previous year. After the payment of $553,000 in dividends the year's balance is $681,042, as compared with $187,128 on June 30, 1904. The total surplus now is $4,318,792.

During the year, twenty vessels, with a net carrying capacity of 164,400 tons, were constructed. The company has contracted to deliver twenty-one vessels next Spring.

At the stockholders' meeting in Jersey City yesterday, Edwin Smith was elected a Director to succeed the late Luther Allen. Other Directors were re-elected. The income account of the company for 1904-05 is as follows:

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—New York exchange was 10c discount. Time and call loans, 4@5 per cent.

There was a tendency to firmness and activity in Chicago Subway shares on the local Exchange to-day. During the morning about 650 shares changed hands on the scale up to 58. Several other issues showed fair strength, Can preferred and Boxboard stocks being of the number. Boxboard preferred sold as high as 14¼ before further attempts to take pool profits caused a dip to below 14. In Biscuit there was early weakness, the common selling off from 55½ and the preferred ranging at 113@113½. Swift's went at 108 and Kansas City Light at 55. Bonds were fairly active early. The list:

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The tone of the local money market is a shade easier, although no change in the rates has come. The usual table follows:

Call loans, 5 per cent.; time loans on collateral, 4½@5 per cent.; time loans on mercantile paper, 5 per cent.; Clearing House loans, 4 per cent.; New York funds, 10c discount; clearings, $29,823,029; balances, $1,719,575; Sub-Treasury debit, $120,495.

Copper shares again opened active and strong, with the low-priced issues the feature. Boston Consolidated, Victoria, and Michigan were the leaders in activity, while North Butte, Atlantic, Copper Range, and Centennial continued favorites with the traders. There was a good deal of profit taking, but the buying power was strong enough to take all the offerings without the prices being materially affected.

After the noon hour trading was rather quiet, but prices held fairly well. In the afternoon there was more of an effort to sell stocks on account of the weakness in New York, but a fairly good undertone continued until the closing.

Complete list of transactions follows:

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—New York's weakness adversely affected the local issues, particularly those in which New York has recently been operating, like Lehigh Valley, which declined 1¼, and Cambria Steel, which receded ⅝. United States Steel common was heavily dealt in, leading the market in point of activity. Reading was quieter. Lake Superior Corporation developed strength on its showing for the year ended June 30 last, a surplus of $34,802 having been earned above fixed charges. There was a little boom in Lehigh Navigation, the trust certificates advancing 3½ and the unassented stock 1¾, although the latter was 2 points higher on the closing bid, while the trust certificates receded 1½ in the late trading. Pennsylvania Steel preferred advanced 1, but later lost the gain. Some persistent selling of Tonopah Mining sent its price off ½, and Westmoreland Coal was a point lower.

Bonds were in better demand. Philadelphia houses were large sellers in New York to-day. Total sales, 43,775 shares. The list:

MARYLAND TRUST OFFER.

Speyer & Co. Plan to Reorganize the Baltimore Concern.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.—It developed in financial circles here to-day that Speyer & Co. of New York are among the principals whom Hugh Bond, Jr., represents in the offer made to reorganize the Maryland Trust Company.

The Maryland Trust Company failed about a year ago as the result of investments upon which it was unable to realize, the chief of these being some $8,000,000 of Vera Cruz and Pacific Railroad bonds. The receiver of the trust company offered these bonds for sale, and after some sharp competition from Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and another banking house they were sold to Speyer & Co.

The proceeds of this sale aided materially in paying off creditors and even lent to the hope of a reorganization. Mr. Bond made his offer to effect this in a week, and it is still under consideration, but with the backing of Speyer & Co. it is probable that the company will again be put on its feet financially. Henry Walters of the Atlantic Coast Line, and Louisville and Nashville Railroad was a prominent Director of the Maryland Trust Company, which was capitalized at $2,125,000.

Groehl's Right to Bring Action Upheld by New Jersey Court.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, Oct. 4.—Vice Chancellor Garrison filed an opinion in the Court of Chancery to-day upholding the right of Adam H. Groehl of Newark to maintain his suit against the United Gas Improvement Company to recover for the United Electric Company $20,000,000 alleged to be fraudulent profits. The Directors of the United Electric Company refused to commence the suit at the instigation of Groehl, a stockholder. The Vice Chancellor said:

"There can be no question that promoters are liable to the corporation for profits secretly made by them in its promotion, and that such liability arises in cases where future allottees of stock are concerned. There can be no question that where the corporation refuses to bring suit, stockholders may sue in its behalf, joining it as a defendant."

The case will now go to trial on its merits.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Frozen Smelts Assessed at 60 Per Cent.—Other Decisions.

In a decision by C. P. McClelland, the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled a claim made by R. M. Kelley of Bangor, Me. The Collector of Customs assessed duty on importations of frozen smelts at the rate of 30 per cent. ad valorem. This classification was opposed by the importer, who maintained that an equitable assessment would be three-quarters of a cent per pound. The action of the Collector is affirmed.

Gen. Sharretts wrote a decision for the board sustaining a claim filed by George Borgfeldt & Co. of New York and Boston regarding the customs classification of articles claimed to be toy violins. The Collector at Boston returned the articles for duty at the rate of 45 per cent. under the provision in the Dingley tariff law for musical instruments. The Collector's return is reversed by the board and a reliquidation directed on the basis of 35 per cent., the rate applicable to "toys."

Other importers' claims sustained were those of the A. Bader Company of New York and Borgfeldt & Co. of Boston. The latter claim dealt with the classification of medallions.

The board overruled claims filed by Hunken, Neale & Forbes, George Borgfeldt & Co., Veit, Son & Co., Aimone Manufacturing Company, Samuel Schiff & Co. of New York and Gimbel Brothers of Philadelphia.

The board partially sustained claims submitted by Bloomingdale Brothers, the Lichtenstein Millinery Company and others, the Leon Rheims Company of New York and Gimbel Brothers of Philadelphia.

REFORM LAWYER BANKRUPT.

Lodowick Holmes Jones Owes $498,607 and Says He Has No Assets.

Lodowick Holmes Jones, a lawyer of 80 William Street, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday, with liabilities of $498,607 and no available assets. He has office furniture valued at $50, for which he claims exemption.

Mr. Holmes was examined recently in supplementary proceedings in the City Court, and to prevent further examination he filed the petition in bankruptcy. Part of the debts were contracted in this city, some in Buffalo, where Mr. Jones lived for twenty-seven years up to March, 1903, when he came to this city and became President of the 80 William Street Building Company. Of his liabilities, $89,000 is to the Seamen's Bank for Savings, and $153,500 to Anzonetta B. Wolfe and William Irving Clark, executors, on a guarantee in both cases to hold Lorena R. Jones harmless on account of bonds and mortgages on the property at 80 William Street.

While in Buffalo, Lawyer Jones was prominent in the reform movement there. He was also interested in real estate. Among his creditors in that city are the Buffalo Savings Bank, $105,000; Third National Bank of Buffalo, $6,300; German-American Bank of Buffalo, $28,000, receivers of the Bank of Commerce of Buffalo, $34,700, and Albert Moot, $16,000, all in bonds for part payment of the Academy of Music and agreement to pay a mortgage on that property. He owes $2,000 as a contingent liability with several others for the New York and New England Underwriters at Lloyd's of the City of New York. Lorena Ridgely Jones is a creditor for $4,850, and Ella W. Stanler of Baltimore $9,000.

CANADIAN PACIFIC REPORT.

Gross Revenue from Traffic in the Fiscal Year Over $50,000,000.

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Pacific Railway Directors was held to-day. In moving the adoption of the report the President said:

"Your gross revenue from traffic during the fiscal year was over $50,000,000, and even this large sum should be exceeded by a considerable amount in the current year. The business conditions throughout Canada are at the moment more favorable than at any other time in the history of the company."

At a meeting of the board, subsequently held, Sir William C. Van Horne was re-elected Chairman of the board, Sir Thomas C. Shaughnessy President, and David McNicoll Vice President of the company.

UNUSUAL INVESTMENTS.
Here are 2 opportunities which seldom occur.
One is a store property on one of the principal downtown streets. Established stores on first floor and cold-water flats above. Always rented; small expense; no trouble. Large brick building, of the very best modern construction, extra well built, 44x85, 5 stories. Cost $60,000 to build without the lots. Will sacrifice at $50,000, on easy terms. Rented now for 15% net, after deducting all expenses, including repairs; will bring more in the future.
The other investment consists of 2 new apartment houses, near main entrance to Prospect Park, on one of the best streets on the Park Slope. These buildings were lately built by one of our best builders in a superior manner. Buildings 25x90, accommodating 4 families in each house, now leased at over $2,800 per annum, worth more. Lowest price $23,500 each, $5,000 cash required. There are no handsomer apartment houses, of their size, in Brooklyn, and they will stand a strict investigation.

DARLINGTON LETTER WAKES GROUT AT 1 A. M.

Controller Lets Some Steam Off at the Board of Estimate.

HE DOESN'T WORK ALL NIGHT

Moreover, He's Against Giving the Health Board $800,000 for Medical School Inspection.

Proceedings of the Board of Estimate were enlivened yesterday by a more than usually vigorous tilt between Controller Grout and Health Commissioner Darlington.

The Controller entered the Council Chamber for the meeting wearing his fighting face, and he let everybody know immediately what the matter was. Dr. Darlington was due to present the estimates for his department for the 1906 budget. In his anxiety that the members should look with favoring eyes upon his demands, the Commissioner on Tuesday night mailed a personal letter to each member of the board, explaining the work of the department and the reasons for the sums asked. The letters were sent to the homes of the members and a zealous clerk put special delivery stamps on all.

The Controller was routed out of bed at 1 o'clock in the morning to receive the Commissioner's communication. He said he was sound asleep when the letter reached him, but he certainly was wide awake when he referred to the matter in the board meeting yesterday.

"Was it necessary to wake me up at 1 in the morning?" was the Controller's opening remark when Dr. Darlington stepped before the board.

"My office works all the time," said the Commissioner.

"Well, mine does not," snapped the Controller, "and I do not think that heads of departments should send their communications to our private houses. We work during working hours. Have you hospital accommodations for us so we may be cared for when you have destroyed our health by ruining our sleep?"

Commissioner Darlington smilingly thought he could arrange to care for the Controller when that stage was reached. Then he presented his budget requisitions calling for an appropriation of $2,516,396 for 1906, as against $1,685,077 for last year. The Controller held up his hands in horror at the increase. Mayor McClellan was called away suddenly, so the Health Commissioner had to fight his battle all alone.

"This is absurd," announced the Controller. "You are asking almost twice what you had last year."

"Yes, and I should like to ask four times as much for the good of the department," retorted Dr. Darlington. "The money is necessary if the department is to carry out the provisions of the charter. An increase of $144,900 is requested for medical school inspection. It is no good providing education for a child unless you keep the child alive to benefit by it."

Controller Grout demanded to know by what right the Commissioner intended to go into the public schools and examine the children.

"The Health Department is getting too eager," said the Controller. "These duties are not imposed by the charter."

The Health Commissioner wanted that matter referred to the Corporation Counsel, but to this the Controller objected.

"I'll leave it to no one," he said. "You are working on the same theory under which the police made their raids without warrant of law."

Mayor McClellan returned then, and the tilt ended. The Commissioner retired without explaining his reasons for the other increases he asked for. The Controller declared it his intention to oppose them in the executive sessions of the board.

The Board of Education asked for an increase of $3,129,023 over last year, or a total for 1906 of $25,126,040. The Police Department asked for $15,146,462, or an increase of $2,399,571. The Charities Department wants $1,154,474 for the year, an advance of about $250,000. The City Clerk, the Art Commission, the Normal College, and similar institutions asked for trifling advances. The Tenement House Commission wants $825,810, an increase of $57,791. Park Commissioner Pallas asked for $1,191,280, an increase of $669,097.

BROOKLYN POLICE SHAKE-UP.

More Punishment for McGlynn and Gallagher—Eight Other Changes.

Nine Police Captains and one Acting Captain were transferred by Commissioner McAdoo yesterday afternoon. Of theee men all but two are in Brooklyn. The changes are:

JAMES E. DILLON, from King's Bridge to the Central Office to command the School of Instruction, take charge of the pistol practice, and become drill instructor.

JAMES McGLYNN, from Delancey Street to King's Bridge.

JOHN W. O'CONNOR, from Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, to Delancey Street, Manhattan.

JAMES P. WHITE, from Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, to Prospect Park, Brooklyn.

ALEXANDER PINKERTON, from Flatbush to Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn.

JOHN F. GARDINER, from Williamsburg Bridge Squad to Buehwick Avenue, Brooklyn.

SYLVESTER D. BALDWIN, from Amity Street, Brooklyn, to Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn.

BERNARD J. HAYES, from Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, to Williamsburg Bridge Squad.

Acting Captain WILLIAM BROPHY, from Prospect Park to Amity Street, Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn transfers were made, the Commissioner said, "on recommendation of Inspector Cross and for good public and police reasons." He gave no other explanation.

Capt. McGlynn, who goes to Kingsbridge from the Delancey Street Station, was in command of the West 125th Street Station for a long time, but didn't come up to the Commissioner's expectation. The present transfer is taken to mean a continuation of his punishment. Capt. Gallagher was in command of the East Twenty-second Street Station before Capt. Hussey. He failed there, and Mr. McAdoo gave him a chance at the Bedford Avenue Station, Brooklyn's "tenderloin." He is said also to have failed there, and is now sent to Flatbush.

REJECTS PAVING BIDS.

President Ahearn Scents Collusion Among Wood Block Contractors.

Borough President Ahearn has rejected all the bids recently submitted for wood block paving lower Broadway and the side streets. He declares the bids were unfair, and that there is evidence of collusion between the various biddere. The bidders were Eppinger & Russell, the Franklyn Contracting Company, the Republic Construction Company, and the United States Wood Preserving Company.

The highest bid was $3.04 a square yard and the lowest $2.85. All bids were alike for the concrete on which the wood blocks were to be laid, the price being $6.80 per square yard. The bids were for work amounting to $200,000.

Forger, Making Restitution, Forgiven.

Charles H. Fryer, recently released under a suspended sentence after having pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery and then rearrested on six additional indictments for the same offense, was discharged on his own recognizance yesterday. District Attorney Jerome explained to Judge Newburger that the young man was working hard to pay back the money his employers lost by his forgeries, and that, if served likely he would benefit by that action.

CAB HORSE RAN AWAY.

Driver's Coolness Saves Mrs. Joanna Riker and Her Daughter.

Two women and two men were injured when a hansom cab crashed into an Adams Express wagon at Madison Avenue and Forty-first Street shortly before noon yesterday. The women who were injured were Mrs. Joanna Riker, a widow of 303 Madison Avenue, and her daughter, Mrs. Bullard, wife of Dr. W. Duff Bullard of 54 West Forty-fifth Street. The men were Joseph Murphy, the driver of the cab, and William Walters, one of the men in charge of the express wagon.

The collision was deliberately planned by Murphy after his horse had taken the bit between his teeth and was running away. It was either a bump into the express wagon or a greater mix-up at Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street, and Murphy had the presence of mind to choose the lesser danger.

Murphy was driving north on Madison Avenue near Fortieth Street when his horse bolted. From Forty-first to Forty-second Street is a downward grade, which drivers know as one of the worst in the city. At the bottom of it the Madison Avenue cars swing into Forty-second Street, and there is nearly always a jam of other vehicles. Murphy thought of it, and as he reached the crest of the hill he saw the express wagon standing against the eastern curb on Madison Avenue. He could not stop the horse, but succeeded in turning it so that the right wheel of the cab struck the wagon.

The cab capsized, and Murphy was thrown into the street. Mrs. Bullard had jumped at the last moment, and although she got a bad fall she was not dangerously injured. Mrs. Riker, however, was pinned under the cab. Policeman McCabe and several other men ran to the spot and quickly lifted the cab, releasing Mrs. Riker. She was carried into her home—the accident having occurred almost before her door. Her injuries were slight.

Of the others only Walters was seriously enough injured to require surgical attention. He was cut and bruised about the body and was taken to Flower Hospital.

WESTERN UNION TO M'ADOO.

It Won't Make Police Its Agents, So They Can Enter Poolrooms.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has refused to accede to Commissioner McAdoo's request that it commission the police as agents of the company so they could enter places supposed to be poolrooms. The New York Telephone Company has a similar request under consideration.

Mr. McAdoo made the request after a raid on a poolroom in East Tenth Street, where several telegraph instruments were found. The Western Union says that its wires have never been connected with the East Tenth Street place, so far as its records show. Then the company says:

As reports of horse races are no longer being transmitted over the wires of this company, except possibly in the form of messages or newspaper specials, which are filed and delivered in the same manner as other commercial or press messages, I do not understand what object any one would have in tapping our wires in connection with the traffic to which you refer.

It is not clear to me how the credentials which you request for agents of your department can be needed in securing the admission of your men into suspicious places to find out whether or not the wires are being used for illegal purposes, nor how such papers could possibly be obtained in your investigation; but, however this may be, we prefer not to depart from our rule not to issue such credentials to persons unassociated with our service.

The New York Telephone Company in its reply says that President Bethel to whom Mr. McAdoo's request would be referred, is out of the city.

TO BUY SHADOW BROOK.

S. P. Shotter to Purchase A. P. Stokes's Big House in Berkshires.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Oct. 4.—Shadow Brook, formerly the country property of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes of New York, will within a week pass to Samuel P. Shotter of Savannah, Ga., who is completing negotiations for the purchase of the house and a considerable block of the 900 acres which surround it.

This property cost Mr. Stokes $1,500,000. The house, which has a frontage of over 400 feet, is next in size to George Vanderbilt's Biltmore, as an American private residence.

Mr. Stokes lived on this estate for several seasons. In the Autumn of 1898, while riding a young hunter in his park, Mr. Stokes was thrown against a tree and his leg was cruehed. The injury was so serious that the amputation of the limb followed. Deprived of riding as a recreation, Mr. Stokes settled on yachting for amusement, and left Lenox and built a large house at Noroton, Conn. Shadow Brook was placed in the market, and for two Summer it has been conducted as a hotel.

It is understood in Lenox that Mr. Shotter will play about $250,000 for the house and about 200 acres of land, including a valuable lake frontage. Mr. and Mrs. Shotter and their family have been for two Summers tenants of Lakeside, Charles Astor Bristed's country place on Stockbridge Bowl.

HORSE ROLLED OVER HER.

Park Policeman Sure Mrs. Welles Was Killed, But She Escaped.

Mrs. Elizabeth Welles of 58 Central Park West narrowly escaped being crushed by her horse while riding in the Park yesterday morning. Mrs. Welles was cantering north along the west bridle path, near Eighty-ninth Street, when the horse stumbled, throwing her over his head to the ground. The horse was going so fast that he could not check his momentum until he had seemingly rolled completely over the prostrate young woman.

"The horse seemed to turn a full somersault over his rider," said Sergt. Hefferon of the Park police, who saw the accident. "Unless you had seen it you wouldn't believe such a thing could have happened without instantly killing Mrs. Welles."

Mrs. Welles escaped with only a fractured nose and a lacerated chin. She was attended by Dr. Clark of 25 West Seventy-fifth Street, and then left for home in a carriage.

The horse was uninjured.

EFFECT OF RACE RIOT BLOW.

Queer Actions of Policeman Hurt in July Delay Negro's Trial.

At the trial before Judge Foster in General Sessions yesterday of Robert Seaton, a negro, charged with throwing a brick at Policeman David Roche of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station in the July race riots, the complainant acted so queerly on the stand that the court ordered him to withdraw.

By questioning other policemen, Judge Foster reached the conclusion that the behavior of Roche was the result of injuries inflicted on him by Seaton. The case was adjourned and Seaton sent back to the Tombs pending an improvement in the policeman's condition.

Ship Draughting in Night Schools.

A class in ship draughting is being formed. This is to be an elective study in the evening high schools. Already a dozen or more young men have expressed their desire to take up this line of study. A few more are still needed to warrant the Superintendent in taking up the work. He feels positive that if the matter becomes more thoroughly known others will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity.

William Redmond Gone Home.

William Redmond, M. P., sailed for home yesterday morning on the White Star liner Oceanic, full of praise for American hospitality. Many well-known Irishmen were at the pier to bid him good-bye.

TRADE MARK REG'D.
OVER 6000 CLOTHES ONLY

THE production of clothes for men has undergone many improvements. American ready-made Clothing has reached a very high standard. Men who formerly wore none but clothes fashioned by Exclusive Tailors nowadays wear "Ready-Made." But the most important element—that of insuring the HEALTH and COMFORT of man, was left for the Hope Clothing Company to introduce.

This we did on June 1st with our "Ant-i-wet" Serge Suits. The spontaneous success of "Ant-i-wet" is best attested by the hundreds upon hundreds of wearers from whom we have received no words but of praise.

We Now Introduce ANT-I-WET Fabrics in Complete Lines of Fall and Winter Clothing.

Ant-i-wet clothes have these distinctive features:

FIRST—They are moisture proof; a protection against colds.

SECOND—They allow free circulation, which ensures your comfort.

FOURTH—The designs are original and "advanced."

FIFTY YEARS A TEACHER.

Death of Miss Susanna Whitney, Whose Brother Fought with Washington.

Miss Susanna Whitney of old Revolutionary stock and for more than forty years Principal of Public School No. 41, in Greenwich Avenue, near Charles Street, died yesterday of nervous prostration at the home of her brother, Warren Whitney, at 58 Bank Street, at the age of 85.

For more than fifty years she was connected with the public schools of this city, retiring nineteen years ago. She was born in Boston in 1821, and came to this city when 8 years old. In 1836 she was appointed a teacher and assigned to Public School No. 41 in old Greenwich village. Ten years later she succeeded her sister as Principal, and held that post till 1886, when she was retired.

The oldest residents of Greenwich village remember a day when Miss Whitney became a heroine. It was in 1851. A fire started in the school, and 1,800 children were in danger. Miss Whitney, as soon as she learned of the fire, put the children through a fire drill and marched them out of the building without a child being scared.

Then she returned to make sure that everybody was out of the building. While walking through the smoke-filled halls she fell unconscious over a balustrade. She lay at the bottom of the stairway for four hours before she was found.

Miss Whitney's father fought in the Revolution. Her oldest brother, Col. Josiah Whitney, was on the staff of Gen. Washington. Her family was related to Paul Revere. In Greenwich village she was known and loved by all—a venerable woman with snow-white hair and a kind face.

DRUGGISTS WITH ROOSEVELT.

Indorse His Railroad Policy at Their National Convention.

The railroad policy of President Roosevelt received hearty indorsement at the convention of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association yesterday from the Committee on Transportation. Chairman West, in his report, urged his colleagues to give all possible support to the President and his Cabinet, declaring that the railroads violated the anti-discrimination laws in a most systematic manner.

An effort to have a resolution passed was quashed. Lupien B. Hall of Cleveland was elected President.

STATE'S WATER POLLUTED.

Commissioner of Health Declares Most Streams Carry Typhoid.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The annual conference of the sanitary officers of the State of New York began here this afternoon and will continue to-morrow.

Eugene H. Porter, State Commissioner of Health, declared that practically all the streams of the State are contaminated. "Many of them are little better than open sewers," he said. "Always with the sewage flooding down goes the stealthy and deadly typhoid. Practically all typhoid fever comes from polluted water. Typhoid fever is inexcusable."

Crockery Expert Gets an Office.

Appraiser Whitehead was notified yesterday by the Treasury Department of the appointment of John W. Burgess of Wilmington, Del., as Assistant Appraiser in the pottery division of the Appraiser's office. W. F. Gerry will be continued in the wool department. Mr. Burgess is said to be a crockery expert.

PEABODY TRUST TO RUN ON.

Eighteen Months' Wait for Nashville Institution to Meet Terms of Gift.

Because the George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville has not technically complied with the conditions of the grant of $1,000,000 made by Trustees of the Peabody Education Fund, the distribution of the remainder of the fund and the dissolving of the trust has been postponed for at least a year and a half. That was the decision reached yesterday at the meeting of the Trustees in the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

President Roosevelt was the only member of the Board of Trustees who did not attend. The condition of the grant was that $800,000 should be secured from other sources. It was expected that bonds for $50,000 would be issued by Davidson County, $200,000 by Nashville, and $250,000 by Tennessee.

There is about $2,300,000 in the fund to be distributed, aside from the $1,000,000 for Peabody College. It was decided yesterday that the whole amount should be given to Southern educational institutions. Chief Justice Fuller, D. C. Gilman, Richard Olney, Morris K. Jesup, J. Pierpont Morgan, and Judge Henry M. Somerville were appointed a committee on distribution. Chief Justice Fuller was re-elected Chairman of the trust, Joseph H. Choate First Vice Chairman, Daniel C. Gilman Second Vice Chairman, J. Pierpont Morgan Treasurer, and Dr. Samuel Green Secretary and General Agent. In the last year $35,500 was distributed by the Trustees for education in the South.

Lake Superior Company's Earnings.

At the annual meeting of the Lake Superior Corporation, Alfred P. Boller was elected to succeed George B. Terrell as a Director. The total income was $585,539 and the surplus $34,862. The assets are valued at $53,916,799. President Warren says extensions and additions to the plant will be made. He expects a 50 per cent. increase in output and much larger net earnings.

their enormous stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing, Furnishing Goods and Hats for what it will bring at retail, King's, after ten years of successful business, will vacate their big store, corner of Broadway and Park Place.

The stocks of the best manufacturers in this city are now on our counters—high grade Suits, Fall and Winter Overcoats and Top Coats, Long Overcoats, special shipment of Full-Dress Suits and expensively made Cravenettes and Paddock Overcoats; also separate Trousers. Many of these garments would usually sell for $30 to $40.

This enormous stock of high-grade clothing has been delivered to us and is now on our tables—ready to be sacrificed.

The Reason Why We Are Forced to Sell:

The United Cigar Stores Company have leased the building cor. Broadway and Park Place and taken the store and other floors over our heads. They now ask us a prohibitive rental SHOULD WE CHOOSE TO REMAIN. We refuse to accede to their terms and will vacate.

We will sell to the public our quarter of a million dollar stock of Men's and Boys' Clothing, Furnishing Goods and Hats at

MOSS THREATENS DOOLEY.

He Must Accept Bonds or Be Liable to Arrest, Says the Magistrate.

Magistrate Moss, in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday, read Section 553 of the Penal Code to Sergt. McGloin of the Tenderloin Station, and reprimanded him for refusing, at Capt. Dooley's orders, to accept bail in misdemeanor cases from men supposed to be professional bondsmen.

"If another case of this kind comes up before me," said the Magistrate, "I will act at once. I am accessible day or night for the accepting of bail, and if I hear of any police Captain or Sergeant refusing to accept bail for a misdemeanor, I shall feel compelled to make a complaint myself before the Police Commissioner. You have made yourself liable to arrest, and so has your Captain."

The case in hand was that of Charles Francis, bartender for Samuel Nelson, accused of violating the excise law. Capt. Dooley had taken great credit for his scheme to outwit the bondsmen.

Several of Capt. Cottrell's old detectives went out last night and found three of the women invited to Mr. Dooley's pink tea recently, who had paid no attention to his order to "get out of my district." The women described themselves as Lillian Thompson, of 56 West Twenty-fourth Street; Anna Woods, of 140 West Twenty-fourth Street, and Minnie Bull, of 133 West Twenty-ninth Street.

The report on the Bon Ton Club raid by Inspector Schmittberger and Capt. Dooley went to the Commissioner yesterday afternoon. He may finish reading it to-day.

Mathews Trial Begins To-day.

The trial of Armitage Mathews, charged with conspiracy to rob the Weisell estate, of which David Rothschild was temporary administrator, will begin this morning before Justice Davy in Criminal Branch, Supreme Court. The jury will be drawn from a special panel of 200 talesmen. Assistant District Attorney Rand will prosecute, assisted by Messrs. Garvan and Kresel. Ex-Gov. Black and W. M. K. Olcott will appear for the defendant.

Many of the patterns shown in our men's fall suits are our very own ideas, caught in the cloths by skillful weavers.

$130,000,000 BOND ISSUE TO FINANCE THE CANAL

And to Repay $50,000,000 and Wipe Out the Deficit.

A POPULAR PANAMA ISSUE

Bonds of Small Denominations—Argument Against Placing Full Cost of Work on This Generation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The transfer of the Panama Canal from the War to the State Department is not the only nor the most important step in canal matters that is under consideration. Congress will have much to say this Winter as to financing the canal.

It will not be long before the balance of the $10,000,000 appropriated by the Spooner act to go on with the work of construction will be exhausted. There remained of that amount on Oct. 1 a little more than $3,000,000. In the comparative suspension of work the drain on this fund may not use it up for several months. Much that has been spent thus far has gone for equipment, and the expenditure for actual labor is a considerably smaller amount.

The President has before him the alternative of issuing bonds or asking further appropriations from Congress. Further appropriations are regarded as unwise. The $50,000,000 paid under the Spooner act—$40,000,000 of it for the rights and property of the French Canal Company and the stockholders of the old canal company—was primarily the cause of the present deficiency in the Treasury. It is now proposed that the canal, like the proverbial tub, be made to stand on its own bottom. That may be done by the issue of canal bonds in successive series sufficient to meet passing obligations and thus avoid appropriations which would unduly drain the Treasury.

The Spooner act authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to issue gold bonds to the amount of $130,000,000. To make this a popular loan the denomination of these bonds was fixed at $20 or multiples of that sum. There is little doubt that canal bonds would sell to advantage.

A further part of the plan under consideration is another step in the policy of making the canal stand on its own bottom. This is to apply the proceeds of the first series of bonds to paying back into the Treasury the $50,000,000 taken out by the Spooner act.

"This would be no more than just and right," said a high official of the Government, discussing the matter to-day. "The canal is a world project, and the generations to come after us and to reap the advantage of it should pay their part of its cost. The first payment on account of the canal was a pretty large draft on the present generation. The cost of construction, if entered on actively and prosecuted as it is the intention of the President that it shall be, will add heavily to the burdens of taxation of the people for the next several decades. Why should not the canal be financed as any other great enterprise would be? It is a great asset, and, with the credit of the Government as a guarantee, the canal would build itself as it were.

"This plan would wipe out the deficit, which is thus far $10,350,000. It is true that this is about $7,400,000 less than it was for the same period last year. That is a good sign, but it does not meet the emergency presented by the gigantic expenditure required for the canal, nor does it answer the conviction that the canal should pay for itself as any other investment in transportation improvements is required to do. Nothing may come of the idea, but it is up for discussion, and it is a practical one that will have great weight with those who have to deal with the Government's revenues and expenditures."

The bond clause of the Spooner act contains an authorization for the expenditures of moneys derived from the sale of canal bonds for any and all expenditures on account of the canal, and it is believed that the President is empowered to go forward if it should be deemed wise to do so, and sell bonds and apply the proceeds to making good the deficiency in the Treasury and setting the canal account on an independent basis.

ARRESTED FOR SCHOOL GRAFT

Peoria Superintendent Accused of Forgery—Shortage May Exceed $100,000.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 5.—The arrest to-day of Newton C. Dougherty, City Superintendent of Schools for twenty-five years, on the charge of forgery follows revelations by the Grand Jury, which has been examining the books of the Peoria School Board. Within a comparatively brief time a shortage of $75,000 was discovered, but the further discovery was made that the peculations have been extending over a long term of years. The shortage, it is expected, will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Dougherty was President of the Peoria National Bank and a heavy stockholder in the Dime Savings and Trust Company, the Title and Trust Company, the Peoria Livery Company, and other concerns, as well as a trustee of the fund of $175,000 held by the National Educational Association, and has been President of the association.

WOMAN WITH GEMS IN JAIL.

Accused of Smuggling and Robbery with Man's Aid.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Two sneak-thieves of international notoriety, it is believed, are in custody of Federal officials in this city. Efforts are to be made by Edward L. Montgomery, stepson of Isaac F. Lloyd, Vice President of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, to have the pair taken to New York.

Henry Hoffman, who has a number of alisses and was arrested on charges of smuggling diamonds through the port at Boston, is one of the persons under arrest. Mrs. Henry Schiller, who has numerous other names, is the other prisoner. The specific charge against both prisoners is smuggling.

The pair had 270 diamonds in their possession when arrested.

According to Government officers, both prisoners have confessed robbing the home of Mr. Lloyd, where the woman was employed as a servant. Hundreds of dollars worth of diamonds and silver, taken when the arrests were made, has been practically identified by Mr. Montgomery as from the Lloyd home. The loss by that robbery was estimated at $30,000.

Silk hats and other articles of men's attire were found in the woman's room. According to the officers, she seems willing to accept all responsibility so that Hoffman may be cleared. She is said to be an expert impersonator of men.

Hoffman admits that he met the woman near the Lloyd home, staggering under a load of valuables, and aided her to escape.

A further admission gained from Hoffman, the authorities say, is of a London robbery committed prior to those in New York. He buried the plunder beneath a tree. The woman disguised as a man dug up the treasure, Hoffman said, joining him in flight to the United States.

Both prisoners were held for the Federal Grand Jury by United States Commissioner Foote and are in jail in default of bail.

Capt. McCauley of the Detective Bureau said last night that he had been notified of the arrest of Hoffman and Mrs. Schiller in Chicago, and for a while he thought that they might be the persons wanted for the robbery of Isaac F. Lloyd.

"It turns out that they are not wanted here at all," he declared. "They answered the description, in a measure, of the thieving servants who robbed Mr. Lloyd last March."

At the Lloyd residence, 33 West Seventieth Street, Mr. Lloyd sent word that he did not care to discuss the robbery.

Manager G. E. Webb of the Ansonia Hotel said he believed that Hoffman and Mrs. Schiller were the same persons arrested at his request last year for the robbery of Mrs. William H. Hochster. He added:

"The woman, who went by the name of Elizabeth Becker, was employed as a maid by Mrs. Hochster. The man, who said he was Herman Von Belden, posed as a relative. Mrs. Hochster lost jewels worth about $2,000. After the arrest we were unable to make out a case, and the two were released."

SUICIDE AFTER AUTO CRASH.

Wife of Mr. Stansbery, in Whose Machine a Woman Died, Takes Poison.

Special to The New York Times

PLAINFIELD, Oct. 5.—Mrs. William Stansbery, whose husband is the President of the Watchung Silk Manufacturing Company of this city and a nephew of the late Ambassador to Germany, Thomas Runyon, committed suicide to-day in her home in this city by swallowing carbolic acid. She was alone in her room at the time, her husband having left the house a few minutes earlier in his automobile.

Her screams, after she had taken the poison brought the two maidservants to her side. Both guessed quickly what had happened and showed remarkable presence of mind. While one administered an emetic the other rang up County Physician F. W. Westcott on the telephone. Dr. Westcott, aided by two other physicians, spent several hours trying to save the woman's life, but she died at 6 o'clock this evening, having been unconscious most of the time. Mr. Stansbery was reached soon after she swallowed the poison and was called back to his dying wife's side.

Mrs. Stansbery's act is attributed to the notoriety which fell to her husband after an automobile accident in which he figured a little more than two months ago. The accident occurred at Dunellen in the dark of night on July 23 while Stansbery was riding with Mrs. William A. Westphal, wife of Freeholder Westphal, in his automobile.

A collision took place between their machine and a runabout in which Oscar Harrison was driving to his home in Dunellen. The couple in the automobile were thrown out of their vehicle. Stansbery escaped with a few bruises. Mrs. Westphal was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where she died two days later.

At that time it was said that Westphal did not hold Stansbery to blame for the death of his wife. Harris brought a suit for damages, and Marshal Mohan of Dunellen brought charges against Stansbery for reckless driving. The case was also taken up for investigation by the Grand Jury of Middlesex County. A few days ago Harris got a verdict against Stansbery. The Grand Jury was expected to act within a few days more.

Mrs. Stansbery had not been quite herself since the accident. From being a very bright and vivacious woman, fond of company, she retired from social life and became morose and despondent. She was 40 years old. Her father was the late Samuel Field, a wealthy merchant of this city.

WARNER OBJECTS TO BOOM.

Goes to Kansas City to Ask His Friends to Stop It.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5.—"Roosevelt-Warner" clubs will take the place of the "Warner for President" clubs which have been organized in the West if Senator Warner's wishes are considered.

The Senator came from Washington to Kansas City yesterday prepared to put an end to the Presidential boom that has been started for him. He dislikes the way people in Washington point to him and say, "He thinks he is running for President." So he has asked some of his friends who are pushing him for President to change front.

Many of his friends, however, are not ready to do the Senator's bidding. As a compromise some of them are asking the country Republicans to call their clubs "Roosevelt-Warner" clubs, or at least to kill the words "Warner for President," and never let them be used again.

BOARD OUSTS RAMSEY; DELANO HEADS WABASH

Gould Calls a Meeting Over Night to Take This Action.

RAMSEY ATTENDING, VOTES NO

Declares Call Illegal, Congratulates His Successor, and Will Fight On —Next Struggle on Tuesday.

Joseph Ramsey, Jr., was removed yesterday from the Presidency of the Wabash Railroad by the Directors and F. A. Delano, President of the Wheeling and Lake Erie, elected in his place. Mr. Ramsey attended the meeting. He was the only one of the eight Directors who voted against the resolution that embodied the change in the Presidency, and he protested against the action.

This move on the part of the Gould interests comes as the sequel to several previous efforts to end Mr. Ramsey's activities as President of the Wabash and to prevent him from presiding at the annual meeting at Toledo next Tuesday, when he will contest control of the road with the Gould.

The ground on which Mr. Ramsey was removed, a Director said, was that he had openly attacked the company, and by doing so had disqualified himself from acting longer as its chief executive officer. Mr. Ramsey's friends assert that he has not attacked the company, but merely the Gould control of the property.

The meeting at which the Directors replaced Mr. Ramsey wes held at 195 Broadway early yesterday afternoon. Notice of the meeting was sent out Wednesday evening. The point was made by Mr. Ramsey that any action taken by the Directors at yesterday's meeting, irrespective of other considerations, was illegal on the ground that the by-laws require five days' written notice for such meetings. This point is met by the Gould adherents by the statement that the meeting was an adjourned one, having been continued from the one held last Monday.

One of the Directors said:

"I am not a lawyer, but there are two good lawyers on the board, and you can be sure they have made no such fool mistake as that. To-day's meeting was again adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman."

George J. Gould is Chairman of the board, and the meeting is being kept open so that he may call them together for any emergency that may arise in connection with the contest for the control of the road.

The meeting between Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Gould is said to have been with marked courtesy and perfect calmness. Mr. Gould presided over the meeting. The motion to adopt the resolution removing Mr. Ramsey and appointing his successor was not made of course by Mr. Gould. One of the other Directors did this. When the resolution was read Mr. Ramsey offered his protest, and it was noted on the minutes.

"The resolution went through on greased wheels," Mr. Ramsey said yesterday afternoon. "It was, of course, all prepared in advance."

Asked whether he would go to the Wabash office to-day as usual, he replied that he did not know. Mr. Ramsey would not say what steps he would take toward maintaining what he considers is his right to the Presidency. In reply to a question whether the present situation would lead to a contest between Mr. Delano and himself at the annual meeting, as to which one should preside, he said merely that he did not know about that.

From statements made by some of Mr. Ramsey's supporters, however, it is fairly certain that he will not rest in the position in which the Board of Directors has placed him. One of the Directors said that when the meeting broke up Mr. Ramsey shook hands with Mr. Delano and congratulated him. Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Delano have been friends for a long time.

MISSOURI BEHIND RAMSEY.

State Officers Await Result of His Application for Injunction.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—Joseph Ramsey, Jr., the deposed President of the Wabash, through his attorneys, Lehmann & Lehmann, served notice this afternoon on the officials of the Wabash that he would ask the Ohio courts on Saturday to appoint special inspectors for the annual election at Toledo next Tuesday. Mr. Ramsey thus intends to vote proxies under the privileges offered by the Ohio laws.

Still another decided move was made by Mr. Ramsey to-day. Following the action of the Wabash Directors in New York he served subpoenas on A. G. Cochran, General Solicitor of the Missouri Pacific and the Iron Mountain; General Solicitor Wells H. Blodgett of the Wabash, and Auditor S. B. Schuyler of the Missouri Pacific to appear as witnesses in his injunction suit against the Missouri Pacific and the Iron Mountain to restrain them from voting their holdings of Wabash stocks and debentures.

In thus going into the enemy's camp for witness Mr. Ramsey shows his determination to force exposure of the facts which he sets forth in his petition, i. e., that the Missouri Pacific and the Iron Mountain are planning to gain control of the Wabash. Subpoenas also were served on Assistant Secretary F. W. Ireland of the Iron Mountain and the Missouri Pacific; D. S. H. Smith, local Treasurer of the two roads, and State Railroad Commissioner T. M. Bradbury.

Ireland and Smith are directed to bring into court with the injunction hearing the books and records of the Missouri Pacific and the Iron Mountain, showing the holdings of these corporations in other railroads and companies, especially the Wabash. They are specifically ordered to produce the mortgage deed of the Iron Mountain known as the unifying and refunding mortgage of 1890. The object of the injunction suit is to strengthen Ramsey's chances of being re-elected President of the Wabash, and to debar Gould from the Presidency or Chairmanship of the board. It is now believed that Gould will not even seek a place as Director, fearing legal action in Missouri.

Attorney Lehmann, representing Ramsey, and Attorney General Hadley representing the State, conferred several hours to-day concerning subsequent prosecutions of Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain officials for holding securities in other roads. Hadley would not say what plan he proposes to pursue, but said he would be guided by revelations at the injunction hearing to-morrow.

"When railroad magnates fall out," he said, "the public sometimes gets its due."

ANTI-FRANCHISE VIGILANTES.

City Ownership Radicals Threaten Ropes for Opposing Aldermen.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Radical advocates of municipal ownership of street railways arranged to-day to form a vigilance committee to use force, if necessary, in cases of Aldermen who vote for a franchise ordinance.

A call addressed to labor organizations, Turner Societies, single tax clubs, and "all other progressive bodies," urges them to see that the vote of the city in favor of municipal ownership is not negatived. Several members of the Municipal Ownership League made threats of "using a rope."

BRIDE A WIDOW IN 3 HOURS.

Miss Herron, Sister of the Propagandist, Wedded to a Dying Man.

Special to The New York Times.

METUCHEN, N. J., Oct. 5.—Mrs. May Avery, daughter of William Herron of this village and sister of Prof. George D. Herron, the social propagandist, buried her husband to-day, to whom she was married last Tuesday, just three hours before he died. While interesting to everybody through its tragic circumstances, the story of this wedding and of the funeral following so closely upon it is particularly interesting to those familiar with the attitude of Prof. Herron toward religious ceremonies. It has emphasized the fact that Prof. Herron and his immediate relatives have few views in common, although the most cordial relations exist between them, and they are making their common home here at Elmwood Farm.

It is nearly six months since William Herron announced the engagement of his daughter to Albert Avery, a young lawyer of Buffalo. The wedding was then set for Oct. 10. Most of the time since then Miss Herron has spent with friends at Scranton, Penn., while her betrothed returned to the pursuit of his profession at Buffalo.

Yesterday a week ago Mr. Avery suddenly became ill. It was found to be a serious case of appendicitis, and an operation was decided on. The young man sent for Miss Herron and asked her to marry him if the impending operation turned out unfavorably. The operation was performed, and when it was seen on Tuesday that the patient must die the wedding took place. Young Avery was then barely conscious, yet he managed to follow the ceremony and to give his replies as required. The bride's father and brother and relatives of the bridegroom were present. Miss Herron knelt at the bedside until the ceremony was finished.

$200,000 FOR HERRON SCHOOL

Mother-in-Law of Propagandist Endows a Temple of Socialism.

It was announced last night, on behalf of the New York Section of the Social Democratic Party, that the late Mrs. E. D. Rand, mother-in-law of Prof. George D. Herron, had bequeathed $200,000 to found a school for Socialism. Mrs. Rand died recently in Florence, Italy, and four years ago established the Chair of Christian Sociology in Iowa College, Grinnell, Iowa, which was filled by Herron. About that time he married Mrs. Rand's daughter, after his wife had consented to a divorce. His views were too radical for the college, however, and he resigned. Morris Hillquist and Mrs. George D. Herron, Mrs. Rand's daughter, have been made trustees of the fund. The announcement includes this statement:

"The primary design of the school is to provide for an intellectual centre for the Socialist movement in the United States. It is expected that a building will be provided, in which there will be libraries for special research and in which specially prepared and valuable papers will be published. The plan also provides for reading and meeting rooms and systematic lecture courses on Socialism, popular science, and the relation of the different arts and literature to social development. The institution will be fully established by the Fall of next year, and its principal field of operation will be in this city."

PLOT TO STEAL ROCKEFELLER.

Pat Crowe and a Partner Had Everything Ready—Partner Weakened.

Special to The New York Times.

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 5.—"Pat" Crowe told to-day of a scheme, which was almost executed, to kidnap John D. Rockefeller and hold him for $2,000,000 ransom.

After the Cudahy affair in Omaha, said Crowe, he and his partner fled to Chicago, where they hid. They found it easy to avoid arrest, and the Cudahy kidnapping had been so easy that they decided to go after bigger game, and Rockefeller was decided upon.

The two made a trip to Cleveland to study the lay of the land. They determined to hold up Mr. Rockefeller, gag him, and drive off.

The time was set for one Wednesday night. The horse and wagon had been engaged and a house in the country secured, but a few hours before the time Crowe's partner weakened and refused to go further. Crowe then fled to South Africa.

Officers from Omaha arrived to-night to take Crowe there.

ROCKEFELLER TO AID BABIES.

To Erect Home for Foundlings—Opposed to Race Suicide.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—"I am opposed to race suicide," is the remark John D. Rockefeller is said to have made to the officials of the Cleveland Humane Society this afternoon in announcing to them his intention to erect a home for foundlings and installing therein incubators for infants.

The building will cost about $50,000, and in its equipment will be one of the finest in the country.

MR. BUCK TO LIVE IN MUNICH.

The Famous Organist Will Spend the Rest of His Life Abroad.

Dudley Buck of Brooklyn, one of the foremost of American composers of church music, has left this country to take up his home for the rest of his life in Munich, Bavaria, the great centre of art and music. The exact reasons for Mr. Buck's voluntary exile are known only to a few, but it is said that he had long desired to live in Munich, and that disappointments which he had experienced in Brooklyn have hastened his going there.

He retired some time ago from active participation in musical affairs in Brooklyn. This followed his resignation as organist of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, where he had been for twenty-five years and where much of his sacred music was written. His resignation was a result of a disagreement with some in the church. Soon afterward he also resigned as Director of the Apollo Club, although his relations with the members there were very pleasant.

Mr. Buck is now 66 years old. He early became known as one of the finest organists in the country, and in 1876 was chosen to compose the cantata for the opening of the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia. One of his cantatas won the $1,000 prize at the Cincinnati festival in 1880. "The Story of the Cross" is one of the last of his more important compositions.

With his wife Mr. Buck sailed for Europe on Sept. 23, but it did not become known until yesterday that he intended to live abroad. He will spend two months in Italy before going to Munich.

KIDNAPPED BOY FOUND ON A CAR IN MANHATTAN

Slip of Paper with His Parents' Address Pinned to His Clothing —Talks of a Cousin.

Robert McNealy, an Inspector on the Third Avenue surface line, took a six-year-old boy into the East Sixty-seventh Street Station late last night. McNealy said the boy had been turned over to him by a car conductor at Third Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street at 11 o'clock. The conductor had told McNealy that the boy seemed lost.

Capt. Langan looked at the little fellow, and was immediately struck by his resemblance to Tony Marendino, the six-year-old son of a Brooklyn contractor, who was kidnapped from his home in Seventeenth Street eleven days ago. The boy said that Tony Marendino was his name.

A search of his clothing brought to light a slip of paper with the address "556 Seventeenth Street" written on it. Below the words appeared "10A." The actual address of the Marendino family is 556A Seventeenth Street.

The police of the Fifth Avenue Station, Brooklyn, were immediately asked to send the parents to Manhattan to identify the boy.

Pending the arrival of the police and the Marendinos, Capt. Langan questioned the boy. The child seemed frightened and confused. He first said that late last night his father had put him on a car. He could not tell where.

Later he said he had not seen his father for weeks. He thought his father's name was Frank. The name of the father of the missing Murendino boy is Frank.

Finally it was got out of him that he was visiting his "cousin." He was unable to say where his cousin lived, and this strengthens the police belief that he had really been kidnapped. The police think that prior to his being put on the car the boy was carefully schooled with a number of stories, none of which could be accepted.

Since his disappearance, the father has received several blackmailing letters, nearly all written in Italian.

Early this morning Frank Marendino, the father, arrived at the station, accompanied by Acting Captain Carson of the Fifth Avenue Station, Brooklyn. The moment the father saw the little boy he recognized his son. Tony, who had been sleeping and was only yet half awake, started forward with a cry of:

"Pa-pa."

For about three minutes the police men and reporters paid as little attention as they could to the incoherent sounds issuing from the corner where Marendino and little Tony were.

Conductor Phillip McGinnis of the Third Avenue car from which the boy had been taken says that on a southward run between 9 and 10 o'clock a man, one about 40 and red faced, other dark and about 17 years old, boarded the car with the boy. The conductor thought both were Italians. They went to the Post Office, and there, while the conductor was turning the signs the two men escaped, leaving the boy.

Tony, questioned again by his father, spoke a good deal about cousins. He the father mentioned that about two months ago he had had occasion to charge a cousin, named Regenta, who worked for him. The Regenta family lives in South Brooklyn.

The boy seemed also familiar with the name "Peconi." Salvator Peconi was arrested in the case last Saturday. The boy also said he had been in an elevated train, and had been hidden in a car. After that his narrative was mixed and self-contradictory.

Vito Laduca, who was arrested in Yonkers more by Brooklyn detectives who had been working on the kidnapping case, was arraigned yesterday in the Butler Street Court and held for examination on Monday. Magistrate Tighe fixed the bail at $3,000, but as no bondsman appeared Laduca was taken to jail.

Although he was arrested for alleged complicity in the kidnapping of little Tony Mannino of 62 Amity Street, Brooklyn, a year ago, the chief reason for the holding taken into custody was a suspicion on the part of the police that he knew something of the disappearance of Tony Merendino.

Salvador Peiona and Salvador Peconi, two other suspects in the case under arrest, were also arraigned in the Butler Street Court yesterday. Hearing in their cases was adjourned until to-day.

ODELL DEFEATED IN ALBANY.

Black and Barnes Forces Name Judge for Supreme Court.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 5.—George H. Fitts, surrogate of Albany County, was nominated for the Supreme Court at a stormy convention of the Republicans of the Third Judicial District held at the Unconditional Clubhouse, this city, this afternoon. Odell's choice, Justice Hasbrouck, was defeated.

The combined forces of William Barnes, Jr., leader of Albany County, with four delegates, and ex-Gov. Frank S. Black of Rensselaer, with three, reinforced by Chairman Hobart Krum of Schoharie, mustered eight votes for Fitts. Ulster's two delegates and one each from Columbia, Sullivan, and Greene Counties voted for Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck of Kingston, who was Gov. Odell last Fall appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Cady Herrick to run for Governor.

It was believed by the Barnes men that Judge J. Rider Cady of Columbia would be with Mr. Black, but Lou Payn's urging, he went with the Hasbrouck men to please the Chairman of the State Committee. Delegate Krum presided, and Pierre S. Jenkins of Greene was secretary.

William P. Rudd of Albany presented Fitts's name and Philip Elting Kingston that of Mr. Hasbrouck. In the nomination of Fitts, Abbott of Rensselaer made the plea that it was injustice to Albany County, the largest in the district, to deprive it of a trial. Justice Judge Cady, seconding Hasbrouck's nomination, said it was against precedent to nominate Hasbrouck. Elting of Ulster, Black and the Rensselaer men cheering heart since the appointment, and declared that there was a political deal between Albany and Barnes.

"The people will not have a made candidate," he declared. "Albany County has one-third the population of the State, and yet she has to beg for the office. The people may name our candidates if we let politicians control our action to-day. Never in the history of this State has a judiciary convention refused to name Supreme Court Judge appointed by the governor of their party affiliation. Why should we override this precedent?

"Let us throw off the chains of political bosses, who too often make delegates far astray in order to carry out their schemes for political patronage or petty revenge."

The convention did not make a nomination unanimous, Cady and Hasbrouck objecting. Judge Fitts entertained the delegates at the Ten Eyck subsequently. Elting refused to accept the honor, but A. D. Lant, his associate from Ulster, accompanied the other delegates.

AGREEMENT WITH JAPAN.

Important Understanding Said to Have Followed Taft's Visit.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 6.—The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Tokio quotes the semi-official Kokumin Shimbun to the effect that Secretary Taft's visit to Tokio has resulted in an important understanding as the outcome of Japan's explicit disavowal of any designs on the Philippines.

OIL IN CAPE COLONY.

Extensive Deposits Indicated—Options on 3,000,000 Acres Secured.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cable. Copyright, 1905.

JOHANNESBURG, Oct. 5.—A local syndicate asserts that it has established the presence of natural oil in Cape Colony.

Acting upon mining engineers' advice, the syndicate has obtained options on 3,000,000 acres in Northwestern Karroo. The indications of an extensive oil deposit are pronounced to be satisfactory.

A SNUB FOR GOV. HERRICK.

Horsemen at County Fair Take Revenge for Pool-Selling Veto.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Oct. 5.—When Gov. Herrick reached the Sandusky County Fair at Fremont this afternoon, the condition of the grounds was such that it was thought best for him to make his address from the race track, in front of the grand stand.

The Governor vetoed the Chisholm bill, which licensed poolselling. The horsemen, when he went to speak this afternoon, refused to give way for him, and the Governor talked to what few persons followed him down to the end of the grounds in the tall grass.

MADE RICH BY GIFT STOCK.

President Corey Presented It to Relatives and It Jumped.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Oct. 5.—President W. Ellis Corey of the United States Steel Corporation and other officials of the big company have just pocketed $6,000,000 in a mining deal, while some of the relatives of the officials, notably of Mr. Corey, are made well-to-do as a result of Mr. Corey handing them stock in the mining company.

Mr. Corey distributed blocks of 500 shares of stock in the company to his sisters when it was quoted at $15 per share. This afternoon these same blocks of stock were worth 52½ in the open market, or over $26,000 per block. About eight months ago the company was organized and 400,000 shares with a par value of $15 were issued, making $6,000,000 for the 400,000 shares. This same stock has a market value of over $23,000,000.

T. ROOSEVELT, JR., INJURED.

A Cut Over the Eye in Football Practice at Harvard.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 5.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., candidate for the Harvard 1909 football eleven, to-day was cut over the eye while tackling a fellow-player on Soldiers' Field, and was compelled to withdraw from the practice. The cut itself was interesting rather than serious, because for days "Teddy," Jr., has been the one man talked about in Cambridge and the centre of attraction on Soldiers' Field; also because up to the time of his injury not one man of all the hundred other freshmen trying for their class eleven had received as much as a scratch.

MR. BELMONT OPERATED ON

For Abdominal Trouble, Result of a Fall in a Polo Game.

August Belmont was successfully operated on yesterday morning at the General Memorial Hospital, 2 West 106th Street, for abdominal trouble. Dr. William Bradley Coley of 5 Park Avenue was the surgeon. He said after the operation that his patient was resting comfortably and that there was no fear as to the outcome of the operation. Dr. Coley said that Mr. Belmont would be about in from two to three weeks.

August Belmont, Jr., Mr. Belmont's son, and Perry Belmont, brother of the patient, were present while the operation was performed.

Mr. Belmont's illness is attributed to a fall he suffered three years ago in a polo game. His horse rolled over him. Since that time he has suffered every now and then with pains in the abdomen. His general health, however, has been good.

On Wednesday, while in his office, he was seized with violent pains. There was a consultation, and it was decided that an immediate operation for appendicitis was necessary. Mr. Belmont had not been feeling well for some days, and had been planning a trip to the Maine woods when the appendicitis developed.

Mr. Belmont's condition was said at the hospital late last night to be very good. No dangerous symptoms had developed, and he was making good progress.

BABES RUN DOWN BY TROLLEY

One Killed and Another Maimed in Brooklyn.

Toddling hand in hand across the tracks in happy pursuit of a street band of musicians, two little girls were run down by a trolley car in Troy Avenue, Brooklyn, early last evening. One was killed and the other badly injured. The killing of the child caused great excitement in the neighborhood, and men in the crowd acted threateningly toward the motorman of the car before policemen arrived.

Catherine Sullivan and Lillian Farrell, both three years old, and both living at 1,589 Bergen Street, were the children run down. At 6 o'clock last evening a band of street musicians struck up a tune at the corner of Troy Avenue and Bergen Street. Attracted with dozens of other children, Catherine and Lillian danced merrily to the music. The band moved down Troy Avenue, and the children followed. Catherine and Lillian, because of their inability to move fast, were some distance behind the others when all started to cross the street.

A car of the Sumner Avenue Line was approaching at the time, and the motorman apparently did not see the two little girls. Catherine was so badly injured that she died in a few minutes after being taken to St. John's Hospital. Lillian's left foot was crushed, and she was also injured internally, it was thought. The motorman, Martin Durkin, was held on a charge of homicide.

M'CLELLAN CHOSEN; UNPLEDGED, HE SAYS

Accepts Mayoralty Nomination, Declaring Himself Unfettered.

METZ AND McGOWAN NAMED

For Controller and Aldermanic President—Covention Praises Roosevelt for Making Peace.

The Democratic City Convention, meeting in Carnegie Hall last night, nominated thie ticket:

For Mayor—GEORGE B. McCLELLAN, Manhattan.

For Controller—HERMAN A. METZ, Brooklyn.

For President of the Board of Aldermen—PATRICK F. McGOWAN, Manhattan.

Harmony was at high tide in the convention, but enthusiasm was at a low ebb. The only outburst of applause really worthy to be characterized as a demonstration came when Mayor McClellan had finished his speech accepting renomination. Mr. McCellan bad just declared that he accepted the nomination without pledge to any man or set of men.

Charles F. Murphy, the leader of Tammany Hall; his chief rivals in the organization, the Sullivans, and his erstwhile political enemy in Brooklyn, Senator P. H. McCarren, worked together in perfect harmony. There was no roll call on any of the nominations. In each case Secretary Thomas F. Smith was instructed to cast the vote of the convention.

The only discordant note in the proceedings of the convention was when nominations for President of the Board of Aldermen having been called for, a delegate shouted: "Give us Thomas F. Donnelly!"

That was the sole protest made against Mr. Murphy's selection of Patrick Francis McGowan for that place, a man personally unknown to two-thirds of the delegates. The inquiry, "Who is McGowan?" was heard on every side while the crowd was waiting for the convention to be called to order.

Municipal Court Justice George F. Roesch, who put Mr. McGowan in nomination, announced that the selection of a candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen was important, because the man elected to that office would be Mayor of the city for three years when Mayor McClellan was elected Governor. The delegates did not enthuse over this, and if the private expressions of Tammany men in regard to Mr. McGowan's nomination are an indication of public sentiment, Mr. Murphy gave Mayor McClellan's Gubernatorial boom a setback when he selected Mr. McGowan as the man to succeed him in the City Hall.

There was just one surprise in the convention. That was a resolution commending President Roosevelt for bringing about peace between Russia and Japan. This resolution was evidently an eleventh hour suggestion. Its reading aroused genuine enthusiasm.

Many of the planks in the platform evoked mild applause, notably the reference to municipal ownership, and the denunciation of the Legislature for the Mortgage and Transfer Tax bills. It was generally noted that the platform was silent upon the subject of future Subway franchises.

Mrs. George B. McClellan attended the convention, occupying a box on the right of the stage. She was with Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton Winthrop. Mrs. Winthrop is a sister of Mrs. McClellan.

Well Policed This Year.

The police arrangements at Carnegie Hall were in marked contrast to those of two years ago, when rioting and confusion of all sorts resulted from poor police work.

Order prevailed last night, and every one with the proper credentials got into the hall without trouble. Inspector Brooks was in charge of the 350 men that surrounded the hall. He was assisted by two Inspectors and ten Captains. The lines were formed at 6 o'clock, and half an hour later the doors of the hall were thrown open.

By that time several hundred persons were waiting for admission. Those having no tickets to the main floor of the hall were admitted to the galleries. The galleries were soon filled, and the doors were closed. When the delegates began to arrive, they were seated as promptly and with as little confusion as the ushers seat an audience in a theatre.

"This is great!" remarked "Big Tim" Sullivan as he entered. "Remember two years ago? Why, I had my hat crushed in then and a new overcoat torn off."

"Last trip I got in through a coalhole," said Secretary Thomas F. Smith of Tammany Hall. "This time it was like walking alone in the Park."

Seven-thirty was the hour set for calling the convention to order, but the delegates and alternates drifted in slowly, and at 7:45 that part of the hall reserved for delegates was little more than half filled. The "distinguished guest" seats on the stage were all occupied, and for the most part by Detective Sergeants, office holders, and office seekers.

Bayne's Sixty-ninth Regiment Band started to make things lively at 7:30 with "The Yankee Doodle Boy," but the crowd was not ready to waste any enthusiasm until the celebrities arrived.

In the decoration of the hall American flags, shields, and streamers were used until the entire interior was one great mass of red, white, and blue. A huge flag was draped over the stage, and all the tables on the platform were covered with bunting. The band, by way of warming up the crowd, struck up "Friends that Are Good and True Won't Do a Thing to You."

"That's a fine tune to play here," said Patrick Henry Roche. "Choke off the music."

But the band finished playing the tune and was applauded.

Cheers for Murphy.

Charles F. Murphy entered at 8:05 with J. Sergeant Cram, and took his seat at the head of the Eighteenth Assembly District delegation. He was cheered as he walked down the aisle. The band started playing "Tammany," and the crowd took up the refrain and sang:

Tammanee, Tammanee,
Big Chief sits in his tepee,
Cheering braves to victory,
Tammanee, Tammanee,
Swamp 'em, swamp 'em,
Get the wampum,
Tammanee.

While the crowd was singing Senator McCarren entered by a side aisle and slipped into his seat almost unobserved. A few of the Kings County men around him applauded.

"Big Tim" Sullivan, with "Little Tim," Florrie, Christy, and the aide de camp to the army of Sullivans, Col. M. Clarence Padden, arrived next. They got the noisiest reception of any of the notables so far.

Eugene A. Philbin followed, and took a seat between Mr. Cram and Mr. Murphy. Mr. Cram was the only man in the hall who wore evening clothes.

"He's borrowed R. Fulton Cutting's open face suit," said Florrie Sullivan.

A Convention Without Plunkitt.

The McManus entered unobserevd and took a seat with his Fifteenth District delegation. For the first time in a quarter of a century ex-Senator George Washington Plunkitt was absent from a Democratic City Convention.

James J. Martin, Chairman of the City Committee, ascended the platform at 8:18 to call the convention to order. The band struck up "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the audience made a brave effort to sing the National anthem. Mr. Martin announced that the City Committee had selected Charles V. Fornes for temporary Chairman.

"Last call for Fornes," cried a delegate.

The roll was called to elect Mr. Fornes as a mere matter of form.

When Secretary Smith reached Brooklyn Borough Senator McCarren requested that Edward M. Grout be substituted for Joseph A. Kene in the Tenth District. This brought forth the first approach to a demonstration.

Thomas F. Smith of Manhattan, Frank E. O'Reilly of Brooklyn, Maurice H. Cohen of the Bronx, and Franklin C. Vitt of Richmond were appointed temporary Secretaries.

Michael E. Butler, the new leader of the Twelfth District in Brooklyn, and Emil Weil of the Bronx were appointed a committee to escort Mr. Fornes to the platform. There was a mild ovation for Mr. Fornes. Mr. Fornes at once started speaking. His praise of Mayor McClellan aroused great enthusiasm.

CHAIRMAN FORNES'S SPEECH.

"The present administration does not fear the closest scrutiny of its acts, nor the most searching investigation of its conduct. Compare it with any of its predecessors, non-partisan, or bi-partisan, Republican or Democratic, and I have no hesitation in stating that there have been few to equal and none to transcend it.

"I will not speak in detail of the comprehensive achievements, nor the varied projects of public improvements in contemplation under the guidance of our active and energetic young Mayor. His manhood stands for all that is elevating in or out of public life; his courage in the face of every obstacle, and his honesty and ability under every trying circumstance, have delighted his friends and baffled and confounded his enemies."

In speaking of what has been accomplished and what the present administration expects to accomplish, Mr. Fornes referred to the municipal ferry line to Staten Island and the municipal lighting plants. He continued:

"Among the problems which will also receive the attention of the incoming administration will be the necessity of safeguarding the vast shipping interests centring in our magnificent harbor, and there should be a firm determination to so regulate the port charges as to preserve to New York its prosperity in this direction."

Ex-Senator Charles L. Guy was recognized to offer a resolution that the rules of the Assembly be the rules of the convention, and Edward Mueller of Richmond moved that the temporary officers be made the permanent officers of the convention.

Committee on Resolutions.

Senator Grady offered the resolution providing for the appointment of a Committee on Resolutions, to consist of one member from each Senatorial district.

The convention took a remess for fifteen minutes ostensibly to give the committee an opportunity to draw up its report. As the platform had already been drawn up and printed, the committee merely had to sign it. The extra time at the committee's disposal, however, was not wasted. There were other things that demanded more attention than the platform.

During the recess the delegates began to smoke. Chairman Fornes stopped the band to request the delegates to stop smoking out of courtesy to the women in the boxes. There was no rush to comply with his request.

The committee took more than fifteen minutes. When "Little Tim" Sullivan was asked the cause of the delay by a fellow-delegate, he replied:

"Oh, I guess one of them fellows thought he was signing a promissory note, and wanted to read it through first."

There was a noisy outburst when Senator Grady got up to read the resolutions. The Senator cleared his throat and began to read. Here came the only surprise of the evening. Instead of beginning with the cut-and-dried platform, Senator Grady read a resolution praising President Roosevelt for bringing about peace between Russia and Japan.

Praise of Roosevelt.

The delegates were quick to respond. They yelled their best and waved American flags. This is the resolution:

"Resolved, That the successful labors of President Roosevelt in the initiation, conduct, and settlement of the peace negotiations between the Governments of Russia and Japan present such a preeminently patriotic and humane service as to merit grateful citizenship recognition from every element of our citizenship, and we, who have been and are now his determined political opponents, unhesitatingly accord him our hearty praise for the surprising courage, remarkable tact, distinguished ability, and commanding influence displayed by him as the central figure in the greatest peace triumph of the age."

The Roosevelt resolution and the platform were adopted unanimously.

At 10 o'clock the convention proceeded to nominate a city ticket. Eugene A. Philbin was recognized to present the name of Mayor McClellan. The delegates applauded him vigorously. He said:

PHILBIN PRESENTS McCLELLAN.

"I may well say that it is good to be here in a Democratic convention. Only those who have been outside the breastworks can know what it means to get into sound Democratic society again. There have been many of us, whether right or wrong, I shall not here attempt to discuss, who could not in the past march in the ranks. It is my firm belief that such conditions have disappeared, never again to occur in the Democratic Party.

"History bears witness that a united Democratic Party can accomplish the best results for the National welfare. This has been overwhelmingly proved by its record under Grover Cleveland—a record that has never been surpassed in permanent results.

"To-day the great National leader of the Republican Party holds the regard and respect of every honest man, because he is standing for real democratic principles, in spite of his party affiliation.

"The Republican Party has never stood for those who must rely upon their own labor for support; it has ever been the ally and defender of capital as against the poor, and has justly lost the confidence of the common people; the Republican Congress has repeatedly shown a greater regard for private interests than for the public welfare; its attitude on the tariff, on capital as related to labor, and the wanton waste of public moneys, all proving that as a party it either lacks the capacity or patriotism necessary for government.

"To-day we live in a promised land. Good crops and busy mills will not, however, be with us always. Let us hope that before the period of adversity arrives the Democratic Party will have attained the power to remedy the evils that now exist.

Assails the State Administration.

"The Republican administration of the State should cause those who believe that they have reason to find fault with the local administration to be grateful that the city has not had to endure such misgovernment. The great charity system of the State has not been spared an attack by the hungry patronage seekers of the party. The care of the dependent poor and mentally afflicted has been made the occasion for profit to the Republican Party.

"It is only within the last few days that the State Fiscal Supervisor of Public Charities secured an injunction from the Supreme Court to prevent an inquiry into the charge of malfeasance in office.

"The great wrongs that are being disclosed daily in relation to insurance would have been impossible if the Republican Superintendent of Insnrance had performed his plain duty. The investigation has proved a veritable boomerang to the Republican Party, for no one can believe that it would have instituted the inquiry had it expected the revelations that have been brought forth. The policy of the State has been lowered from the high standards observed in the days of Samuel J. Tilden to mere party expediency.

"No act of the State Republican administration has justified the people in believing that it was dictated solely by a regard for the public welfare. It would be entirely gratuitous to attempt to set forth in more particular terms the grounds for an emphatic repudiation of the Republican Party as the representative of the will of the people.

"The opportunity is afforded the Democrats of New York to give an example of the highest standard of municipal government. Success in that means the development of success in every form of government, and also shows what may be achieved under a capable Democratic executive.

"We must have a standard bearer whose simple observance of true Democratic principles will bring him the support of every honest citizen, irrespective of party; who has the confidence of the people irrespective of party, because as a loyal Democrat he is an honest servant

This the Best-Governed City.

"These conditions exist to-day, and we are able to name a candidate for the high office of Mayor who is well worthy of the great trust. His administration of that exalted office during the term about to expire has raised the standard of government. No city in this country has been as well governed.

"The affairs have been conducted in a practical and conservative manner. He has been the Mayor of the city in every sense. No Chief Executive has ever made his personal influence so potent for good in every department.

"The education of the young, the protection of life and property, and the welfare of the citizen have been unceasingly and intelligently sought under his personal direction. It is, therefore, my privilege to move the nomination as the candidate of this convention for the high office of Mayor of the City of New York one whose election will insure good government in its truest sense and civic betterment, the Hon. George B. McClellan."

Cheers greeted Mr. Philbin's declaration that no city in the United States had been governed better than New York the last two years.

McClellan Boom for President.

"McClellan has been so good a Mayor the other parties can find no one to oppose him for re-election," declared Mr. Philbin, while the delegates shouted their approval. Mr. Philbin aroused further enthusiasm when he said Mayor McClellan was fitted to hold the highest office in the land.

When Mr. Philbin presented McClellan's name for renomination, the cheering lasted two minutes. Three banners were unfurled from the stage, two bearing the picture of the Mayor and the third this inscription:

The People's Choice
for Mayor,
GEORGE B. McCLELLAN.

The band played "He's My Pal." Then Controller Grout was recognized to second the nomination of the Mayor on behalf of Brooklyn.

WHAT MR. GROUT SAID.

"It is a great gratification to me," said Mr. Grout, "to be permitted to voice hero to-night the unanimous desire of the Democrats of Brooklyn that George B. McClellan shall be the next Mayor of New York. That desire is not feigned at the dictation of party leaders. It does not arise from any compulsion. It is not ground out of us by the force of party machinery.

"On the contrary, it comes spontaneously from the rank and file of the party, and is the natural result of the high character of his administration during the past two years. To his own faithfulness and efficiency in his office, an office second in place and responsibility only to the Presidency of the United States, is due the honor and the great burden to him of his continuance in it for four years longer.

"I have seen him in all stages of his work, and always I have seen and found him possessed of a purpose to serve all the people of this great city, to serve them honestly and intelligently, and to know neither man nor party as against the discharge of duty. He has been broad enough to consider upon the merits the plans of the prior administration, and to carry them forward. He has thus insured what this city too often lacks, continuity of policy and practice. He has never failed to seek economy in expenditure, yet never has been niggardly in policy.

A Strong Man in a Strong Man's Place.

"Democrats elected him Mayor, but when elected he has been the Mayor of the whole city. He has ever been a strong man in a strong man's place. He has exhibited a broad comprehension of the needs of the city, of its great opportunities, and of the scope of its future as the financial and commercial metropolis of the world, and, as many of us hope, the metropolis of education and art as well, without which no man can properly fill this great office. Yet never has he failed in the graces of the office in speech, in conduct, in courtesy; he has been the fitting representative, in affairs of business and of ceremony, of the four millions of people who make the City of New York.

"It is a matter of pride for the Democratic Party to be able to offer this candidate for the suffrages of the people. It is a step in advance in municipal government to be able to offer this trained administrator, this experienced official, for continuance in duty and responsibility. We are not choosing a candidate simply because he can win votes. We are choosing one who by natural adaptability and by training and experience can best administer the office. And in so doing we are setting a high example to other and future city conventions."

Judge John J. Kenney seconded the nomination for Richmond, Magistrate Charles G. F. Wahle for the Bronx, and President Joseph Cassidy for Queens.

Senator McCarren followed, going to the platform on the demand of the delegates, who cheered him loudly. The Tammany delegates did not join with any great enthusiasm in the demonstration.

"I have learned by book on this occasion," he said, "because I am so well disciplined."

Mr. Murphy smiled, and the crowd cheered and laughed. McCarren moved that the Secretary be instructed to cast one ballot for McClellan for Mayor. This was done at 10:26 o'clock, the nomination, speeches and all, taking only twenty-six minutes.

"Four more years for George!" yelled a delegate.

"Our next Governor!" shouted another.

"Our next President!" called out a third.

The Other Nominations.

Nominations for Controller were called for. William H. Hughes, Assistant Corporation Counsel of Brooklyn, nominated Herman A. Metz. M. Warley Platzek seconded the nomination on behalf of Manhattan, Georg W. Stake for Richmond, and George A. Gregg for Queens. The ballot was cast for Mr. Metz, and at 10:42, sixteen minutes after Mr. Hughes started to speak, Mr. Metz was declared nominated.

Municipal Court Justice George F. Roesch nominated Patrick F. McGowan for President of the Board of Aldermen.

"We want Thomas F. Donnelly!" yelled a voice from the gallery.

"We are nominating a Mayor when we name a President of the Board of Aldermen," declared Mr. Roesch. "The man we name for President of the board will be Mayor when George B. McClellan is Governor of the State." [Cheers.]

"The man I present for the nomination," he went on, "comes from the abused east side, where our millionaires now go for their brides."

When Mr. Roesch named Mr. McGowan the applause lasted ten seconds. John Green seconded the nomination for Brooklyn. He and Mr. McGowan are fellow-members of the Board of Education.

The Secretary was ordered to cast the vote for Mr. McGowan, and at 10:55 o'clock he was declared the nominee.

On motion of Mr. Cram the Chair named J. Sergeant Cram of Manhattan, Edward M. Grout of Brooklyn, John C. Heintz of the Bronx, Daniel Noble of Queens, and Charles Rosenberg of Richmond as a committee to find the nominees and bring them before the convention for their official notification. The Chair also named a committee to fill vacancies, the members being Frank A. O'Donnel of Manhattan, Louis F. Haffen of the Bronx, George H. Lindsay of Brooklyn, Patrick J. Mara of Queens, and Edward M. Muller of Richmond.

At 11 o'clock a recess of ten minutes was taken to give the Notification Committee time to find the nominees. At 11:10 Mayor McClellan appeared on the platform flanked by Messrs. Metz and McGowan, while the band played "Hail to the Chief." The cheering lasted several minutes.

"I have the distinguished honor," said Mr. Fornes, "of presenting the Mayor and his successor!"

The cheering was renewed. The Mayor had to wait several minutes before beginning his speech of acceptance.

MAYOR ACCEPTS, UNPLEDGED.

"I have come here to-night to meet you face to face, and man to man, for the purpose of receiving directly from your hands the highest honor in the gift of the Democratic Party in the City of New York—its nomination for the great office of Mayor. I am profoundly moved, not only by the honor you have done me, but more especially by the way in which you have honored me.

"I hope that I do not presume too much if I feel that this nomination, coming unanimously and spontaneously, unasked and unsought, is the expression of your confidence in me, and your approval of my administration. No one knows better than I the grave responsibilities, the endless work, and the ceaseless anxiety of the task that has been set for me.

"During the last two years, when I have been in doubt upon questions of policy, I have often conferred not only with the leaders of my own party, but with representative citizens of all parties. When disagreements have occurred—and disagreements have by no means been unknown—then, because of my oath of office, I have not hesitated to assume the responsibility of pursuing that course which I believed to be right.

"If during the last two years any progress has been made in civic righteousness, if municipal conditions at the close of my administration are even a little better than they were at the beginning, the credit and the thanks are due to no one man, but to all those public-spirited citizens, belonging to both parties, who, when they became convinced that I intended to try to do my duty, constantly and loyally supported me in the effort.

His Position on City Ownership.

"This is neither the time nor the place to discuss the issues of the campaign; it will be my privilege to do so often before election. But there are three points, upon which from the very outset I wish no misunderstanding, and, therefore, I make my position upon them plain to you now.

"First.—The question of municipal operation of public utilities. As a Democrat I believe that that community is best governed which is least governed, and that where individual effort and private enterprise can accomplish the same result as government, government has no right to interfere. Where, however, public utilities conducted by private enterprise fail in giving the people an adequate service, then I believe that it is the duty of government to take control.

"In pursuance of this policy my administration has acquired the Staten Island Ferry, has taken the first steps for the acquirement of the Thirty-ninth Street Ferry, and has begun the construction of a municipal electric lighting plant. The principle is no new one. The question of municipal operation is as old as history; the queston of municipal ownership as old as the hills. There is no sentiment about it. It is purely a proposition of dollars and cents. How the community may best be served, whether by the private or public operation of public utilities, must be determined by the man of business and not by the theorist.

"The franchise wealth of the city belongs to the people, and should never be parted with. Franchises should be granted only for limited periods, on terms most advantageous to the public. Any attempt, however, to acquire franchise property not now in its possession by a municipality, fettered by the existing constitutional debt limitation, and, therefore, incapable of assuming the enormous obligations of purchase, maintenance, and operation, would bring the whole principle of municipal ownership into contempt by its very violation of sound business laws and its criminal disregard for the rights of taxpayers. The confiscation of private property, even by a municipality, is not yet recognized as Democratic doctrine by the Democracy of New York.

Won't Be Swayed by Party Clamor.

"Second—Membership in this administration will not of itself entitle any man to retention in the next administration, should I be re-elected. If I believe that the interests of the city will be better served by a change at the head of any department, that change will be made; and no amount of clamor from either without or within the party will make me follow a different course. If, on the other hand, I believe that the retention of any head of department will best serve the public interest, that official will be retained; and no amount of clamor from either without or within the party will force me to remove him.

"Third—I am a partisan—none more so; but I believe that the interests of party must always be subordinated to those of the people. No public official can do his duty faithfully, who for one moment forgets that he is sworn to serve the people as a whole, regardless of faction or of party.

"I believe that the Democratic principles which apply to municipal government are these: Honesty, Economy, and Efficiency; in other words, good government. If any man disagrees with me upon these vital principles, then I shall be the last to ask for his support, for I do not want it. If, on the other hand, any man agrees with me, and believes that I have honestly and sincerely tried to live up to these principles, then I ask him to follow the dictates of his conscience, and to support the ticket which I have the honor to head.

"And so, sincerely grateful to you for the honor you have done me, unpledged to any man or group of men, pledged only to the people to do my duty to the best of my ability, I accept your nomination."

The Mayor was continually interrupted by applause. When he had finished the delegates stood up and howled their approval. It was the most entbusiastic demonstration of the evening.

Mr. Metz Accepts.

Herman A. Metz was presented by Chairman Fornes as the next Controller.

"It has come to be taken for granted," said Mr. Metz, "that the Controller of the City of New York will vindicate the confidence bestowed on him and that the momentous interests he has charge of will be safe in his keeping. With a full realization of all that implies I accept the honor you have bestowed upon me, assuring you that should your choice be ratified at the polls it will be my earnest endeavor to maintain the high standard set by the present Controller, Mr. Grout."

"It is my pleasure," said Mr. Fornes, with a smile, "to present my successor to you."

Fornes's Successor.

"Your Chairman, Mr. Fornes, looked me over when I came on the platform," said Mr. McGowan, "and remarked: 'Mr. McGowan, my clothes will fit you.'

"I suppose," continued Mr. McGowan, "that this remark was due to the fact that Mr. Fornes is in the tailoring business."

Mr. McGowan said he would do the best he could for the city if elected.

Chairman Fornes at 11:35 declared the convention adjourned. The oelegates marched out as the band played "Tammany."

THE CANDIDATES.

Mayor McClellan's Career—Who McGowan Is—Mr. Metz.

GEORGE BRINTON McCLELLAN, who was renominated last night for Mayor of New York by the Democratic City Convention, was born in Dresden, Saxony, on Nov. 23, 1865. His parents were at that time making a tour of the Continent.

He is a son of the late Gen. George B. McClellan, who was commander of the Army of the Potomac. Mayor McClellan's mother, who still is alive, was a daughter of Major Gen. Randolph B. Marcy, Inspector General of the Union Army.

Mayor McClellan's parents returned to America when he was 3 years old. When he was 14 he entered a military academy at Sing Sing, it being his ambition to go to West Point. A military career for his son did not suit the elder McClellan and the boy gave it up after finishing the course at the Sing Sing Academy, and entered Princeton. He graduated from there in 1886.

Mayor McClellan's father died the year before he graduated, and the young man's prospects were greatly altered. He took up newspaper work and for three years was a reporter on local papers. In 1889 he was made Treasurer of the Brooklyn Bridge by Richard Croker.

While holding this post Mayor McClellan attended Columbia Law School, and in 1892 was admitted to the bar. About the same time he was appointed aide de camp on the staff of Gov. David B. Hill, and got the title of "Colonel" by which he is still known.

Mr. McClellan was elected President of the Board of Aldermen on the Tammany ticket in 1892, receiving a plurality of 78,210, the largest ever given to a candidate in New York County. While President of the Board of Aldermen he was Acting Mayor for some time during the absence of Mayor Gilroy, and because of his youthful appearance was dubbed "The Boy Mayor."

In the latter part of 1894 he was elected to Congress from the Twelfth District. He was in Congress for nearly nine years, resigning late in December of 1903 to become Mayor. While in Congress he was a member of the Ways and Means Committee and of the Committee on Military Affairs. Mr. McClellan was one of the few Democrats in Congress during the free silver agitation who spoke out in favor of the gold standard.

Through the influence of Charles F. Murphy Mr. McClellan was nominated for Mayor in 1903 despite the opposition of the old McLaughlin organization in Brooklyn, which backed Justice Gaynor for the nomination. Mr. McClellan defeated Mayor Low for re-election by more than 62,000 plurality.

HERMAN A. METZ, the nominee for Controller, was born in this city thirty-eight years ago. Although he started in life at the age of sixteen without any money of his own and burdened with some family debts, Mr. Metz is now worth several millions of dollars. He controls factories and chemical plants in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Providence, Chicago, San Francisco, Charlotte, N. C., Atlanta, Ga., Montreal, Toronto, and in Hamburg, Germany.

When Mr. Metz was ten years old his family moved to Newark. He graduated from the high school there when he was fourteen years old and became an office boy for Paul Schulze-Berge, a dye manufacturer, in Hudson Street, this city. He studied at the Cooper Union School of Chemistry and afterward invented machinery for laboratory work. He was rapidly promoted in the dye plant, at last succeeding his employer.

Mr. Metz is now President of H. A. Metz Company, Victor Koechl & Co., and the Consolidated Color and Chemical Company. Under Mayor Van Wyck he was a member of the Board of Education. He is a trustee of various schools and a member of many societies, including the Society of Chemical Industry of London and the German Chemical Society of Dresden. Mr. Metz is President of the Guardian Savings Bank and a director of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn; a director of the Guardian Trust Company of Manhattan, and President of the Ettrick Mills of Worcester, Mass., and of the Stoneville Company, which employs the entire population of Auburn, Mass.

He is a lieutenant in the "Fighting Fourteenth" Regiment of Brooklyn and a member of the Old Guard.

PATRICK FRANCIS McGOWAN, the nominee for President of the Board of Aldermen, is an Irish-American, born in Connecticut fifty-three years ago. He lives at 224 East Twelfth Street, and runs an underwear manufacturing establishment at the same address. The two lower floors are used for Mr. McGowan's business and he and his family live in the two upper floors.

Mr. McGowan moved to this city twenty years ago, and began his present business. His residence in this city has always been in the Fourteenth Assembly District, of which Water Commissioner John T. Oakley is the Tammany leader. For several years Mr. McGowan has been a member of the Tammany General Committee of the district. He is a member of the Board of Governors of the Pensacola Club, the Tammany organization of the district.

Mr. McGowan is a trustee of the West Side Savings Bank, a member of the Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum, and a trustee of St. Ann's Church. He was appointed by Mayor Van Wyck to the Board of Education, and last year Mayor McClellan again appointed him to the same post.

THE PLATFORM.

For Municipal Ownership on Safe Lines—Legislature Assailed.

This is the platform adopted by the Democratic City Convention last night:

"The Democracy of Greater New York, in City Convention assembled, pledges its loyal devotion to the principles and policies of the Democratic Party.

"It reaffirms its belief in representative local self-government. Intrusted, at the last municipal election, with the government of the City of New York, the Democracy finds in the records of the officials now administering the affairs of our city abundant justification for this belief.

"The condition of this municipality was never so satisfactory. Its finances have been honestly administered, and its credit has been restored and strengthened. Its public works are under intelligent supervision, and its departments have been economically managed. The streets have been kept in cleaner and better condition than the streets of any other city in the world, and have been well paved and well lighted at greatly reduced cost. Our public parks have been popularized and restored to their true purpose as places of recreation and pleasure for the people, and a number of additional small parks and athletic grounds provided for the children of the city. Scandals are unknown, the city's reputation is unblemished, and in the contemplation of its marvelous growth in greatness and power, civic pride is quickened.

"THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—This Democratic administration has had for its first consideration the interest of the 600,000 school children of the five boroughs. Its appropriations for school purposes, amounting this year to nearly $22,000,000, have largely exceeded the amounts appropriated by any previous administration, and represent a per capita expenditure for school purposes greater than that of any other city in the world.

Problem of Time Classes Solved.

"Notwithstanding the exceptional increase in the number of children of school age, and the shifting of school population from one borough to another, the vexed problem of part-time classes has been practically solved. During the past year the number of part-time pupils has been reduced more than 25,000; there will be 28,000 additional sittings ready by Jan. 1; new school buildings which will seat about 100,000 more pupils are now in process of construction, and a system of alternative study and recreation hours for primary classes has been adopted, which, while greatly benefiting the health of the children, will insure to every child of school age in our city the opportunity for a full course of instruction.

"During the present year $11,500,000 have been appropriated for new schools, so as to fully anticipate and meet the needs of the future.

"BRIDGES AND SUBWAYS.—Public improvements have been so planned as to promote the comfort, safety, and material welfare of the citizens of every borough. Permanent terminals have been designed to relieve the congestion upon the two bridges to the Borough of Brooklyn. The extensions of the Subway rapid transit system which have been adopted bring to the citizens of the Boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens, and the Bronx not only the advantages of the system already inaugurated in the Borough of Manhattan, but independent facilities needful to the people of these several boroughs for communication within their respective limits.

"POLICE AND FIRE DEPARTMENTS.—The efficiency of the Police Department has been greatly improved; the indiscriminate criticism and complaint heretofore indulged in has been silenced, and the uniformed force thereby relieved from a most prolific source of discouragement and demoralization.

"Street traffic has been regulated in every borough for the protection of the lives of women and children on the crowded highways.

"The standard of excellence of our Fire Department has been maintained, and the effectiveness and welfare of its members augmented through a more equitable apportionment of the hours of service.

The Fire Limits Extended.

"The fire limits have been extended and the Boroughs of Queens and Richmond are now vigilantly guarded by the finest Fire Department in the world.
